

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

An important feature in the financial structure of a trades union is the system by which the income is raised. The constitution of the Cigarmakers' International Union differs in a measure from the systems in force in sister trade unions. It provides for initiation fees, dues, and assessments as the basis to meet the necessary requirements. The dues have to be paid weekly, under certain limitations, before a membership lapses and is stricken from the roll as suspended. The assessments, however, do not become due as regular as the weekly contributions. They have to be levied when the expenses for the regular benefits exceed the regular income. They have to be levied when the sinking fund falls below the constitutional provision. The amount necessary for the payment of benefits from time to time is beyond reasonable computation. The sinking fund is the safety valve, which inspires confidence and faith in the stability and solvency of the organization under adverse conditions.

It is an axiom that the receipts must be ample and sufficient to meet all obligations promptly. Without an adequate income to meet the growing expenses, due to natural causes, the financial system loses in strength and has to be amended. The expenses arising from the increase in death benefits, which is drifting more and more into the $550 provision, requires drastic changes in the constitution. Either the dues have to be raised to 40 cents weekly, or the assessments have to be spread more frequently and in large amounts. It is simply a matter of choice; the issue cannot be dodged successfully. More income is needed in order to meet the guaranteed benefits in the future. The sooner this issue is met fairly and squarely, the brighter will be the outlook for the future. Members can better afford to pay higher dues and assessments while trade is fair than in dull times.

The conditions of trade, which are fair now, with ample employment for some time to come, are at the best but temporary, and will pass away as former periods of trade activity have passed. It is not necessary at this time to enumerate the causes that lead from active periods to depressed ones. We are simply stating facts as gleaned from past history. The same causes are still in full operation.

It is necessary to act now to strengthen the financial structure in order to meet all legitimate requirements to make the financial system a tower of strength that will maintain permanency and inspire confidence in the stability of our protective and benevolent features.

Industrial barometers vary in many lines of business. Some augmented by profitable government contracts are exceedingly busy, working in shifts and overtime, limited only by adequate material and skilled labor supply. The more labor employed, it is said, whether efficient or not, the more profitable the contract in the long run. The government allows the contractor ten per cent profit in excess of all costs and charges. This includes high salaries to officials, etc. The future will tell the results of this novel experiment in government contracts.

The steel industry, recognized as the leading barometer in industrial pursuits, has decreased in volume considerably within the last eight months. Judging by the monthly statistics issued by the largest producer—the United States Steel Corporation, the unfilled orders on hand have decreased from 12,183,083 tons on April 30, 1917, to 8,897,106 tons on November 30, showing a loss of 3,285,977 tons in unfilled orders.

Building operations in the leading cities of the country, due to high-priced materials, etc., are still at a low ebb; the loss in November, 1917, approximates nearly forty per cent compared with one year ago.

A general revival of industrial conditions, as presented in the mid-winter season, shows many elements of caution and doubt as to the safety of future engagements. Everybody engaged in business, excepting government contractors, is groping in the dark. War conditions had a marked influence on many industries now classified as non-essentials, which are still undergoing readjustments. The future outlook is obscure and shrouded in uncertainty.

The last six months have witnessed a creeping panic in the value of stocks and bonds, which has frightened investors in general. Gilt-edged railroad and industrial stocks have reached an unprecedented low level. The average price of sixty railway shares quoted one year ago as $86.08 have dropped recently to $64.74. Ten industrial shares dropped from $89.11 to $73.66. Five city gas and traction stocks dropped from $107.77 to $70.16; the total decreased from $282.96 to $208.56, averaging a loss of over 36 per cent.

The promise by the federal government to safeguard the interests of the holders of bonds and stocks in the railroads of the country has lifted the clouds hovering over the financial horizon, imparting new confidence in the values of securities, some of which are said to represent no invested capital whatsoever.

The trend of financial, commercial and industrial events is illustrated as follows:

Figures compiled by The Journal of Commerce show that in January a record-breaking total of $338,599,784 will be paid in dividends and interest by railroad, industrial and traction corporations, the national Government and Greater New York. Last January the total was $325,942,369, so that next month's figures will represent an increase of $12,657,415. This is explained by larger interest disbursements. The sum of $148,220,784 will be distributed among stockholders, against $148,342,369, a decrease of $121,585.

The amount to be paid out in interest will call for approximately $190,319,000. This compares with $181,100,000 a year ago, the increase representing new bond and note issues.

Commercial and manufacturing failures totaled in 1917, 13,855, with liabilities of $182,441,371, as compared with 16,993 in the previous year, with liabilities of $196,212,256. In every quarter of 1917 there were fewer failures than in 1916. In 1915 the failures totaled 22,156, with an indebtedness of $302,286,148. The failures furnish a fair illustration of the prevailing business conditions.

According to figures compiled by the National City Bank, United States exports to South America in the fiscal year 1917 were over two and one-half times as much in value as in 1915, having been in exact terms $259,559,458, against $99,423,957 in 1915. To Argentina alone the exports in 1917 were $82,382,884, against $32,549,606 in 1915; to Brazil $56,761,252, against $25,629,555 in 1915; to Uruguay $14,292,135, against $5,171,323; to Chile $44,573,185, against $11,377,181; to Peru $18,885,174, against $5,873, 474, and to Colombia $14,906,786 against $6,675,564 in 1915.

Imports into the United States from South America in 1917 were more than double those of 1915, totaling $542,212,820 for the fiscal year 1917, against $261,489,563 in 1915. The greatest increase was from Chile, being $113,789,130 in the fiscal year 1917, against $27,689,780 in 1915; from Argentina $152,612,411, against $73,776,258 in 1915; from Brazil $151,638,245, against $99,178,728; from Peru $36,379,016, against $12,596,648, and from Uruguay $30,406,532 in the fiscal year 1917, against $10,492,649 in 1915.

In a statement comparing exports and imports, published recently, the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce reported that the excess of exports over imports amounted to $268,000,000 in November, 1917, against $339,000,000 a year ago. The excess of exports during the eleven months ended with November amounted to $2,914,000,000 in 1917, against $2,773,000,000 in 1916, an increase of $141,000,000 in the current year.

Gold imports during the month amounted to only $3,000,000, against $47,000,000 a year ago; and gold exports amounted to $7,000,000 in November, 1917, and $26,000,000 in 1916. During the eleven months ended with November gold imports amounted to $535,000,000 and exports to $367,000,000, leaving an excess of imports of $168,000,000 in 1917, against $399,000,000 in 1916.

Exports in November amounted to $488,000,000, a decrease of $55,000,000 from October, and of $28,000,000 from November of last year. For the eleven months ended with November, the exports aggregated $5,639,000,000, against $4,959,000,000 for the corresponding eleven months one year ago, an increase of $680,000,000.

Imports in November amounted to $221,000,000, or $44,000,000 more than in November one year ago, but about the same as October of this year. The imports for eleven months ended with November, amounted to $2,725,000,000, against $2,187,000,000 for the same period a year ago, or an increase of $538,000,000.

Building permits issued in November, 1917, in 100 of the leading cities, amounted to $40,428,005, as compared with $67,002,373 in the corresponding month of one year ago, showing a decrease of $26,573,963 in building operations. For eleven months ended November, 1917, building operations decreased in the amount of $176,537,856.

The cigar production in the internal revenue districts which have reported to the department in November, 1917, shows a declining tendency. Union and non-union cities are equally affected by the decrease. The new revenue laws have upset all plans and calculations, in the adjustment of prices and distribution. The system of taxation in compliance with retail prices of cigars has also had a temporary influence in retarding distribution of tobacco products to the jobber, retailer and finally to the consumer. It is impossible at present, owing to the uncertainty of future events, to form a correct opinion in reference to the future outlook. The fact, however, remains that, due to the ability of the masses to earn fair wages in general, consumption should not, because of higher retail prices, decrease materially.

The decrease in production covers more than a majority of all districts. Of 46 which have reported to the department, 12 show an increase in production and 34 a decrease.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Without the maintenance of the worker in a good physical condition, the productive capacity of the nation suffers and becomes impaired in quantity, quality, and efficiency. Health cannot be maintained for any length of time, without the ability to purchase ample and wholesome food, proper and seasonable clothing, and housing provided with sanitary and modern appliances. Without good wages and reasonable hours of labor, the physical condition of the worker and his productive capacity sustain a permanent loss to the nation.

* * *

The commercial press has the habit of lecturing the workers on their duties to the nation. It advocates an increase in production to the utmost limit, and urges the workers to be content with the wages received. A casual strike for better conditions is denounced in the editorial columns of the unscrupulous press as treason to the country. The fluctuations in the purchasing power of the necessities of life is generally ignored. While the demands of labor are denounced, the amazing profits earned by capital are supported and applauded.

* * *

An interested, active and enthusiastic membership is a potential asset in the growth and progress of the trades union movement. The underlying principles upon which the movement is founded require active participation in the councils of the union. When a large proportion fails to take an active part in the necessary agitation, progress is delayed and halted. The responsibility for success rests upon the majority guided by honest and competent leadership.

* * *

The attorney general of the state of Washington decided that women employed in railroad car shops and roundhouses do not come within the provision of the eight hour law. The law prohibits women employed in "mechanical trades to work more than eight hours per day." Under the ruling of the attorney general the eight hour law has been nullified in many branches of labor. When it comes to enforcing statutes affecting the interests of labor, numerous loopholes are discovered and vital parts are rendered null and void.

* * *

Organized labor should utilize all legitimate means at its command to better its economic and social status in the industrial field. The steps taken for the amelioration of conditions should be by organized effort primarily.

TRADE NOTES.

The final estimate of the government's crop report of the year places the value of the tobacco crop of the country at $207,000,000, the yield at 827 pounds to the acre, and the average price 24.9 cents a pound, as against 14.7 cents in 1916.

* * *

Under the provisions of Section 400 every manufacturer or importer will be required to affix to each box or container of cigars weighing more than 8 pounds per thousand a conspicuous label indicating by letter the clause of said section under which the cigars therein contained have been tax-paid, which must correspond with the tax-paid stamp on said box or container.

Such label shall not be less than one inch long nor less than three-fourths of an inch wide, and shall be affixed to the front of the box or container and shall bear the following legend:

"The contents of this box have been tax-paid as cigars of Class —, as indicated by the internal revenue stamp affixed."

According to the official report of the Cuban Custom House the exports of cigars to foreign countries from January 1, 1917, to November 30 amounted to 99,396,165, as compared with 109,859,641 in the corresponding period of 1916, showing a decrease of 10,463,476 cigars. The largest quantities were shipped to Great Britain, the United States, Spain and Canada.

Operations of the Imperial Tobacco Company, of Canada, Ltd., in the fiscal years ended Sept. 30, 1917, resulted as follows:

	1917.	1916.
Net profits	$2,455,324	$2,756,619
Preferred dividends	481,800	481,800

The exports of leaf tobacco to foreign countries, for nine months ended September, 1917, amounted to 170,503,082 pounds, as compared with 383,968,728 in the corresponding period of 1916, showing a decrease of 212,465,646 pounds in shipments.

The value of all leaf tobacco exported for nine months ended September, 1917, amounted to $29,848,376, as compared with $49,312,654 in the corresponding period of one year ago, showing a loss of $19,464,278 in exports. The largest quantities were shipped to France, Italy, Great Britain, Canada and Spain.

C. M. Corafa, United States consul, stationed at Athens, Greece, in writing to the United States Department of Commerce, under recent date, says:

The excellent prices brought by last year's tobacco crop in Greece caused many experts to predict a vastly increased acreage this year, and this was in part the case. The crop, however, is only about 80 per cent in excess of that of 1916, on account of rather unfavorable climatic conditions during the greater part of 1917.

The total production for 1917 is estimated at 102,275,800 pounds.

About 8,500,000 pounds will be consumed in Greece and an equal amount by Italy. Egypt will require nearly 20,000,000 pounds, while an estimate of the needs of other countries is as follows: United States, about 28,215,000 pounds; Brazil, Tunis, Spain, France, Holland, Switzerland, 14,107,500 pounds.

* * *

United States Consul Frank W. Mahlin, of the Amsterdam consular district, reporting to the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce at Washington, D. C., says that Amsterdam has been for many years the world's principal tobacco market, and 1916 established new records for quantity and prices realized at the various auction sales. Some brands were excellent in quality, others fairly good, and but one or two unfavorable. The value of the total transactions in the Netherlands in 1916 is estimated at $62,310,000, of which $50,250,000 is credited to Amsterdam.

Never did the leading grades of tobacco command such high prices as in 1916. The causes were unusual market conditions; increased demand, especially from the United States, and exceptionally good and favorable qualities, suitable for the various markets.

The price of Sumatra tobacco increased 86.8 per cent in 1916 over 1915: Java, 76.9 per cent, and Borneo, 141.7 per cent. The average price per package of one-half kilo (1.1 pound) of Sumatra, Java and Borneo tobacco is given for 1913, 1914, 1915 and 1916, respectively: Sumatra, $0.54, $0.51, $0.38 and $0.771; Java, $0.11, $0.09, $0.13 and $0.23; and Borneo, $0.30, $0.27, $0.24 and $0.58.

* * *

A Confederal Tobacco monopoly to meet the deficit in the Federal budget, has been proposed by the Federal Council in Switzerland. It is estimated the deficit will exceed $70,000,000, which is partly due to the embarrassing position that country is in on account of the war.

The 1917 Connecticut Shadegrown acreage, according to figures prepared by Ernest G. Beinhart of the Bureau of Plant Industry, Department of Agriculture, was 5,854 acres, against 4,989 in 1916 and 3,609 in 1915. The increase over 1916 was but 13 per cent, against a 37 per cent increase in acreage in 1916. The hail and frost damage which cost raisers of sungrown tobacco several million dollars dealt kindly with the shadegrown plantations which, with one exception, escaped serious injury. The yield of merchantable shadegrown tobacco should average between 1,050 and 1,100 pounds per acre, and should total in round numbers 5,800,000 pounds.

CORRESPONDENCE

Washington, December 29, 1917.

Dear Sir: To preserve the liberties of the world or, as our President has said, to make the world safe for democracy, necessitates the raising of millions of men for our armed forces. Billions of dollars will be required to feed, clothe and equip these men and to sustain our country at war.

To help in meeting these expenditures Congress has authorized the issue of $2,000,000,000 of War Savings Certificates, to be sold under the plan explained in the enclosed circular "United States Government War Savings Stamps."

The aim of the War Savings and Thrift Stamp plan is to promote saving and eliminate waste, utilizing our resources in the fullest possible measure for the vigorous prosecution of this war in defense of our country and her institutions.

The saving of money that was formerly spent for non-essentials and its investment in the securities of the United States will strengthen and increase the power of our armies and navies and more quickly bring victorious peace to our country.

My purpose in writing you this letter is to appeal to you as a patriotic citizen and as an official of a loyal and patriotic organization of labor for your active co-operation and support in making the War Savings Certificate campaign a great success. You can render invaluable assistance to the cause of our country if you will send a circular letter to each of your local unions requesting them to make the War Savings Certificate the special order at every meeting until the present authorized issue has been sold, urging their members to enlist the interest of men, women and children in the purchase of these securities.

Plans are being formed for the organization of War Savings societies among the school children and others, the purpose being to pledge every member to save money in order to invest in Thrift Stamps and War Savings Certificates. I sincerely hope your local unions will be encouraged to give support to these societies.

Your organizers can render service of great value by advocating the War Savings Certificate and Thrift Stamp campaign in their addresses, and I hope you will find it practicable to instruct them accordingly.

Upon request the Treasury Department will gladly send you all the War Savings literature you desire to send out with your circular letter.

If it is not inconsistent with your rules and policy I should be pleased to receive a copy of your letter to your local unions and give it publicity, if you have no objection.

Bespeaking your active assistance and co-operation in this patriotic service to the country, I am, sincerely yours,

W. G. McAdoo,

Secretary of the Treasury.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1, 1918.

To All Organized Labor, Greeting.

Dear Sirs and Brothers: January, 1918, dawns at a time of great opportunity for labor which presents at the same time corresponding responsibility and duty.

Our Republic, our people, are at war. Whatever individuals may have thought upon the European situation before the Congress of the United States declared war against the Imperial German and Austrian governments, that must now be laid aside. The Congress and the President, under the authority of the Constitution of our Republic, have irrevocably decided the matter.

War means victory for our cause or danger to the very existence of our nation.

With our nation at stake, individuals cannot interpose opposition to the war—a war declared by the will of the nation's representatives.

Under the exigencies of war, opposition to the war declared by constituted authority becomes treason.

It is a time that requires serious consideration of words and actions.

While this is true, there is even more than ordinary need for the maintenance of the rights of men and women, and for careful scrutiny and the fullest discussion of policies and methods before their adoption.

The time for labor to interpose its needs and contentions is while policies are in the making.

The world war in which we are engaged is on such a tremendous scale, and is so all-pervading in its influences and effects, that we are readjusting practically the whole nation's social and economic organization from a peace to a war basis.

For labor this readjustment is a very critical period.

If, in the process of readjustment, fundamental principles of human freedom and welfare are not maintained, the whole purpose and spirit of our government and our social institutions may be perverted.

It devolves upon liberty-loving citizens, and particularly the workers of this country, to see to it that the spirit and methods of democracy are maintained within our own country while we are engaged in a war to establish them in international relations.

The fighting and the concrete issues of the war are so far removed from the people of our country that not all of our citizens have a full understanding of the issues involved. An understanding of the principles of autocratic force, which the central powers desire to substitute for the real principles of freedom, makes clear to all citizens of this Republic the effect of our possible defeat upon their own lives and activities.

To prevent the possibility of autocratic forces winning in this world conflict I feel that it is the duty of the officers, the representatives and organizers of the American labor movement to do everything within their power to make it plain to the rank and file and citizenship of this country what is involved in the war, as well as the obligation that devolves upon all citizens. In the struggle there is not an element that constitutes the nation but has a part and an influence, and will either support the government or will hinder the conduct of the war.

In addition to the fundamental principles at issue, labor has an additional interest in the war.

This war is in the last analysis a people's war—labor's war. The final outcome will be determined in the factories, the mills, the shops, the mines, the farms, the industries and the transportation agencies of the various countries. That group of countries which can most successfully organize its agencies of production and transportation, and which can furnish the most adequate and effective agencies with which to conduct the war, will win.

The workers have a part in this war co-equal with the soldiers and sailors on the ships and in the trenches.

Continuous production is an indispensable prerequisite to production of necessary war supplies. The government, as well as the workers themselves, is vitally interested in maintaining such conditions that there shall be no occasion for interruption in production.

The chief responsible agents of the government have shown a desire to be fair and an understanding of the human elements involved in this problem. The organized labor movement has also shown an equally broad understanding and grasp of the situation.

Even before war was declared, representatives of the labor organizations of the country met in Washington on March 12, 1917, and adopted a declaration known as "American Labor's Position in Peace and in War."

On the basis contained in that declaration, agreements have been made between the government and the trade unions. This work was reported to the American Federation of Labor's Buffalo convention, which approved it and recommended that the course be continued. In addition to that action, the Buffalo convention adopted the following declaration as the position which labor should take in all such matters:

"The following principles and policies should be observed by all boards or commissions of a government character appointed by the government or otherwise during the duration of the war:

"The industrial problems arising through our nation's participation in the war and the agencies in operation to preserve industrial peace and establish an adequate degree of co-operation between the employer, whether private or governmental, and the employee, has created a condition which makes it essential that certain conditions and principles shall be clearly kept in mind and generally accepted. If justice is to be done and terms of employment and conditions of labor equitable to the employer and employee established, certain broad principles must be applied.

"In determining what the wage rates should be there are several vital factors to be considered apart from the increased cost of living.

"The existing wage rate in an establishment should first be considered as to its equity.

"Was it established as a result of joint conference and agreement between the employer and his employee, or was it established as a result of the employer's individual conception of what wages should be paid to those in his employ?

"To what degree did the previous wage rate compare with those in establishments in the same district where wages have been established through joint agreement between the employer and the employee?

"How did the wage rate adopted through joint agreement in the district compare with the wage rates in other districts where joint wage agreement existed?

"In the composition of boards or commissions which are to consider questions of terms of employment and conditions of labor, it is essential that there should be equality of representation between the employers and the wage-earners.

"In the event that a wage board or commission is to consist of an unequal number, then a civilian should serve as the odd man. One-half of the remaining number of this body should be the direct representatives of the wage-earners to be nominated by organized labor.

"The right to organize is essential to the solution of problems arising between employer and employee. Employers apply this right, but in many instances this right has been denied to wage-earners by employers. All agreements formulated by wage boards or commissions should contain a clause announcing that the right to organize is inalienable and that prevention of the exercise of this right by the employer or his representative constitutes a violation of these principles.

"The nation's interest makes it essential that co-operation should exist in the industries. No efficient co-operation can exist except through organization. Co-operation presumes good will and there can be no good will without recognition of mutual rights. Therefore, the recognition of the employee as a group having common interests is one of the fundamental prerequisites to co-operation.

"There can be no true efficiency in production without good will. Good will and co-operation cannot exist where the employer exercises autocratic authority in determining the terms of employment and the conditions of labor. The highest efficiency in production can only be secured through the application of the principles of democracy. These are as essential in industry as they are in civil government.

"Whenever the employees in a department or an establishment have a common complaint or grievance, it is fundamental that the employer should meet those who may be selected by the workers to represent them.

"It is advisable that production should not cease because of an apparent injustice or oversight contained in an award, for it is necessary to the nation's protection as well as to the welfare of the trade union movement that there should be no cessation of work except as a last resort."

It is difficult to conceive a more serious responsibility than that which rests upon the organized labor movement of our country, its responsible officers, and upon the great rank and file representatives.

Upon you and upon all rests the duty of maintaining the rights and interests of the workers of our Republic, at the same time doing everything within the power of all to further the interests of the government in the urgent needs that arise out of the conduct of a world-wide war.

Representatives of the labor movement must undertake the work of organization with greater seriousness and intensity than ever before. Organization is the cornerstone upon which workers must base all of their plans, upon which the government itself must rest its labor policies, upon which all can serve in a triumph for justice, for freedom and for world democracy.

I feel it incumbent upon me at the beginning of this New Year to present to you thus at length the seriousness of the situation that confronts labor and the importance of the work that lies immediately ahead of us. Yet this very serious and critical situation is accompanied by a great hope—the hope that the spirit of self-sacrificing devotion to purpose and high conception of service that have grown out of this war, may bring about a new world of life and work that the peoples of all countries may live under the beneficent influences of the principles of new freedom and democracy in every relation of life.

It is most appropriate that we should all be reminded of our immediate duty. Nothing can contribute more to that purpose than to restate the declarations of the March 12 labor conference, from which I quote the closing paragraphs as follows:

"The present war discloses the struggle between the institutions of democracy and those of autocracy. As a nation we should profit from the experiences of other nations. Democracy cannot be established by patches upon an autocratic system. The foundations of civilized intercourse between individuals must be organized upon principles of democracy and scientific principles of human welfare. Then a national structure can be perfected in harmony with humanitarian idealism—a structure that will stand the tests of the necessities of peace or war.

"We, the officers of the National and International Trade Unions of America, in national conference assembled, in the capital of our nation, hereby pledge ourselves in peace or in war, in stress or in storm, to stand unreservedly by the standards of liberty and the safety and preservation of the institutions and ideals of our Republic.

"In this solemn hour of our nation's life, it is our earnest hope that our Republic may be safeguarded in its unswerving desire for peace, that our people may be spared the horrors and the burdens of war, that they may have the opportunity to cultivate and develop the arts of peace, human brotherhood and a higher civilization.

"But, despite all our endeavors and hopes, should our country be drawn into the maelstrom of the European conflict, we, with these ideals of liberty and justice herein declared, as the indispensable basis for national policies, offer our services to our country and in every field of activity to defend, safeguard and preserve the Republic of the United States of America against its enemies whomsoever they may be, and we call upon our fellow workers and fellow citizens in the holy name of labor, justice, freedom and humanity to devotedly and patriotically give like service."

We were forced into the war.

We are in the war.

"Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

"Now is the time that tries men's souls."

Fraternally yours,

SAMUEL GOMPERS,

President, American Federation of Labor.

Jan. 4, 1918.

To the Members and Local Branches of the American Alliance for Labor and Democracy and to the American Trade Union Movement:

It is fitting that upon every proper occasion the loyalty of Americans to our country and our Government should be made manifest, not as a matter of empty show, but as a recurring demonstration of the solidarity of the people of our nation in this great war.

The anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, the Great Emancipator, will be made the occasion of nation-wide demonstrations of patriotic unity and earnestness. This is fitting.

Because the American Alliance for Labor and Democracy was brought into being to completely unite the workers of our country in our country's cause and whose patriotic work was endorsed by the American Federation of Labor, it is proper that all join heartily in partaking of the national spirit and enthusiasm of that day.

That we may the more thoroughly and effectively demonstrate our solidarity and our unity in behalf of our Republic, the executive council of the American Alliance for Labor and Democracy has directed that the week of Lincoln's birthday be observed as a loyalty week and it is in pursuance of this wise decision that I hereby call upon the working people of America to participate in the observance of the week beginning Sunday, Feb. 10th, as Labor Loyalty Week, for the purpose of demonstrating labor's intense loyalty to America, for the purpose of increasing and intensifying that loyalty.

It is requested that all local branches of the American Alliance for Labor and Democracy in co-operation with all local bodies of organized labor, arrange and hold mass meetings and demonstrations on Lincoln's Birthday, Tuesday, Feb. 12, 1918.

And that they distribute patriotic literature and make use of every opportunity to spread the inspiring message of America's aims and ideals among their fellow workers and other fellow citizens.

Organized workers in communities where there is no local branch of the American Alliance for Labor and Democracy should take upon themselves the duty of arranging mass meetings and demonstrations for Loyalty Week, and particularly on Lincoln's Birthday, to the end that the workers in such communities may not be deprived of the inspiration of such demonstrations, and to the further end that branches of the Alliance may be organized for the permanent work of combating the insidious forces of pro-German anti-American propaganda.

Let us on the anniversary of the birth of this great and noble American—the Great Liberator, Lincoln—rally the forces of freedom that they may do their full part for the triumphant world struggle of today, so that Justice, Freedom and Democracy shall survive and become worldwide as guiding rules of all peoples and all nations as well as in international relations. And thus making for a permanent peace and for Universal Brotherhood.

Fraternally,

(Signed) SAMUEL GOMPERS,

President, American Alliance for Labor and Democracy.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5, 1918.

To the Secretaries of the National and International Unions.

Dear Sirs and Brothers: Pursuant to the action of the Thirty-seventh Convention of the American Federation of Labor, held at Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 12-27, 1917, the attention of our national and international unions is directed to the following resolution:

Whereas, Senate Bill 2854 to amend the naturalization laws, now pending in the Congress of the United States, provides a method for the immediate naturalization of thousands of our foreign-born loyal residents who have entered our army and navy and offered their lives to fight for the life of our democracy, and who are barred from receiving the full citizenship for which they are pleading because the present naturalization law under no construction can conform to the war conditions of our nation; and

Whereas, There are nearly ten millions of foreigners in our land who have never felt the Americanizing influence of our society and institutions of freedom, and the Bureau of Naturalization of the United States Department of Labor has been endeavoring for three years under the provisions of the present naturalization law, in co-operation with the public schools throughout the United States, to break through this barrier and lead the hundreds of thousands of seekers after American citizenship who annually take the solemn oath to become American citizens into an understanding of their rights and responsibilities as American citizens, 90 per cent of whom are wage earners who are struggling to a comprehension of their rights as such; and

Whereas, Senate Bill 2854 has been prepared to overcome the obsolete provisions of law and provides funds for the expansion of this work of the Bureau of Naturalization and the public schools throughout the United States without making any real call upon the citizen taxpayers, since the revenues derived from the naturalization fees paid by the applicants for citizenship have paid all of the cost of Federal supervision and have piled up a surplus of over $60,000 in the treasury of the United States above all cost of administration; and

Whereas, This is a distinctly necessary protective war work of the National Government, and this bill has been pronounced by the Senate Committee on Immigration as a "war emergency measure," with the recommendation that it be passed at an early date; therefore, be it

Resolved, By the American Federation of Labor, in national convention, that in the interests of organized labor, and for the further protection of the citizenship of the United States of America during this war, Senate Bill 2854, to amend the naturalization laws, should immediately be passed by the Congress and become a law, and this convention calls upon all affiliated international unions and locals of its membership to immediately petition their respective senators and congressmen to push this bill to passage.

You will note that the resolution calls upon our affiliated national and international unions and their locals to petition their respective senators and congressmen to push the passage of Senate Bill 2854, referred to in the resolution.

With best wishes, I am,

Yours fraternally,

FRANK MORRISON,

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 17, 1917.

Believing that a condensed history of the cigar trade might prove interesting to the members of our organization, I will endeavor to give a brief history of it, dating back seventy-five years. No doubt it will be surprising to the younger members of our trade to learn that during the early history of our craft cigars were retailed four for a cent and were made for eighty cents a thousand.

In 1848 I went to Salem, N. J., to learn the cigar trade. After serving two years I returned to Philadelphia, my native city, where I came in contact with many old cigarmakers, from whom I learned that about the same system of making cigars and the same conditions existing then had existed in our trade for the twenty-five preceding years, that there had been little, if any, change. At that time there were three grades of cigars in general demand, namely, Common, Half Spanish, and Sixes. These grades were made principally in the states of Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, and New Jersey, and consumed there. The Common cigar was made of clear Maryland leaf, paid for making eighty cents per thousand, sold for $2.50 per thousand, and retailed at four for a cent. The Half Spanish were made of Kentucky and Maryland leaf, paid for making $1.50 per thousand, sold for $3.50 per thousand, retailed at two for a cent. Sixes were made of Kentucky wrapper soaked for about twelve hours, then prepared and dried, and put in order to work. Sixes had good Connecticut filler; they sold for $1 to $8 per thousand and retailed for one for a cent; some times they were sprigged with Cuba. In New York City and New York State better prices for making prevailed and better grades of cigars were made and consumed. This was also true throughout the eastern states and in the extreme south and the extreme west. Up to 1852 no binders were used on the cheaper grades of cigars.

It may puzzle the minds of the cigarmakers of the present time to imagine how the cigarmakers at that time managed to live. Well, in the first place cigarmakers at that time made a greater number of cigars than they do at the present time. Those working on Common hardly knew how many they could make in a day; on Half Spanish they made from seven hundred to twelve hundred a day, and on Sixes, from five hundred to seven hundred a day. I sat beside one cigarmaker and saw him make eleven hundred Sixes in ten hours. Second, living was nearly 200 per cent cheaper than it is at present. A four-room house could be rented for from $2.50 to $6 a month; a six- or seven-room house, for from $7 to $8 a month. Food was accordingly cheap at that time; I saw fresh butter sold for ten cents a pound and fresh eggs for eight cents a dozen, right from the farms. And don't imagine that the cigarmakers of that day saw no pleasure. A majority of the single men did not work on Saturday afternoons or Monday. They could be seen at pleasure resorts during the summer months enjoying themselves. They were well dressed and in good spirits. At that time they did not have as elaborately furnished homes as they do at present, but they did have comfortably furnished homes and full larders.

At that time there was no duty on imported tobacco. There were three grades of imported leaf coming to this market, and used in fine goods—Cuba, Yara and St. Domingo. Only the leaf raised in the immediate vicinity of the city of Havana was known as Havana. The rest of the leaf was known as Cuba, with the exception of a few plantations, where the leaf was named after the owner of the plantation. Much of the leaf that we call Havana was at that time known as Cuba leaf. For a short time there was some German leaf that came to the market. There was some Florida leaf and it was the prettiest leaf I ever saw, but it had no quality; it was bitter and killed the best filler you could put into it. The Florida that is used now is much improved in quality.

In 1857 I went to the state of Connecticut. There I found conditions and the prices for making cigars much better than in Philadelphia. Prices for making cigars were about 40 per cent higher and living expenses about the same. I worked there until the Civil War broke out. Then I enlisted in a Connecticut regiment, served my term of enlistment, and then returned to Philadelphia. I was surprised to find that our trade had been revolutionized. Prices for making cigars were over 100 per cent higher and the cheaper grades of cigars had been swept out of existence; there were no cigars made for less than $8 a thousand, and from that on up to $20 a thousand. Then cigarmakers were in clover. I found they had a union there, Local Union No. 3, of the old National Union. The International Union had not yet been organized. Philadelphia was then better organized regarding numbers than it has ever been since. They had about 85 per cent of the cigarmakers in the union. Then they attempted to do just what the cigarmakers of New England are attempting now, that is, making demands higher than conditions will warrant. The result was that they drove all of the best factories out of Philadelphia, to New York, and their union "went to the wall." Philadelphia has never been effectively organized since that time, and I fear it never will be again. Unfortunately, we, like Russia, have a number of Bolsheviks in the International Union, and if given control of it they will wreck it as they are boiling up things in Russia, hence it behooves the loyal members of the International Union to have a watchful care and place none but loyal trade unionists on guard.

I. W. BISEING.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 31, 1917.

G. W. Perkins, International President: The recommendation of Mr. Illias as submitted in the fore part of his letter in the December Journal, I think a good one, for in reading the various amendments proposed in the Journal during the past several months, also correspondence reference the same subject, I note with regret some only propose to assist the drafted and seem to forget the volunteer. That is hardly giving us volunteers a square deal.

Others make provision for soldiers and sailors after they "actually return to the trade." That hits the writer's card and hits it hard, for it's only a 20c retiring card, but 26 years old, and I don't want to lose it.

Those of us who get sick or wounded while in the service will be taken care of by Uncle Sam, and should we "bite the dust" won't need much looking after.

Therefore, it seems to me the fairest proposition would be to give an absolute retiring card to all who enter the military or naval service, said card when deposited after the termination of service to place the member in the same standing he held on retiring, giving credit for time of previous membership. Yours truly,

A. A. GEBHARDT,
First Lieutenant, M. R. C.

Aberdeen, S. Dak., Jan. 2, 1918.

In reading over the many amendments to the constitution proposed by the different unions in regard to our members who will be in the different branches of service of the U. S. during the war I have not seen any that I thought would protect the members and also do justice to the Union.

I have no statistics to go by as to what the average benefits our members would receive if we were to give them their benefits in case of death "over there," but presume that it would be about $250 and if this war lasts for two or three years it is safe to say that there will be between 4,000 and 5,000 cigar makers in the different branches of service, as you know a cigar maker will have very few exemptions, and I think that 1,000 out of that number would be a very conservative estimate of deaths which would mean that the Int. Union would have to pay about $250,000 in the next few years in death benefits which to say the least would be a very hard drain on the Union. Now it seems to me that if instead of paying this out of our own funds that for every member that goes into service we take out $1,000 of Government insurance which will cost $3 per year, we would be doing better by the member and protecting the Union at the same time and an assessment of about $1 per year would, kept in a separate fund without any percentage to the local for collecting it, keep up the insurance on 5,000 members, and what we had in this fund after the war was over, if any, could revert back to the Int. Union. Of course this could not include our Canadian members and would have to make some other provisions for them, possibly pay them their death benefits, and only those that were members before a certain date. Now we may be called unpatriotic for not paying this insurance ourselves instead of shouldering it over onto the U. S., but I see a gentleman from our city has proposed that the ones that stay at home pay the insurance of the ones that go to the war and submitted his proposal to the high officials of the Government and it was highly endorsed and if this can be done individually I see no reason why we can not do it as a Union for our Brother members. I am merely submitting this as my idea which if you think could be made practical could be worked out in detail as to the kind of a card he would get, how long a member, etc.

I am, fraternally yours,

M. McNulty.

American unions answering our appeal for advertising matter, please do not value what you are sending us more than it is really worth, or you can declare it as a donation—no value. Union 473 is up against it at this end. For instance, one union declared the value of 50 calendars to be $25, and we had to pay $9.40 for duty and $2.10 for express. If the export manifesto is made out as a donation and no value, we can save the duty. We appreciate donations received from various locals, and their names will be published later.

Yours fraternally,

J. E. ST. PEERIE.

Des membres intéressés actifs et enthousiastes représentent un puissant élément dans la croissance et le progrès du mouvement des unions ouvrières. Les principes fondamentaux sur lesquels repose le mouvement exigent une participation active aux conseils des unions. Partout où leurs membres négligent de prendre vigoureusement partie dans l'agitation, le progrès est retardé et arrêté. La responsabilité du succès repose sur la majorité guidée par des leaders honnêtes et compétents.

L'Attorney General de l'Etat de Washington a décidé que les femmes employées dans les ateliers de réparation et les abris ronds des chemins de fer ne sont pas affectées par la loi de huit heures. La loi défend aux femmes se livrant à un "travail mécanique" de travailler plus de huit heures par jour. La décision de l'Attorney General nullifie par conséquent la loi dans des bien des branches de l'industrie. Quand il s'agit de mettre en vigueur les règlements qui affectent les intérêt du labeur, on s'arrange toujours pour découvrir des échappatoires nombreuses et pour rendre nuls et non avenue les parties les plus essentielles de la loi.

Si on ne maintient pas le travailleur manuel dans un bon état physique, la capacité productrice de la nation diminue en quantité et en qualité. La santé ne peut être longtemps conservée si l'on n'a pas les moyens de se procurer des aliments sains, des vêtements appropriés aux saisons et des logements munis des comforts essentiels au bien-être. Sans de bons salaires et des heures de travail raisonnables, la condition physique du travailleur et sa capacité de production souffrent une diminution dont pâtit la nation tout entière.

La presse commerciale a l'habitude de sermonner les travailleurs sur les devoirs qu'ils ont envers la nation. Elle recommande une augmentation de la production jusqu'aux extrêmes limites et conseille instamment aux travailleurs de se considérer satisfaits des salaires qu'ils reçoivent. Une grève occasionnelle déclarée en vue d'obtenir de meilleurs conditions est dénoncée dans les colonnes de ces journaux comme un acte de trahison envers le pays. On ferme généralement les yeux sur les fluctuations qu'éprouve la capacité d'achat des salaires pour les nécessités de la vie. Alors que les réclamations du labeur sont incriminées, les profits scandaleux du capital sont encouragés et applaudis.

* * *

Le labeur organisé devrait se servir de tous les moyens légitimes et équitables à sa disposition pour améliorer sa situation au point de vue économique et social dans la sphère industrielle. Les mesures prises dans le but d'améliorer sa situation doivent l'être primordiallement par l'effort organisé. Mais quand ces méthodes ne donnent pas les résultats attendus dans une période de temps raisonnable, une législation favorable y aidera considérablement. L'organisation n'a pas réussi à éliminer la "sweat-shop"; donc, la législation devient d'une importance capitale pour l'abolition d'un système de servitude comparable à l'antique esclavage.

* * *

La Fédération Américaine du Travail maintient que n'importe ce qu'est un homme pourvu qu'il travaille honnêtement et ne cherche pas à faire du tort à ses semblables ni à s'avantager au détriment d'autrui et cherche à maintenir cette morale sans égard à la façon dont d'autres travailleurs peuvent être employés, il est un homme. Bien que la F. A. du T. n'encourage pas les grèves, elle ne les encourage pas moins lorsque tous les autres moyens employés pour obtenir justice ont échoué. Elle enseigne aux travailleurs, lorsqu'on les frappe, de rendre les coups avec autant de vigueur qu'il leur est possible de leur donner. Bien que les grèves ne réussissent pas toujours, celles même que l'on considère comme perdues servent toujours à conseiller la prudence aux employeurs pour l'avenir et à leur donner une leçon qu'ils n'oublient pas vite: celle que le Labeur est le facteur le plus important dans la production et qu'il a droit au vote dans la question des salaires, des heures de travail et des conditions dans lesquelles l'ouvrage doit être exécuté.

Un moyen très efficace par lequel le mouvement des unions ouvrières pourrait donner expression à ses espérances et à ses aspirations, ne recoit malheureusement pas l'attention qui lui est due: c'est le petit emblème de paix industrielle et d'amélioration sociale qui s'intitule l'étiquette d'union.

Bien que les apôtres du mouvement du labeur qui concurent l'idée de l'étiquette ne se faisaient pas d'illusions sur la croyance qu'une fois que cette étiquette serait lancée, toutes les calamités de notre vie industrielle, sociale et économique disparaîtraient comme par enchantement, ils n'en croyaient pas moins que les hommes et les femmes qui s'enrôleraient dans l'armée du travail feraient usage de leur pouvoir discrétionnaire d'achat d'une façon qui serait avantageuse pour tous ceux qui travaillent en rendant peu avantageux pour les marchands d'offrir des marchandises qui ne porteraient pas cette marque distinctive de la justice et de l'équité.

On ne peut nier que beaucoup d'unionistes font tout leur devoir envers leurs camarades en donnant la préférence aux articles revêtus de cette estampille et cela, en tout temps et dans toutes circonstances, mais il n'en est pas moins tout aussi vrai qu'un plus grand nombre encore ne prête pas la moindre attention aux étiquettes, cartes ou boutons lorsqu'ils dépensent l'argent qu'ils ont gagné dans des conditions établies par leur union de métier.

La Unión 238, Sacramento, Cal., ha sometido una enmienda a la constitución que ha recibido la aprobación del número de uniones locales necesario para ser sometida al voto popular de los miembros. Dice así:

(i) Deberá el Presidente Internacional mandar imprimir una cantidad suficiente de Tarjetas de Salidas de guerra para abastecer a todas las uniones locales.

(j) Ningun beneficio será pagado a cualquier miembro mientras sea portador de una Tarjeta de Salida de Guerra.

(k) La presente enmienda gobernará a todas las otras secciones que hagan referencia a miembros que estén haciendo servicio militar o se encuentren fuera de los límites fronterizos tales como los determina la Constitución.

La producción de tabacos en el distrito de rentas internas de Florida sobre la cual se pagaron tasas en noviembre de 1917 sumó 47,294,678, comparada con un total de 36,652,793 en el mes correspondiente del 1916; sea un aumento de 10,641,885 tabacos.

El interés, la actividad y el entusiasmo de parte de los miembros es un factor poderoso en el crecimiento y el progreso del movimiento de las uniones de gremios. Los principios fundamentales del movimiento exigen la participación activa en los consejos de las uniones. Cuando una gran proporción de los miembros deja de tomar parte en la agitación que es tan necesaria, el progreso se encuentra demorado y detenido. La responsabilidad del éxito reposa sobre la mayoría y esta ha de ser dirigida por jefes honrados y competentes.

El Attorney General del Estado de Washington ha decidido que las mujeres empleadas en talleres de reparación de vagones y en rotundas para locomotoras de ferrocarril no las abarcan las estipulaciones de la ley de ocho horas. La ley prohíbe que las mujeres empleadas en "gremios mecánicos" trabajen más de ocho horas por día. Bajo la decisión del Attorney General la ley de ocho horas queda anulada en muchos ramos de labor. Cuando se trata de aplicar los estatutos que afectan los intereses de la labor, numerosas escapatorias se descubren siempre y no se experimenta nunca dificultad para hacer nulos y sin efecto los mandatos más importantes de la ley.

Si no se conserva al trabajador en un estado físico bueno, la capacidad de producción de la nación sufre y disminuye en cantidad, calidad y eficiencia. No se puede conservar mucho tiempo la salud cuando no se puede comprar alimentos saludables, vestiduras apropiadas a las diferentes temporadas del año y alojamientos provistos con comodidades higiénicas y modernas. Sin buenos salarios y horas razonables de trabajo, la condición física del trabajador y su capacidad de producción sostienen una pérdida permanente para la nación.

La prensa comercial tiene la costumbre de sermonear a los trabajadores sobre sus deberes hacia la nación. Recomienda un incremento de la producción hasta el extremo límite de la fuerza humana y aconseja al obrero de quedar satisfecho con los salarios que recibe. Una huelga ocasional declarada para obtener mejores condiciones de trabajo se denuncia como traición hacia el país en los artículos de esa clase de periódicos. Las fluctuaciones que sube la capacidad de compra de los salarios son generalmente pasados por silencio. Mientras que las modestas demandas de la labor se denuncian, los asombrosos provechos del capital reciben fomento y aplauso.

La labor organizada debe hacer uso de todos los medios legítimos a su disposición para mejorar su condición económica y social en la esfera industrial. Los medios empleados para el mejoramiento de la situación deben venir primero del esfuerzo organizado. Pero cuando esos métodos no obtienen resultado en un espacio de tiempo razonable, mucho ayudan las actas legislativas. La organización no ha logrado suprimir la "sweat-shop" resulta que la legislación es de primera importancia para destruir un sistema de servidumbre que se quede comparar a la esclavitud feudal.

Según el informe oficial de la Aduana Cubana las exportaciones de tabacos desde el 1ro de enero hasta el 30 de noviembre de 1917 sumaron 99,396,165, comparadas con 109,859,641 en el período correspondiente del 1916; sea un decremento de 10,463,476 puros. Las Mayores cantidades fueron enviadas a Gran Bretaña, Estados Unidos, España y Canada.

Organización.

Los principios fundamentales que gobiernan a las uniones de gremios tienen la tendencia de provocar la simpatía, la ayuda mutua y la cooperación.

La organización desarrolla las más bellas calidades de la naturaleza humana y modera la influencia de los instintos más bajos.

La organización es un poderoso factor en la distribución de la riqueza tiene la tendencia de reducir los provechos exorbitantes que se apropia el capital y agrega esa parte a la que de derecho pertenece a la labor.

La organización tiene el efecto de eliminar la ira y las prevenciones; fortalece el deseo de justicia, de equidad, de lealtad, en la vida económica y social. Crea una mira más saludable de las relaciones entre el capital y la labor.

La organización favorece y alienta a los intereses a las aspiraciones de la mayoría creciente contra el egoísmo codicioso de una minoridad que va disminuyendo.

La organización ofrece un refugio a los oprimidos de todas las naciones bajo términos de igualdad, de derechos y de deberes iguales para ambos los hombres y las mujeres.

La organización proporciona fuerza, produce la independencia y la virilidad de carácter cimienta los lazos de la comunidad de intereses en una esfera más ancha de esfuerzo mutuo y en el fomento del bienestar general.

La organización se alza como un muro contra los intereses egoístas y las usurpaciones de la riqueza y de sus tendencias destructoras para reducir la masa de la gente a un estado de semi-pauperismo durante periodos de paralización industrial.

La organización analiza y rechaza las reformas fingidas y las pretensiones falsas de los que se llaman a sí mismos filantropistas; arranca la máscara a las doctrinas falaces de los economistas políticos en sus esfuerzos para justificar la pobreza y la degradación de las masas.

La organización levanta la bandera de los ideales elevados, de las esperanzas y de las aspiraciones nuevas, llevando un nuevo mensaje destinado al fomento del bienestar general de los trabajadores del país.

Unie č. 238 v Sacramento, Cal., předložila dodatek ku stanovám, kterýž byl schválen požadovaným počtem místních unií, by mohl být dán k odhlasování veškerému členstvu. Óte se následovně: —

(j) Žádná podpora nebude vyplácena členu pokud drží válečný odstupní listek.

(k) Tento dodatek podřizuje veškeré jiné články směřující k podporám těch členů, kteří jsou ve vojenské službě aneb se nalézají za hranicemi země, jak jest určeno našimi stanovami.

Nadšené, činné a účast beroucí členstvo jest hlavním činitelem při vzniku a pokroku uniového hnutí. Základy, na nichž jest hnutí založeno, vyžadují činné podílení se na poradách unie. Když většina členstva nebě činného podílů v nutných agitacích, pokrok jest oddálen a zastaven. Zodpovědnost zdaru spočívá na většině, řízené poctivými a kompetentními vůdci.

Státní nvladní státu Washington rozhodnul, že ženy zaměstnané v dílnách na železniční vozy a strojovnách, nevyhovují podmínkám zákona osmihodinové práce. Zákon zapovídá ženám, pracujícím při "femesalnickém zaměstnání", pracovati déle nežli osm hodin denně. Dle rozhodnutí státního nvladního osmihodinový zákon jest přestupován v mnoha odděleních práce. Když dojde na vymáhání zákona, týkajícího se zájmů dělnictva, přijde se na mnoho klíček a podstatné části se stávají neplatnými a nezávaznými.

Bez udržování dělnictva v dobrém tělesném stavu, výrobní síla národa trpí a stává se slabší v množství, hodnotě i výdatnosti. Zdraví nemůže být udržováno velmi dlouho bez možnosti koupiti hojnost výživné potrawy, správného a sezonního šatstva, a obydí opatřena zdravotními a moderními potřebami. Bez dobré mzdy a obětavých pracovních hodin, zdraví dělníka a jeho výkonnost značí trvalou ztrátu pro národ.

Obchodní tisk má ve zvyku poučovati dělnictvo o povinnostech vůči národu. Hlásá zvýšení výroby na nejvyšší stupeň, a pobádá dělnictvo by bylo spokojeno se mzdou jakou dostává. Nahodilá stávka k vůli zlepšení poměrů jest v redakčních sloupcích bezohledného tisku odsuzována jakožto zrůdovství vůči zemi. Kolísání cen životních potřeb jest všeobecně ignorováno. Meztím co požadavky dělnictva jsou kárány, ohromné výdělky kapitálu jsou podporovány a vychvalovány.

Organizované dělnictvo by mělo využítkovati všech možných příznivých prostředků ve své moci, ku zlepšení hospodářských a společenských poměrů na průmyslovém poli. Kroky ku zlepšení poměrů by měly být předně započaty organizovaným pokusem. Avšak, kde by takové metody se nepotkávaly v přiměřeném čase se zdarem, zákonodárná přijetí budou hodně nápomocnými. Organizace se nepodařilo vymýtit „potní dílny“, a protož zákonodárna se stává přední důležitostí při odstranění systému práce, spřislušeného s otroctvím.

Americká Federace Práce směřuje bez výjimky ku odstranění jakékoliv nucené práce a věnuje svůj čas a snahu učiniti každý den dnem lepšího života.

Uniové hnutí podporuje vzdělání a vyvrací nevědomost; zkracuje hodiny a prodlužuje život; zvyšuje mzdu a snižuje lichvu; zvyšuje neodvislost a snižuje závislost; vytváří mužnost a ničí tyranství; odstraňuje sobectví a zavádí bratrství; zvyšuje svobodu a snižuje předsudky; vytváří právo a odstraňuje neprávno; zlehčuje námahu a osvětluje muže; činí dílnu dělníka bezpečnou a jasnější; obsevestuje domov a rodinný krb, a činí svět lepším.

Organizace. Původní zásady panující v těmto unioch směřují k rozlišení ohně sympatie vzájemné pomoci a kooperace.

Organizace rozvíjí jemnější vlastnosti lidstvu vrozené a směřuje k zmírnění vlivu nižšího pudu.

Organizace jest hlavním činitelem v rozvíjení bohatství; ona směřuje ku snížení přemrštěných výdělků přivlastňovaných kapitálem a pomáhá ku podílu dělnictvem po právu požadovanému.

Organizace směřuje k odstranění předsudku a vášně; sesiluje touhu po přiměřené práci, slušnosti, hospodářské a společenské spravedlnosti. Vytváří zdravější pohled na spřislušení kapitálu a práce.

Organizace pěstuje a podporuje zájmy a pokusy rostoucí většiny, oproti sobectví zafixované menšiny.

Organizace nabízí útěchu utiskovaným všem národů, za podmínek rovnoprávnosti, stejného práva a povinnosti mužům a ženám.

Organizace dává sílu, rozvíjí neodvislost a mužnost; ona aprevňuje svaz obyčejných zájmů na širším poli vzájemné snahy a ve zvyšování všeobecného blaha.

Die moderne Gewerkschaftsbewegung ist zur Bahndreherin einer besseren und licht volleren Zukunft geworden. Von kleineren Anfängen ausgehend, entwickelten sich die ursprünglichen Nach- und Unterstützung-Vereine zu gewerkschaftlichen Organisationen mit späterer nationaler Ausdehnung mit einem bestimmenden Einfluß auf die Gestaltung der Arbeitsbedingungen der gesamten Industrie. Unsere heutigen Arbeitsbedingungen sind gewiß verbesserungsbefähigt, sie stellen jedoch im Vergleich zu früher einen den Arbeitgebern durch die organisierten Arbeiter etappenweise abgerungenen Fortschritt dar. Heute haben wir bereits für weite Gebiete des ganzen Landes Gewerkschaftslöhne; der wachsende Einfluß der Organisationen brachte die Arbeitgeber zum Teil um ihr bisheriges Vorrecht, den Arbeitern die Lohn- und Arbeitsbedingungen nach unbeschränkter Willkür zu diktiert. Dies zu erreichen, kostete allerdings schwere, opferreiche Kämpfe, denn es muß hierbei beachtet werden, daß die um eine bessere Existenz ringende Arbeiterchaft den Millionen der Arbeitgeber lediglich die Entziehung der Arbeitskraft entgegenstellen konnte. Nichtarbeiten, die Fortsetzung der Arbeit verweigern, heißt aber auf das Einkommen verzichten, und da vorher Ersparnisse nicht gemacht werden konnten, war die Arbeitsniederlegung verbunden mit der Auserlegung von ganz erheblichen Entbehrungen. Daß die Gewerkschaften jetzt sind, waren sie nicht immer gewesen. Ihre Mitgliederzahl war gerina, die Unterstützungseinrichtungen unvollkommen, die Geldmittel knapp, so daß bei einer längeren Kampfdauer die Ausständigen durch andere Arbeiter bald ersetzt, die Kassen bald geleert waren. Ein unglücklicher Streik konnte der ganzen Gewerkschaft zum Unheil werden, da man die Führer maßregelte und mit ihnen nicht selten einen großen Teil der Streikenden aus der Stadt vertrieb. Solche Fälle dieser Art ereignen sich sogar heute noch und erst vor Kurzem konnten wir in Nouvelle County, Ill., auf einen solchen verweisen, aber wir erachten es als unsere unumgängliche Pflicht hauptsächlich an diese schwere, opferreiche Vergangenheit der Arbeiterbewegung zu erinnern und zwar ganz besonders diejenigen unserer Berufsgenossen, die heute, wo die Erfolge der Gewerkschaftskämpfe greifbar geworden sind, immer noch zaghaft abseits stehen.

Zunahme der Frauenarbeit in der deutschen Industrie.

Ueber die Zunahme der Frauenarbeit in der deutschen Industrie hat das Kaiserliche Statistische Amt im Reichsarbeitsblatt eine Arbeit veröffentlicht. An der Hand von Mitgliederlisten der deutschen Arbeiterklasse weist es darin nach, daß die Heranziehung von Frauen zur Industriefarbeit während des Krieges eine bedeutende Steigerung erfahren hat. Aber schon im Frieden hatte man seit Jahrzehnten eine ständig steigende Zunahme der Frauenarbeit zu verzeichnen.

So waren 1882 von 7,340,789 in der Industrie beschäftigten Personen 20,6 Prozent weiblichen Geschlechts, nämlich 1,509,187; im Jahre 1895 befanden sich unter 10,269,269 Beschäftigten bereits 22,8 Prozent, nämlich 2,389,325 weibliche, und im Jahre 1907 war die Zahl auf 24,6 Prozent, nämlich auf 3,529,513 weibliche unter insgesamt 14,435,922 Beschäftigten gestiegen. In den Kriegsjahren erhöhte sich die Zahl der beschäftigten Frauen ganz außerordentlich. Eine hierüber Auskunft gebende amtliche Betriebszählung liegt noch nicht vor. Dagegen veranschaulichen diesen Aufschätzung die Zahlen der versicherten Mitglieder der Krankenkassen. Nach den Aufweisen waren in den berichtenden Krankenkassen versichert:

im Jahre	Personen
	männliche	weibliche
1914	6,180,912	3,506,184
1915	5,254,170	3,839,871
1916	5,288,922	4,798,472

Von je 100 Versicherten waren—

	männlich	weiblich
	63,7	36,8

In einigen Berufen (Textil-, Papier-, Industrie usw.) hat die Zahl der weiblichen Arbeiter die der männlichen bereits überflügelt. Das wird nach dem Kriege erst recht in die Erscheinung treten; denn der Andrang weiblicher Arbeitskräfte steigt bedeutend. Nach den neuesten Untersuchungen der Kaiserlichen Statistischen Ämter verhält sich auf dem Arbeitsmarkt das Angebot weiblicher Arbeitskräfte zur Nachfrage wie zwei zu eins; von 100 sich zur Arbeit drängenden Frauen konnten knapp 66 eingestellt werden. Seit 1914 hat die Zahl der weiblichen Arbeitsuchenden bei den Arbeitsnachweisen um 80,000 zugenommen, und von den insgesamt 183,126 Frauen, die im Mai, 1916, arbeitslos waren, konnten rund 100,000 nicht untergebracht werden. Je 100 offenen Stellen standen 161 arbeitssuchenden Frauen gegenüber; auf je 100 arbeitssuchende Frauen kamen im Mai, 1916, nur 61,7 offene und nur 54,5 besetzte Stellen. Da für die Hunderttausende von Kriegervitwen und weiblichen Kriegervaisen nach dem Kriege geradezu eine Notwendigkeit vorliegen wird, Verdienstmöglichkeiten in der Industrie zu suchen, so werden diese Zahlen noch weiterhin steigen, und es ist, bemerkt dazu der Reichs- und Staatsanzeiger, nur natürlich, daß dieses Problem weite Kreise ernstlich beschäftigt.

REPORT OF ORGANIZERS.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4, 1918.

At Boston during the past year and up to the present time there has been no complaint of dull times in the cigar industry; in fact the business barometer for local manufacturers has kept up to a steady and satisfactory point of trade. The output has been moving along on the swelling tide of demand for label goods "made at home." Some shops had reached their full capacity for space in man-power, while others were willing to increase the force but cigarmakers were not available for the jobs. Owing to the increased cost of living and conditions incident to these abnormal times, the members of Union 97 made application for an increase of their bill a short time ago. They felt that conditions justified their demands. However, the application was not sustained by the local unions' referendum vote. Whether that situation was made absolutely clear to the entire membership at that time or not, is not the main question now, though that is vital and important at all times. Be that as it may, they decided to run the gauntlet and go on independent strike, which was done. The strike lasted about three weeks when the difference of wage dispute was adjusted and all factories resumed work. During negotiations for settlement, the manufacturers did not disclaim that the employees were entitled to a fair and equitable increase, but they appealed for time to adjust their business to meet the constant competitive strain, but no compromise in time was granted. The cigarmakers stood firm and the manufacturers yielded in the best interest for the preservation of trade. The wheels of industry are again revolving and we trust that no unjust burden has been inflicted, but it is well to bear in mind that the laws of our constitution were made to govern all of our membership alike, and should be recognized and adhered to so long as it remains the will of the majority. The work of label boosting through the untiring effort of members of 97, and the vast sums of money spent in advertising the union label, and home cigars, in every legitimate and creditable channel, is the crowning feature. It has well repaid them for the efforts and money spent, and has rewarded abundant success to the demands for label cigars.

Manchester firms are as busy as the honey bee in May time. Business in that city has been crowding some of the manufacturers rather than having to be coaxed into the life of trade. It is a pleasing situation, almost too good to be real. There are some reasons for it which space will not permit me to explain in this article. However, it is worthy of note, that one of the salient features of success is to root, boost and work for it, never missing an opportunity to advertise your wares.

The members of Union 192 are on the job as strong as horseradish, and stand close to the head of the class in energetic label propaganda.

New Haven, at this writing, finds its membership clinched in a deadlock with the manufacturers. On November 28 a new bill of prices was submitted to the bosses. A few of the small firms agreed to pay, the larger ones refusing to entertain the demands. The men went on strike to enforce them. The manufacturers contend that the increase asked for is unreasonable and impossible, that the present bill is so far in advance of neighboring bills that to pay it would preclude them selling cigars in their competitive field of business. Wm. Strauss was directed by the International President to act in the official capacity for the International Union. He, with the strike committee, met the manufacturers, but no adjustment was reached. Later I arrived there and together with Mr. Strauss and the committee tried to effect a settlement, but did not accomplish it. While the contending parties on both sides of the controversy just now are at wide fields of difference, it is to be hoped that in the very near future grounds will be reached where an equitable and satisfactory settlement can be had.

Washington, D. C.

Our business is very slack, the membership small, and an uphill fight. Label goods scarce, with little demand, and lack of sufficient agitation, with a dry town that has not increased the consumption of label cigars.

Respectfully,

R. S. SEXTON,
General Organizer.

New York, Jan. 9, 1918.

Nineteen hundred and seventeen has come and gone, and with the dying of it another nitch has been marked on the wall of time. It no doubt, like other years, brought its joys and sorrows, but above all it left us embroiled in a world war.

With the coming of this new year our country is facing new problems which will necessitate the careful thought of the best minds of our land to hold and preserve democracy.

Likened to the nation is our various labor organizations. They must be up and doing to preserve the hopes and aspirations of the members of their craft in the labor world. Our craft is a part of this labor world and from it its members receive hopes to lead them on to higher ideals in the economic struggle. We are unlike other craft organizations just now, for our trade is considered as non-essential for war purposes, but very essential for taxation. Many women were employed at the trade prior to the war and many more may enter it now and make the problems of organization still harder.

It behooves every man working at the trade to help organize the union, so that a standard may be made and maintained, for only through a compact organization can the cigar maker hope to rise in the economic world.

Our trade can not hope to obtain better wages and conditions for the organized or unorganized through war orders like many other crafts have done because their labor was a necessity for war.

Notwithstanding that we face a war now, the beginning of 1918, all should lend their best efforts to bring the unorganized into our organization, where they can meet face to face the workers of their craft and together with them provide means to maintain a living wage.

We should bend every effort to raise the low paid districts before we overreach the standard in high paid districts, for we may force the fair employer out of the business world and lower all in the craft to the standard of low paid districts. Let our hopes, aspirations and efforts in 1918 help the underpaid to reach somewhere near a fair standard of wages, then organize and maintain it by a solid compact organization.

I visited many places in Pennsylvania during December and found all the cheap districts working overtime; also found one or two cases where an imitation label was put on cigars to deceive the consumers. All local unions should be on the lookout for this label.

Fraternally yours,

W. A. McCABE, Organizer.

REFERENDUM VOTE.

On the amendment of Union 88, Dubuque, Ia. This amendment sought to repeal the sections relating to the O. of W. benefit. It was defeated by a vote of 2,697 for to 4,766 against.

The following unions failed to return votes: 11, 25, 27, 29, 30, 59, 93, 101, 111, 136, 151, 170, 179, 180, 185, 188, 195, 204, 226, 234, 244, 255, 260, 261, 264, 265, 280, 285, 288, 298, 309, 310, 316, 319, 321, 324, 326, 327, 328, 334, 340, 344, 358, 364, 367, 371, 379, 385, 391, 407, 409, 415, 421, 423, 439, 457, 459, 471, 482, 484, 494, 496. The foregoing having failed to vote are requested to show cause why the fine provided in Section 217 should not be imposed.

The following were late, but would not change result: 179, 260, 264, 298, 309, 321, 379, 415, 421, 482.

REPORT OF INTERNATIONAL FINANCIER.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 3, 1918.

Since last report have examined the accounts of the following unions, viz.:

Union 420, St. Thomas, Ont.

The books and accounts here are in very nice order. Ledger nicely indexed and posted. Original bills, vouchers and benefit cards all on file for every item of expense. Cash and stamp accounts correct. Statement as follows:

International balance for Feb. 1, 1914...$ 96.99
Receipts to Nov. 1, 1917.....1,014.81
Expended over percentage in 1915-14
and 1916 55.47

Total$1,167.27
Expense to Nov. 1, 1917.....1,108.56

International balance for Nov. 1, 1917...$ 58.71

Funds of Union—
Nov. 1, 1917, in Imperial Bank.....$25.35
In possession of Sec'y A. Cook..... 27.51

Total 52.86

Deficiency of union Nov. 1, 1917.....$ 5.85

Union 422, Kitchener, Ont.

The books and accounts here are in fine condition. Cash and stamp accounts correct. Benefit cards, original bills and vouchers for expense all on file. Ledger nicely indexed and posted. But trade is very poor here. Statement as follows:

International balance for Feb. 1, 1914...$ 230.35
Receipts to Nov. 1, 1917.....1,343.89

Total$1,574.24
Expense to Nov. 1, 1917.....1,409.98

International balance for Nov. 1, 1917...$ 164.26

Funds of Union—
Nov. 1, 1917, in Bank of Hamilton...$144.29
In possession Sec'y Steve Welheuser 18.57

Total 162.86

Deficiency of union Nov. 1, 1917.....$ 1.40

Union 424, Stratford, Ont.

So far as figures are concerned the accounts here are very correct, but Sec'y Hagarty had entered on his report in bank $53.91. When his son verified the account Nov. 6 it showed $19.19, a difference of $34.72. This may be right, but it looks "bad." Quit making out vouchers in May, 1917. Benefit cards not all on file. Stamp account correct. This difference in bank account will be investigated. Mr. Hagarty was working out in the country so did not verify the corrected amount in his possession. Statement as follows:

International balance for Feb. 1, 1914...$ 207.16
Receipts to Nov. 1, 1917.....1,450.99
Over percentage in year 1916..... 10.33

Total$1,768.48

Nov. 1, 1917, in Royal Bank of Canada$19.19
In possession Sec'y Jas. Hagarty.... 63.08

Union 463, Pontiac, Mich.

The books and accounts here are in good shape. Cash and stamp accounts now correct. Examined the books on Saturday: as a result the secretary had more cash on hand than he would have on Monday. "There has been some talk about prices paid here." It appears to me that the bill is being paid. I am not saying what the work is worth, but that I believe the bill is paid. Statement as follows:

International balance Aug. 1, 1912.....$ 483.86
Receipts to Oct. 27, 1917..... 5,073.25

Total$5,557.11

In possession Treas. A. H. Wetsel 9.90
In possession Sec'y Wm. A. Zick.. 10.00

Total$186.05

Did not verify the money claimed in possession of treasurer owing to conditions of his employment.

Union 528 ("Class A"), Detroit, Mich.

The books and accounts here show an effort was made to handle the money honestly. I never found strike cards in better condition. This has been their big expense item. The present secretary and treasurer are entitled to special mention for their efforts to have everything, if not quite regular at least honest. The things not done is a matter of not knowing how, not a case of leaving undone anything they knew how to handle. We have some brave, capable little women here, interested in the work, willing to do anything reasonable. Our Organizer, Miss Weiss, is still on the job; has accomplished much and will do more. This Class "A" local has turned over 400 members to Union 22 and still have members left and will have more. Our treasurer here is one of the girls that "did her bit"—15 days in jail—and would go again under similar circumstances. Splendid courage, and naturally helpful to the organizer. Union 528 is not through making history in Detroit and is and will be of great benefit to those employed in the cigar trade. Statement as follows:

Receipts from organization to Oct. 1,
1917$12,807.92
Expense to Oct. 1, 1917..... 11,875.38

International balance for Oct. 1, 1917.$ 932.54

Funds of Union—

Oct. 1, 1917, in People's State Bank..$379.47
In possession Sec'y Agnes Boike.. 53.08

Surplus Oct. 1, 1917.....$.01

Union 24, Muskegon, Mich.

The ex-treasurer here, a Mr. De Boer, who is now employed at the post office, retired from office, but failed to turn over vouchers, etc., to the man that succeeded him. If he is a union man he sure has a disagreeable way of showing it. I at least don't believe he is. While I was there I did not see him. On my next visit it will be necessary to have the vouchers not examined this time, and unless Mr. De Boer has turned them over he will not be excused but treated as he deserves. Other than this, the books and accounts are fine. Statement as follows:

Int'l balance for Aug. 1, 1912.....$ 470.86
Receipts to Dec. 1, 1917..... 7,096.57
Over percentage year 1916..... 5.22

Total$7,572.15

man's Bank$272.10
In possession Treas. A. Christensen 17.95
In possession Sec'y John Baker. 10.00

Total$ 300.05

Union 46, Grand Rapids, Mich.

The books and accounts here are just now in the best condition I ever found them in at Grand Rapids. Cash and stamp accounts correct. Ledger nicely indexed and posted. Benefit cards and expense vouchers on file. Instructed Sec'y. Norrington not to pay out of work benefit to sick members as has been done here during 1913-14-15-16. Also left written instructions regarding this matter in my report in the day book. Sec'y. Norrington can and will apply the Constitution justly and fairly. Statement as follows:

Int'l balance for Aug. 1, 1912.....$ 1,147.90
Receipts to Dec. 1, 1917..... 12,859.62
Over percentage in 1916..... 19.69

Deficiency of Union Dec. 1, 1917.....$ 3.00

This is the amount due to Int'l Union on examination and are errors in dues by ex-Sec'y. Washburn.

Union 67, Grand Haven, Mich.

The books and accounts here are in very fair condition except that so many of the members have suspended themselves over and over because of non-payment of dues. The $200 death benefit paid on account H. A. Stephens, No. 36128, will be taken up with the Int'l President. I can't believe it a legal expenditure. There is no excuse for such conditions. The cash and stamp accounts of the secretary are correct. Statement as follows:

This is illegal sick benefit paid to ex-Secy. Clarence Over, while on the 90-day limit in dues, must be refunded commencing immediately.

Union 130, Saginaw, Mich.

The books and accounts here are in especially nice condition. Cash and stamp accounts correct. Benefit cards and vouchers for expense all on file. Ledger correctly indexed and posted to show each member's standing complete. Both the secretary and treasurer attend to their duties continuously. Nice work. Statement as follows:

Int'l balance for Sept. 1, 1912.....	$ 948.75 is the balance not refunded on amount expended over percentage in 1915 and must be refunded commencing at once.

Union 184, Bay City, Mich.

Instructed this Union to comply with Section 73. Several members are slow in paying dues. Avoid trouble get inside the limit, then stay there. Members paying 20c dues are not entitled to the 16 weeks limit. Benefit cards and expense vouchers all on file. Cash and stamp accounts correct. Statement as follows:

Union 186, Flint, Mich.

Owing to Treasurer Burck being out of the city when I was there I did not verify the money claimed in his possession, also used the voucher stubs instead of the treasurer's vouchers for expense. Cash and stamps correct other than this. Benefit cards on file. Am promised that the year will appear in the ledger in the future. The accounts here, so far as figures can show, are very correct. Statement as follows:

Int'l balance for Aug. 1, 1912.....	$ 354.37

The books and accounts of Secretary John Pamphilon are in excellent condition. All benefit cards and vouchers for expense on file in the rotation in which the expense is entered. The ledger correctly posted to date. Cash account always correctly reported. I wish the membership here was up to the standard set by the secretary. Toronto seems to be slipping. We need some of the energy that was shown five or ten years ago, when Toronto was built up—an aggressive, progressive union town for cigarmakers. Statement as follows:

Only one complaint to make here, and that is that all strike benefits paid during November and December, 1916, and January, 1917, should have been entered in the members' ledger account, same as any other benefit. This and all other locals should also enter death benefits paid, amount and to whom paid, and the date when paid. A nice effort is made here by the financial officers. Accounts very accurate—excellent. Statement as follows:

SPECIAL.

Some unions or secretaries persist in paying sick benefits to members confined in insane asylums, claiming that they did not know it was against the law. Section 134 distinctly and plainly states: "No sick nor out of work benefit shall be paid to members adjudged insane." This, for convenience sake, is again repeated in Section 144g of the Constitution. All amounts so paid are illegal and cannot be recognized as legitimate expenditures, and are charged up against the local unions. No dues shall be collected from an insane member.

To Jurisdiction Members:—Several secretaries have asked me to call attention more prominently through the columns of the Official Journal to the International assessments levied.

UNION BUSINESS

In accordance with Sections 58, 59 and 60 of the Constitution, the following unions are hereby notified and requested to remit the following amounts for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the office of the International Union:

NOTICE TO LOCAL UNIONS.

Always refer to your Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 30c to the 20c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards in possession of the Union should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of changes in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address, if possible, so as to obviate delays, mistakes, etc.

Financial secretaries when granting loans should, as required by Section 104, enter loans in figures and letters. It is not necessary to punch cards.

Members who while at work refuse or fail to pay per cent on loans suspend themselves without any action by the secretary.

In several instances where cards had been stolen from members it was found that some secretaries, generally very careful, had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see due books showing them in good standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book and the card and due book are in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privileges in dues unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such report the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per Section 149, give full record of membership as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file, so state, giving a synopsis of same. In order that you may fully understand the necessity of complying with this request, carefully study Section 144c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal will" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Secretaries may use the number of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

Section 144c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there be no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there be no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member; and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death were dependent for support in whole or in part.

The International Union cannot under the law authorize the payment of any death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefit rests entirely with such members.

No claim for death benefit can be sanctioned or authorized unless it be in strict compliance with Section 144c of the Constitution.

In order to avoid confusion when a Class A member changes from 15-cent dues to 30-cent dues, secretaries under the law are to give such members one-half time on length of membership, and write the following in ink in the due book: "Changed from Class A to 30-cent dues paying class. Time on full benefits commences (computed on basis of one-half time)." Should such a member desire to travel he should be given a new due book and traveling card, both of which should give the date of initiation computed on the above mentioned basis, and the words "Changed from Class A" written on both due book and traveling card. Whenever a Class A 15-cent member changes to a 30-cent membership secretaries should always so state on their monthly reports, and record the transaction on their books.

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

In compliance with Section 184 of the Constitution, the International Executive Board levied an assessment, to replenish the General Fund, of $1.00 on each 30-cent, 20-cent, 15-cent member, payable in four weekly installments of 25 cents each. Class A members to pay only two 25 cent installments. The assessment commences January 14, 1918, and is payable in eight weeks, or sixteen weeks if the member is out of work. Members taking traveling cards after January 14, 1918, have to pay the full assessment. Members who join after January 14, 1918, do not have to pay the assessment.

NOTE—The assessment must be paid within 8 weeks and can be paid by installment or in full any time within 8 weeks, except members unemployed. 20c members are not allowed the unemployment privilege.

INTERNATIONAL FINES

The International Executive Board approved the application of Union 33, Indianapolis, to fine Florence Soliday ($3041) $100 for quitting a job in a union shop and going to work in the strike shop of the Rauch Cigar Co. Vote: Affirmative, 6; two members approved $25.

Approved the application of 150 Sioux City to fine John E. Clancy $25 for going to work in the nonunion shop of Chas. Loeper. Vote: Affirmative, 8.

Approved the application of 129, Denver, to annul the retiring card of John W. Wunderlich (30712) and fine him $50 for taking a job in the nonunion machine cigar factory of the Hagler Company. Vote: Affirmative, 7.

Approved the application of 272, Lansing, to fine the following $50 each: Andrew Barber (51668), for running a nonunion shop; Otto Blume (58203), for running a nonunion shop and working in a nonunion shop; and Hazlett Hennessey (30334), for working in a nonunion shop and talking against the interests of the union. Vote: Affirmative, 5; two members approved $25.00.

DECISIONS OF THE PRESIDENT

B. Johnson appealed against Union 46, Grand Rapids, for refusing his claim for sick benefit. The appeal was not sustained.

E. L. White appealed against Union 16, Binghamton, for fining him $50 for working in a strike shop. The appeal was not sustained.

E. Van Praag appealed against Union 97, Boston, for refusing claim for sick benefit in the Hartog case. The appeal was not sustained.

J. Cariveau appealed against Union 97, Boston, for suspending him. On recommendation of the union the appeal was sustained and the member reinstated.

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and, in addition, send in such cards, but place on your letter the information necessary, as the letter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Section 148 to 149 inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted resolutions of respect and condolence relative to death or deaths as follows and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days:

Union 25, Milwaukee, Wis.—Peter Straka (48021), who died Dec. 12.

Union 404, Austin, Tex.—J. F. Clark (43549), who died as a result of an automobile accident in Shiner, Tex., Aug. 9, 1917.

Union 158, Lafayette, Ind.—J. H. Punghorst (99627), who died Dec. 19.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

The amendment of Union 218, Birmingham, as published in the December issue, as follows:

Amend Section 154 by adding after the word "making," on line 21, the following: "Seed scrap mould work, or less than $9 per thousand for making seed filler mould work."

The section as amended to read:

"But in no case shall the union label be used in a factory in the United States which pays less than $8 per thousand for making seed scrap mould work, or less than $9 per thousand for making seed filler mould work."

Other than above no changes.

Received the endorsement of 5, Rochester; 69, Three Rivers; 315, St. Cloud; 242, York; 150, Sioux City, and 16, Binghamton.

The amendment of 38, Springfield, as published in the December issue, as follows:

Union 38, Springfield, offers the following amendment to Section 159 of the Constitution:

Strike out the following: "Should a manufacturer lay off part or the whole force of his employees on account of lack of work, upon resuming work shall not be permitted to engage new help before placing all his former employees at work first. Failing to comply with this provision, after ample warning has been given the manufacturer by the union or the label committee, wherever such exist, his label shall be stopped until it is complied with."

And insert the following: "All local unions shall elect a grievance committee, and when a journeyman cigarmaker is discharged, if he feels that the discharge is not just, he can appeal to the grievance committee, and said grievance committee shall immediately inquire into such discharge, and should they consider the discharge unfair to the workman, said discharged workman shall be reinstated on the job."

"When a manufacturer may deem it prudent to curtail the number of cigars manufactured no limit shall be placed on the daily or weekly number of cigars made by the individual workman, but they may do so by laying off such number of workmen as may be required for the desired curtailment, and in such process strict observance shall be adhered to of the seniority of the workmen, and on resumption of normal conditions the old employees must be given notice before new hands can be hired. Failing to comply with these provisions the label shall be withheld until they are complied with."

Received the endorsement of 242, York; 315, St. Cloud; 120, Muscatine, and 274, Pekin.

The amendment of 114, Jacksonville, providing that an absolute retiring card be issued to members entering the military, naval or Red Cross service, and that such members retain their time on benefits, as published in the November issue, received the endorsement of 69, Three Rivers; 274, Pekin; 12, Oneida; 168, Oshkosh; 315, St. Cloud; 156, Suffolk.

Not having received the required endorsements, it cannot be submitted to popular vote.

The amendment of 14, Chicago, as published in the November Journal, as follows:

Shall the Constitution be amended by adding thereto a section to be known as Section 147-A and to read as follows:

When any member shall enlist in or enter any military or naval service, and thereby become subject to active duties as a soldier, or in connection with the immediate operation of a warship, armed vessel or vessel used for the transport of tools or war supplies, his account shall be marked "closed because of enlistment in army" (or navy as the case may be). Thereafter, during the term of such service no dues or assessments shall be accepted from such member, nor shall he be entitled to any benefits because of anything occurring during the terms of such service, nor shall any death benefit or funeral expenses be paid because of his death while in such service. Service in any organization auxiliary to the army or navy shall be deemed a military or naval service within the meaning of this section.

After the termination of such service and within 90 days of such termination, any such member may apply for membership as in the first instance, and if then eligible shall be admitted to such membership as he would then be entitled to in case of an original application and to no other.

No initiation fee shall be required to be paid in such cases.

If such applicant shall then be eligible to and admitted as a full member (now known as a 30 cent member) he shall be entitled to a credit for the time he was a member before entering such service. This for the purpose of estimating benefits or determining rights or privileges when length of membership is a qualification and such former membership shall also be considered in fixing the amount of benefit payable upon his death.

If any such applicant be eligible to and admitted to any membership other than a full or 30 cent membership, he shall be entitled only to the right and privileges of a new member.

Persons performing clerical duties or duties of a purely civil nature within the territorial jurisdiction of the International Union, and whose terms of employment do not and may not require the performance of any other class of duty nor the performance of any other duties outside of such jurisdiction, shall not, even though such duties are being performed for an army or navy department, or for an organization, be deemed within the shall apply to such service as raph hereof.

Union 218, Binghamton, offers the following amendment to the International Constitution:

Amend Section 154 by adding after the word "factory," on line 40, the following: "But no local union shall issue labels to be pasted upon boxes containing cigars made with so-called 'paper' or manufactured binders."

Amendment proposed by Union 31, Marlboro, Mass.:

That fifty-two delegates, elected as follows (one from each state of this country, one from Cuba, one from Porto Rico, two from Canada, one from the western part and one from the eastern part) to form an executive body to be known as the Cigarmakers' International Leaf Tobacco Dealers, for the purpose of establishing from one to five leaf tobacco houses, such executive body to have power to issue bonds to the amount of $1,000,000, ten-year 6 per cent bonds, guaranteed by the Cigarmakers' International Union, such bonds to be of $5 denomination that can be taken up in 25 cents' coupon within six months of date of the first coupon, such bonds subject to be recalled upon thirty days' notice with interest as soon as the treasury has $200,000. The executive committee are to select men for operating the first leaf house. Location to be selected by the committee. Factories of less than fifty men are to have the preference until the committee sees fit to extend privilege to larger concerns.

Purchasers from such leaf houses are to pay actual cost of tobacco plus handling expenses plus 2 per cent for the redeeming of the bond issue.

President G. W. Perkins to call the first meeting. Location to be selected by him. Expenses to be paid by International funds, to be refunded by the sale of bonds. Secretary of each local to be agent for the sale of such bonds.

No member shall be eligible for candidate to such executive body unless he has been a continuous member of the Cigarmakers' International Union for at least ten years.

The executive committee shall make monthly report to the International Union.

Union 500 of Tampa, Fla., offers the following amendment to Section 144 of the Constitution:

Strike out on line 4 "for five years" and insert "eight years"; on line 7 "ten years" and insert "thirteen years"; on line 10 "fifteen years" and insert "eighteen years." The amended section to read as follows:

Including the $50 funeral or cremation expenses there shall be paid upon the death of a member the following sums, viz.: If the decedent shall have been such member continuously for 8 years or longer period less than 13 years next preceding his death the sum of $200; if the decedent shall have been such member continuously for 13 years or longer period less than 18 years next preceding his death the sum of $350. If the decedent shall have been such member continuously for 18 years or longer period next preceding his death the sum of $550.

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

Amendments adopted since the June 15, 1917, edition of the Constitution:

By 208, Kalamazoo, Mich.: To amend Section 154 by adding after the word "bunches," on line 23, "nor which pays less than $10.00 per thousand for hand work, less than four molds of 10 bunches each with press on table, or two 20-bunch molds in shaper press, to be considered hand work."

Amendment to the Constitution by 132, Brooklyn, N. Y.: "That any member serving by draft in the federal service of the United States of America, also the state, shall not be deprived of his death benefit, providing the member remains in good standing in the Cigarmakers' International Union of America. This section to be enforced during the period of the war."

UNION NOTES

NOTICE TO FINANCIAL SECRETARIES.

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of W. H. Litts (89027) please notify Union 329, Fond du Lac, Wis., as he forged a boarding house order here for $6.00 on the union and also obtained cigars from a manufacturer and got away with money. He stands suspended here, but he may try to join elsewhere, as he did here. So, be on your guard, brothers, and don't get caught like we did.

Mr. Litts is about 40 years old and is sickly, also has a wild stare in his face. About 5 feet 7 inches and 130 pounds in weight.

UNION 97, BOSTON.

Organized labor endeavored to have our hospitals open evenings, but only succeeded in having the Boston Dispensary open. They, for a nominal charge, treat patients on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings.—Better homes for the worker at less than one-fourth of his income near a street car line with a 5-cent fare.—Yes, we gave to New Haven $1,000.—We donated $25 to the Free Home for Consumptives.—Would it not be better to raise our dues than have these assessments?—Why not raise a large reserve fund, for we may need it after the war?—Do you know that what is termed non-essential industries may be closed until after the war?—Many sacrifices must be made in order that democracy may be preserved.—Label agitation pays.—So Judge Gary

With this issue of the Journal we print the Annual Financial Statement, compiled from the monthly reports of our local unions, and showing the full financial transactions of the International Union with the exception that the figures in no way relate to the running expense of the International Office. The receipts and expenditures of the International Office are published monthly in the Official Journal.

The recapitulation gives practically a complete analysis of our whole financial structure, showing as it does the receipts from all sources and the expenditures for all purposes except as noted. Figures when rightly compiled are an unerring index to complete information necessary upon which to ground legislation. We also print recapitulation of receipts and expenditures for 1916 for ready reference and comparison. This wonderful array of figures shows practically the same amounts collected as initiation fees and dues.

For sick benefit purposes we expended $190,765.18 which was $20,181.31 less than we expended for like purpose in 1916. For strike benefit purposes we expended $54,785.42, which was $4,818.23 more than was expended in 1916. The comparatively small sums spent for strike benefit are remarkable and have no parallel in the annals of history in this or any other labor organization. This will be easily understood and agreed to when you recall that during the last year and a half 36,116 members received an increase in wages. For out of work benefit we expended in 1917 $19,835.50, while in 1916 we expended $57,119.00 or $37,283.50 more than we expended in 1917. For death benefit purposes, which with the sick benefit constitutes the two great expenditures, we expended $336,388.89 which is $22,812.96 more than we expended in 1916.

The general fund increased $42,828.10. However, in order that we may know precisely the exact situation it is necessary to call attention to the fact that we collected $199,217.84 in international assessments during the year 1917, while we collected in international assessments in 1916 $134,346.75, or $64,871.09 more in 1917 than in 1916. The amount raised by assessments—$199,217.84—amounts to about $4.00 per member, which amounts to about 8 cents per week per member, which means that we must either increase the dues 10 cents per week or resort to the levying of an occasional international assessment. In plain English, to put us on a financial basis where we can take care of our liabilities out of the dues collected, and avoid assessments, we must increase the dues 10 cents per week. This, however, is a matter for the members to determine in their sovereign capacity.

The total transactions for the year, including the balance on hand, amounted to $1,299,753.27. We expended for benefits of all kinds, not including loans, during 1917, $601,774.99. The great bulk of this went for the humane purpose of sick benefit and death benefit. The total benefit paid for all purposes in thirty-eight years and two months amounts to $13,967,584.44. Ours is surely a record to be proud of. Our financial system, because of the automatic plan of levying assessments is on an absolutely solid basis. We urge the members to carefully consider the question of whether the dues shall be increased to meet our liabilities or whether we are to continue the levying of assessments as heretofore. There is no institution on earth which gives so much for so small dues and assessments. There is no insurance concern in the world that pays a greater death benefit for so small an outlay. In addition to this it should be remembered that after all this is a small part of the activities and accomplishments of the International Union. The raising of wages, shortening the hours of labor, improving shop conditions, increasing the length of lives of the members, and reducing the percentage of those who die from wasting diseases are the paramount activities of the organization, and in their accomplishment lies the glory, the greatness, the power and strength of the International Union.

Society, not wholly but the majority, has accepted the system of collective bargaining in trade disputes.

A Fair Deal

The right to exercise the function of collective bargaining carries with it the right to strike. Without the right to strike, collective bargaining would be a farce, a meaningless term, a mere expression—without force. In times of peace, and times of war surely, we are opposed to strikes except as a last resort. But under either condition we can not (and should not be asked to) surrender labor's only sure method and means of enforcing its just demands, the ultimate right to strike. To assume this position is logical and defensible. While not relinquishing this right to strike we should be and are willing during war to surround it with any reasonable restrictions that will safeguard and protect our country's needs in an emergency.

The trade-union movement is solidly back of our country and our government in this crisis, and under no circumstances will it do a single thing or act to strangle or hinder the government in its plans to effectually carry forward its work to a successful conclusion. It is true that there has been considerable unrest, and here and there strikes, but with the cost of living going up by leaps and bounds, and so much said in the public press about profiteering and profiteers, the wonder is that there are not more unrest and more strikes. If an effectual stop is placed upon profiteering there will not be even the now meagre complaint against labor and its efforts through strikes to obtain sufficient with which to keep body and soul together.

Organized labor will submit to, asquiesce in, and even welcome any just, fair plan that will safeguard and protect the country's need, especially in all industries necessary for the maintenance of military efficiency. Labor wants to remain at work and to do its full share, and will continue in this frame of mind and to do so, regardless of what may happen, but it objects to being called unpatriotic and pro-German every time it, even through mediation and arbitration, seeks to obtain a just and fair wage. We object to a few selfish employers, masquerading as patriots but in reality guided only by selfish greed, trying to educate and control public opinion on these vital issues. We agree that capital is entitled to a fair return upon its money and energy invested in enterprises; we moreover assert that labor is also entitled to a fair and just wage, that much and no more. Neither capital nor labor has a right to seize upon the country's present position and use it for selfish gain.

Organized labor will meet the government more than halfway in a plan that will insure uninterrupted activity in all lines of industry necessary to meet all requirements in the maintenance of military efficiency, and that will enable us to carry the war to a successful termination. Let us all stop knocking, and if we criticize be ready to offer a concrete, fair, and constructive remedy. Let us construct, build up, and unite in the common, glorious cause to make the world safe for democracy, freedom, and justice.

American exports for February totaled $412,000,000, as compared with $505,000,000 for January, according to a statement issued recently by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce. Exports for the eight months ended with February were valued at $3,857,000,000 as against $4,083,000,000 for the corresponding period of the previous year.

Imports for February are placed at $208,000,000, a decrease from the $235,000,000 announced for January. For the eight months ended with February the imports totaled $1,841,000,000, as compared with $1,548,000,000 for the corresponding period of 1917.

Gold imports in February amounted to $2,500,000, against $4,400,000 in January, and gold exports are given as $5,000,000, against the $3,700,000 the previous month.

Although some fluctuation in production was to be expected because of the war taxes placed upon tobacco products, the tobacco manufacturing industry of the United States seems to be standing up well under the additional financial burdens placed upon it, says the Cincinnati Enquirer. From the standpoint of the Government it is a greater revenue producer than ever before, and experienced tobacco men believe that as soon as manufacturers are able to completely adjust themselves to the new conditions the productions in all lines will again forge upward at a rapid rate. Large cigars in particular are doing extremely well in spite of the increased taxes, and the record for the month of January, 1918, official figures for which have just been issued, shows a good gain in volume over the corresponding month last year, the bulk of the production being in Class B, cigars retailing at from 4c to 7c each, tax-paid at $4 per thousand. Cigarettes seem to have sustained a slight setback by the increased taxes, although a gain of small proportion is shown. Snuff and manufactured tobacco also report smaller outputs for January, but the Government's revenue from all sources shows a material increase over the same month last year.

The total collections of internal revenue from all sources on tobacco products in the United States during the month of January, 1918, amounted to $12,227,797.69, an increase over the corresponding month last year of $3,878,442.31, or 46 per cent. The total collections for seven months of the current fiscal year amounted to $78,427,377.13, an increase over the corresponding period last year of $20,881,640.20, or 36 per cent.

SEVEN MONTHS OF FISCAL YEAR.

Large cigars; old tax rate	1,933,550,550
Class A	781,513,078
Class B	1,474,716,281
Class C	520,989,464
Class D	7,112,371
Class E	10,123,399
Total	4,728,005,143	4,722,644,146

The record for seven months of the current fiscal year reveals the following comparisons in contrast with the corresponding period of the last fiscal year. Large cigars increased 5,360,997, or 1 per cent; small cigars increased 36,915,379 or 7 per cent; cigarettes increased 4,337,888,256, or 26 per cent; snuff decreased 1,710,644 pounds, or 8 per cent; manufactured tobacco decreased 11,665,874 pounds or 5 per cent.

Do your duty to the boys in the trenches by investing in a Liberty Bond.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo announces that citizens will be called upon to purchase the third issue of Liberty loans to the amount of $3,000,000,000, which will bear 4½ per cent interest.

Other Liberty loan issues will now bear the same rate of interest. That is, those who bought Liberty loans of the first issue, which bear 3 per cent, and those who bought Liberty loans of the second issue, bearing 3½ per cent, will be permitted to convert these holdings to 4½ per cent securities.

Liberty loans are guaranteed by the strongest security on earth—the United States government, which protects the bank depositor and pledges the holder of a land or a home title that no one shall disturb his property.

Uncle Sam, who stands with his law behind every other value now asks citizens to loan him money and he will pay 4½ per cent interest.

The only practical difference between a hundred dollar greenback issued by Uncle Sam and one of his Liberty bonds is that the greenback must be deposited in a bank, loaned or invested to draw interest while the Liberty bond draws interest while tucked away in some safe place, with the owner conscious of doing his small part to sustain our government in this crisis.

We sometimes hear members say that they can get a greater return in insurance for the money invested than Insurance they can get from the benefit Costs. system of the International Union, that is, they can get more than $550 for less money than it costs them in the International Union. There never was a greater mistaken idea in this connection. It is claimed that in Massachusetts in 1915 the working men and working women paid to private insurance companies operated for profit, more than twelve million dollars for insurance and that these companies returned to the policy holders only a very little more than four million dollars. In plain English about eight million dollars went to satisfy the profits, salaries, commissions, and overhead charges. None of these enter into the payment of death benefit in our organization. There are no overhead charges, no commissions, no profits, no big salaries paid, and aside and moreover no one of these insurance concerns referred to paid a sick benefit in addition to the death benefit. Including the sick benefit we pay, our members get a three-fold bigger return for the money invested than they can obtain through any other form of insurance, and remember that these other insurance concerns do not include the payment of sick benefit. Furthermore it should be remembered that for the small dues and assessments we pay, that included in our benefit system there is out of work benefit, strike benefit, increase in wages, power to resist reductions of wages, to improve shop conditions—in short to make life more endurable and better for cigar-makers.

The White House.

August 31, 1917.

I myself have had sympathy with the fears of the workers of the United States; for the tendency of war is toward reaction, and too often military necessities have been made an excuse for the destruction of laboriously erected industrial and social standards. These fears, happily, have proved to be baseless. With quickened sympathies and appreciation, with a new sense of the invasive and insidious dangers of oppression, our people have not only held every inch of ground that has been won by years of struggle, but have added to the gains of the Twentieth Century along every line of human betterment. Questions of wages and hours of labor and industrial readjustment have found a solution which gives to the toiler a new dignity and a new sense of social and economic security. I beg you to feel that my support has not been lacking and that the Government has not failed at any point in granting every just request advanced by you and your associates in the name of the American worker.

WOODROW WILSON.

"Bolsheviki" Idea Favored in New York.

The young cigarmakers of Greater New York, under the leadership of A. Weinberg, are determined to break away from the Cigar Makers' International Union. Officers of the local branches do not seem perturbed.

They are meeting regularly.

So-called "progressives" in Chicago are also opposing the old cigar makers' union.

The opponents of the International, generally referred to as "the Bolsheviki element," by a resolution, adopted at last week's meeting, decided to withdraw from the International and declared for the right to "strike" at any time.

The Cigar Makers' Union does not countenance strikes during certain periods and is opposed to "the New York idea" of calling strikes in individual factories.—Tobacco Record, New York.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

One of the functions of trades assemblies and central labor unions should be directed to insist upon the enforcement of the laws enacted for the protection of labor. The most important laws are: The prohibition of child labor without a fair educational and physical ability test, and the laws regulating the hours of women and young persons in factories and commercial establishments. Special committees should be appointed for this purpose with instructions to make regular reports.

* * *

The growth of the trades union movement is augmented with the development of education among the workers, compulsory education is a potent force and a stepping stone for better economic conditions. The trades union movement cannot grow and survive in an atmosphere saturated with illiteracy, and inability to read and study the economic principles and philosophy underlying the movement.

Labor's interests are not based upon glittering generalities; they are not based upon impractical and impossible remedies; they are not based upon Utopian schemes of emancipation; they are not based upon the intellectual effusions of doctrines ignoring the stern realities of life.

* * *

Labor's interests are rooted in the economic life of the nation; they are rooted in the desire for steady employment at remunerative wages; they are rooted in a system of compensation that will afford the highest standard of living compatible with the general welfare; they are rooted in the universal standard of eight hours, with no overtime except in cases of emergency.

* * *

In making demands upon manufacturers for higher wages and better conditions, the competition prevailing in the trade is a factor which should not be overlooked. The cost of production, which includes the prices for materials, the necessary business expenses, and the selling price of the article are vital facts in the calculation. In making demands based upon imagination, regardless of business conditions, present and prospective, the progress of the industry is halted, with poor prospects of recovery to normal conditions.

* * *

Great numbers hastily organized are usually imbued with enthusiasm necessary for temporary success. But, without discipline, experienced leadership, and financial resources, they constitute in many instances a source of weakness in place of real strength. The organization which grows slowly and gradually has more staying power in the long run than that of quick growth.

* * *

A growing organization is the best argument against the pessimist, without a glimmer of hope in future progress; a growing organization inspires new confidence in the potency of united effort for betterment; a growing organization accomplishes practical results; it revives a hopeful attitude in despondent minds; it encourages the active members to move upward and forward.

CORRESPONDENCE

The following resolutions were adopted by Cigarmakers' Union 312, Lewiston, Mont.:

Whereas: Our nation is at war, in defense of the principles of self-government, in defense of the autocracy-ridden peoples of Europe, in defense of truth, justice and humanity, and in defense of the sacred and inviolable rights of its own democratic citizens; and,

Whereas: The conflict is one that calls for the patriotic co-operation, in terms of service to the government, of every man, woman and child in the United States; and,

Whereas: For those who are not called to active duty, the service to the government that can best be rendered is manifested by the purchase of Liberty Bonds and Thrift Stamps, by cordial and whole-hearted support of the American Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A. and other necessary war activities, by rigid observance of the rules and regulations of the Food Administration, and by a faithful adherence to every governmental mandate or request; and,

Whereas: The members of Cigar Makers' Union No. 312 of Livingston, Mont., are mindful of their duty as Americans, anxious to render concrete evidence of their loyalty, and willing to give every possible aid and succor to their government; therefore, be it

Resolved, That on and after April 1, 1918, and for the duration of the war, the members of this union will perform, in addition to the work of their regular shifts, sufficient additional work to produce, for each cigar maker employed at the trade in Livingston, fifty cigars each week; and be it further

Resolved, That the labor earnings derived from the manufacture of these cigars shall be donated to some necessary war activity. And that during the months of April, May and June, 1918, the donations shall be tendered to the American Red Cross. And that thereafter the donations shall be tendered to such war activity as may be by a majority of members decided.

Washington, D. C., March 23, 1918.

To the National, International and Directly Affiliated Local Unions:

Dear Sirs and Brothers: The special committee on co-operation which reported to the Buffalo Convention of the American Federation of Labor made the following recommendations:

"1. That a qualified trade unionist co-operator be appointed by the President of the American Federation of Labor to serve one year as lecturer and adviser on the practical work of Rochdale co-operation.

"2. That this appointee shall have office room in the American Federation of Labor building in Washington, which shall be the center of information by correspondence and otherwise on the subject.

"3. That he shall visit localities in which co-operative societies are in process of formation or have already been formed and give practical information to the officers and members of such societies, making out routes of travel for this purpose so as to conserve his time and perform the work at a minimum of expense.

"4. That it shall be understood that central labor unions and local trade unions as such shall not form co-operative societies, but shall appoint committees from their membership to act in co-operation with other citizens who are in sympathy with the trade union movement in assisting in the upbuilding of a general co-operative movement.

"5. That every local trade union under the jurisdiction of the American Federation of Labor be requested to contribute the sum of $1 in order to establish successfully the Federation bureau for promoting and advancing the cause of true co-operation in the United States and Canada."

The convention declared itself in full accord with the intent and purposes sought to be attained by the recommendations of the special committee, approved the plan submitted, and referred the matter to the Executive Council with recommendations to make such deviations therefrom as may be deemed expedient, advisable or essential.

This matter came before the Executive Council at its meeting February 10-17, the first meeting which has been held since the adjournment of the Buffalo Convention, except the brief meeting in Buffalo the Sunday after the convention adjourned.

In order to carry out the recommendations of the convention above quoted it will be essential that the affiliated organizations, that is, local unions of the national and international unions, shall contribute not less than $1.00 each in order to successfully inaugurate and conduct the co-operative movement for the purpose of serving the men and women of labor as well as conserving their means of livelihood.

It is desired to appoint a trade unionist co-operator as recommended by the convention. The names of several earnest, capable men have been recommended for appointment. However the appointment can not be made until the officers at headquarters can see their way clear for the necessary funds with which to meet the expenses of the co-operative campaign, including salary.

It is urged that the national and international unions shall advise their local unions of the above with such recommendations as they may desire to make, and also that the directly affiliated unions shall take the matter up at their next regular meeting and that report be made to this office as promptly as possible as to what each union will contribute, so that we may be able to proceed as rapidly as possible with the convention plans.

Contributions, $1 or more, should be sent to Frank Morrison, Secretary of the American Federation of Labor, who will receipt therefor. Please act promptly.

Hoping to hear from you at your early convenience and with kind regards, I am,

Fraternally yours,

SAM'L GOMPERS,

President, American Federation of Labor.

Note.—All local unions are earnestly urged to contribute at least $1 for the purpose of inaugurating this great movement.—Editor.

Washington, D. C., March 23, 1918.

To the Officers of National and International Unions and American Federation of Labor Organizers:

Dear Sirs and Brothers—In conformity with the action of the Buffalo Convention and the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, there are several matters which I desire to bring especially to your attention, as follows:

It is urged that all affiliated national and international unions should instruct their organizers and representatives when addressing meetings or whenever the opportunity is otherwise afforded to explain the use of the union labels of the various trades and callings and of the American Federation of Labor, what they represent, the advantages resulting from the purchase of union label products, the duty of every true trade unionist to purchase goods bearing the union label wherever that is possible and to take advantage of every opportunity to agitate for the use of union label products.

It is further urged that special articles on the union label be prepared and published in the labor press as well as the daily friendly press. In other words, every opportunity should be made use of to increase the demand for union label goods and to educate trade union members and friends and sympathizers as to that for which the union label really stands.

As you know, from year to year the officers

if the American Federation of Labor have exerted every possible effort to more thoroughly organize the stenographers, typewriters, bookkeepers and office assistants throughout the country. The organizers of the American Federation of Labor are again urged to continue their good work in this direction and to put forth even greater efforts in behalf of those who follow these callings. While special reference is made to the stenographers, typewriters, bookkeepers and other office assistants, yet it is also understood and urged that the A. F. of L. organizers will take advantage of every opportunity presented to organize the men and women of all trades and callings.

The convention also urged that affiliated organizations should co-operate with the Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen of America in organizing the men of that craft wherever and whenever possible, and the organizers are especially requested to give every possible assistance within their power.

Thanking you in advance for your co-operation and assistance and trusting that I may hear from you in regard to the above at your early convenience, I am,

Fraternally yours,
SAML GOMPERS,

New York, March 4, 1918.

The unusual activity of trade in the cigar industry has continued unabated in this city for the past several months and from present indications no dull period is anticipated in that branch of business for some time to come. All firms are busy, and jobs in several of the shops have been at the disposal of the cigar makers of Greater New York. However, one of the most important problems that is exercising the keenest interest on the part of the manufacturer is the scarcity of raw material and the increased cost demanded for that product. Many firms complain that tobacco has advanced in price almost out of reach and it is even difficult under those conditions to get a sufficient supply to carry on their business, but that emergency may also be met, like many others have been, during these abnormal times, when the manufacturers find a way to compel the large combination of leaf dealers to disgorge some of their holdings on a more equitable basis of distribution and cut out the joker of profiteering. The feeling of unrest among the cigar makers in this section has been more pronouncedly manifest during the last twelve months than at any preceding time during the history of the trade in New York. That condition has been brought about by the high cost of living and abnormal pressure of these days. Where it has been found that a greater earning capacity by an increase in wage was necessary to meet the necessities of life, acting in accordance with that law of self-preservation, an almost ceaseless chain of demands for an increased scale of prices has been presented to the various factories of the city since the organization committee, through the Joint Advisory Board, called a convention on the 21st of last October, to increase the bill of prices and bring them up to a more uniform standard in the vast number of underpaid shops and to effect a drive for a 100 per cent organization of those engaged here in our craft. That work in a great measure has been successfully carried out by the union officials, who have met with a hearty response and a cordial co-operation from the committees of the several shops where demands had been made, both in the organized and unorganized shops, where their assistance had been called for to conduct the negotiations for settlement where strikes had taken place and in cases where others were threatened. Many of the demands were met by the bosses without loss of time to the firm or employees after the committee had waited on them, and in every instance an increase of prices has been gained. Up to the present time since the work was started and the campaign for organization was launched the representatives from the Joint Advisory Board, in conjunction with the shop committees, have participated in the adjustment of thirty-seven of the factories where demands were made and increases granted from $1 to $3 per thousand, thereby affecting the interests of thousands of cigar makers employed in those shops. The enrollment of new members in the union is going steadily on and a perceptible increase in that direction is noted by the several secretaries of local unions here. Many firms have acceded to the demands for an organized shop and have expressed a confidence in the union and a satisfaction in the fair dealing with its representatives such as they have never acknowledged before.

But in face of the splendid achievements and unprecedented record made in New York, there is a poisonous breath of secession emanating from a han(?) imbued style themselves called 'Great' been called 'stitution by endum, who unto themselves condition in engaged in tended to u tional Union fore the fla sound philosophy will inevitably consume them.

Fraternally,

R. S. SEXTON,

Rochester, N. Y., April 6, 1918.

Union No. 5 desires to call attention to the amendment offered by us in the March and April Journal to Section 104, and ask you to second same. Under the present provisions a 30c member may pay $18.60 in initiation fee and dues, or a regular 15c member $10.80, and then secure a traveling card and borrow $20. No wonder we have over $100,000 outstanding loans, a great deal of which, perhaps more than 60 per cent, is lost to us. It costs something to secure members and keep them on the books. The charges for local hall rent, committee expense, salary, and postage amounts to about $4.20 per member on an average, hence you can figure that a 15c member may draw out $20 after having paid in only $10.80, which after deducting what it costs per member to run the organization amounts to only $6.00, and then perhaps drop his card. This is high finance which in a small measure can be corrected by permitting members to borrow only within a reasonable limit of what they have actually contributed towards the funds, less the cost of maintenance. True, we largely overpay in the matter of sick and death and strike benefits, but these benefits occupy an entirely different position and are not subject to the same criticism. Members obtain loan cards, borrow $20.00, and many of them fill them up with private loans, and become quite often so deeply involved that it becomes a question and apparently a necessity for them to drop their cards, as to pay the indebtedness has become a burden. The easy opportunity to borrow makes many a fellow careless and eventually callous to the promise he made when he received the loan. The abuse of the loaning system should be corrected. Its real purpose is too often perverted, hence we should place greater restrictions upon the amount of loans we permit to be drawn from our funds.

FOREIGN

Une Transaction Équitable.

La société, non dans son entier, mais dans sa majorité, a accepté le système de marchandage collectif dans les différents du labeur. Le droit d'exercer la fonction du marchandage collectif implique le droit à la grève. Sans le droit de grève, le marchandage collectif ne serait qu'une farce, un terme sans signification, une simple expression—sans force. En temps de paix, et sûrement en temps de guerre, nous nous opposons aux grèves, sauf en dernier ressort. Mais dans l'un comme dans l'autre, nous ne pouvons (et on ne devrait pas nous le demander) faire l'abandon de la seule méthode sûre dont dispose le labeur, du seul moyen qu'il possède pour faire accepter ses justes réclamations, le droit de grève en dernier ressort. Prendre cette attitude est logique et défendable. Tout en ne faisant pas l'abandon en temps de guerre de notre droit à la grève, nous devons être, et sommes disposés pendant la guerre à l'entourer de toutes les restrictions raisonnables qui pourront sauvegarder et protéger les besoins de notre pays dans un cas de besoin imprévu.

Le mouvement des unions de métiers est de tout cœur avec le pays et son gouvernement dans cette crise et sous n'importe quel prétexte il ne fera quoi que ce soit pour étrangler ou entraver le gouvernement dans ses plans en vue d'accomplir efficacement son travail. Il est vrai qu'il y a eu beaucoup d'agitation, et ici et là des grèves, mais avec le coût de la vie qui monte par sauts et par bonds et tant de vitupérations dans la presse contre le profitage et les profiteurs, ce dont il faut s'étonner, c'est qu'il n'y ait pas davantage d'agitation et davantage de grèves. Si on met des entraves efficaces au profitage, il n'y aura même plus les maigres plaintes contre le labeur et ses efforts par le moyen des grèves pour obtenir des salaires suffisants pour vivre.

Le labeur organisé se soumettra, consentira et souhaitera même la bienvenue à tout plan juste et équitable capable de sauvegarder les besoins du pays, surtout dans toutes les industries essentielles au maintien de l'efficacité militaire. Le labeur veut rester au travail et faire son devoir tout entier, et il continuera à penser de la sorte et d'agir de la sorte, quoi qu'il arrive, mais il s'irrite d'être traité d'antipatriotique et de pro-allemand toutes les fois que, ne fût-ce que par la médiation et l'arbitrage, il cherche à obtenir un salaire juste et équitable. Nous faisons des objections à quelques employeurs égoïstes qui, sous le voile du patriotisme, ne sont guidés que par la cupidité et cherchent à éduquer et à contrôler l'opinion publique sur ces faits dont l'importance est vitale. Nous sommes d'accord que le capital a droit à un revenu équitable sur ses placements et sur l'énergie déployée dans ses entreprises; mais nous déclarons de même que le labeur a lui aussi droit à un salaire équitable et juste, un point, c'est tout. Ni le capital ni le labeur n'ont le droit de profiter de la situation actuelle du pays et de s'en servir dans un but égoïste.

Le labeur organisé fera plus que la moitié de la route pour reconstruire le gouvernement dans un plan qui assurera une activité ininterrompue dans toutes les branches de l'industrie nécessaires au maintien de notre établissement militaire dans toute sa valeur et qui nous permettront de continuer la guerre jusqu'à ce qu'elle se termine à notre avantage. Cessons tous de critiquer, et si nous critiquons, soyons prêts à offrir un remède décent, équitable et constructif aux maux que nous signalons. Travaillons tous pour la glorieuse cause commune qui doit nous unir: celle de rendre saufs dans le monde la démocratie, la liberté et la justice.

Nos Finances.

Dans ce numéro du Journal nous publions le compte-rendu financier annuel, établi d'après les rapports des unions locales et montrant les transactions financières complètes de l'Union Internationale, sauf en ceci que les chiffres donnés ne se rapportent en aucune façon au coût d'opération de l'Office International. Les recettes et les dépenses de l'Office International sont publiées mensuellement dans le Journal Officiel.

La récapitulation donne virtuellement une analyse complète de notre situation financière dans son entier, car elle montre les recettes de toute provenance et les dépenses faites sur tous les chapitres, avec l'exception mentionnée di-dessus. Les chiffres, quand ils sont correctement compilés, constituent une indication infaillible d'après laquelle on peut se procurer les renseignements nécessaires sur lesquels baser les modifications à apporter au fonctionnement d'une entreprise. Nous publions également ici une récapitulation des recettes et des dépenses pour l'année 1916 afin qu'elle serve de référence et de comparaison. Cet étonnant déploiement de chiffres montre pratiquement des sommes égales perçues comme droits d'initiation et comme cotisations.

Sur le chapitre des bénéfices pour maladies nous avons dépensé $190,765.18, soit $20,181.31 de moins qu'en 1916. Sur la chapitre des bénéfices de grève, nous avons dépensé $54,785.42, soit $4,818.23 de plus que la somme dépensée en 1916. Les sommes comparativement peu élevées que nous dépensons pour bénéfices de grève sont remarquables et n'ont pas de parallèle dans les annales de cette organisation du travail ni dans ceux d'aucune autre. On comprendra facilement ceci et tous tomberont d'accord sur ce point si on se rappelle que pendant l'année dernière et la moitié de la précédente, 36,116 membres ont reçu des augmentations de salaires. Pour bénéfices aux sans-travail nous avons dépensé en 1917 une somme totale de $19,835.50, alors qu'en 1916 nous avons versé dans ce but $57,119.00, soit $37,283.50 de plus qu'en 1917. Pour ce qui est des bénéfices pour décès, qui, avec les bénéfices pour maladies, constituent les deux plus grosses dépenses, nous avons versé $336,388.89, soit $22,812.96 de plus que nous n'avions dépensé en 1916.

Le fonds général s'est augmenté de $42,828.10. Toutefois, afin que nous puissions connaître exactement la situation, il est nécessaire d'appeler l'attention sur le fait que nous avons perçu $199,217.84 en impositions internationales pendant l'année 1917, tandis que nous n'en avions recueilli que $134,346.75 en 1916, soit $64,871.09 de plus en 1917 qu'en 1916. La somme obtenue au moyen d'impositions, soit $199,217.84, représente environ $4.00 par semaine, ou environ $0.08 par semaine et par membre. Ceci veut dire que nous devons, soit augmenter les impositions de $0.10 par semaine ou avoir recours à des impositions internationales occasionnelles. En langage simple, pour nous mettre sur une base financière qui nous permette de faire face à nos obligations sur les cotisations perçues, et éviter la nécessité de prélever des impositions, nous devons augmenter les cotisations de $0.10 par semaine. Ceci est d'ailleurs une question que les membres auront à trancher dans leur capacité souveraine.

Les transactions totales pour l'année, y compris l'argent en caisse, se sont élevées, à $1,299,753.27. Nous avons dépensé pour bénéfices de toute espèce en 1917, non compris les prêts, $601,774.99. La plus grosse partie de cette somme est allée aux buts humanitaires de bénéfice de maladie et de bénéfice de décès. Le bénéfice total payé dans tous les buts pendant trente-huit ans et deux mois s'élèvent à un total de $13,967,584.44. Nous avons vraiment le droit d'être fiers de notre "record." Notre système financier, grâce au plan automatique de prélèvement d'impositions, est sur une base absolument solide. Nous prions instamment les membres de considérer soigneusement la question de savoir si les cotisations doivent être augmentées afin de nous permettre de faire face à nos obligations ou si nous devons continuer à prélever des impositions comme dans le passé. Il n'y a pas d'institution dans les monde qui donne autant pour des cotisations et des impositions aussi réduites. Il n'y a dans le monde aucune entreprise d'assurances qui verse un bénéfice de mort aussi élevé pour une prime aussi minime. En plus, on doit se souvenir qu'après tout, ceci n'est qu'une petite partie des activités et des résultats de l'Union Internationale. L'élévation des salaires, la réduction des heures de travail, l'amélioration des conditions dans les ateliers, qui allonge la vie des membres et réduit le pourcentage de ceux qui meurent de maladies contagieuses, voilà quelles sont les activités primordiales de l'organisation et c'est dans leur obtention que reposent la gloire, la grandeur, la puissance et la force de l'Union Internationale.

Seamos Todos Equitativos.

La sociedad, no en su integridad, sino en su mayoría, ha aceptado el sistema de regateo colectivo en las controversias de la labor. El derecho de regatear colectivamente implica él de declararse de huelga. Sin el derecho a la huelga, el regateo colectivo no significa nada—es una expresión sin significado ninguno. En tiempo de paz y aún más en tiempo de guerra, nosotros nos oponemos a las huelgas, sino como último recurso. Pero tanto en tiempo de paz como en tiempo de guerra, nosotros no podemos (y no debería pedirnoslo) renunciar al único método seguro que tenga la labor, al único medio que posee para hacer aceptar sus justas demandas, el derecho de huelga como último recurso. Esta contienda es lógico y muy defensible. Aún sin abandonar en tiempo de guerra el derecho que tenemos a la huelga, debemos estar y somos dispuestos mientras dure la guerra a rodearlo con todas las restricciones razonables que puedan guardar y proteger los requisitos de nuestro país en un caso de necesidad imprevista.

El movimiento de las uniones de gremios está únanimemente con el país y su gobierno en esta crisis y bajo ningún pretexto hará lo que sea para estorbar al gobierno en sus planes para la ejecución eficaz de la tarea que tiene delante. Verdad es que hay mucha agitación y de vez en cuando una huelga, pero con el coste de la vida que sigue creciendo desproporcionadamente y con tantas vituperaciones en la prensa contra los provechos de guerra y los aprovechadores, lo extraordinario es que no haya más agitación y más huelgas. Si se le pone límites eficaces a los provechos, no existirá siquiera ese miserable motivo de queja contra la labor y sus esfuerzos, por medio de huelgas, en vista de conseguir lo necesario para no morir de hambre.

La labor organizada se someterá, dará su consentimiento y aún más, la enhorabuena a cualquier remedio eficaz para guardar los requisitos del país, sobre todo en todas las industrias esenciales para la conservación de la fuerza armada con toda su eficiencia. La labor quiere seguir trabajando y desempeñar su papel en toda conciencia. Seguirá pensando y obrando así, sea lo que fuera, pero le irrita ser tratado de antipatriota y de germanófilo cuantas veces, fuese siquiera por medio de la mediación o del arbitramento, trata de conseguir un salario justo y equitativo. Nos oponemos a unos cuantos empleadores egoístas quienes, bajo la máscara del patriotismo, solo son guiados por la codicia personal y tratan de educar y de dominar la opinión pública sobre esos hechos de una importancia vital. Estamos de acuerdo que el capital tiene el derecho de pedir una remuneración equitativa por las sumas que invierte y las energías que despliega en sus empresas; pero así mismo declaramos que la labor también tiene el derecho de recibir un salario equitativo y justo, y nada más. Ni el capital ni la labor tienen el derecho de aprovechar la situación actual del país y de utilizarla con miras egoístas.

La labor organizada está más que dispuesta a adoptar con el gobierno un método para asegurar una actividad ininterrumpida en todos los ramos de la industria necesarios para la conservación de nuestra eficiencia militar y que nos han de permitir continuar la guerra hasta que se termine de manera ventajosa para nosotros. Dejemos todos de criticar y si criticamos, tengamos listo un remedio decente, equitativo y eficaz a los males que señalamos. Trabajemos todos de concierto en la gloriosa causa; común, la de conservar en el mundo la democracia, la libertad y la justicia.

Informes Financieros.

En este número del Journal publicamos el Estado Anual Financiero, compilado sobre la base de los informes mensuales de las uniones locales y que indica todas las transacciones financieras de la Unión de la Oficina Internacional. Los ingresos y los desembolsos de la Oficina Internacional son publicados mensualmente en el "Official Journal."

La recapitulación da virtualmente un análisis completo de nuestro edificio financiero entero, indicando los ingresos de todas fuentes y los desembolsos efectuados para todos los propósitos, con la excepción asentada más arriba. Las cifras, cuando son compiladas correctamente, forman un índice infalible para proporcionar informaciones completas sobre las cuales formular leyes para remediar a los defectos que se puedan encontrar. Así mismo publicamos una recapitulación de ingresos y de desembolsos por el año 1916 para permitir una comparación rápida. Las maravillosas cifras que abarca el estado de este año demuestran que virtualmente se han recibido sumas iguales por derechos de iniciación y por cotizaciones.

Para el propósito de beneficios a enfermos hemos gastado $190,765.18, sea $20,181.31 menos que lo que gastamos por lo gastamos por lo mismo en 1916. Para el propósito de beneficios de huelga, hemos gastado $54,785.42, sea $4,818.23 más que lo que gastamos en 1916. Las sumas comparativamente pequeñas que hemos gastado para beneficios de huelga son notables y no tienen paralelo en los anales de la historia de esta o de cualquier otra organización de labor. Se comprenderá lo que venimos de decir si se recuerda que en el año y medio pasados 36,116 miembros han recibido aumentaciones de salarios. Para beneficios de sin trabajo hemos gastado $57,119.00, sea $37,283.50 más que lo que gastamos en el año 1916. Para beneficios de muerte, que junto con los en enfermedad constituyen los dos más importantes capítulos de desembolso, gastamos $336,388.86, sea $22,812.96 más que lo que gastamos para ese propósito en 1916.

El fondo general ha sido aumentado de $42,828.10. Sin embargo, para que podamos estar plenamente al corriente de la situación exacta, es preciso llamar la atención del lector sobre el hecho que hemos percibido $199,217.84 por imposiciones internacionales en el curso del año 1917, mientras que en el 1916 percibimos por imposiciones internacionales solo $134,346.75 o $64,871.09 más en el 1917 que en 1916. La suma obtenida por medio de imposiciones—$199,217.84—representa unos $4.00 per miembro, sea unos 8 centavos por semana y por miembro, lo que significa que debemos sea aumentar las cotizaciones de unos 10 centavos per semana o tener que aplicar imposiciones internacionales intermitentes. Esta cuestión la tienen que decidir los miembros en su calidad de jueces soberanos.

Las transacciones totales por el año, inclusive el saldo en caja, cifran $1,299,753.27. Hemos gastado, por beneficios de toda clase, excepto prestamos, en el año 1917 una suma total de $601,774.99. La mayoría de esta suma ha ido a los propósitos humanitarios de beneficio de enfermedad y de beneficio de muerte. El total de los beneficios pagados por todos los propósitos durante treinta y un años y dos meses cifra $13,967,584.44. Por cierto podemos enorgullecernos de nuestro "record. Nuestro sistema financiero, debido al método automático de levantar imposiciones se encuentra sobre una base absolutamente firme. Insistimos para que los miembros examinen con atención la cuestión de saber si se deben aumentar las cotizaciones o si se debe continuar levantado imposiciones como en el pasado. No hay institución en el mundo que dé tanto por tan reducidas cotizaciones e imposiciones. No hay empresa de seguros en el mundo que pague mayores beneficios de muerte por primas tan pequeñas. Además, se debe acordar uno que después de todo, esto forma solo una parte muy pequeña de las actividades y de los éxitos conseguidos por la Unión Internacional. La elevación de los salarios, la reducción de las jornadas de trabajo, la mejora de las condiciones del taller, el incremento de la vida de los miembros y la disminución del porciento de los que mueren de consunción, esas son las actividades principales de la organización y en ellas se hayan la gloria, la grandeza, la fuerza y el poderío de la Unión Internacional.

Lidská společnost, ne celá avšak většina, přijímá systém společného, vyjednávání řemeslných sporů. Právo prováděti funkce společného vyjednávání nese s sebou i právo stávkovati. Bez práva stávkovati, společné vyjednávání by nebylo ničím, bylo by bezvýznamným termínem, pouhým výrazem — bez moci. V době míru, a zvláště v době války, jsme proti stávkám, leda že není vyhnuti. Avšak za žádných okolností nemůžeme (a nemělo by to být od nás žádáno) vzdáti se této jediné a jisté metody a způsobu vydobývání si spravedlivých požadavků, ultimátního práva stávkovati. Zaujmouti tohoto stanoviska jest logické a obhajitelné. Jakkoliv se nevzdáváme práva stávkovati, měli bychom, a jsme volnými, učiniti během války jakékoliv rozumné omezení, kteréž by zabezpečovalo a ochraňovalo potřeby naší vlasti v pádu nesnáze.

Uniové hnutí stojí pevně při naší vládě a zemi v této kritické době a za žádných okolností neučiní ničeho, co by bylo vládě na závadu v plánech dočasně zdárného zakončení války. Jest pravdou, že tu zavládal mnohdy značný neklid, a tu a tam že se vyskytla stávka, avšak při takových skokách cen potravin, a tolika řečích veřejného tisku o zisku a výdělkářích, jeť ku podivu, že se nevyvíjí více neklidu a není více stávek. Kdyby se výdělkářství platně zastavilo, odpadly by i nynější nepatrné stížnosti proti práci a pokusům této zlekatí pomoci stávek dostatečné odměny, jež by udržovala duši a tělem pohromadě.

Organizovaná práce bude souhlasiti a s radostí přistoupí na každý spravedlivý a poctivý plán, dle něhož by byly potřeby naší vlasti chráněny, zvláště ve všech industriálních nutných k vydržování vojenské působnosti. Práce chce býti v činnosti a vykonati svou povinnost, a zůstane při tomto rozhodnutí, ať se stane cokoli, avšak protestuje proti tomu, by byla nazývána nevlastenečkou a přiznivou Německu vždy, kdykoliv hledí ziskati, i pomocí arbitrace, spravedlivé a přiznivé mzdy. Protestujeme proti několika sobeckým zaměstnavatelům, vynášejícím se jako vlastenci, kteříž ve skutečnosti vedeni jsou sobeckou lakomostí, hledí poučovat i kontrolovati veřejné mínění v této životní otázce. Souhlasíme s tím, by kapitál byl oprávněn ku poctivému výdělku ze svých peněz a energie, uložených v podnikách; takéž stojíme na tom, že i práce jest oprávněna ku přiznivé a spravedlivé mzdě, pouze tolik a nic více. Kapitál ani práce nemá právo zmocňovati se nynějšího postavení vlasti a využítkovávati toho k sobeckým účelům.

Organizovaná práce půjde vládě vstříci více nežli na půl cesty v plánu, kterýž by zajistil nerušenou činnost ve všech řadách průmyslu, nutného k vyhovění všech požadavků vydr-žování vojenských sil, což nám pomůže ukončit válku zdárně. Přestaňme bourati, a když kritizujeme, buďme připraveni nabídnouti poctivou, přiznivou a budoucí náhradu. Budujme a spojme se za účelem obecného, vznešeného cíle, učiniti svět bezpečným pro demokracii, svobodu a spravedlnost.

Naše finance.

S tímto vydáním žurnálu otiskujeme celoroční zprávu finanční, vypracovanou dle měsíčních zpráv místních unií, a vykazující úplné finanční záležitosti Mezinárodní Unie, s tou výjimkou, že číslíce tyto nezahrnují běžné vydání Mezinárodní úřadovny. Příjem a vydání Mezinárodní úřadovny jest uveřejňován každý měsíc v úředním žurnálu.

Souhrn ve skutečnosti předvádí úplný přehled našeho celkového finančního postavení, vykazující příjmy všeho druhu a vydání na veškeré účely; vyjma těch jak poznamenáno. Číslíce, když jsou správně sestaveny, jsou nejlepším vodítkem ku úplné informaci, nutné při činění nápravných zákonů. Taktéž otiskujeme souhrn příjmů a vydání za rok 1916 k vůli porovnání. Toto podivuhodné seřazení číslíc znázorňuje takřka stejné obnosy vybrané za vstupné a poplatky.

Na nemocniční podporu vyplaceno bylo $190,765.18, což jest o $20,181.31 méně nežli jsme vydali na stejný účel r. 1916. Na podporu stávkovní jsme vyplatili $54,785.42, což jest o $4,818.23 více nežli jsme vydali r. 1916. Poměrně malý obnos vydaný na stávkovní podporu jest pozoruhodným a nemá sobě rovna v záznamech historie této, aniž žádné jiné dělnické organizace. Toto jest snadno k pochopení uvážíme-li, že během uplynulého roku a půl 36,116 členů obdrželo zvýšení mzdy. Na podporu v nezaměstnanosti jsme vyplatili r. 1917 $19,835.50, a r. 1916 jsme vyplatili $57,119.00, čili o $37,283.50 více nežli r. 1917. Na úmrtní podporu, kteráž zároveň s nemocniční podporou tvoří dvě ty největší výlohy, jsme vydali $336,388.89, což jest o $22,812.96 více nežli jsme vydali r. 1916.

Všeobecný fond jest zvýšen o $42,828.10. Abychom měli úplný přehled o správné situaci, jest nutným upozorniti na skutečnost, že jsme vybrali $199,217.84 za mezinárodní assessmenty během roku 1917, mezitím co jsme vybrali za tyto assessmenty r. 1916 částku $134,346.75, čili o $64,871.09 více r. 1917, nežli r. 1916. Obnos vybraný za assessmenty — $199,217.84 — obnáší asi $4.00 na člena, což připadá asi $0.08 týdně na jednoho člena, čímž se vyrovnává, že musíme buď zvýšiti poplatky na $0.10 týdně, aneb se uchýliti ku vypisování případného mezinárodního assessmentu. V obecném mluvě, bychom se vyšinuli na takový finanční základ, že bychom mohli dostáti našim povinnostem z poplatků vybraných, a předejiti vypisování assessmentů, musíme zvýšiti poplatky na $0.10 týdně. Toto jest však záležitostí členů by si uvědomili své svrchované postavení.

Celková transakce za rok, zahrnující hotovost v pokladně, obnášela $1,299,753.27. Vydali jsme na veškerou podporu, vyjma půjček, během r. 1917, $601,774.99. Veliká část tohoto přišla na humanitní účely nemocniční a úmrtní podpory. Celková podpora vyplacená na veškeré účely za třicet osm roků a dva měsíce obnáší $13,967,584.44. Toto jest věru rekord na kterýž můžeme býti hrdými. Naš finanční systém, následkem samočinného plánu vypisování assessmentů, jest na úplně pevném základu. Upozorňujeme členy by pozorně uvažovali o otázce zda se mají poplatky zvýšiti, bychom mohli dostáti svým povinnostem, aneb zdali máme pokračovati vypisováním assessmentů jako až dosud. Není žádného jiného podniku na zemi, kterýž poskytuje tolik za tak malé poplatky a assessmenty. Nestává žádného pojišťovacího podniku na světě, kterýž by platil větší obnos úmrtní při tak nízkých poplatcích. Mimo toho jest záhodno si zapamatovati, že toto jest pouze malou částí z činnosti a výkonů Mezinárodní Unie. Zvyšování mzdy, zkracování hodin pracovních, zlepšování poměrů v dílnách, prodlužování života členů, a snižování procenta těch, jež zmírají nemocemi puštočivými, jsou nejvyššími činnostmi organizace, a v těchto výkonech spočívá sláva, velikost, síla a moc Mezinárodní Unie.

Gerechte Behandlung.

Die Gesellschaft, nicht als Ganzes aber in der großen Mehrheit, hat bei gewerblichen Streitigkeiten das Prinzip des gemeinsamen gegenseitigen Unterhandelns anerkannt. Das Recht der Ausübung der Funktionen des gegenseitigen Unterhandelns schließt das Streikrecht in sich. Ohne dieses Recht zu streiken würde gemeinsames Unterhandeln eine Farce, ein bedeutungsloses Wort, ein bloßer Ausdruck ohne Macht und Wirkung sein. In Friedenszeiten und erst recht während Kriegezeiten opponieren wir den Streiks, ausgenommen als allerletztes Mittel. Aber zu keiner Zeit können wir (und das sollte auch nicht von uns verlangt werden) uns der wichtigsten Methode und des wichtigsten Mittels der Arbeit begeben, durch welche sie ihre Forderungen durchsetzen kann, das schließliche Recht zu streiken. Und diese unsere Stellung ist logisch und verachtbar. Während wir uns dieses Recht zu streiken keineswegs begeben, sollten wir jedoch — und wir sind es auch — während der Dauer des Krieges bestrebt sein, dasselbe mit annehmbaren und vernünftigen Schranken zu umgeben, die in allen Dringlichkeitsfällen die Erfordernisse und Bedürfnisse unseres Landes sichern und befähigen.

Die Gewerkschaftsbewegung steht in dieser Krisis fest und unerwackterlich hinter unserem Lande und seiner Regierung und unter keinen Umständen wird sie etwas tun oder unternehmen, was die Regierung behindern könnte, ihre Pläne in dieser Hinsicht erfolgreich durchzuführen. Es ist wahr, daß es beträchtliche Unrast gegeben hat, Streiks haben sich hier und dort ereignet, aber da die Kosten der Lebenshaltung so riesig in die Höhe geschwellt sind und in der Tagespresse des Oesteren von Profitjägerei und Niesenprofiten geschrieben wird, ist es nur zu verwundern, daß es nicht mehr Streiks und größere Unrast gegeben hat. Wird der Profitjägerei eine wirksame Grenze gezogen, dann werden auch die selbst jetzt sehr spärlichen Beschränkungen gegen die Arbeiter und ihr Bestreben aufhören, durch Streiks das zu erlangen, was zur Erhaltung ihres Körpers und ihrer Seele erforderlich ist.

Die organisierte Arbeit wird sich irgend einem gerechten und annehmbaren Plane fügen, durch welchen die Erfordernisse und Bedürfnisse des Landes gesichert und beschützt werden, speziell in allen für die Aufrechterhaltung militärischer Wirksamkeit notwendigen Industrien. Die Arbeiter wollen an der Arbeit verweilen und ihren Teil beitragen und sie werden auf diesem Standpunkt beharren, ganz gleich was sich auch ereignen mag. Aber sie protestieren dagegen, daß man sie als unpatriotisch und pro-deutsch verächtele, wenn immer sie — selbst durch Vermittelung oder Schiedsgerichte — gerechte und annehmbare Löhne anstreben. Wir protestieren dagegen, daß elische selbstsüchtige Arbeitgeber, die unter der Maske des Patriotismus paradien, in Wirklichkeit aber nur von selbstsüchtiger Habgier geleitet werden, die öffentliche Meinung hinsichtlich dieser so wichtigen Fragen zu beeinflussen und zu kontrollieren versuchen. Wir geben zu, daß das Kapital zu einer gerechten Entschädigung für das in den Unternehmungen angelegte Geld und die angewandte Energie berechtigt ist; wir behaupten aber auch, daß die Arbeiter zu einem gerechten und fairen Lohne berechtigt sind, dies und weiter nichts. Weder das Kapital noch die Arbeit haben ein Recht, sich die gegenwärtige Lage des Landes in selbstsüchtiger Weise zunutze zu machen.

Die organisierte Arbeit wird der Regierung auf mehr als halbem Wege entgegenkommen in der Ausführung eines Planes, durch den die ununterbrochene Aktivität in allen Industrien ermöglicht wird, die notwendig sind, um allen Anforderungen für die Aufrechterhaltung der militärischen Wirksamkeit zu genügen und durch die der Krieg zum erfolgreichen Abschluß gebracht werden kann. Laßt uns aufhören zu nörgeln, und müssen wir kritisieren, dann müssen wir auch imstande sein, eine anständige, gerechte und konstruktive Remedur in Vorschlag zu bringen. Laßt uns konstruktiv tätig sein, aufbauen, laßt uns vereint wirken für die ge-meinsame, herrliche Sache, um der Welt die Demokratie, Freiheit und Gerechtigkeit zu sichern.

Unsere Finanzen.

In dieser Ausgabe des Journals veröffentlichen wir den jährlichen Finanzbericht, wie er aus den Monatsberichten der Local-Unions zusammengestellt wurde. Dieser Bericht umfaßt die gesamten finanziellen Transaktionen des internationalen Verbandes, ausgenommen, daß sich die Zahlen in keiner Weise mit den laufenden Ausgaben der Verbands-office beschäftigen. Die Einnahmen und Ausgaben der Verbands-office werden monatlich im offiziellen Organ publiziert. Die Resapitulation giebt eine vollständige Analyse unseres gesamten Finanzgebarens und sie zeigt die Einnahmen aus allen Quellen und die Ausgaben für alle Zwecke, ausgenommen der erwähnten Zahlen, wenn richtig zusammengestellt, bilden einen unfehlbaren Wegweiser zur vollständigen Information, die nötig ist als Grundlage für abhelfende Gesetzgebung. Auch veröffentlichen wir eine Resapitulation von Einnahmen und Ausgaben während des Jahres 1916, damit die Mitglieder sich auf dieselben beziehen und Vergleiche anstellen können. Diese wunderbare Zusammenstellung von Zahlen zeigt, daß für Aufnahmegebühren und Beiträge fast dieselben Beträge eingegangen sind. Für Krankenunterstützungszwecke verausgabten wir $190,765.18, oder $20,181.81 weniger als im Jahre 1916 für die gleichen Zwecke verausgabt worden sind. Für Streikunterstützungszwecke verausgabten wir $54,785.42, oder $4,818.28 mehr als im Jahre 1916. Die für Streikunterstützung ausbezahlen verhältnismäßig geringen Beträge sind bemerkenswert und finden keine Parallele weder in den Annalen unserer noch irgend einer anderen Arbeiterorganisation. Dies wird man leichter verstehen und anerkennen, wenn man bedenkt, daß während der letzten achtzehn Monate 36,116 Mitglieder Lohnzulagen erlangten. Für Arbeitslosenunterstützung verausgabten wir im Jahre 1917 $19,835.50, während im Jahre 1916 für die gleichen Zwecke $57,119.00 oder $37,283.50 mehr verausgabt wurde als in 1917. Für Sterbegeldzwecke — zusammen mit dem Krankengeld bildeten diese Ausgaben die beiden höchsten Posten — verausgabten wir $336,388.89, oder $22,812.96 mehr als in 1916.

Der General-Fond erhöhte sich um $42,828.10. Damit die Mitglieder jedoch die genaue Sachlage erfassen können, ist es notwendig, daß wir ihre Aufmerksamkeit auf die Tatsache lenken, daß wir während des Jahres 1917 den Betrag von $199,217.84 in internationalen Affekments einnahmen, während wir in 1916 an internationalen Affekments nur $184,346.75, oder $64,871.09 mehr in 1917 einnahmen als in 1916. Der durch Affekments erzielte Betrag — $199,217.84 — beläuft sich auf etwa vier Dollars pro Mitglied, oder acht Cents pro Woche pro Mitglied. Dies bedeutet, daß wir entweder die wöchentlichen Beiträge um zehn Cents erhöhen müssen, oder wir müssen zeitweilig internationale Affekments ausschreiben. Deutlicher gesprochen: Wenn wir für unsere Organisation eine finanzielle Basis schaffen wollen, die es uns ermöglicht, allen Verbindlichkeiten aus den eingezahlten Beiträgen gerecht zu werden, so müssen wir die Beiträge um zehn Cents pro Woche erhöhen. Dies jedoch bleibt völlig der Entscheidung der Mitgliedschaft überlassen.

Die gesamten Finanztransaktionen während des Jahres, einschließlich der sich an Hand befindlichen Bilanz, beliefen sich auf $1,299,758.27. Wir vorausgaben für Unterstützung aller Arten, abzüglich der Anleihen, während des Jahres 1917 $601,774.99. Der größere Teil dieses Betrages war den humanen Zwecken der Unterstützung in Krankheits- und Todesfällen gewidmet. Die während der letzten achtunddreißig Jahre und zwei Monate ausschließlich für Unterstützungszwecke ausbezahlte Gesamtsumme beläuft sich auf $13,967,584.44. Das ist ein Record, auf den wir wirklich stolz sein können. Durch den automatischen Plan der Affekments-Ausschreibung ist unser Finanzsystem auf eine absolut gesunde und gesicherte Basis gestellt worden. Wir ersuchen die Mitglieder sorgsam die Frage zu erwägen, ob die Beiträge erhöht werden sollen, damit wir den Verbindlichkeiten gerecht werden können oder ob wir dabei bleiben sollen, zeitweilig Affekments zu erheben, wie es in der Vergangenheit geschehen ist. Auf der ganzen Erde giebt es keine Einrichtung oder Organisation, die für solch geringe Beiträge und Affekments so viel leistet, wie unsere Organisation. In der ganzen Welt giebt es kein Versicherungssystem, das für solch geringe Summen eine dertartige Unterstützung in Sterbefällen gewährt. Des Weiteren sollte bedacht werden, daß dies nur ein sehr geringer Teil der Aktivität und der Errungenschaften unseres Verbandes ist. Die Erhöhung der Löhne, Verkürzung der Arbeitszeit, Verbesserung der Arbeitsstände, Verlängerung der Lebensdauer der Mitgliedschaft und Verringerung des Progentafes Derjenigen, die verheerenden Krankheiten zum Opfer fallen, bilden die wichtigsten Aktivitäten unserer Organisation und in deren Vollbringung liegt die Genugtung, die Größe, die Macht, und die Stärke unserer internationalen Union.

The work of organising the cigar makers of this city, which has been going steadily on for the past two years with a considerable degree of success, has been temporarily hampered within the last few weeks by a bunch of erratic ingrates, who have staged a farce comedy, of trying to start a duel organization, and are loud in their acclamations, "that the International Union doesn't do anything for its members." The greater number of those that are engaged in the amusement stunt of "sabotage"; or in other words, trying to grease the rails so that the Cigar Makers' International Union might be hurled into the ditch, and thereby allow free scope to enthrone the rule-or-ruin bunch, that now style themselves as the Cigar Makers' Council, the unseasoned timber in our labor movement, that has joined with us very recently, and many of them have not taken the trouble to affiliate with our union and knew nothing of its laws, or its beneficent protection to the workers. A few of them, however, have been in the union long enough to know how futile it is to try to lead a secession movement, but they have taken a wild plunge, and have decided to teach us how easy it is to make rapid progress in building up a hand made organization designed by a few.

The loyal members of our International Union in New York have no fear that this rule-or-ruin bunch will get very far in their attempt to disrupt, nor are they alarmed to any great extent about a split in our union, for every sane person knows that the quietus will be put to this uprising in short order. But for the time being it has caused a great upheaval in the industry here, and has toppled over the equilibrium of business by driving out of the city of New York at the least calculation ten million cigars, that were at the disposal of the manufacturers here in Government orders, but had to be cancelled as the numerous strikes made it impossible to turn out the goods, with the result that the business has been driven out of this city, and in to the trust factories or cheap districts of the country. The cigar makers to some considerable number are walking the streets, all because a few false prophets are misleading and deceiving them.

This group of reformers seems to have gone daffy with imaginary power, and are trying to force certain absurd laws on to the bosses. Then notice is given that if the firm does not consent to a "Council shop," and its laws, the stuff is off, and out they march on strike.

We regret the foolhardy action very much, for the people that they are pulling out need the work, but the manufacturers will not recognize them as a body, and have decided in almost every case to cast their lots with the International Union, and continue to run an organized shop. They are waking up to the fact that labor is entitled to fair treatment, and that the increasing cost of living must be met by an increase of wages, that labor has the right to protect itself by organization, but in return, must be responsible for the fulfillment of their agreements, by living up to their constitutional laws.

Respectfully,

R. S. SEXTON,
General Organizer.

"Report of War Labor Conference Board.

"Washington, D. C., March 29, 1918.

"Honorable William B. Wilson,

"Secretary of Labor.

"Sir: The commission of representatives of employers and workers, selected in accord with the suggestion of your letter of January 23, 1918, to aid in the formulation, in the present emergency, of a National labor program, present to you, as a result of their conferences, the following:

"(a) That there be created, for the period of the war, a National War Labor Board of the same number and to be selected in the same manner and by the same agencies as the commission making this recommendation.

"(b) That the functions and powers of the National Board shall be as follows:

"1. To bring about a settlement, by mediation and conciliation of every controversy arising between employers and workers in the field of production necessary for the effective conduct of the war.

"2. To do the same thing in similar controversies in other fields of national activity, delays and obstructions in which may, in the opinion of the National Board, affect detrimentally such production.

"3. To provide such machinery by direct appointment, or otherwise, for selection of committees or Boards to sit in various parts of the country where controversies arise, to secure settlement by local mediation and conciliation.

"4. To summon the parties to the controversy for hearing and action by the National Board in case of failure to secure settlement by local mediation and conciliation.

"(c) If the sincere and determined effort of the National Board shall fail to bring about a voluntary settlement, and the members of the Board shall be unable unanimously to agree upon a decision, then and in that case and only as a last resort, an umpire appointed in the manner provided in the next paragraph shall hear and finally decide the controversy under simple rules of procedure prescribed by the National Board.

"(d) The members of the National Board shall choose the umpire by unanimous vote. Failing such choice, the name of the umpire shall be drawn by lot from a list of ten suitable and disinterested persons to be nominated for the purpose by the President of the United States.

"(e) The National Board shall hold its regular meetings in the city of Washington with power to meet at any other place convenient for the Board and the occasion.

"(f) The National Board may alter its methods and practice in settlement of controversies hereunder, from time to time as experience may suggest.

"(g) The National Board shall refuse to take cognizance of a controversy between employer and workers in any field of industrial or other activity where there is by agreement or Federal law a means of settlement which has not been invoked.

"(h) The place of each member of the National Board unavoidably detained from attending one or more of its sessions may be filled by a substitute to be named by such member as his regular substitute. The substitute shall have the same representative character as his principal.

"(i) The National Board shall have power to appoint a secretary, and to create such other clerical organization under it as may be in its judgment necessary for the discharge of its duties.

"(j) The National Board may apply to the Secretary of Labor for authority to use the machinery of the Department in its work of conciliation and mediation.

"(k) The action of the National Board may be invoked in respect to controversies within its jurisdiction, by the secretary of labor or by either side in a controversy or its duly authorized representative. The Board, after summary consideration, may refuse further hearing if the case is not of such character or importance to justify it.

"(l) In the appointment of committees of its own members to act for the Board in general or local matters, and in the creation of local committees, the employers and the workers shall be equally represented.

"(m) The representatives of the public in the Board shall preside alternately at successive sessions of the Board or as agreed upon.

"(n) The Board in its mediating and conciliatory action, and the umpire in his consideration of a controversy, shall be governed by the following principles:

"Principles and Policies to Govern Relations Between Workers and Employers in War Industries for the Duration of the War.

"There Should Be No Strikes or Lockouts During the War.

"Right to Organize.

"1. The right of workers to organize in trade unions and to bargain collectively, through chosen representatives, is recognized and affirmed. This right shall not be denied, abridged or interfered with by the employers in any manner whatsoever.

"2. The right of employers to organize in associations of groups and to bargain collectively, through chosen representatives, is recognized and affirmed. This right shall not be denied, abridged or interfered with by the workers in any manner whatsoever.

"3. Employers should not discharge workers for membership in trade unions, nor for legitimate trade union activities.

"4. The workers, in the exercise of their right to organize, shall not use coercive measures of any kind to induce persons to join their organizations, nor to induce employers to bargain or deal therewith.

"Existing Conditions.

"1. In establishments where the union shop exists the same shall continue and the union standards as to wages, hours of labor and other conditions of employment shall be maintained.

"2. In establishments where union and non-union men and women now work together, and the employer meets only with employees or representatives engaged in said establishments, the continuance of such condition shall not be deemed a grievance. This declaration, however, is not intended in any manner to deny the right, or discourage the practice of the formation of labor unions, or the joining of the same by the workers in said establishments, as guaranteed in the last paragraph, nor to prevent the War Labor Board from urging, or any umpire from granting, under the machinery herein provided, improvement of their situation in the matter of wages, hours of labor, or other conditions, as shall be found desirable from time to time.

"3. Established safeguards and regulations for the protection of the health and safety of workers shall not be relaxed.

"Women in Industry.

"If it shall become necessary to employ women on work ordinarily performed by men, they must be allowed equal pay for equal work and must not be allotted tasks disproportionate to their strength.

"Hours of Labor.

"The basic eight-hour day is recognized as applying in all cases in which existing law requires it. In all other cases the question of hours of labor shall be settled with due regard to governmental necessities and the welfare, health and proper comfort of the workers.

"Maximum Production.

"The maximum production of all war industries should be maintained and methods of work and operation on the part of employers or workers which operate to delay or limit production, or which have a tendency to artificially increase the cost thereof, should be discouraged.

"Mobilization of Labor.

"For the purpose of mobilizing the labor supply with a view to its rapid and effective distribution, a permanent list of the number of skilled and other workers available in different parts of the nation shall be kept on file by the Department of Labor, the information to be constantly furnished.

- "1. By the trade unions;
- "2. By state employment bureaus and federal agencies of like character;
- "3. By the managers and operators of industrial establishments throughout the country.

"These agencies should be given opportunity to aid in the distribution of labor, as necessity demands.

"Custom of Localities.

"In fixing wages, hours and conditions of labor regard should always be had to the labor standards, wage scales, and other conditions, prevailing in the localities affected.

"The Living Wage.

"1. The right of all workers, including common laborers, to a living wage is hereby declared.

HOW GERMANY ENSLAVES BEL- GIAN WORKMEN.

Forces them to dig trenches, construct military aviation grounds, make roads and fortify the German lines.

Beats, starves, and sometimes even kills those who refuse.

Carries them off to Germany by tens of thousands and forces them to work in mines, quarries and lime kilns for a "wage" of 7 cents a day, at the same time supplying them with insufficient food.

Works them until they can no longer stand and then sends them back, if they still live, starved, sick and emaciated, to die in their own land.

HUMAN SLAVERY REVIVED BY GERMAN CONQUERORS.

By Matthew Woll,
President of the International Labor Press Association.

"In the name of the International Solidarity of Workmen the working classes of Belgium, menaced by slavery, deportations and forced to labor for the enemy, now address their supreme appeal for energetic and efficacious assistance to the working classes of the world."

Slavery, deportation and forced labor for the enemy!

This is what the Germans are forcing on the skilled and unskilled workmen and working-women of Belgium and other conquered lands. The masters are the merciless German officers who have forced the workmen of their own land into the trenches and have dragged into the mines and factories the unwilling workers of conquered nations to fill their places.

Slavery, such as this country fought through a terrible four-years' war to abolish, was kind as compared to the slavery into which the Germans have forced the workmen of Poland, Serbia and Belgium. In the old days the slave, at least, had a value of dollars and cents. If he died the owner suffered a money loss. The slave was well fed, as a rule, and well cared for, because the owner did not want him to die, if for no other reason.

But no such motive—even though it may be purely selfish—actuates the German slave driver. As long as the supply of small nations which may be overrun holds out he does not care if the enslaved workers die. All he needs to do is to send his army out and round up more. As a result the slaves of the new German lust of conquest—white men, educated men, sometimes even organized men like ourselves—are beaten, starved and often brutally killed.

The masters suffer no loss when the slaves die. In fact they rather prefer the slaves to die, after a certain time, because the war will come to an end some day and if the skilled workmen of other nations are dead, then those of the German workmen who survive the war will have just that much less competition.

Fragmentary details of the barbarous treatment of the conquered populations of Poland, Serbia and the Russian provinces which have been overrun by the Germans have come to light, but it is from Belgium, where the organized workmen have issued an appeal—an appeal just as formal and just as authoritative as one from the American Federation of Labor—to the workmen of other nations, that the best and clearest description of German ruthlessness toward the workers comes.

The appeal begins with the impassioned sentence quoted at the beginning of this article. Then follows a detailed recital of how Germany imposed enormous levies on the conquered Belgian provinces and cities, and forced 500,000 Belgian workers into idleness because she refused to keep her agreement to allow England to supply raw materials on condition that the products be not seized by the conquerors. The Germans next seized on the pretext that these workers were idle because they would not work as a reason for deporting them into Germany.

"They say to the 500,000 involuntary idlers," the appeal continues, "whom they themselves have forced into that position and kept there: 'Either you must sign a contract for work in Germany, or you will be taken as slaves.'

"In either case it is exile, deportation, forced labor in the enemy's interest and against their own country; terrible punishments—the cruellest that have ever been inflicted to punish crime—are carried out. And what are these crimes?

"Involuntary idleness which the tyrant has himself forced and maintained.

"The Germans seize our workmen by force, your brothers and ours; they arrest them by thousands every day; they tear them away from their wives and their children; surrounded by bayonets they drag them to the cattle trucks, and in these they take them away to the front and to Germany.

"On the western front they force them, by the most brutal means, to dig trenches, construct military aviation grounds, make strategic roads and fortify German lines. And when their victims, in spite of all, refuse to work on these defenses, according to their rights laid down in international law, they starve them, they ill treat them, they beat them, they cause them to contract illness, they wound them, sometimes even they kill them.

"In Germany they are taken forcibly to the mines, quarries and limekilns, whatever their age, profession or trade may be. They are deported, pell-mell, young men of 17 and old men of 60 or more. Is not this ancient slavery in all its horror?

"There are already (i. e., in 1916) more than fifty thousand workmen, whether out of work or not, who have been deported as convicts or slaves. Every day they make a clean sweep of a fresh district; formidable weapons are set up—machine guns—and innumerable soldiers are called out, and all these military measures are taken against these poor, unarmed people who are terrorized, though conscious of their violated rights."

Since this appeal was first issued the deportations, according to press dispatches, have continued regularly, and have even extended to the women, who have been carried away by thousands. The younger and prettier the women are, according to these reports, the more in demand they are. You, as intelligent men, may draw your own conclusions.

Can any American workman believe that Germany, if it had the opportunity, would not treat them just as it has treated Belgian workmen? Can American workmen talk of making peace with a nation which so treats its own working classes and the workers of conquered lands? Do we not all realize that this war must be fought out to a finish, and that the finish will only be when the military minority in Germany shall be deprived of the power to plunge a world into war and enslave millions of workingmen?

REPORT OF INTERNATIONAL FINANCIER

Bakersfield, Cal., Feb. 5, 1918.

Since last report have examined the accounts of the following unions, viz.:

Union 60, Keokuk, Iowa.

The books and accounts here are in fine condition. Cash and stamp accounts correct. Benefit cards and vouchers nicely filed. Ledger correctly indexed and posted. The accounts balanced at the end of each month in the day book. Statement as follows:

Union 225, Los Angeles, Cal.

Just now the accounts here are in possibly the best condition I ever found them in. All benefit cards, original bills and endorsed vouchers on file. Ex-Sec'y Geo. Howe introduced a system for carrying the bank balance, filing original bills, especially for death benefit, that materially assist in keeping the accounts correct. It has been a long time since this union was without a deficiency, until just now. It looks better. Statement as follows:

Financier's balance for Jan. 1, 1915$ 252.90
Receipts to Jan. 1, 1918 19,167.36

Union 325, Creston, Iowa.

Had this local attended to business and forced the collection of the amount embezzled by Ex-Sec'y L. C. Wareham the books and accounts would have been in very nice condition at this time. Before leaving Creston, I presume, arrangements were made to have this amount deposited in bank. It could and should have been collected long ago. No reasonable excuse for the delay. Most likely the accounts here will receive the attention necessary in the future. Seems like they have had all the lesson necessary. Statement as follows:

Shows cash surplus March 1, 1918....$ 3.00

This surplus will not cover deficiency that is caused by expending over percentage during year 1917, which is not included in this statement but will show in the annual financial report to be published in the coming April, 1918, issue of the Journal.

Union 211, Victoria, B. C.

Section 177 was particularly called to the attention of this local. Vouchers had been omitted since Oct. 1, 1917. Am promised they will receive the necessary attention in the future. So far as figures are concerned the accounts are certainly correct here. Ledger nicely indexed and posted. Included surplus stamps in amount on hand for March 1, 1918. The deficiency is the amount, $41.09, expended over percentage in 1914 and 1915, less the surplus 3c at date of previous examination. Statement as follows:

Int'l balance for Nov. 1, 1914.....$ 206.23
 Receipts to March 1, 1918 1,855.45
 Expended over percentage in 1914 and 1915 41.09

Union 312, Livingston, Mont.

The books and accounts here are in first class condition. Cash and stamp accounts correct. Benefit cards and vouchers on file. Ledger nicely indexed and posted. At date of examination all funds of the Union were in bank. This statement does not include the amount expended over percentage during year 1917. Statement as follows:

Int'l balance for Oct. 1, 1914.....	$ 295.37
Receipts to March 1, 1918	1,946.52
Expended over percentage, 1914, 1915 and 1916	156.41

Union 315, St. Cloud, Minn.

The books and accounts here are in nice condition. Cash and stamp accounts, now correct. Benefit cards and vouchers for expense on file. Ledger posted to show members standing complete. Statement as follows:

Int'l balance for Nov. 1, 1912	$ 481.29
Receipts to April 1, 1918	4,830.95
Expended over percentage in 1913, 1914 and 1916	74.71
Due to Int'l Union on examination ...	1.20
Total	$5,388.15

Bank	$63.16
In possession Sec'y Frank Hankes	32.83
Total	$ 95.99
Deficiency of Union April 1, 1917.....	$ 27.32

Your attention is especially called to Section 177. This is your official notice. The $1.20 due to Int'l Union on examination is due from Ex-Sec'y Carl F. Dahl, and is on account errors in 20c dues and Int'l Assts. reported collected. Mr. Dahl should return this $1.20 to this Union at once.

Union 325, Spokane, Wash.

Reports from Nov., 1914, to Nov., 1916, are missing. Also a number of sick and O. O. W. Benefit Cards. Part of these missing reports were made up by the present secretary. No excuse possible for such don't care sort of neglect. They were also notified that when members paying 20c dues owed over 10 weeks they suspend themselves—no exceptions. Also that Section 177 must be complied with commencing immediately. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand for Nov. 1, 1914.....	$ 667.88
Receipts to March 1, 1918	3,453.40
Expended over percentage during 1915 and 1916	63.30
Total	$4,184.58

Funds of Union—
March 1, 1918, in Old Nat'l Bank.....	$353.47
In possession Sec'y Chas. Zench	26.49
Total	379.96

Deficiency of Union March 1, 1918 ... $ 63.30 is the amounts expended over percentage in years 1915 and 1916. This is why their attention is called to Section 177, and for immediate action. The missing reports must be found—also the benefit cards. Excuse for such neglect can hardly be made.

Union 331, Crookston, Minn.

The books and accounts here are now in better condition than usual. Cash and stamp accounts correct. Benefit cards and vouchers in nice condition. Ledger correctly indexed and posted. Accounts balanced at the end of each month in day book. Statement as follows:

This deficiency is the amount expended over percentage during year 1908. Section 177 has not been complied with. Am promised that it will be, commencing at once.

Union 357, Vancouver, B. C.

The accounts here are, just now, in the best condition I ever found them in at Vancouver. Cash and stamp accounts correct. Benefit cards and vouchers for expense on file. This is one Union where the Finance Committee at least at the present time attend to their duty—a big help to the secretary. Statement as follows:

Int'l balance for Nov. 1, 1914	$ 68.58
Receipts to March 1, 1918	4,970.71
Expended over percentage in 1914, 1915 and 1916	188.70

Stenographers and Typewriters Wanted—
Men and Women.

The United States Government is in urgent need of thousands of typewriter operators and stenographers and typewriters. All who pass examinations for the departments and offices at Washington, D. C., are assured of certification for appointment. Women especially are urged to undertake this office work. Those who have not the required training are encouraged to undergo instruction at once.

Examinations for the Departmental Service, for both men and women, are held every Tuesday, in 450 of the principal cities of the United States, and applications may be filed with the Commission at Washington, D. C., at any time. The entrance salary ranges from $1,000 to $1,200 a year. Advancement of capable employees to higher salaries is reasonably rapid.

Applicants must have reached their eighteenth birthday on the date of the examination. For full information in regard to the scope and character of the examination and for application blanks address the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., or the Secretary of the U. S. Civil Service Board of Examiners at Boston, Mass.; New York, N. Y.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Atlanta, Ga.; Cincinnati, Ohio; Chicago, Ill.; St. Paul, Minn.; St. Louis, Mo.; New Orleans, La.; Seattle, Wash.; San Francisco, Cal.; Honolulu, Hawaii, or San Juan, Porto Rico.

SPECIAL.

Some unions or secretaries persist in paying sick benefits to members confined in insane asylums, claiming that they did not know it was against the law. Section 134 distinctly and plain-ly states "No sick nor out of work benefit shall be paid to members ad-judged insane." This, for convenience sake, is again repeated in Section 144g of the Constitution. All amounts so paid are illegal and cannot be recog-nized as legitimate expenditures, and are charged up against the local unions. No dues shall be collected from an in-sane member.

To Jurisdiction Members:—Several secretaries have asked me to call atten-tion more prominently through the col-umns of the Official Journal to the International assessments levied.

NOTICE TO LOCAL UNIONS.

Always refer to your Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 30c to the 20c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards in possession of the Union should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of changes in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address, if possible, so as to obviate delays, mistakes, etc.

Members who while at work refuse or fail to pay per cent on loans suspend themselves with-out any action by the secretary.

In several instances where cards had been stolen from members it was found that some secretaries, generally very careful, had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see due books showing them in good standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book and the card and due book are in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privileges in dues unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secre-taries should send in with such report the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary in-formation thereon for future reference.

Also, as per Section 149, give full record of membership as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file, so state, giving a synopsis of same. In order that you may fully understand the necessity of complying with the request, carefully study Section 144c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal wills" do not comply with the requirements of the Con-stitution.

Secretaries may use the number of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

Section 144c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the per-son or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there be no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member;

If there be no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member; and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death, were dependent for support in whole or in part.

The International Union cannot under the law authorize the payment of any death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefit rests entirely with such members.

No claim for death benefit can be sanctioned or authorized unless it be in strict compliance with Section 144c of the Constitution.

In order to avoid confusion when a Class A member changes from 15-cent dues to 30-cent dues, secretaries under the law are to give such members one-half time on length of membership, and write the following in ink in the due book: "Changed from Class A to 30-cent dues paying class. Time on full benefits commences (computed on basis of one-half time)." Should such a member desire to travel he should be given a new due book and traveling card, both of which should give the date of initiation computed on the above mentioned basis, and the words "Changed from Class A" written on both due book and traveling card. Whenever a Class A 15-cent member changes to a 30-cent membership secretaries should always so state on their monthly reports, and record the transaction on their books.

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

In compliance with Section 184 of the Constitution, the International Executive Board levied an assessment, to replenish the General Fund, of $1.00 on each 30-cent, 20-cent, 15-cent member, payable in four weekly installments of 25 cents each. Class A members to pay only two 25 cent installments. The assessment commences April 8, 1918, and is payable in eight weeks, or sixteen weeks if the member is out of work. Members taking traveling cards after April 8, 1918, have to pay the full assessment. Members who join after April 8, 1918, do not have to pay the assessment.

NOTE—The assessment must be paid within 8 weeks and can be paid by installments or in full any time within 8 weeks, except members unemployed; 20c members are not allowed the unemployment privilege.

Note.—All war retiring cards issued should be given direct to the members, or disposed of in compliance with the member's instructions.

BUREAU OF INFORMATION

William Vanderbest is requested to communicate with Wm. Steinkamp, Warren, Pa.

Chas. R. J. Davidson, your mother would like to hear from you. Also news of importance for you. Address John A. Davidson, 6 Folsom avenue, Glendale, N. Y.

E. G. Bender, 153 Broadway, Paterson, N. J., would like to hear from Robert Cullen.

Mr. Clement Meteye (72849), 2914 21st avenue, Ybor City, Fla., desires to hear from his nephew, Emile Hendesson. Important.

John Kammerer and A. Harrer appealed against 25, Milwaukee, for levying an assessment in aid of an unauthorized strike, and compelling members to pay same weekly instead of giving them the eight weeks' constitutional allowance. The union replied that it did levy an assessment for an unauthorized strike but that the union subsequently made application to have the strike sustained and it was sustained by popular vote. The decision is that the assessment, when levied and at a time before the strike had been sanctioned either by the local or International Union, was illegal, and became operative only after the strike was legally sustained by a vote of the members of the International Union. The union replied that the members were given eight weeks in which to pay the assessment. That part of the appeal was not sustained.

L. Fales appealed against Union 462, Tampa, for finding him guilty of the charge of trying to reduce the bill of prices, and voting to forever debar him from holding office in Union 462. Mr. Fales claims he was simply acting in good faith for the members of the shop and that when the bill of prices was raised no raise was asked for or given on the job in question. The evidence indicates that both Mr. Fales and his accuser have been a little bit turbid in the language and methods employed, and both are censurable for violation of a true fraternal spirit. As there seems to be no wilful attempt on the part of Mr. Fales to reduce the price, and because of the severity of the sentence, the appeal is sustained.

John Goble appealed against 278, London, for fining him 50 cents for failing to perform his duty as a member of the visiting-the-sick committee. The appeal was sustained.

M. Kopp appealed against 144, New York, for suspending him for nonpayment of dues. The appeal was not sustained.

Henry Monty appealed against 239, Lyons, for refusing his claim for sick benefit. The union replied the member was over the limit in dues. The appeal was not sustained.

H. E. Meyers appealed against 242 York for compelling him to take a retiring card. The union replied he was engaged in another occupation. The appeal was not sustained.

Union 220, New Orleans, appealed against 53, New Orleans, for alleged refusal to meet in joint meeting. Union 53 replied that the meeting was called for the 16th of the month and that they only received notice on the morning of the 15th, when it was too late for them to notify their members. The appeal was not sustained.

G. W. Moehle appealed against 146, New Brunswick for fining him 50 cents for failing to attend a meeting for the election of officers. The appeal was not sustained.

Union 299, Middletown, Conn., fined John A. Wessler (60594) $6.50 for leaving town without paying his board bill.

Local No. 172, of Davenport, fined the following members ten dollars ($10) each for quitting a union job and taking a job in a non-union shop: Peter Dressen (31589), Helen Dressen (31590), Harriett Ruhser (33896), Sam Falvus (102286).

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

The amendment of Union 450, Enid, as published in the February Journal, providing for the payment of $350.00 to a 20c member who has been a contributing member for 25 consecutive years—

Received the endorsement of 274, Pekin; 220, New Orleans; 229, Binghamton, and 122, Warren.

Not having received the required number of endorsements it cannot be submitted to popular vote.

The amendment of Union 90, New York, N. Y., as published in the February Journal, providing for the calling of strikes before approval by International authorities—

Received the endorsement of 150, Sioux City; 120, Muscatine; 402, Quakertown; 274, Pekin; 15, Chicago; 25, Milwaukee; 383, Chicago, and 34, Chippewa Falls.

Not having received the required number of endorsements cannot be submitted to popular vote.

The amendment of 24, Muskegon, as published in the March issue, as follows:

Strike out Section 56 and insert the following section to read—"During the period of the present war, whenever in the opinion of the President, the interests of the International Union would be involved the President shall appoint an organizer (subject to the confirmation of the International Executive Board) for the time necessary to conduct the business that may come before him.

"The organizer shall be empowered to appoint (subject to confirmation by the International Executive Board) sub-organizers, to be under his immediate control and direction. Said sub-organizers to work at trade whenever practicable, the amount of money so earned to be deducted from stipulated salary. Local unions shall be permitted to name the sub-organizers."

Received the endorsement of 242, York; 310, Manistee; 35, Dayton; 37, Fort Wayne; 25, Milwaukee; 20, Decatur; 118, Peoria; 61, La Crosse; 205, Battle Creek; 245, Ashland; 69, Three Rivers; 197, Warsaw; 150, Sioux City.

The amendment of Union 5, Rochester, as published in the March issue, as follows:

Amend Section 104 by striking out the words "nor the aggregate exceed $20.00," and substitute the following: "Nor shall the loans on a less than two years' membership exceed $10.00. Nor the aggregate after two years exceed $20.00." All sections in conflict to be changed accordingly.

Received the endorsement of 150, Sioux City; 197, Warsaw; 69, Three Rivers; 9, Troy.

The amendment of Union 4, Cincinnati, as published in the March issue, as follows:

Amend Section 134, on line 7, to read: "Such sickness or inability shall have continued for at least two weeks, or fourteen days."

Received the endorsement of 197, Warsaw; 172, Davenport.

McSherrystown, Pa., March 19, 1918.

Union No. 316 desires to submit the following amendment to the constitution:

Amend section 154 by striking out "$8.00" on line 21 and insert "$9.00." Also strike out "$7.00" on line 22 and insert "$8.00." Section to read: "But in no case shall the union label be used in a factory in the United States which pays less than $9.00 per thousand for making or less than $1.00 for packing per thousand, and in Canada which pays less than $8.00 per thousand for mold work—5 molds of 20 bunches."

Union 253, Oakland, proposes the following amendment, new section to be known as Endowment Plan:

Section 224.

It shall be optional for 20c and 30c due paying members, who have been such for at least 15 years continuously and who are in good standing; being under no charges to the International Union, to cancel their Death Benefit. By receiving a cash settlement therefore, on the basis of their terms of membership and on the following percentage, provided, however, that all indebtedness, local and international, be paid in full.

Section 225.

A member who has been such for 15 years shall receive 20 per cent with 1 per cent additional for each year of membership up to 21 years, and 1 1/4 per cent additional for each year of membership up to 31 years of membership and 3 per cent additional for each year up to 36 years of membership. No more than this percentage shall be paid regardless of the additional terms of membership.

Section 226.

The foregoing percentage shall be paid, in addition to the $50.00 funeral or cremation expenses withheld in Section 143.

Section 227.

Any member desiring to avail himself or herself of the privilege of Section 225, shall sign suitable application and release blanks in duplicate provided by the Int'l President for that purpose. One copy to be held by the local union and the other one to be forwarded to the Int'l President.

Section 228.

The Int'l President shall order payments to applicants in the order in which they are filed at this office. The money for such payments shall be taken out of the general fund and should such fund become depleted, it shall be replenished as provided by Section 184.

Section 229.

Any member surrendering his or her Death Benefit as per Section 224 will never again be entitled to any Death Benefit, except the $50.00 withheld as provided by Section 143.

Section 230.

Nothing in the foregoing sections shall interfere in any manner with the operation of Sections 144 and 145.

Section 231.

The Int'l President shall publish monthly in the Official Journal the numbers and names of members canceling the Death Benefit as per Section 229.

Section 232.

This Endowment Plan shall take effect the first Monday in the month succeeding the adoption of this amendment by referendum vote.

A Translation From Union 350, Manati, P. R.

Union 350, Manati, P. R., offers the following amendment to Section 144 of the International Constitution:

Section 144 of the International Constitution should be amended to read as follows:

"Including the fifty dollars ($50) funeral or cremation expenses there shall be paid upon the death of a member the following sums, viz.: If the decedent shall have been such member continuously for five (5) years or longer period less than ten (10) years next preceding his death the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars ($150). If the decedent shall have been such member continuously for ten (10) years or longer period less than fifteen years (15) next preceding his death, the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250). If the decedent shall have been such member continuously for fifteen years (15) or longer period next preceding his death the sum of four hundred dollars ($400)."

Local 383, Chicago, submits the following amendment to the Constitution:

In Section 76 strike out the word "shall" placed after the words, year he, on seventh line, and place instead the word "must."

In Section 77 strike out the word "may" placed after the words, more members, on fourth line and place instead the word "must." Sections to read accordingly.

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

(An amendment takes effect the first of the month following the publication of notice of its adoption in the Official Journal.)

Amendments adopted since the June 15, 1917, edition of the constitution:

By 208, Kalamazoo, Mich.: To amend Section 154 by adding after the word "bunches," on line 23, "nor which pays less than $10.00 per thousand for hand work, less than four molds of 10 bunches each with press on table, or two 20-bunch molds in shaper press, to be considered hand work."

Take Note.—The amendment of 238, Sacramento, Calif., takes the place of the 132 Brooklyn amendment, and supersedes all other amendments reference war retiring cards and benefits. That amendment, published elsewhere in this journal, says: "This amendment shall govern all other sections which deal with benefits of such members who may be doing military duty or are beyond the boundary lines as defined in our constitution."

By 238, Sacramento, Calif.: War Retiring Card Amendment:

(a) That the President of the International Cigar Makers' Union cause to be printed a War Retiring Card, to read as follows:

(b) This is to certify that Mr. Card No. Initiated by When, has entered the service of (U. S. or Allies Army or Navy), and is entitled to all benefits as may be contained in the War Retiring Card Amendment.
Pres. C. M. I. U.
Signed—

....., Local Pres.
....., Fin. Sec.

(c) Any member who may by draft or voluntary enlistment enter the service of the United States Army or Navy or the service of the Army or Navy of any allied country, during this period of war, shall be entitled to a War Retiring Card, providing such member is in good standing at the time of his or her application for a War Retiring Card.

(d) Any member who is a holder of a War Retiring Card shall be exempt from all dues, fines and assessments, and upon his or her re-entrance in the actual making or packing of cigars shall be entitled to his or her original card from which he or she was transferred, with all benefits as entitled to from the date of initiation, except for such time as he or she was holding a War Retiring Card.

(e) Any member holding a War Retiring Card shall be entitled to his or her original card free of charge.

(f) All transfers shall be made at regular or executive board meetings.

(g) Applications for transfer to the War Retiring Card may be made in writing.

(h) All cards from which members transfer to the War Retiring Card shall be sent to the International President to be kept on file.

(i) It shall be the duty of the International President to have sufficient War Retiring Cards printed, which shall be distributed to all local unions.

(j) No benefits shall be paid to any member while holding a War Retiring Card.

(k) This amendment shall govern all other sections which deal with benefits of such members who may be doing military duty or are beyond the boundary lines as is defined by our constitution.

Will secretary holding card of R. J. Quinn (98506) please collect $7 due Union 129, Denver, Colo. He was last heard from in New York, N. Y.

We are taking this means to call to your attention the names of members of International Union owing private loans to Union No. 97. We ask you to collect same if possible. Any one in your local refusing to pay, kindly send names to our union, also if any names appearing on list known to be dead. Kindly let me know as we intend to clear our entire private loan list up, so to be in a position to help others. Send all information to Henry Abrahams, Secretary, 11 Appleton street, Boston, Mass.—John Arnold

UNION NOTES

Secretary of 96, Akron, Ohio, would like to hear from M. Kelleher (5155).

Union 220, New Orleans, acknowledges receipt of donation of $5 from 481, Bayamon, and 50c from 194, Cayey.

Union 85, Eau Claire would like to hear from Chas. Eastberg and J. J. Bach, and would like to know the whereabouts of B. C. Bascom.

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of E. E. Blont (119761), please notify Union 468, Albion, Mich., at once. After he was helped out of his trouble he jumped out. Union 468 holds his card.

Union 4, Cincinnati, notifies all members that no more cards will be accepted during the strike, and not until all difficulties have been settled.

Union 415, Elkhart, Ind., would like to hear from Fred Doxey (46101).

Union 368, Port Huron, Mich., would like to hear from E. Thomas (32658).

L. F. Geraghty (83408), having lost his traveling card, requests unions to whom he is indebted for private loans to notify Union 218, Binghamton, N. Y.

Traveling members are warned to stay from Terre Haute until further notice.

John Quinn (54951) is also notified to communicate with the Financial Secretary of Local 299, Middletown, Conn. There are certain amount of bills charged up to this local that must be attended to by John Quinn.

Notice to all traveling members: Local 299 of Middletown, Conn., will absolutely not recognize members without their traveling cards—due books don't count.

If George Mann (21377) is not heard from by our next regular meeting in regards to the $6 board bill that Local 299 of Middletown, Conn., went good for, he will be fined to the fullest extent. We trusted him on his due book. After working about two weeks he gets his pay and jumps out. Local 299 has always been willing to give a helping hand, but so many similar cases have occurred that we are compelled to put a stop to such characters that have no consideration for their fellow man. Again we want to repeat that in the future no member will be recognized unless he has his traveling card. This is also to notify the traveling members that no more loans will be granted at the home of the Financial Secretary. Secretary can be seen after working hours at 264 Main street.

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and, in addition, send in such cards, but place on your letter the information necessary, as the letter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 148 to 149, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted resolutions of respect and condolence relative to death or deaths as follows and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days:

NOTE.—The amounts to be replaced by local unions will be found in column of "Deficiency in Funds of Local Unions on January 1, 1918."

Deficiency in Funds of Local Unions on January 1, 1918.

Section 177 of the constitution reads as follows:

Sec. 177. Unions expending more than the percentage provided for in Sec. 175 must replace the same within ninety days after receiving official notice. Failing to do so they shall be suspended. But local unions having a deficiency in their funds on Jan. 1, 1918, shall make up the deficiency upon the following basis: 50 cents per member per quarter. Any union failing to comply with this provision shall be suspended.

The war has demonstrated beyond successful contradiction organized labor's contention that it is not only just and humane but absolutely necessary for successful economic growth and development to maintain the health, strength and increased longevity of the workers. There is no gainsaying our oft-repeated claim, too, that the best and only way to do this is through trade union effort. Shortening the hours of labor, increasing the wages and improving shop conditions has materially increased the health, conserved the strength and lengthened the life of the members of trade-unions.

We hold and declare that if trade-union activity, influence and protection had governed all wage earners there would not be the slightest impediment now in fully equipping all establishments necessary to the maintenance of military efficiency during this war. A number of health surveys in widely separated parts of the country have been made. Each of these shows that more than 2 per cent of the population are constantly away from work on account of sickness. Moreover, the physical examinations of drafted soldiers show that 30 per cent were not only physically incapable at the time of examination but that they could not be made into capable soldiers. This, mark you, relates to only those between 21 and 31 years of age. If 30 per cent of all such are physically unfit to be soldiers it is fair to presume that a considerable per cent of them are not capable of doing a fair day's work. In addition to this the labor turn-over in most of the essential industries amounts to practically as many as those who are employed on the average. We hold and declare that if the protection afforded by trade-unions and trade-union efforts had been in general use, and the means that labor has always contended for, to safeguard health and life, had been put into force, more than half of this 2 per cent who are now absent on account of sickness would have been eliminated; and what is of more importance—if trade-union regulations as to labor and wages in industries necessary to the maintenance of military efficiency were enforced, the turn-over would have been reduced to a negligible quantity.

These two conservation principles alone would have more than made up, and would now if put into force, more than make up for the number of soldiers now taken out of industry and for as many more as may be taken out in the next year. The total working force on October 10, 1917, was 31,350,000 males and 8,750,000 females, a total working population of 40,100,000. Five per cent of this is about 2,000,000 people, which is about the number we now have "over there" and in the cantonments over here. When we consider the number annually slaughtered through preventable accidents and the number sick from preventable diseases and the number unnecessarily idle through the labor turn-over, haphazard system, it would amount to at least 15 to 20 per cent. If this unnecessary waste could be saved, and it can be and should be, it would more than make up for those who have gone or will go to the "front," in which event there would be no labor shortage and no hindrance or let-up in the production of war necessities. Many public, well-informed men in this country as well as in others have said that no war can be won unless the men in the trenches are fully supported by the workers back home, and that in the final analysis as much depends upon the workers back home as upon those over there.

The McSherrystown amendment emphasizes the urgent necessity of a convention.

Minimum Scales. Six years have elapsed since we held the last convention; such an interval is long enough. The Mc-

Sherrystown amendment no doubt has a commendable object, but the means employed will not accomplish the object sought. The means which can and should be employed to properly and thoroughly organize our trade can better be discussed in a convention than through the columns of the Journal. However, suffice it to say that loading union manufacturers down with restrictions will serve no good purpose; it simply makes it all the harder to maintain union shops and all the easier for non-union shops to succeed.

Owing to the high price of tobacco we shall have sooner or later to consider the plan of permitting our manufacturers to work up the cuttings which are now valuable into what is known as little cigars, or "Between the Acts." This can be done without in any way injuring the earning capacity of those now making the regular five, ten and fifteen-cent cigars, and at the same time give the employer the opportunity to clean up his valuable stock. Such a plan would work to the interests of those working on regulation goods. They would not be compelled to "cut them" quite so close.

The attempt to make the union label carry the dead weight of maintaining wage scales should be debated in all its ramifications.

All of these important matters and many others can be best threshed out on the floor of a convention.

Through the exposure of one Charles Winfield, former business agent and general manager of Cigar Makers' Union 527 (Class A) Chicago, his consequent separation from the labor movement has been accomplished with neatness and dispatch. Winfield's connection with the cigar industry is of much more than passing interest.

He started in with a flourish of trumpets, loudly proclaiming he was going to revolutionize the form of organization in the cigar industry, and wound up a self-confessed, discredited stool pigeon of the employers, and a general, all-round informer, a spy upon his friends and associates, leading them into mischief for the purpose of exposing them and making profits for himself thereby.

Some time ago the officers and several members of Union 527, including Winfield, were arrested on the charge of boycotting a certain non-union manufacturer and also charged with smashing windows, defacing buildings, and other conduct detrimental to the interests of that manufacturer. The office of Union 527 was raided and in that raid the books and papers of Union 527 were seized, carried away, and placed in the State's Attorney's office, where they remained for a considerable time. Indictments were had, the case dragged on for some time, but was finally not prowd, that is, it was dismissed without trial.

When the books and papers of Union 527 were returned the officers of the union found in the returned property a thirty-eight page typewritten document purporting to be the statement of Charles Winfield and to have been made in the office of the State's Attorney before four witnesses, one of whom was a representative of the cigar manufacturer and another, a shorthand reporter. From this statement of Winfield it appears that he gave detailed information concerning the strike in the shop and detailed quite fully many alleged actions of the union, of the strike committee, and of himself, and that he also stated that he and the union had been hiring "strong-arm men," sluggers, etc., to assist in doing harm to the manufacturer.

The union preferred charges against Winfield and, after hearing and considering all of the testimony adduced, including this purported statement found in the State's Attorney's office, found him guilty of the charges, imposed upon him a fine of $10,000, and expelled him from the union. According to this statement by Winfield, and the other evidence adduced show that Winfield was a stool pigeon of the employers and that he sought the destruction not only of Union 527 but also of the International Union.

It is well in this case for the purpose of indicating Winfield's methods, to cite one instance in particular. As soon as the office of 527 was raided and the officers and members arrested the officers of the union instructed Business Agent Winfield to report to the International President the happenings and ask him for advice and assistance. Winfield never saw or tried to see the International President, but reported to the union in substance that he had seen the International President and that the International President said that it was no affair of the International Union and that he, the President, proposed to keep his nose out of the mess.

Such a message apparently coming from the International President, of course, brought about a strained condition between the local union and the International office, but no notice came of the cause of this condition until a few days ago and after Winfield had been exposed.

It will be recalled by those familiar with the happenings at this time, and perhaps by some others, that Mr. Winfield's name was signed to certain documents, with other names, in which the International President, Union 14, and some of its loyal and faithful officers were attacked.

Before the arrest the International President had heard and had become satisfied that Winfield was a stool pigeon for the employers, but no sufficient proof with which to expose him came to the President until after the discovery of the document above referred to. But time passed on, and the old saying—"the way of the transgressor is hard"—was again maintained and justice so far as the union is able to administer it overtook Mr. Winfield.

Through the columns of the Journal local unions have been repeatedly warned that detective agencies and employers' associations had hirelings and stool pigeons working in the ranks of the union, and have been cautioned to guard against that evil. The Benedict Arnold stunts are not confined to Class A nor to Union 527.

After the close of the war there will follow the inevitable reconstruction period; Reconstruction. constructive peace will take the place of maddening, destructive warfare. Some of the fruits of a victorious peace may be lost through a haphazard and planless reconstruction period. Reversing the old adage, "In time of peace prepare for war," we should in time of war prepare for peace. We hold and declare that grave danger exists and that great damage can be done unless a systematic plan of demobilization is perfected and ready to be legally put into force when the inevitable peace comes.

The St. Paul convention, A. F. of L., authorized and instructed the executive council to prepare a plan, or appoint a committee for that purpose, outlining a system that will safeguard and protect on the economic field not only the returning, victorious soldiers, but, generally speaking, the whole economic well-being of the workers.

Secretary McAdoo has called upon all local draft boards to acquaint drafted men with the provisions of the soldier-insurance law and to urge every drafted man to take out this insurance. The boards have been furnished with literature to aid them in this educational work.

The law affording insurance to our fighting forces has well been called the most just and humane provision ever made by a nation for its soldiers and sailors. The Government and the American people recognize the justice of affording this protection to the men who risk their lives for their country and to their families and dependents at home. It is only just to themselves and to their families and dependents that our fighting men avail themselves of this opportunity.

Every American enlisting should take out this insurance and carry with him into danger the heartening knowledge that whatever happens, himself and his dependents are protected by his Government.

We note with satisfaction that the great mass of the people of our country have confidence in our President, are united and stand determinedly back of our government in the present war situation; that a better understanding exists between labor and capital; that steps are being taken to checkmate the profiteers and to curb the soaring cost of living.

The Enemy at Home—The Social Hun.

This article isn't about spy activities or alien enemy outrages.

But, this is a story of an enemy taking, in many cases, a greater toll in men than all the German gas, guns, grenades and other products of "frightfulness" combined.

At the request of the War Department we are giving you this story. You must know the truth about this unseen enemy forever threatening our military forces and our civilian communities. You must as a loyal American citizen actively enlist in the fight. You as an individual are faced with the opportunity of a lifetime to get into a "big game," to play a big patriotic part by simply backing up your Government and standing for the clean things in your community—openly, frankly and avowedly for the good of your country and your home.

The name of this invisible enemy is Venereal Disease—the epitome of all that is unclean, malignant and menacing.

A shocking thing that can defeat armies—the thing which unchecked can destroy the race has got to be discussed now.

Here are a few of the facts in corroboration of the foregoing statements. Remember what you read. It is vitally necessary to your future and that of your country that you know these things.

During the first year and a half of the war one country had more men incapacitated from venereal disease than from all other causes put together.

Prostitution is the cause of nearly all venereal infection.

Prostitution does not exist in the army today, but it does exist in civil communities.

Gonorrhea and syphilis are "camp followers" where prostitution is permitted.

A soldier with a venereal infection is not only disabled as a fighter but is extremely dangerous to his comrades.

It costs the Government hundreds of dollars to make a soldier of a man—this is wasted if the soldier becomes disabled from venereal disease.

By far the largest percentage of venereal disease in the army is brought in by the men leaving civil life.

To safeguard the soldier and the soldier-to-be, all communities must be freed from sources of venereal disease.

Uncle Sam, knowing all this at the outset and having the terrible experiences of the European countries before him, decided to fight the thing from the very start. It meant doing a thing never before attempted by any country. It meant that the leading nation of the world on whom all eyes were turned was to deliver the first great open blow against an age-old curse.

How to do it was the next problem.

It was definitely shown that by far the greatest percentage of venereal infection was brought into the camps by men coming directly from civil life. This fact proved conclusively that the real fight would have to be conducted by civilians in their own communities with the aid and suggestions of the National Government.

To facilitate this matter the Division of Social Hygiene was formed under the War Department Commission on Training Camp Activities. Motion pictures, literature for general distribution, lectures and other media for spreading a complete knowledge are being provided.

Now, how can you help?

Do you want literature, produced under Government supervision, for distribution to your friends?

Do you want to co-operate in making your home town the safe place it should be for your family and the soldiers who visit it or who come from it?

Do you want to get into a really big fight against the Huns of the disease world?

Don't make a mistake—it's a man's size job.

To signify your desire to fight with Uncle Sam right here at home and to go on record as a broad gauge, patriotic individual, write to the War Department Commission on Training Camp Activities, Social Hygiene Division, 105 West 40th Street, New York, N. Y.

Ask them for information. Tell them what you can do. Offer your help. Write fully. They'll supply you with real ammunition.

Secessionists Must Be Ruthlessly Stamped Out.

By Samuel Gompers.

Recently a course of action was inaugurated by some of the coal miners of Colorado which calls for special consideration at this time. Some differences arose among the union miners which were carried to the general officers of the United Mine Workers of America. It is not necessary or interesting to discuss the causes of the differences. The fact is that the officers of the International union were unable to adjust them in accordance with the views taken by one faction. Whether there was just cause for complaint is immaterial to the point to which we address ourselves, but this fact is emphasized—that instead of continually endeavoring to win judgment and action to the view of the dissatisfied element they undertook to break away from the United Mine Workers of America and form a dual, rival and antagonistic union of miners. They then made application to the American Federation of Labor for charter. When the application was received, the president of the A. F. of L., in refusing to issue the charter, stated to the applicants:

In reply, permit me to call your attention to the fact that under the laws of the A. F. of L., no charter can be granted to an organization of workers who come under the jurisdiction of an existing organization except with the full consent and approval of that organization.

Of course, I have some understanding of the situation as it exists and some of the reasons assigned for the action in the effort to establish an independent or dual organization, but the trade unionism recognized by the A. F. of L., the trade unionism for which we have all fought all these years, is that there shall be unity and solidarity in spirit and in fact among the workers of a given trade, industry or calling, and I would rather fight within the ranks of my union for a cause in which I believed and be defeated my whole life than to attempt to form and foster a dual and rival union to an organization particularly as the United Mine Workers has done so much for the workers in that industry. Of course, under the laws and the policies and principles of the A. F. of L. a charter such as the one for which you apply can not be granted. I therefore transmitted copy of your letter, together with carbon copy of my reply thereto, to President F. J. Hays, United Mine Workers of America.

Such is the position of the bona fide organized labor movement of America. It is the result of the experience and judgment of the whole course of organized labor. It is the only consistent course which can be pursued if the best interests of the toiling masses of our country can be protected and advanced.

It may not be amiss to call attention to the fact that it is just about twenty years ago when the coal miners of America began to emerge from a condition worse than slavery and serfdom. The tremendous struggle in the bituminous fields—in the anthracite coal regions—the sacrifices which were made—the burdens which were borne to bring light into the life and the work of the miners of America. Without attempting here to recount the struggles, the sacrifices and the achievements, suffice it to know that now the miners in the United Mine Workers of America, under the banner of the A. F. of L., stand erect in full possession of high standards of life and work and take their stand shoulder to shoulder in the front ranks of the workers of America.

It is a transformation that beggars words to describe. It is one of the achievements almost unparalleled in the history of industry of this or of any other country of the world. Who can forget the slaughter of Latimer—who fails to remember the murderous warfare at Ludlow? Who is it that would return to conditions to which only this mere reference can be made?

The mine workers of Colorado were on the upward trend, both in organization, influence, power and importance and their material conditions, hours of labor, life and work.

And now, for some reason wholly inconsistent with that constructive course, by inaugurating a policy of rebellion, secession and rivalry, are the achievements of the past twenty years to be thrown back and into the scrapheap by the attempted organization and recognition of the dual, rival and hostile organization of miners? For, be it remembered, that if the Colorado dissidents are to be granted a charter or recognition of any kind by the organized labor movement, national, state or local, the successes of the dissidents in establishing their organization would mean the destruction of the United Mine Workers of America. Such a movement must not and will not succeed. What is described in the foregoing paragraphs is true at this present hour among several industries.

Recently, in Chicago, a rebellious secession movement was about to be launched in the Cigarmakers' International Union of America. Agents were sent to New York who there undertook an agitation for division, secession and rivalry. At a meeting held by the dissident element in New York, a resolution was adopted demanding fourteen changes in the constitution of the International union and gave the International union officers fifteen days' time in which to reply and that unless the demands were granted, a new organization of cigarmakers would be organized. Recently the representatives of this Bolsheviki movement stated to the president and first vice president of the International union, that they knew that the demands could not be granted. Nevertheless they started the rival, hostile organization, conducting shop strikes, making the demands that these factories should not be regarded as International union shops.

These men are traitors to their fellow-workers and to the cause of labor, and be it said to the credit of the Central Federated Union of New York, that the secession movement was roundly denounced and a resolution adopted and fully carried into effect that neither recognition nor support be given to the secessionists, that they were regarded as giving aid and comfort to the enemy, not only to the enemy of labor but to the enemy of our country.

Information comes to us also that incipient attempts of the same character have been and are being made in small industries and some threaten in a few of the essential industries.

Reverting back to the action of the seceding miners of Colorado, we appeal to them, their conscience, their labor and international patriotism, to cease their efforts to divide the miners of America, or even of Colorado, to make their contentions, if they have any just cause, within the limits of the organization. If they refuse to follow the course of true trade unionists, then they are entitled to the scorn of every faithful, conscientious labor man of America. They should receive neither aid nor comfort from the organized workers of Colorado, of Denver, or of any other locality.

If ever in the history of labor unity, solidarity in action, in fact and in spirit, are necessary, now is the time.

Secession in the labor movement must be effectually crushed if the interests of the toilers of America are to be protected and advanced just as secession in our republic was overcome, for the good of the republic and the maintenance of our freedom and the ability to enter into any contest for their perpetuation.

By Samuel Gompers.

As it has become increasingly plain to all that our nation has entered upon a struggle that will test every resource, we have been studying how to concentrate our energies on essentials and avoid frittering them away upon the unnecessary. Different governmental agencies have endeavored to solve the problem—What are essential war industries? The problem is very closely akin to that which perplexes neutrals—What are munitions of war?

It is evident that no fixed lines of discrimination could be defined without injurious effects. A constructive method of achieving the same result is for each individual to so order his personal affairs and purchases as to set in action a compelling drift in the economic world toward only the necessities—the reaction will release manpower, materials, finances for war needs.

Our Republic, our people are at war. The institutions and ideals of free government are at stake. Every man, woman and child owes service. Some must serve at the front—in places of greatest danger. Those who remain at home where duty entails less personal danger, have work just as essential. We must work in war industries, contribute to their organization, or help assure them opportunity and resources.

The intricate organization of society and the lives of our people must be directed in furtherance of our paramount duty—winning the war. This must determine every personal decision and expenditure of money with a conscience mindful of the duty to those on the firing line.

Let us all make our lives simple, wholesome, vigorous.

We can forego luxuries for a time, be content with the primary necessities of life, in order to save for the future our heritage of freedom and the things of the spirit.

During the time when we send our young men to the trenches, to live a life that grills flesh and nerve, let every man, woman and child who is privileged to remain in free America in physical safety, count it a free-man's duty to eat simple food and conserve for our army and our allies; to wear simple clothes, to avoid unnecessary or unwise expenditures, that we may give to our fighting men, the government, and have resources for the constructive work of the country.

This does not mean foolish penury or asceticism, but constructive, intelligent expenditure and saving—the establishment of habits of rational expenditure of money so as to accomplish a purpose and to get the greatest returns from the expenditure.

The Poor Man's War.

The curbstome critic fished a 5-cent cigar out of his pocket and aired his views.

"It's not my war—or yours. It's a rich man's war. Let him fight it."

The man in the overalls with the dinner pail, who had stopped to wait for a car, butted into the talk.

"Where did you get that hunch, friend? My boss has two sons. Both of them are at the front. Neither could have got exemption if he had tried, and to give them their due they didn't try. Now take me. I've got three grown sons. One has a wife and two kids. He'll stay at home to support them. One works in a shipyard. He'll stay in this country. The third drives a truck. He'll go to France. You've got to show me before I'll believe it's a rich man's war."

"He's making money out of the war and we're paying for it, aren't we?"

"Some rich men are making money. Some aren't. I notice stocks are away down. That hits them. When it comes to paying for the war, I reckon we're all doing our share. The income tax and the supertax, and the excess-profits tax all hit him. It's the first war I ever heard of where the capitalist pays his proportion. Of course, the workingman pays, too. I pay on tobacco, and the wife and kids pay when they go to the movies. That's right, too. They're not necessities. I like to think I'm taking a wallop at the Kaiser every time I light up. No, sir; the rich man hasn't any monopoly on this war. It's my war, too."

And the man with the dinner pail swung on to a car so as to get home to work in his war garden.

All matter on pages 2, 3, 4 and 5 of the June Journal, in quotation marks, under the captions, "To Win the War," "Federal Employment Bureau," "Conservation and Welfare of the Workers," and "Our Position in War," were taken from the report of the Executive Council to the St. Paul Convention, and should have been so credited.

REPORT OF THE DELEGATES TO THE A. F. OF L. CONVENTION.

Thirty-eighth Annual Convention, St. Paul, Minn., June 10-20, 1918, Inclusive.

Fellow Workmen:

The St. Paul Convention, A. F. of L., is history. It has come and gone and has left its mark high up in the achievements to the credit of the American Labor Movement. At this time, the greatest crisis in the world's history, and during the greatest war of all wars, the fight for democracy and justice for the whole world, the American Federation of Labor, the American Labor Movement, occupies a position second to no other organized force in its importance and bearing upon the successful outcome of this titanic struggle to emancipate mankind, to overthrow autocracy and establish self-government, democracy, and justice. This enormous power was neither abused nor misdirected. The convention stood firmly and without swerving, or wavering, or faltering under the weight of the tremendous responsibility resting upon it. It met and endorsed the war issue without evasion; it declared against negotiating peace until after victory is achieved; and against the workers meeting the workers of the Central Powers so long as they sustain the autocratic, despotic, brutalizing and militaristic governments under which they live, and continue to fight against the effort to make the world safe for democracy, freedom and justice. Our co-delegate, Sam'l Gompers, with peerless, fearless and well-nigh matchless leadership, was more than helpful in achieving success and credit to the American Labor Movement. His leadership was loyally, ably and staunchly supported by the great mass of the delegates.

There are represented in and affiliated to the American Federation of Labor 111 national and international unions, representing a paid-up membership of 2,726,478 members; 5 departments, 45 state federations, 782 city central bodies, 854 local trade and federal labor unions, 445 local department councils, and 27,755 local unions. The convention held 432 delegates representing 99 international and national unions, 17 state branches, 83 central bodies, 50 local trade and federal labor unions, and 6 fraternal delegates.

There were 143 resolutions introduced, 89 were adopted, 20 were referred to the Executive Council for further investigation, 14 were non-concurred in, 16 were referred to conference or no action taken and 4 were withdrawn or tabled.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED

No. 73—Deploing the necessity for strike at this time by commercial telegraphers and asking that a committee be appointed to lay the matter before the President of the United States.

No. 21—Asking the President, Speaker of the House of Representatives and President of the Senate that Western Union and Postal Telegraph and Cable Company be taken under Government control for the period of the war and as long thereafter as deemed advisable.

Nos. 4 and 8—Fledging the support and encouragement of the A. F. of L. to the Lady Garment Workers of Chicago and Cleveland in their organization work.

Nos. 9, 92, 98—Urging all national and international unions to take into membership women, as existing conditions make it imperative that all workers be organized, irrespective of sex, with equal pay.

No. 28—Calling a conference of delegates in steel industry for the purpose of uniting and starting a drive to organize the steel plants.

No. 34—From Int'l Bro. Foundry Employees, thanking officers of A. F. of L. for assistance rendered them.

No. 77—That every influence be used to induce all organizations to form auxiliaries for women, that they may be taught the necessity of becoming members of their respective trades unions.

No. 45—From Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, thanking officers and Executive Council for assistance rendered them.

No. 120—Condemning the Commonwealth Edison Co. of Chicago for their opposition to any organization of their employees and instructing the officers of the A. F. of L. to investigate and to take any action they deem advisable to suppress the policies of this corporation.

No. 17—That a committee be appointed to take up the grievances of American Association of Masters, Mates and Pilots and to report their findings and recommendations.

No. 24—That every effort be made to organize the tobacco workers in the plants of the American Tobacco Co., especially in those branches where the output has been commandeered by the Government.

No. 30—That every effort be made to adjust the controversy between the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, acting for the Lyon & Healy Piano Co., and the piano workers, as well as all others locked out by this firm, and that if no adjustment of the difficulty be possible that the facts be made known to labor and its friends.

No. 52—Urging all trades unionists to buy nothing but union label brooms and referring the controversy with the Southwest Broom Mfr. Co. to Executive Council for investigation.

Nos. 49 and 59—Changing the wording of Constitution from "January" to "August" to conform to change of dates of holding conventions.

Nos. 5, 10, 41, 65, 71, 81, 116 and 70—Reference to shorter work day. That the 8-hour day be firmly established as the basic law, and that working longer than 8 hours be considered overtime with extra pay, was deemed of greatest importance. That the support of the A. F. of L. be extended to all unions who have as yet been unable to establish the 8-hour day and support was pledged to those compelled to work nights that their hours might be further reduced.

In the matter of proposed legislation making 8 hours the minimum, instead of 7 hours as at present, for many federal employees, the convention went on record as against such a proposition, and to take the appropriate means of defeating same.

The Executive Council reported that the 8-hour day had been secured for the timber workers in the Northwest, through an award made by the Government the matter being handled by A. F. of L. organizers, for the employees in the packing industry of Chicago, and for women employed by the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, and with added pay for overtime in each instance..

No. 110—Reiterating our former position as being opposed to the Taylor System and urging Congress to in no way change their former provisions against the inauguration of the system in Government work.

No. 14—Asking Secretaries Baker and Daniels to issue orders which will prevent barbers from being forced to work on Sundays.

No. 15—Asking that the order under which it is necessary that the boys request tobacco be sent them, be rescinded, and that free shipment of tobacco be allowed.

No. 93—Endorsing the action of the tobacco workers in starting a fund for the purpose of sending tobacco to our boys in war.

No. 20—Recommending liberal contributions to the American Red Cross by all trade unionists.

No. 33—Urging Congress to levy taxes on war profits, swollen incomes and land values that will provide at least 50 per cent of the expenditures of the Government.

No. 38—Protesting against the building of unfit temporary housing for war workers.

Nos. 39 and 111—Asking that Congress abolish private detective agencies, as their attitude in causing strikes is inimical to our Nation's success in the present war.

Nos. 42, 57, 95 and 127—Reference women's suffrage, endorsing Congressman Raker's resolution extending the right of suffrage to women.

No. 48—Approval of the plan of employment service known as the "Seattle Plan" for the distribution and employment of labor.

No. 55—Asking that Director General of Railroads McAdoo appoint a committee, some of whom shall be women, to investigate the necessity of using women in railroad work now being done by men.

No. 58—Urging Congress to bring the wage scale of Government departments into conformity with its announced policy of equal pay for equal work of women and men.

No. 60—Reference to training war emergency labor, and recommending an investigation of these trade schools by officers of A. F. of L., instructing them to take such steps as may be necessary to protect the interests of labor.

Nos. 62 and 117—That a committee be appointed to investigate the problem of reconstruction which will follow the close of the war and that they take the necessary steps to insure the re-entry of our soldiers and sailors into industry, and at the same time protect those civilians now engaged in war industry.

The Rehabilitation Bill introduced by Senator Hoke Smith, which provides for the vocational rehabilitation and return to civil employment of disabled persons discharged from military or naval duty, was endorsed.

No. 64—Endorsing legislation providing for a minimum wage for Government employees and asking for an increase in wages of all Government employees not affected by proposed legislation.

No. 66—Endorsing pending legislation favorable to enacting an equitable retirement law for superannuated Government employees.

No. 79—That legislation be enacted granting leaves of absence to officers of affiliated unions that they may transact their union affairs without jeopardizing their Government positions.

No. 83—Granting the right of civil service employees to a hearing and to appeal in cases involving demotion or dismissal.

No. 84—Asking that civil service employees be transferred from one department to another in the interest of efficiency.

No. 87—Recommending a wage raise of federal employees equal to that paid in organized private employments.

No. 140—Endorsing the position of street railway employees in their efforts to effect organization in St. Paul and Minneapolis, and asking that the United States War Board take up the case.

No. 88—Granting permission to the Int. Bro. of Stationary Engineers to add the name Oilers to their official title.

No. 139—Recommending the extension of Workmen's Compensation Law to cover, with increased amounts if possible, all workmen in all industries or transportation systems.

Nos. 91, 108, 121 and 125—Dealing with child labor laws. Disapproval of the interpretation placed by the Supreme Court on the act prohibiting the product of child labor to be distributed through interstate commerce, and asking for immediate federal legislation that will protect child labor.

No. 123—Protesting against the enforcement of the zone system and the increased postage on second class matter showing that such a law is destructive to industry and inimical to labor.

No. 53—Pledging moral support to the labor press and urging the lay members to grant it a more hearty support than in the past.

No. 7—Asking Congress to establish a free National Conservatory of Music to be owned and operated by the Government.

Nos. 113 and 128—Asking Congress to create a Federal Department of Education headed by a cabinet officer.

No. 122—Asking the War Trade Boards of the United States and Canada to prohibit all exports of news print paper except to allied nations for the duration of the war.

No. 19—Instructing the Executive Council to have made a study of the steps taken by our Supreme and Federal Courts through which they laid hold on power which they now exercise. That the findings be given publicity, and that measures be introduced in Congress which will prevent further invasion of the rights guaranteed under our Constitution.

Nos. 82 and 131—A substitute was offered covering subject matter of these two resolutions, which is, That we request the President of the United States to exercise the power vested in him to prevent the execution of Thos. J. Mooney.

No. 130—Authorizing President Gompers to visit Italy, as a part of his European visit, at the urgent request of the Labor Mission to Great Britain and France.

Nos. 78 and 80—Reference to Irish independence. The following substitute was offered. That this convention endorse the war principles of President Wilson as to "the recognition of the rights of small nations," and the re-indorsing of our oft-repeated declarations in favor of home rule for Ireland, and we pledge ourselves to the people of Ireland and all small nations to support these principles, and that we urge the President and Congress to make these declarations cardinal principles as the basis upon which we shall enter into final peace treaties.

No. 112—Endorsing the spirit of Free Bohemia, as this resolution was in line with subject matter covered by a similar resolution relative to Ireland.

No. 11—That a Garment Trades Department be formed within the A. F. of L.

No. 94—Reference to issuing an international charter to office workers.

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL REPORT

The more important features of the Executive Council's report as adopted by the convention are:

An expression of confidence in the able and efficient manner in which the affairs of the A. F. of L. building are conducted, and lauding the project as an added prestige to the labor movement.

Pointing out the danger that may come to organized labor through some of the compulsory labor laws and urging that no support be given this class of legislation where the rights of the worker to organize and to maintain adequate wages and fair working conditions are not guaranteed, holding that the American worker need not be forced to serve his country in industry, but that he will gladly give the best that is in him to bring victory in our noble cause.

Asking that steps be taken at once to enact anti-injunction laws by all states similar to the Clayton Act.

On the resolutions presented asking for Government Health Insurance and Insurance Against Unemployment, it was the consensus of opinion that the subject was worthy of earnest consideration, and a special committee was appointed, this committee to take special note of the organized effort that is made by supporters of a scheme for Social Health Insurance, who have no affiliation with the labor movement.

Reporting on labor legislation it was shown that thirty-one laws, each of which in some way protects labor, was enacted by the Sixty-fourth and a portion of the Sixty-fifth Congress. President Gompers pointed out that all of the laws proposed by the labor movement had met with a great measure of success, and that not a law proposed, which was antagonist to the labor movement, had been enacted. Especial mention was made as to the defeat of "Uncle Joe" Cannon's proposed Injury to War Material Law, which if enacted would have made every strike a crime against the Federal Government.

A recommendation was made approving the law providing for the naturalization of aliens who have enlisted, or desire to enlist in our military service, and that this legislation be further extended to require all persons eligible to citizenship and who locate permanently here, to become citizens of our country.

The report of Committee on Building Trades submitted was in the form of a resolution insisting that Government officials having charge of the housing program of the United States Emergency Fleet Corporation, shall require that the established union wages, hours and working conditions of the district where the work is done prevail.

As a policy of retrenchment the Constitution was amended to discontinue the printing of the financial statement in the American Federationist monthly, and that it be printed quarterly as a separate document and forwarded to officers of affiliated bodies only, it being shown that for 1917 the cost of printing it monthly was $9,578.82, an expense deemed unnecessary.

It is a hard matter to single out any one particular thing as the paramount issue. Everything that came before the convention was of more or less importance to our country and the trade-union movement and the workers. Only a study of the Proceedings can bring out clearly the real work of the convention.

There seemed to be a growing disposition on the part of some international unions to extend their jurisdictions so as to embrace some of the now separate international unions of a correlated nature. Just how far this feeling has developed or will develop is a matter of conjecture, and time alone can tell. This does not necessarily mean what is generally known as the industrial form of organization, but so far, we should judge, means the amalgamation of some of the unions that are correlated and where jurisdiction is now overlapping and causing friction and discord.

Secessionists and dissenters, however, from the general policy as outlined and followed by the American Federation of Labor received absolutely no encouragement.

Our co-delegate, Samuel Gompers, was renominated by Delegate Perkins, who, among other things, said that he had so far stood the acid test, and made the prediction that he would continue to do so until the word "Finale" was written across the closing chapter of human endeavor, and was re-elected without opposition as President of the American Federation of Labor. This was followed by an ovation seldom, if ever, accorded to any other labor man. All of the old members of the Executive Council were re-elected except James O'Connell, who declined renomination and was superseded by Jacob Fischer, and Henry B. Perham, who was defeated by Thomas A. Rickert.

With assurance of appreciation for the honor of representing you in labor's great parliament, we are

Note.—While concurring in and signing the foregoing report, I had no say in drafting that part of the report in which I am referred to.

Samuel Gompers.

The Central Federated Union of New York has just endorsed a statement issued by the State Federation of Labor favoring an amendment to the Hoke Smith bill for the vocational rehabilitation of war cripples, already passed unanimously by the United States Senate, so as to include crippled industrial workers as well as maimed soldiers and sailors. "It is estimated," according to the Federation's statement, "that there are now in this country 100,000 industrial cripples.

The United States Government is the largest insurer in the world. It has outstanding 2,029,886 applications for policies carrying insurance amounting to $15,883,514,300. All the insurance on the books of the twenty largest life insurance companies in the United States would not equal this total. The average amount would not equal the total of the War Risk Bureau. The average amount of the policies is $8,209.

Reform of a lasting and beneficial kind must be preceded by a fair and free discussion and founded on sound principles administered in an intelligent manner. Had there been in existence a strong and efficient labor movement in Russia, all of Russia's problems could and would have been solved in a proper and orderly way. No one regrets more the frightful conditions through which Russia is passing at present than do the workers of America.

There is a momentous lesson for all in this Russian tragedy. Reason, moderation and an honest study of facts have proven time and again necessary to the maintenance of a national government. Liberty and democracy are not established by catch phrases. Intelligence, patience, respect of differences of opinions and interests—these are the price of political and industrial freedom and economic evolution. Russia's experience is but another example of the futility of placing the purely ideal against the purely material and expecting the ideal to come out victorious. Organized labor has long realized that its successes on the industrial field have not been achieved by catch phrases and beautiful word pictures, but by the economic power of the workers and the heroic deeds of men and women.—Matthew Woll.

As time goes on and as the great fundamental issues involved in this world's war are more fully and correctly understood, when minds are no longer confused by issues of political party propaganda, America's attitude and action in this world's greatest contest will loom forth like the Star of Bethlehem to guide all peoples of the world to the birth of a new freedom—a new world's democracy and all the critics of the American Federation of Labor will become its staunchest supporters.—Matthew Woll, President I. P. E. U.

CORRESPONDENCE

West Tampa, Fla., June 20, 1918.

At a regular meeting of Union 462, and after a careful study of the point at issue and desiring to avoid every possible incident which may give rise to bitter criticism tending to belittle and defame our organization, we have unanimously adopted a resolution for an amendment to our Constitution, which is published in this Journal, which we fraternally request our sister unions to adopt for the interest of peace, friendship, fraternity and the interest of our membership in the first place and the benefit of the labor movement in general.

Following are our reasons for proposing the amendment:

Our local unions have been experiencing quite a lot of inconvenience caused by members not complying with the requisites prescribed by our Constitution in regard to their death benefits; and

The above mentioned "inconvenience" acting as a cause producing the effects of "grievance, slander, ill will, grudge and vengeance" against our organization as a natural sequence; and

These effects affect not only the moral, economic and fraternal interest of our organization, but they affect also the general principles of labor; and

It is a philosophical principle to avoid every possible cause which would sour the will of the worker against organization in general; and

It is a constitutional requisite for every member to live right up to our constitutional prescriptions insofar as our organic rights and expectations are concerned; and

It behooves every thinking man to eliminate if possible all such "inconvenience" so detrimental, both morally and materially, to the membership particularly and to the workers in general.

Under the impression that at a glance you will catch the significance of this proposition and that, as we do, you feel the interest of our organization and will come to our aid in fostering the same by adopting this proposed new section to our International Constitution, we remain with fraternal wishes,

Yours for progress,

UNION 462.

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF LABOR.

U. S. Employment Service, Washington.

In order that the United States Employment Service may be of the greatest service to employers, an Inquiry Office has been opened as a division of the Service. This division will tell you freely where to get help of any kind, from common laborers to men of the highest technical attainments; where there is a shortage or a surplus of any kind of labor; and if you are out of work it will direct you to the nearest employment office. It will supply you with a copy of any law or court decision affecting labor, and the laws and regulations governing naturalization and immigration. It will tell you what industrial plants are doing to reduce the great shifting from one job to another. It will put you in touch with the vast amount of valuable information which has been collected by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, including the latest statistics on the cost of living and wage scales.

If this Inquiry Office can not answer your question, it will direct you to the department or agency which can do so.

Address: Department of Labor, Inquiry Office, U. S. Employment Service, 916 Sixteenth Street N. W., Washington, D. C.

Telephone: Main 8474, Branch 128.

J. B. DENSMORE,
Director General.

Lebanon, Pa., July 4, 1918.

I would like to ask you a question. You know the order work or fight, and this meant for me to get another job. I would like to know whether I shall resign as Financial Secretary. I would like to hold the office for this reason—to try and hold the members of Local No. 64. Please let me know. I have conferred with the local draft board and they told me to get a job that was more essential to the Government.

I think it is my patriotic duty to go to a government plant to work.

Yours fraternally,

WM. R. SPEECE.

July 9, 1918.

Mr. Wm. R. Speece,
Secretary Union 64,
Lebanon, Pa.

Dear Sir:

Replying to yours of the 4th inst. reference seeking employment in an industry necessary to the maintenance of military efficiency, I have to say:

First, under the circumstances you should continue to act as Financial Secretary regardless of whether or not you change your occupation, at least until some one qualified has been secured and elected to take your place.

I notice in the Selective Service Regulations, printed and submitted to all local and district appeal boards, by Provost Marshal General Crowder, that the recent "work or fight" order and regulation applies only to the following industries:

(a) Persons engaged in the serving of food and drink, or either, in public places, including hotels and social clubs;

(b) Passenger-elevator operators and attendants; and door men, footmen, carriage openers and other attendants in clubs, hotels, stores, apartment houses, office buildings, and bathhouses;

(c) Persons, including ushers and other attendants, engaged and occupied in and in connection with games, sports and amusements, excepting actual performers in legitimate concerts, operas, or theatrical performances;

(d) Persons employed in domestic service;

(e) Sales clerks and other clerks employed in stores and other mercantile establishments.

I moreover note that in Section 121 L of said regulations it distinctly says: "But for the present and until such extension by regulation, no occupation or employment not included in the list or description of occupations and employments in the foregoing Section 121 K may be held by any local or district board to be a nonproductive occupation or employment unless a ruling as to whether or not a doubtful occupation or employment is to be considered as nonproductive is first obtained from the Provost Marshal General in the manner prescribed in Section 26. Moreover paragraph (e) of Section 121 K provides that no registrant will be compelled to change his occupation if in the judgment of the board it would 'cause unusual hardship' to the registrant or his family.

You are advised that under these regulations the order applies only to registrants or men of the draft age, i. e., from twenty-one to thirty-one years of age, and moreover that our industry is not included so far in the industries affected by the order and regulations.

I agree with you and congratulate you upon your sentiments and declaration as to your patriotic duty.

Yours fraternally,

G. W. PERKINS,
International President.

Washington, D. C., June 27, 1918.
To Secretaries of City Central Bodies and A. F.
of L. Organizers:

Dear Sirs and Brothers—The St. Paul Convention of the American Federation of Labor unanimously adopted the recommendation of the Executive Council regarding the celebration of Labor Day each year, but particularly its celebration on Labor Day, the first Monday in September, 1918. For general information, the declaration of the convention is quoted as follows:

Since the recognition of the first Monday in September as Labor's Day, the celebration of that day has increasingly become observed as Labor's special festival.

The first Monday in September, 1917, being the first Labor Day after our country entered the war, its celebration assumed a more subdued and serious tone.

The first Monday in September, 1918, will be the second Labor Day since our Republic has thrown its strength and resources in the titanic world struggle.

No one can dispute that Labor has done and is fully doing its part in support of the Government and our common cause.

It is but fitting that Labor's Day, 1918, should be observed in a distinctive manner. We, therefore, recommend that organized labor in every section of the country observe Labor Day, 1918, by special ceremonies and demonstrations, and that the slogan for the day be: Win the War for Freedom.

The convention by unanimous vote declared that the matter of expense connected with the Labor Day ceremonies and demonstrations for uniforms, flags, banners, automobiles and transportation was negligible as compared with the advantages which come from the spreading of information, the creation of intensified interest in Labor and the world fight for freedom and justice now going on; that it would in any case not only be well worth the investment, but might prove self-supporting and would be a valuable contribution by which the present war for freedom, justice and democracy can be won.

In view of the fact that the time between the convention's declaration and Labor Day is so short, I am constrained to issue this circular at once to organized labor, urging the general observance of Labor Day, Monday, September 2, in every community throughout America, and that appropriate demonstrations and services befitting the day, the cause of labor and the cause of the world struggle, be observed.

All organizations are urged to carry out the above suggestions that this Labor Day celebration shall become general in all localities; that it may constitute a tremendous continent-wide demonstration of the loyalty of America's workers, their determination to stand by the principles of organized labor and to maintain the institutions of the republic of the United States and the holy cause in which, with our great allies, we are engaged.

Please advise me what is proposed to be done in your locality and also submit a report to me after the Labor Day celebration is completed. Local newspaper or labor paper accounts of the celebration will also be appreciated.

Fraternalty yours,

SAM'L GOMPERS,

President American Federation of Labor.

Resolution.

To the Officers and Delegates of the International Labor Press Association in Convention Assembled.

Greeting:

Whereas, Both Houses of our "National" Congress having passed a resolution calling upon the individual states to ratify an amendment to our "Federal Constitution" in favor of "National Prohibition"; and

Whereas, The ratification of that amendment would mean the part if not complete disruption of several large labor organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor; and

Whereas, The passage of this amendment would deprive the working class of this country of the right to life, liberty and pursuit of happiness, the right to eat and drink that which their own hands have produced and earned; and

Whereas, Our country having adopted a war time policy of conserving all resources and providing to meet the enormous financial obligation incident to a state of war, which needs the loyal support of a patriotic and united people; and

Whereas, The question of ratification brought up at this time is not uniting but dividing the people, and is, therefore, not to the best interest of our nation; therefore be it

Resolved, That the "International Labor Press Association," in convention assembled, is opposed to the passage of the "National Prohibition Amendment" to our "Federal Constitution," and also opposed to the passage of all similar and sumptuary legislation, by either our "National Congress" or by any "State Legislature."

SPECIAL.

Some unions or secretaries persist in paying sick benefits to members confined in insane asylums, claiming that they did not know it was against the law. Section 134 distinctly and plainly states "No sick nor out of work benefit shall be paid to member adjudged insane." This, for convenience sake, is again repeated in Section 144g of the Constitution. All amounts so paid are illegal and cannot be recognized as legitimate expenditures, and are charged up against the local unions. No dues shall be collected from an insane member.

Fraternally yours,

Fin. Sec'y Union No. 110, Washington, D. C.

NOTICE TO LOCAL UNIONS.

Always refer to your Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 30c to the 20c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards in possession of the union should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address, if possible, so as to obviate delays, mistakes, etc.

Members who while at work refuse or fail to pay per cent on loans suspend themselves without any action by the secretary.

In several instances where cards had been stolen from members it was found that some secretaries, generally very careful, had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see due books showing them in good standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book and the card and due book are in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privileges in dues unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such report the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per Section 149, give full record of membership as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file so state, giving a synopsis of same. In order that you may fully understand the necessity of complying with the request, carefully study Section 144c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal will" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

Section 144c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there be no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there be no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relatives of the deceased member who at the time of his death were dependent for support in whole or in part.

The International Union cannot under the law authorize the payment of any death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefit rests entirely with such members.

No claim for death benefit can be sanctioned or authorized unless it be in strict compliance with Section 144c of the Constitution.

In order to avoid confusion when a Class A member changes from 15-cent dues to 30-cent dues, secretaries under the law are to give such members one-half time on length of membership, and write the following in ink in the due book: "Changed from Class A to 30-cent dues paying class. Time on full benefits commences (computed on basis of one-half time)." Should such member desire to travel he should be given a new due book and traveling card, both of which should give the date of initiation computed on the above mentioned basis, and the words "Changed From Class A" written on both due book and traveling card. Whenever a Class A 15-cent member changes to a 30-cent membership secretaries should always so state on their monthly reports, and record the transaction on their books.

Official Notice.

In compliance with Section 184 of the Constitution, the International Executive Board levied an assessment, to replenish the General Fund, of $1.00 on each 30-cent, 20-cent and 15-cent member, payable in four weekly installments of 25c each. Class A members to pay only two 25-cent installments. The assessment commences July 8, 1918, and is payable in eight weeks, or sixteen weeks if the member is out of work. Members taking traveling cards after July 8, 1918, have to pay the full assessment. Members who join after July 8, 1918, do not have to pay the assessment.

DECISIONS OF THE PRESIDENT

George W. Boas appealed against 257, Lancaster, reference non-compliance with Section 49 of the Constitution. No specifications were submitted. The appeal was not sustained.

Max Weinbrown appealed against 58, Montreal for suspending him for nonpayment of dues. The appeal was not sustained.

Wm. H. Trainor appealed against 63, Albany, for refusing his claim for out of work benefit. The appeal was not sustained.

Otto Shields appealed against 188, Seattle, for refusing his claim for sick benefit. The appeal was not sustained.

M. Gullo appealed against 500, Tampa, for refusing his claim for strike benefit. The appeal was not sustained.

A. M. Ecker appealed against 325, Spokane, for compelling him to pay a local assessment to replace a deficiency. The appeal was not sustained.

INTERNATIONAL FINES

The International Executive Board approved the application of 54, Evansville, Ind., to fine Al Fehn (9014) $50 and suspend him for working in Grill Bros.' non-union factory. Vote: Affirmative, 3; one member approved the fine but not suspension; three members approved $25.

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

Amendments adopted since the June 15, 1917, edition of the constitution.

By 208, Kalamazoo, Mich.: To amend Section 154 by adding after the word "bunches" on line 23, "nor which pays less than $10.00 per thousand for hand work, less than four molds of 10 bunches each with press on table, or two 20-bunch molds in shaper press, to be considered hand work."

Take Notice—The amendment of 238, Sacramento, Calif., takes the place of the 132 Brooklyn amendment, and supersedes all other amendments reference war retiring cards and benefits. That amendment, published elsewhere in this Journal, says: "This amendment shall govern all other sections which deal with benefits of such members who may be doing military duty or are beyond the boundary lines as defined in our constitution."

By 238, Sacramento, Calif.: War Retiring Card Amendment:

(a) That the President of the International Cigar Makers' Union cause to be printed a War Retiring Card, to read as follows:

(b) This is to certify that Mr.
 Card No. Initiated by
 When has entered the service of (U. S. or Allies Army or Navy), and is entitled to all benefits as may be contained in the War Retiring Card Amendment.
 Pres. C. M. I. U.

Signed—

....., Local Pres.
, Fin. Sec.

(c) Any member who may by draft or voluntary enlistment enter the service of the United States Army or Navy or the service of the Army or Navy of any allied country, during this period of war, shall be entitled to a War Retiring Card, providing such member is in good standing at the time of his or her application for a War Retiring Card.

(d) Any member who is a holder of a War
 Retiring Card shall be exempt from all dues, fines and assessments, and upon his or her re-entrance in the actual making or packing of cigars shall be entitled to his or her original card from which he or she was transferred, with all benefits as entitled to from the date of initiation, except for such time as he or she was holding a War Retiring Card.

(e) Any member holding a War Retiring Card shall be entitled to his or her original card free of charge.

(f) All transfers shall be made at regular or executive board meetings.

(g) Applications for transfer to the War Retiring Card may be made in writing.

(h) All cards from which members transfer to the War Retiring Card shall be sent to the International President to be kept on file.

(i) It shall be the duty of the International President to have sufficient War Retiring Cards printed, which shall be distributed to all local unions.

(j) No benefits shall be paid to any member while holding a War Retiring Card.

(k) This amendment shall govern all other sections which deal with benefits of such members who may be doing military duty or are beyond the boundary lines as is defined by our constitution.

advertisements in all the daily papers drawing attention to our label.—See that the boys at the various camps get union made cigars.—Union 97 has sent union cigars, tobacco and cigarettes to the Massachusetts boys somewhere in France.
 Newspapers photographed the teams containing the cigars, etc., and produced them in all the papers.—At last it looks like government ownership of telegraph and telephone lines.—Will there be a land tax after the war?—Read up on co-operation; many co-operatives will be started by trades unions after the war.—The first awakening of American wage earners occurred in 1827. Mutual interest of various trades first occurred in that year. A demand for the common school and for a ten-hour day occurred in that year.—We have been forced to secure by trade union action what has been granted in other countries by legislation, due to the action of the courts.—The early co-operative movements were the result of strikes.—Leisure and education are still the vital necessities.—
 In 1832 eleven tobacco and cigar factories in Massachusetts employed 238 women, 50 men and 9 children.—In 1853 the cigarmakers in all of the eastern cities had effective local unions.

Letters reach this office from different sources claiming that Gus Kartier, a suspended 15c member, uses his due book to secure jobs, assistance and boarding house privileges, then skips without settling bills. Secretaries should know better than to pass claimants on suspended due books.

NOTICE.

Some time ago a blank was sent to the unions requesting that same be filled out and returned, giving the names and so forth of the members enlisted or drafted into the U. S. or Allied army and navy. From the large number of those missing in the list published, it is evident that many secretaries have paid no attention to such request. This is unfortunate not only because it makes the list published incomplete, but deprives the members who have entered the service from being placed on the Roll of Honor which is published in the June Journal and continued in this month's (July) issue. Don't state you have reported members, but send in your list.

UNION NOTES

Union 25, Milwaukee, Wis., would like to hear from Wm. Axt (10069) or from the union holding his card.

Union 365, Havana, Ill., wants to hear from
 S. A. Tomlinson.

George Clancy (84381) is requested to communicate with Union 156, Suffield, Conn.

Austin Moran (80950) died at Holyoke, Mass., not entitled to benefit. Unions having private loans charged, please take notice.

Union 22, Detroit, Mich., annulled the retiring card of Sally Kaczmarek (3585), initiated July 22, 1916, by Union 528, Detroit, for working in a non-union shop.

By Union 97, Boston: All the boys working.— Label Committee have placed large and small

PRIVATE LOANS.

Union 124; Watertown, N. Y., is getting tired waiting to hear from members owing private loans. There will be some action taken if we do not hear from them before the next issue of the Journal.

Mr. Wm. Noll, a cigar manufacturer of New Athens, Ill., states that a cigar maker, who is described as between 50 and 55, with a small mustache, wearing glasses, with a habit of looking over top of same when speaking to you, dressed in blue serge pants and blue square-checked coat, stiff hat, stole his due book and had a due book with name of Gus Kartier. Also stole box of cigars and beat people out of money and board bills. Secretaries please look out for him. Same party also beat Union 437 and was suspended at Memphis.

In February, 1918, C. M. Brodsky, 46520, drew his card from No. 15 and traveled to Boston, and about the middle of April was picked up in the streets of New York, making speeches, evidently having become irrational, and placed in Kingsbury Co. Hospital. He is now in a hospital in Chicago. He had a trunk with him on his trip containing valuable historical family records, and the son, A. C. Brodsky, 1539 North Irving avenue, Chicago, is anxious to recover same. Any one knowing anything in relation to the matter will confer a favor by notifying the International office.

LETTER BOX

Note.—Letters remaining uncalled for at the office after being advertised in the Journal for one issue must be returned to carrier of Chicago post office by order of Post Office Department, Washington, D. C.

Returned the following to Post Office Department since the last issue of the Journal: John B. Anderson.

Union 44, St. Louis, Mo.—For J. J. Collins, B. B. Beaupre and M. L. Noll.

Union 332, San Diego, Calif.—For Charles L. Hobart (16695).

International Office—For William Smith.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

The amendment of Union 144, New York, providing that an application for strike for increase of wages may be made at any time except between December 15 and January 15, as published in the May issue.

Received the endorsement of 13, New York; 117, Pine Bluff; 141, New York; 25, Milwaukee; 383, Chicago; 90, New York; 218, Binghamton; 500, Tampa; 402, Quakertown; 220, New Orleans; 464, Tampa; 213, New York, and 149, Brooklyn.

Not having received the required number of endorsements it can not be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of 165, Philadelphia, providing that the label shall not be allowed on cigars selling for less than $35 per M, as published in the May issue.

Received the endorsement of 277, Oskaloosa; 90, New York; 13, New York; 217, South Chicago; 220, New Orleans; 15, Chicago; 171, East Greenville, and 39, New Haven.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, it can not be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of 361, East St. Louis, to Section 207, as published in the May issue.

Received no endorsements, hence can not be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of 361, East St. Louis, to Section 168, as published in the May issue.

Received no endorsements, hence can not be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of 383, Chicago, as published in the June issue, as follows:

That within six months after the approval of this amendment by the referendum vote of all local unions the president of the C. M. I. U. of A., after selecting a place, shall call all the local unions located any place where the American Tobacco Company and its subsidiaries are maintaining a factory to a convention with the exclusive purpose of producing a better and closer understanding between said local unions and studying the advisability of a joint action by said unions against the absorbing power of said American Tobacco Company and its subsidiaries.

That this convention be governed by the laws and regulations of our International constitution, with the exception that the International President be hereby authorized to stipulate date for notifications and appointment of committee on constitution.

Received the endorsement of 402, Quakertown.

The amendment of Union 357, Vancouver, B. C., as published in the June issue, as follows:

Amend Section 151, by adding after the word cigars (or tin cans containing 50 cigars or less).

Received the endorsement of 49, Springfield.

Union No. 274 of Pekin, Ill., submits the following amendment to the International Constitution:

Amend Section 151 by striking out the word box and insert the word package. Section to read: "This certifies that the cigars contained in this package have been made by a first-class workmen, etc., etc., etc."

Amendment by 462, West Tampa, Fla., added to our Constitution, viz.:

Sec. a. As soon as a member becomes two years old in the C. M. I. U. of A. he or she shall fill the required "blank," on which he or she shall dispose of his or her "death benefits," and after it has been signed by two witnesses this document must be placed in the hands of the Local Financial Secretary, to be filed after being signed by him.

Sec. b. Pursuant to the requisite of the above paragraph, Local Financial Secretaries shall hand the required "blank" to members of such age (2 years) and shall require of them the compliance of the above Sec. a.

Sec. c. When members become five years old in our union, they shall be required to ratify or change their will to suit themselves within seven days from the notification by the Local Financial Secretary. This same action of "ratification or change" shall be required every five years thereafter.

Sec. d. Pursuant to the above paragraph "c." Local Financial Secretaries shall hand to each and every member attaining five years' membership, and every five years thereafter, the "will" they signed when they had attained two years membership, for it to be ratified if the member insists and persists in their first designation, and a blank, for in case the member wishes to make a change at his own volition.

Sec. e. Financial Secretaries failing to comply with the above paragraphs "c" and "d" shall be subjected to a fine of $5 for each and every offense. This fine shall go to swell the International funds.

Sec. f. Members shall not be permitted to draw "dues stamps" until they have complied with the above requisites.

Sec. g. Financial Secretaries permitting members to infringe the above paragraph "f" shall be subjected to a fine of $5, which shall go to the International funds.

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and, in addition, send in such cards, but place on your letter the information necessary, as the letter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 148 to 149, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted resolutions of respect and condolence relative to death or deaths as follows and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days:

Union 5, Rochester, N. Y.—Mrs. Gertrude Steger (114389), who died June 23, 1918.

Union 25, Milwaukee, Wis.—Ph. Schneider (47812), who died June 16.

The union label enlists the unions, their members and friends, in the combined interests of the fair employer and his employees.

The union label is the best medium for advertising, as it costs the employer nothing, all this burden being borne by the union.

Cigar Makers' Official Journal

Issued Monthly.

G. W. PERKINS.....Editor and Publisher

Vol. XLII. SEPT. 15, 1918. No. 9.

Subscription price, $1.00 per year.
Single copies, 10 cents.

Entered as second class matter, Nov. 28, 1894,
at the Post Office at Chicago, Ill., under Act of March 3, 1879.

The following is a verbatim copy of the bill adopted by the Committee on Ways and Means, and reported to the House, as it applies to the internal revenue tax on cigars and the license cigar manufacturers shall pay in addition thereto:

On cigars of all descriptions made of tobacco, or any substitute therefor, and weighing not more than three pounds per thousand, $2 per thousand.

On cigars made of tobacco, or any substitute therefor, and weighing more than three pounds per thousand, if manufactured or imported to retail at not more than 5 cents each $5 per thousand.

If manufactured or imported to retail at more than 5 cents each and not more than 8 cents each, $8 per thousand.

If manufactured or imported to retail at more than 8 cents each and not more than 15 cents each, $12 per thousand.

If manufactured or imported to retail at more than 15 cents each and not more than 20 cents each, $16 per thousand.

If manufactured or imported to retail at more than 20 cents each, $20 per thousand.

Manufacturers of cigars whose annual sales do not exceed fifty thousand cigars shall each pay $4.

Manufacturers of cigars whose annual sales exceed fifty thousand and do not exceed one hundred thousand cigars shall each pay $6.

Manufacturers of cigars whose annual sales exceed one hundred thousand and do not exceed two hundred thousand cigars shall each pay $12.

Manufacturers of cigars whose annual sales exceed two hundred thousand and do not exceed four hundred thousand cigars shall each pay $24.

Manufacturers of cigars whose annual sales exceed four hundred thousand cigars shall each pay at the rate of 10 cents per thousand cigars, or fraction thereof.

It will be noted by the foregoing that ordinary cigars, selling for less than five cents each, are raised from $3 to $5 per thousand; that cigars retailing at more than five cents each and not more than eight cents each are raised from $4 to $8 per thousand; that cigars retailing at more than eight cents and not more than fifteen cents each are raised from $6 to $12 per thousand; that cigars retailing at more than fifteen cents and not more than twenty cents each are raised from $8 to $16 per thousand; and that cigars retailing at more than twenty cents each are raised from $10 to $20 per thousand.

This is practically just double the present internal revenue tax on all cigars, except those retailing at less than five cents each, where the increase is from $3 to $5 per thousand. These increases in the internal revenue tax, if approved by the House and Senate, will have a direct effect upon the manufacture, sale, and consumption of cigars. This especially affects what were formerly five-cent and ten-cent goods. Prior to the war the internal revenue tax on all cigars was only $3 per thousand. The increase on what was formerly five-cent cigars amounts to $5 per thousand; and on what was formerly ten-cent goods, amounts to $9 per thousand, an increase of three-hundred per cent.

Judge Adams, Chancellor of Adams County, Pennsylvania, sitting in the Court of Common Pleas of that county, in the suit of F. X. Little vs. the International Union and its officers, decided in favor of the Union.

In deciding the case the Court held as follows:

1. That the term widow as used in the International Constitution does not include a surviving husband of a deceased member.

2. That a surviving husband of a deceased member is a "relative" of such member within the meaning of the Constitution.

3. That a surviving husband was not dependent in whole or in part upon a wife who kept house for him and in part supplied the house necessities by keeping boarders, sewing for others and other incidental labor not inconsistent with her duties as housewife when the evidence showed that the husband was a mason by trade and earned just enough to support the family, but who, by the labors and little economies of the wife had been able to acquire and pay for a home costing about $800.

William Hersh of Gettysburg ably represented our Union in the matter.

The campaign for the Fourth Liberty Loan begins September 28 and closes October 19. While the amount

The Fourth Liberty Loan. has not yet been announced, it is generally conceded it will be for a larger amount than any of the preceding loans. The American people, therefore, are called upon to raise a larger sum of money in a shorter length of time than ever before. There is need, therefore, for prompt action—prompt and efficient work and prompt and liberal subscriptions.

We have a great inspiration for a great effort. The news from the battle front inspires every American heart, not only with pride and patriotism but with a great incentive to do his or her part. There is no shirking, no shifting of the individual burden, no selfishness by American soldiers in France; there should be none here. We are both supporting the same country and the same cause—our Army in one way, ourselves in another. Theirs is the harder part, but at least we can do our part as promptly and loyally and efficiently as they do theirs.

Changes are taking place in the economic life of our nation and the workers generally. These changes are Preparedness. swift and sure and have been caused by the heroic struggle we have been forced into, with our allies, to maintain our own freedom, and democracy here and elsewhere.

Whether nation-wide, bone-dry prohibition will be operative after the war no one can tell. We, however, know that prohibition has or will soon be put into force and operation as a war measure. The closing of the saloon will destroy some of the avenues through which union-label cigars have found their way to the smoker. Don't wait until that time comes; commence now to prepare for the change.

The same amount of effort and agitation that was formerly and is now used to exploit our label in the saloon, if used in drug stores, cigar stores, groceries, restaurants, and other places where cigars are sold, will produce the same results if not better than those achieved in the saloon.

Many a small manufacturer now depending largely upon the saloon trade will find it difficult to tide over the transitory period, unless we and others help to pave the way for him. A word to the wise should be sufficient. Under orders of the Food Administration the manufacture and sale of beer and near-beer will soon cease, and by the same orders John Barleycorn makes his exist early next year. Don't wait; act now!

The organized printers pay dues on a percentage of earnings plan, that is, they pay one-half of one per cent for old age pension fund, and one-half of one per cent for the death benefit fund, and 50 cents a month per capita to the International Union. Their regular weekly dues average more than 60 cents. While they pay an old age pension they do not pay sick benefit.

We have received a number of communications, concerning the action of the Executive Board in levying Assessments. a weekly assessment to bring the fund up to the constitutional requirement, most of which were favorable comments. Some secretaries, however, have complained against the levying of the assessment, and to all we say:

Section 184 reads as follows:

"Whenever such General Fund of the International Union shall fall below the sum provided ($10.00 per member) provided for in Section 183, the Executive Board shall levy an assessment on each member to replenish the same."

You will note by the foregoing that the assessment is levied by the Constitution. The Executive Board has no alternative in the matter. The only question is whether it shall be levied in $1.00 assessments occasionally or at the rate of 25 cents a week until the constitutional requirement is reached.

In this connection let me call your attention to an editorial I wrote and published on page 2 in the August issue of our Official Journal. I feel quite sure that no one wants to repudiate the promises we have made with reference to the payment of benefits, and I assure you that these benefits can not be paid unless the members, either through dues or assessments, pay a sufficient amount to meet these obligations. During 1917 it cost us to pay the sick, death and out of work benefits $11.52 per member. This does not take into account the strike benefit or the running expense of the locals and the International Union. There is no organization on earth that pays more benefits for the same amount of money than we do. Many of our members cheerfully pay assessments and premiums to private insurance companies that make an enormous profit and charge four or five times more than we pay as members of the International Union, for these benefits. There is no insurance concern in the world that furnishes more death benefit for the money we pay in, including assessments, than we do. Most of these insurance businesses are run for profit, while there is absolutely no profit nor any overhead charges in the administration of the payment of benefits by the International Union.

It is claimed that nearly one-fourth of the cigar factories of Pennsylvania are closed up. The reasons assigned are chiefly the increased internal revenue, the high price of tobacco, and the scarcity of labor. Many of the former employees, especially in the cheap districts, have gone into munition plants and other occupations which pay them considerable in excess of what they could make working as non-unionists in cigar factories. Some manufacturers in organized districts are making no effort to increase or hold their trade, giving as a reason that they cannot and do not expect to make money during the war and that if they can hold their licenses and continue to exist with a diminished force they are satisfied. While the future of the industry is uncertain, we see no cause for undue alarm. Cigars are going to be manufactured and consumed. Many of our members are beyond the draft age or exempted on account of dependents, and they should, wherever possible, stick to the industry, and where they do and continue label agitation, things will be much easier when the inevitable period of reconstruction is reached. It should be remembered that present conditions are not going to last forever. The war will some time come to a triumphant conclusion and the wise man should and will look beyond today and shape his course to successfully fit into the future.

Under orders from the National Committee on Conservation of print paper, we are practically ordered to reduce the consumption of paper at least 10 per cent. This will compel us to reduce the number of pages and to print very little, if any matter in the foreign languages, and will necessitate the cutting out of some interesting features, as well as the boiling down, if not the elimination, of long communications for the Journal.

Owing to the scarcity of labor in printing establishments the issuance of the Journal will be later than usual. If you don't get the Journal at the usual time, the foregoing statement explains why.

CORRESPONDENCE

Buy Liberty Bonds.

To the Organized Workmen of Chicago and Vicinity—Fellow Workmen:

Organized labor has again been called upon to contribute its helpfulness, power, and strength in putting the Fourth Liberty Loan "over the top." In so far as Labor's Liberty Loan League is concerned there is no doubt as to labor's response. So long as the government and the people of the United States of America are at war with the militarist, autocratic and imperialist governments of the Central Powers, waging a war for freedom, justice and democracy, and against injustice, brutality, tyranny and autocracy, organized labor will continue to support our government even to the supreme sacrifice. Organized labor, even before war was declared, spoke in no uncertain terms on the question of democracy and freedom as against militarism, autocracy and irresponsible, secret diplomacy, and declared that if our government was drawn into the struggle to save our own freedom and to make the world safe for democracy and justice we would give our government our whole-hearted support. Labor has been true to its declaration, and will say now that we shall continue to give our lives if necessary, and to give millions—our all, for the legitimate war necessities, as a means to carry this titanic struggle to a triumphant and successful conclusion.

We are mindful that in a democracy such as ours where freedom and self-government have been zealously guarded, when the government is forced to assume and exercise rights not heretofore given it, mistakes occur; that they will continue to occur. While demanding that such mistakes be brought to the lowest possible minimum, nevertheless since we find our country engaged in a struggle, the triumphant, successful outcome of which overshadows, and causes all else to pale into insignificance, we shall continue to give our all—our lives, our energies, and our money in the successful prosecution of the holy cause in which our government and heroic allies are engaged.

The very birthright of freedom is at stake. We cannot turn back; we would not if we could. We assume our full responsibility and call upon all others to do likewise. We realize that without democracy and self-government there would be no freedom and no future for labor. In the face of these high purposes and in the firm resolve to achieve them, we have in mind that the standards of life and of liberty heretofore obtained through trade-union activity shall not be destroyed, and that now and after the war the standard of life for labor shall conform more nearly to the higher conception of justice, and moreover that the men and women of labor, who are just as essential to the winning of the war as the heroes in the trenches who could not exist without labor's loyal support at home, shall have the fullest opportunity to work and live in decency, and to maintain their economic independence.

With deep seated loyalty and veneration for the fighting men in the trenches, and with renewed assurance of our determination to loyally stand back of them and back of our government and our country until this frightful attempt on the part of the autocratic Central Powers to dominate and enslave the whole world, is defeated, and the world made safe for democracy, freedom and justice, we shall stand true. Our country, with its allies, has been forced into a battle to prevent democracy, justice and liberty being destroyed. It requires enormous sums to finance this great undertaking. No price, however, can be too great in so far as labor is concerned, to crush autocracy and militarism and to preserve democracy, justice, freedom and advancing civilization. Therefore, we will buy Liberty Bonds to the limit of our capacity, and we call upon organized labor and citizens generally to do likewise.

LABOR'S LIBERTY LOAN LEAGUE.

From Liberty Loan Press Bureau:

The stupendous cost of the war is now being impressed upon the people of this country by the call for the Fourth Liberty Loan. Our country is now spending about $50,000,000 a day or one and one-half billions a month.

All the tremendous work of building a modern fighting force from the foundation up has been concentrated into a few months, and the result has amazed the world. Cantonments, warehouses, army and navy depots, aviation camps, shipyards, ammunition and ordnance factories, and other supply factories, have sprung into being as if by magic. An army of 3,000,000 men, with 1,500,000 fighters now in France, and 500,000 men in our first line of defense, the American navy, testify to the fact that we have obtained the worth of our money.

The price of having the treaty of peace signed at Berlin is high, but the United States has the pride, and the people will pay it.

The fabulous sums of money required to pay for Uncle Sam's part in the war call for co-operation, support and sacrifice of every citizen. It will be better to lend every dollar to the government and insure a glorious victory than to pay indemnity to the Kaiser. The German war lords in their schemes for financing the war have based all their plans on having the price paid in blood money indemnities from their opponents. The United States with its resources still practically untouched, in defeat would be the logical source of payment. Is there any reason to doubt, reading the history of the last four years, that we would pay in every way that the devilish and efficient ingenuity of Germany could devise.

Lend while our men are fighting, give power to Uncle Sam's strong right arm, and insure the peace treaty being signed in Berlin.

Morris, Ill., Sept. 5, 1918.

No doubt a great many of our members are surprised that our dues have been automatically increased by the constitutional assessment plan to fifty-five cents a week until such a time as the International Funds are raised to a limit that will allow all benefits to be paid promptly, and until our surplus fund is on a solid basis.

Members who read the Official Journal and keep in touch with affairs pertaining to our great organization have been anticipating just such a raise ever since our last convention. About six years ago the committee on the Revision of the Constitution recommended that the dues be raised to thirty-five cents per week. At that convention Mr. Todd, of Canada, certainly made his points clear, and convinced the delegates that in order to pay our liberal benefits we MUST increase our weekly dues to thirty-five cents. Accordingly, the delegates voted to raise the dues to thirty-five cents per week. Now then, when the time came to ratify the work of the delegates, what did the members of the organization do? They VOTED THE AMENDMENT DOWN.

It is a well known fact that our union not only protects its members but is a beneficiary organization as well. Our constitution is elastic in providing funds. We have the Assessment System, and, if you do not wish to pay increased weekly dues, you can pay assessments. But this latter course means more work for the local secretaries. It also makes more work for our International President; and, by the way, don't you think we are working him hard enough? We really pay him less than a first class cigar maker is earning at present, but he likes us so well that he refused to work for Governor Lowden, of Illinois, as head of the Department of Labor, at a salary three times as large as we pay him. So I guess he is our FRIEND, all right, don't you?

Now, before closing I wish to say a few words to our Class A members:

First—President Perkins is your true friend. Do not forget it. He is the man who first thought of the Class A System. He sat in his office in the city of Chicago, and, without any noise or agitation, tried to figure out some way to help better the conditions of our members. The result was that at our last convention, when Section 64 of our constitution came up for consideration, the arguments lasted four days. The amendment finally passed, but what did the members do when the time came to ratify this section of our constitution? They VOTED DOWN the Class A amendment. Six months later it again came up for consideration, and was again VOTED DOWN. However, it was finally passed, and has become part of our constitution. Now, it is up to you to show your appreciation of what the thirty cent members have done for you. Strive to become ACTIVE THIRTY CENT MEMBERS YOURSELVES. Take advantage of the chances we gave you. Do not listen to the talk of agitators who try to tell you that the Class A System is a detriment to you. And, above all, remember that the International President is your FRIEND. He will never give a decision against you, or anyone else, unless he is satisfied beyond a doubt that he is doing the BEST for all concerned.

Second—We SHOULD have a convention. The first thing some members say is, "Look at the expense." The cost of a convention is only about $1.00 for each member, and you surely will be benefited more than that amount.

Last, but not least, let me say that we are all proud of our First Vice President, Hon. Samuel Gompers. At present he is one of the world's leading men, and is doing noble work for HUMANITY and DEMOCRACY.

Respectfully submitted,

OTTO LUDWIG, Secty.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Sept. 3, 1918.

To the Members of the C. M. I. U., Brothers: I wish to acquaint you with the fact that the La Kurba factory in Benton Harbor, against whom we have carried on a strike for 15 weeks, has decided to move to Evansville, Ind. After pleading, begging, bulldozing and threatening our members the firm only secured two out of 47 strikers, but added a "thing" known as Chas. Winfield, the erstwhile loquacious god of the secessionist sentiment in Chicago, and the "Moses" who was leading the Class A members of 527 of Chicago and some of the other unions out of the honesty, stability and devotion to the principles of trade unionism into the grand and "glorious haven of progressiveness," otherwise known as secession, disruption, discord and dishonesty to men and principles. What a spectacle this renegade and his followers present!

They were to follow his lead to the end, "be the consequences what they may," and when this loud-mouthed, braying secessionist was exposed some of his fawning, lick-spittle friends run to cover, by denying that they ever admired or encouraged him.

Chickens come home to roost and true to his lifelong inclinations the hero (?) of "the only fighting union of Chicago" is back at his congenial occupation—scabbing it. This monstrous hero was recently fined by Class A Union, No. 527, for alleged statements to the state's attorney of Chicago that he and certain other members had been guilty of destroying and humiliating property. At a rump meeting held not long since in Chicago at which this progressive bolshevik hero vied with another as the dominating spirit and which meeting adopted the infamous, disloyal secessionist declaration that they would follow the lead "be the consequences what they may be," he ranted and raved, he derided and denounced, he belled and belittled everybody and everything that did not come within the web this venomous spider of hate and his secret comrades wanted—that is the right to rule or ruin, and while facing the rump meeting excoriating our officials, deriding our laws, censuring our methods and impugning our faith and purpose in, by and for the union, and while being cheered by the people who yelled with approving glee the sentiment that they would follow no matter to where they might be led, this measly hypocrite, this riproaring scab, this applauded hero of those who signed the circular of hate and dissension was at this time alleged to be on the official record of the state's attorney as an informer against his comrades.

The question naturally arises, Was he alone in his base designs?

Did he purposely and for a consideration with the aid of others sign an agreement settling and binding in a disgraceful manner for a period of two years our status as cigar makers and which agreement the International President, G. W. Perkins, refused to sanction? Possibly that act of the President deprived somebody of the promised spoils and the receptive soul was filled with spite and fear and in order to prepare the way to flight they, the conspirators, had to yell "stop thief," or we go no matter where or what the consequences may be.

However, the members at Benton Harbor saw the trick—they remained loyal to right, truth and correct principles. As to those who proclaimed credit for our organization and then gave us no assistance in our distress we have nothing to say. We know now who speak with the tongue of truth and who speak with the tongue of deception and distrust. The record made is hard to deny or to efface and we refuse to follow the leaders of hate and dissension.

Fraternally,

JOHN GRANIGAN.

Chicago, September, 1918.

The Faddist or the Hobbledoheys and their consorts who constitute the American Anti-Tobacco League, have once more trained their pop guns on Washington in the form of a circular on the Evils of Tobacco.

We cannot permit the fallacious statements of these reforming drones to pass unchallenged.

The statement that no one ever used tobacco at any time without injury is ridiculous.

There are millions of acres of uncultivated land (17,000,000 acres of tillable uncultivated land in the State of California alone), which would produce as profitable a grain crop as this tobacco producing land. While the tobacco land, owing to the chemical properties of the soil will yield a more remunerative crop of tobacco, is a fact which may cause the owners of one million and a half acres of tobacco producing land to oppose the misguided prohibitionists.

A perusal of the internal revenue reports will convince them that congressional opposition is certain. And common sense should convince them that several million smokers will resent this insult to their intelligence, and this slur on their mental efficiency.

There can be no dissipation of labor power in an industry paying the enormous amount of revenue the tobacco industries do. And why deprive the United States treasury of this income, when a strict enforcement of the new draft laws will place at the disposal of the government several hundred thousand habitual idlers, and obnoxious, reformers, whose mental inefficiency can be easily overcome by placing them under the supervision of a big, brawny, patriotic, tobacco smoking tiller of the soil who knows his business.

That tobacco contains nicotine, a narcotic poison, is a well known fact. But nicotine forms less than one ten-thousandth part of all the constituents of smoke. And a single cigar introduces little more than one milligram of nicotine into the smoker's system. And the adult smoker is entirely immune to nicotine poisoning.

A cigar placed in the stomach of man might cause death. But a deadly effect could be expected from these misleading circulars, if people were foolish enough to roll them up and swallow them.

Dr. Hirschberg says the allegation that nicotine absorbed into the body produces or induces many deadly maladies, such as cancer, paralysis, bronchitis, blindness, heart disease, tuberculosis, as believed by a great many people, including smokers, is not true. And that the conclusion to which they lead is incorrect, illogical and ridiculous.

The statement that infants have been killed by tobacco smoke would lead the gullible to believe that this is a frequent occurrence—PURE ROT.

They would prohibit smoking because a burning cigarette stub started the Constantinople fire. "YE GODS!" If the faddists had lived at the time of the great Chicago fire, they would have, in all probability, started a movement to prevent the use of cows, because Mrs. O'Leary's bovine benefactress inadvertently kicked over the lantern.

These anti-Americans who would ruthlessly take from the mouth of the dying American soldier, as he lays shattered, and beyond all earthly help, the little harmless cube of tobacco, the one comfort he pleads for as he is carried from the battle field.

These reforming ingrates would repay these big, strong, brave, American patriots who generously sacrifice their lives for the liberty of the world by refusing them the one and only luxury allowed them in the trenches.

Have these ingrates taken into consideration the fact that 98 per cent of our fighting men use tobacco.

Has it ever dawned on the anti-tobacco leaguers that millions of fighting patriots, millions of fathers and mothers, wives, sweethearts, sisters and brothers are going to question their patriotism?

These fanatical egotists have issued a circular in which they question the intelligence of the grandest fighting men the world has ever seen, also the intelligence of every tobacco devotee in the country.

They ask Congress and the Senate to awake. "They will," and the awakening without a doubt will be some shock to these un-American meddlers.

WM. A. BORDEN.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 10, 1918.

You have by this time voted on the appeal of Union No. 527 of Chicago and the appeal of some delegates of the J. A. B. of Chicago against the International President and the Executive Board's decision, consequently this communication can in no wise be construed as an attempt to influence your vote. This brief note only wishes to call to your attention the Winfields and the other that we have to contend with, and their unusual and despicable manner of camouflaging the membership as to their constitutional rights which they allege some one is trying to rob them of. They talk about constitutional rights but in all my recollection with the referendum on appeals, I can not recall an instance where a union sent out a begging letter to the membership at large during a vote on any question to sustain them in their contention. Note the circular dated August 14, 1918. This circular was sent out on the eve of a vote upon the two appeals with the demand to vote in favor of the appellants. The trouble with this crew is they can't stand for the truth set forth in the documents presented for referendum and would hardly have been satisfied even if only their side of the case had been presented. I believe this controversy as presented to the membership at large will be settled once and for all time and that a proper rebuke will be handed those who demand of the membership to vote blindfolded in their favor. Before these appellants talk about the truth let them learn what forgery means, for it is a fact that names appear as signers of their circular who never knew of its existence until it came to their union.

After all—Let's win the war.

Fraternally,

FRED W. PLOUZEK.

Union 394 calls attention to its proposed amendment as published in this issue of the Official Journal and asks endorsement of same. Believing in our struggle for democracy involved in the great world's war, and the patriotism of our members, we deem it essential to the best interest of the International union to discontinue the publication of the foreign languages. The "Journal" being an exchange of different labor organizations and press, makes our amendment both a patriotic and economical one. We understand the cost of paper has doubled and the cost of printing increased largely.

UNION 394, Sycamore, Ill.

Avis Officiel.

D'accord avec la section 184 de la Constitution, le Conseil Exécutif International a levé une imposition hebdomadaire courante pour remplir le Fonds Général, de 25 centins sur chaque membre payant 30, 20 et 15 centins et sur les membres à 12 centins de la classe A. L'imposition commerce le 2 septembre 1918 et continuera jusqu'à ce que le Fonds Général se trouve porté au chiffre que prévoit la Constitution.

Aviso Oficial.

De acuerdo con la sección 184 de la Constitución, la Mesa Ejecutiva Internacional ha levantado la imposición semanal corriente para llenar el Fondo General de 25 centavos sobre cada miembro de a 30, 20 y 15 centavos y sobre cada miembro de a 12 centavos de la clase A. Comienza la imposición el 2 de septiembre de 1918 y continuará efectiva hasta que llegue el montante del Fondo General a la cifra que estipula la constitución.

Ofední oznámení.

Ve shodě se stanovami, dle článku 184, Mezinárodní výkonná rada vypsala každotýdní assessment, na doplnění všeobecného fondu, a sice 25c na každého 30centového, 20centového a 15centového člena, a 12c na členy v třídě A. — Assessment se započne platiti dne 2. září 1918, a bude se platit tak dlouho až všeobecný fond dostoupne výše stanovami požadované.

Offizielle Notiz.

Im Einklang mit Paragraph 184 der Constitution hat der International Executive Board ein fortgesetztes wöchentliches Assessment aufgelegt, um den General-Fund zu ersetzen. Dieses Assessment beträgt wöchentlich 25 Cents für jedes 30-Cent, 20-Cent und 15-Cent Mitglied; Klasse A Mitglieder bezahlen 12 Cents wöchentlich. Das Assessment beginnt mit dem 2. September 1918 und bleibt solange in Kraft bis der General-Fund den konstitutionellen Betrag aufzuweisen hat.

REPORT OF ORGANIZERS.

Hamilton, Ont., Sept. 3, 1918.

Labor Day, 1918, is past history, and organized workers can feel proud of the various demonstrations held throughout Canada on Sept. 2nd. Never in the history of the labor movement has there been so much enthusiasm and activity displayed in the interest of organized labor.

It is true, that due to certain conditions brought on by the war, economic power of a few organized trades is weaker now than before the war. The vast majority of trades have become much stronger in every respect, than they were before the war, due to the fact that the workers are realizing that while the boys are fighting for democracy "over there," we must do our bit at home if we wish to assist them in this fight and also to hold their position in the industrial field, at least as good for them when they come back, as when they went away. Cigar makers, recently organized in Class A in Brantford, have received "one dollar" increase.

In London we were successful in organizing two shops and are now using our Blue Label; also assisted forming a Label League. Union 278 is active in local label agitation. I find that the small shops throughout Ontario have been hit hard and many have quit business, which means that the trade is fast going to the larger firms, who, we are informed, have formed an association. I mention this fact, so our members will know whom we will have to deal with in the future. A. Wilson Co., of Toronto, with branch shop in Montreal, and Tuckett Co., of Hamilton, with branch shops in London and Montreal, and the Hilda Co., of Hamilton, have declared war on our organization. While in Toronto I worked with committee of Union 27 in publicity campaign reference the Wilson Co. This firm induced the strippers to take the places of cigar makers who were locked out. We talked to these girls and they all agreed not to work for the Wilson Co. and will stay out with the cigar makers.

Tuckett Co. have refused to give the men any consideration and are trying in every way to disrupt our union. Since this firm has dropped away from the union they have been arrested and fined "ten dollars" a head for every child they had working between 11 and 14 years of age. Now it is up to each and every one of our members to realize what the results would be should these firms meet with any encouragement in their desire to disrupt our organization. We must and will carry this fight to a successful conclusion. It can only be done by every member doing his "bit." Our aim, as you know, is to organize the women and girls working at the trade, but special inducements are given them at this time by the nonunion firms, to keep them away from our union, as we found out in our attempt to organize them in Montreal. It will take time to educate these girls and show them we are their friends and not their enemies. And until then we must depend on our "Blue Label" to keep up our conditions, and to do this we must get the sympathy of the organized worker and the smoker, so let us all be boosters for the Blue Label. In Kingston I found girls making cigars for five dollars a week and they were afraid to come to a meeting.

Report of International Financier.

New York City, N. Y., Sept. 7, 1918.

Since last report have examined the accounts of the following unions, viz.:

Union 90, New York City, N. Y.

Accounts are correct. Card system for entering benefits paid instead of having them in the ledger. Statement as follows:

International balance for Oct. 1, 1916. $ 642.14
Receipts to Aug. 1, 1918. 80,740.60
Total $81,382.74
Expense to Aug. 1, 1918. 79,516.92

International balance for Aug. 1, 1918. $ 1,865.82

Funds of Union—

Aug. 1, 1918, in Manhattan Savings Bank $376.48
Aug. 1, 1918, in Yorkville Savings Bank 504.00
In possession Sec'y Jacob Rhine 985.34
Total $ 1,865.82

Union 141, New York City, N. Y.

Accounts are in excellent condition. Statement as follows:

International balance for Sept. 30, 1916 $ 3,579.39
Receipts to Sept. 1, 1918. 68,898.98
Total $72,478.37
Expense to Sept. 1, 1918. 69,646.37

International balance for Sept. 1, 1918 $ 2,832.00

Funds of Union—

Sept. 1, 1918, in banks $1,747.75
In possession Sec'y Jos. Wodicka 1,084.25
Total $ 2,832.00

Union 144, New York City, N. Y.

Accounts are correct; strictly accurate. Statement as follows:

Balance on hand Oct. 1, 1916. $ 2,269.99
Receipts to Sept. 1, 1918. 55,635.45
Total $57,905.44
Expense to Sept. 1, 1918. 55,015.19

International balance for Sept. 1, 1918 $ 2,890.25

Funds of Union—

Sept. 1, 1918, in banks $1,608.53
In possession Sec'y M. Brown 1,281.72
Total $ 2,890.25

Union 165, Philadelphia, Pa.

When we remember who some of the members are here the condition of this union is astounding. If there is a place that needs fixing Philadelphia is one of them. Every fault imaginable. Ledger away behind; many members not even entered. Benefits have not been entered for about three years. Some members that are paid up in dues still owe 1916 and 1917 International assessments; others owe all kinds of dues; many of them 20-cent dues paying members. The Finance Committee surely did not investigate the ledger accounts a few months ago. The reports and accounts show Sec'y-Treas. Geo. H. Ullrich had $5.08 in his possession at the end of the month and the report and bank book shows $2,000 in bank, and yet when they made up the reports for March, 1918, he could not turn over $1,429.58 in money, the reports and accounts show he should have. And they enter that amount as embezzled by him. This is verified by Gibson Weber, chairman of the Finance Committee, and the members that turned the office over to the new secretary, L. Hernfeld. I hold Ullrich for $20.10 due to International Union on examination. Omitted dues, etc., makes the amount due from him $1,449.68. At this time am not in a position to say how this will finish. Ullrich does not seem to try very hard. If he does not produce the money Section 176 will have to be complied with. Defaulters and embezzlers must be prosecuted criminally. Statement as follows:

International balance for June 1, 1915. $ 3,191.10
Receipts to May 30, 1918. 49,561.27
Expended over percentage, 1915. 684.65
Expended over percentage, 1916. 478.08
Expended over percentage, 1917. 1,555.31
Due to International Union on examination 20.10

Total $55,490.51
Expense to May 30, 1918. $51,492.97
Due to Union 165 on examination 170.46
Total 51,663.43

Balance should be May 30, 1918. $ 3,827.08

Funds of Union—

May 30, 1918, in Gerard National Bank $410.36
In defunct Chestnut Street Bank 89.10
In possession Sec'y-Treas. L. Hernfeld 283.85
Total 783.31

Deficiency of Union May 30, 1918. $ 3,043.77
Includes due from Ullrich $1,449.68

Balance old deficiency of Union 1,594.09
Total $ 3,043.77

Lack of confidence in the officers and union itself. This can and should be corrected.

Yours fraternally,

W. A. CAMPBELL,
International Financier.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Members who while at work refuse or fail to pay per cent on loans suspend themselves without any action by the secretary.

In several instances where cards had been stolen from members secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book and in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privileges in dues unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such report the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per Section 149, give full record of membership as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity of complying with the request, carefully study Section 144c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal will" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

Section 144c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there be no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there be no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death were dependent for support in whole or in part.

The International Union cannot authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefit rests entirely with such members.

In order to avoid confusion when a Class A member changes from 15-cent dues to 30-cent dues, secretaries under the law are to give such members one-half time on length of membership, and write the following in ink in the due book: "Changed from Class A to 30-cent dues paying class. Time on full benefits commences (computed on basis of one-half time)." Should such member desire to travel he should be given a new due book and traveling card, both of which should give the date of initiation computed on the above mentioned basis, and the words "Changed From Class A" written on both due book and traveling card. Whenever a Class A 15-cent member changes to a 30-cent membership secretaries should always so state on their monthly reports, and record the transaction on their books.

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

In compliance with Section 184 of the Constitution, the International Executive Board levied a running weekly assessment, to replenish the General Fund, of 25c on each 30-cent, 20-cent, and 15-cent member, and 12c on Class A members. The assessment commences on September 2, 1918, and continues until the General Fund reaches the Constitutional requirement.

DECISIONS OF THE PRESIDENT

Jacob Selig and Fred Petersen appealed against the Joint Advisory Board of Chicago, reference levying an assessment at the meeting Sept. 27, 1917, claiming irregularities and violation of the International Constitution. The appeal was sustained.

E. Feifer & Co. appealed against the Joint Advisory Board of New York for placing an additional cost of $1 on a special brand of cigar. The appeal was not sustained.

T. Bednarck appealed against Union 114, Jacksonville, for suspending him for non-payment of dues. The appellant claims the sixteen week privilege and shows he had reported weekly after the seventh week. The appeal was sustained.

J. L. Gilliam et al. appealed against Union 4, Cincinnati, for fining them each $10.00 for drawing salary and strike benefit while acting as strike committee for the union, and ordering them to return amounts drawn as salary. The decision is—the appeal was sustained as follows: The fine is removed. The local by-laws provide that members shall receive, when performing work for the union, so much per hour. The union authorized their strike committee, and under the local by-laws and action of the union, they were entitled to pay either from the local fund or out of the 20 per cent allowed the union. They, however, are not entitled to strike benefit while drawing the stipulated pay for committee work. This means they do not have to return the money drawn as salary. The fine imposed on the secretary for paying this salary is removed.

INTERNATIONAL FINES

Approved by the International Executive Board.

Charles W. Winfield fined $500 and expelled by Union 527, Chicago, Ill., for conduct unbecoming a union man and alleged betrayal of the union to the employers. The union made application to fine him $10,000. Vote: Affirmative, 4; one member approved $500, one member approved $100, two members disapproved the fine.

Grant Keener (81585) and Mrs. Florence McAlexander (44428) fined $100 each and expelled by 33, Indianapolis, Ind., Mr. Keener for running a non-union shop and Mrs. McAlexander for working in a non-union shop. Vote: Affirmative, 4; one member disapproved suspension; one member approved $50 fine on each; and one member approved $25 fine on Mrs. McAlexander.

John Hall (70454) fined $100 by 379, Rochester, Ind., for taking job of foreman in unfair shop of H. H. Hood. Vote—Affirmative, 5; one member approved $50, and one member approved $25.

Herb. A. Hayes (80616) fined $100 by 306, Pueblo, Colo., for working in an unfair factory. Vote—Affirmative, 5; two members approved $50.

Fines of $10 or Less.

Union 111, Des Moines, Ia., fined John Lee (59891) $12.50 for board bill.

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and, in addition, send in such cards, but place on your letter the information necessary, as the letter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 148 to 149 inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted resolutions of respect and condolence relative to death or deaths as follows and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days:

Union 25, Milwaukee, Wis.—George Fischer (94470), who died Sept. 8.

Union 218, Binghamton, N. Y.—James F. Linehan (27184), who died Aug. 7.

LOST CARDS

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

The amendment of Union 97, as published in the August issue, as follows:

That the president of the C. M. I. U. of A. shall call a convention of the Int. Union at the earliest possible date after submitting this amendment to a referendum vote, and after same has been approved by a majority vote of the members he shall select the city in which said convention shall be held. He is authorized to stipulate date for notification and the appointment of committee on constitution.

Received the endorsement of 179, Bangor; 473, Stettler; 295, Scranton; 44, St. Louis; 130, Saginaw; 389, New York; 6, Syracuse.

Union No. 293, Ft. Smith, offers the following amendment to constitution:

Add to Section 56—That the President shall appoint within 30 days, after adoption, with the approval of the International Executive Board, a commission of five (5) members, whose duty it shall be, to make a study of conditions of the cigar industry in each section, and to make a detailed report, as they find them, together with such recommendations as they deem proper and necessary for the betterment of the union, such recommendations to be submitted to referendum vote of Cigar Makers' Union. Members of said commission shall receive railroad fare and $6 per diem for actual time lost while on duty.

Report of the commission to be published in Journal.

Amendment by Local 88, of Dubuque: That there be a convention of C. M. I. U. of A. held within six months from date. The International Executive Board to name the city and time of the convention to be held.

Union 97, Boston, proposed the following amendment to Section 150 of the constitution:

Add after the words "Blue Color" on line 6—"Four inches in length and one inch in width." Section to read: "The President of the International Union shall have prepared, printed and registered a trade-mark label, to be known as the Union Label, perforated sheets of not less than ten, suitable to be pasted on the outside of the box, so that the label will be conspicuously displayed. The labels shall be of light blue color, four inches in length and one inch in width. All labels issued shall be printed in series, and numbered consecutively. The proportion of labels used by the Canadian unions to be printed in Canada by order and under the supervision of the International President."

Union 44, St. Louis, proposes the following amendment to Section 154, International Constitution: Amend line 23 as follows—Pays less than $15.00 (instead of $10.00) per thousand for hand work of 4 inches or less—then continue balance of the section.

Union 394 proposes the following amendment to the constitution: Strike out the words German, Bohemian, French and Spanish on line 3, Section 204, section to read: The Official Journal of the International Union shall be entitled "Cigar Makers Official Journal." It shall be published in the English language. It shall be edited in conformity with the principles and resolutions of the International Union. The International President shall be the editor and publisher; he shall be empowered to secure such assistance as may be necessary to aid him in the issuance of the Journal, the salary to be regulated by the Executive Board.

The amendment of 132, Brooklyn, as published in the August issue, as follows:

Strike out Section 92 and insert the following: Members shall be permitted to make an application for strike at any time for an increase of wages except from December 15 until January 15 in any one year.

Received the endorsement of 218, Binghamton; 383, Chicago; 274, Pekin; 179, Bangor; 9, Troy; 44, St. Louis.

The amendment of 37, Fort Wayne, as published in the August issue, as follows:

Section —. The International Union urges upon all unions the advisability and necessity of subscribing for the bona fide labor press (if any exist in their jurisdiction) as unions for all the members of the local unions, to be paid for by local assessment, and render further support, such as patronizing of its advertisers to the exclusion of others, provided also that unfair firms or merchandise are not advertised in its columns, to the end that the value of its columns as an advertising medium may be fully appreciated by the friendly element of its community.

Received the endorsement of 218, Binghamton; 44, St. Louis.

The amendment of 274, Pekin, changing the word "box," in Section 151, to "package," as published in the July issue—

Received the endorsement of 90, New York; 150, Sioux City; 416, Norwalk; 129, Denver; 9, Troy; 499, Trinidad.

Not having received sufficient endorsements it can not be submitted to popular vote.

The amendment of 462, W. Tampa, reference the filling out of death benefit designation blank, as published in the July issue—

Received the endorsement of 274, Pekin.

Not having received sufficient endorsements, it can not be submitted to popular vote.

The amendment of Union 90, New York, as published in the August issue, as follows:

Strike out in Sec. No. 92 all from 2nd line after wages till September on line 10 and insert "from December 15 till January 15."

Section to read:

No strike shall be approved or sustained by the International Union for an increase in wages between the 15th day of December till the 15th day of January of any year.

But this shall in no way preclude the approval of strikes against the reduction of wages or the truck system, or against the introduction of tenement house work.

Received the endorsement of 274, Pekin; 389, New York; 6, Syracuse.

The amendment of 336, Tampa, as published in the August Journal, as follows:

Amend Section 67 by striking out the first and second line up to word "weekly" and insert: It shall be optional with local unions to reinstate any member suspended by any local union on the payment of $3 or $5, which may be paid in six weekly installments or all at once at the option of the union.

Also amend the word fee to fees on the eighth line, balance of section read the same as at present.

Received the endorsement of 257, Lancaster.

The amendment of 336, Tampa, as published in the August Journal, as follows:

First. Section 64: Strike out on lines 10 and 11 the words 15 cents weekly dues and insert 20 cents weekly dues and one-half of all assessments levied by the International Union, section to read accordingly.

Second. Class A: Strike out 15 cents weekly dues and insert 20 cents weekly dues, section to read accordingly.

Third. Section 70: Strike out on line 2 the words 20 cents weekly dues and insert 35 cents weekly dues, section to read accordingly.

Fourth. Section 73: Strike out on line 5 the words 20 cents weekly dues and insert 25 cents weekly dues, section to read accordingly.

Upon the adoption of these amendments the International President shall cause the constitution to be corrected so as to conform to these amendments.

Received no endorsements.

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

(An amendment takes effect the first of the month following the publication of notice of its adoption in the Official Journal.)

Amendments adopted since the June 15, 1917, edition of the constitution:

By 208, Kalamazoo, Mich.: To amend Section 154 by adding after the word "bunches," on line 23, "nor which pays less than $10.00 per thousand for hand work, less than four molds of 10 bunches each with press on table, or two 20-bunch molds in shaper press, to be considered hand work."

Take Notice.—The amendment of 238, Sacramento, Calif., takes the place of the 132, Brooklyn, amendment, and supersedes all other amendments reference war retiring cards and benefits. The amendment, published elsewhere in this Journal, says: "This amendment shall govern all other sections which deal with benefits of such members who may be doing military duty or are beyond the boundary lines as defined in our constitution."

By 238, Sacramento, Calif.: War Retiring Card Amendment:

(a) That the President of the International Cigar Makers' Union cause to be printed a War Retiring Card, to read as follows:

(b) This is to certify that Mr. Card No. Initiated by When has entered the service of (U. S. or Allies Army or Navy), and is entitled to all benefits as may be contained in the War Retiring Card Amendment.

Pres. C. M. I. U.

Signed—

..... Local Pres.
..... Fin. Sec.

(c) Any member who may by draft or voluntary enlistment enter the service of the United States Army or Navy or the service of the Army or Navy of any allied country, during this period of war, shall be entitled to a War Retiring Card, providing such member is in good standing at the time of his or her application for a War Retiring Card.

(d) Any member who is a holder of a War Retiring Card shall be exempt from all dues, fines and assessments, and upon his or her reentrance in the actual making or packing of cigars shall be entitled to his or her original card from which he or she was transferred, with all benefits as entitled to from the date of initiation, except for such time as he or she was holding a War Retiring Card.

(e) Any member holding a War Retiring Card shall be entitled to his or her original card free of charge.

(f) All transfers shall be made at regular or executive board meetings.

(g) Applications for transfer to the War Retiring Card may be made in writing.

(h) All cards from which members transfer to the War Retiring Card shall be sent to the International President to be kept on file.

(i) It shall be the duty of the International President to have sufficient War Retiring Cards printed, which shall be distributed to all local unions.

(j) No benefits shall be paid to any member while holding a War Retiring Card.

(k) This amendment shall govern all other sections which deal with benefits of such members who may be doing military duty or are beyond the boundary lines as is defined by our constitution.

UNION NOTES

Appended herewith is a list of donations received from various unions in aid of our strike and we wish at this time to extend our sincere thanks for such assistance—especially are we indebted to the members of Union No. 14, Chicago, who not only rendered financial aid but gave us hearty support in other ways.

Our strike is still on and the great business agent that was of Class A, 527, Chicago, after many attempts to poison the minds of the members against the International Union, has finally turned his yellow, cowardly, snakey nature to the limelight of truth, and like a real, lying, deceiving traitor, has gone into the shop as a strike-breaker.

Of such material is Chas. Winfield and his friends.

Fraternally,
MARTIN SCHICK, Secy. 530.

Union 250, Belleville, Ill., requests secretary holding card of Charles E. Smith (68368) to collect $2 and forward it to Union 250.

Correction—D. Sugden, secretary of 224, Salt Lake City, states that the private loan of E. Galligan (20609) was paid long ago and that the publication of his name was a mistake.

Notes by 97, Boston.

Originally you had to join the union from the city from which you came.—Prior to the Civil War a manufacturer in our business was a workman with small means.—Mould was invented in 1867.—K. of L. formed in 1869.—An interchange of thought between the members from the North and South, the East and West, will do much to clarify the atmosphere. As an educator nothing equals a convention.—Dues of 20-cent members ought to and must be increased to at least 30 cents.—Second our amendment for a small label. It will be more convenient and will conserve paper. The government may refuse to allow paper to be used for labels if you don't; besides, cigar manufacturers are saving on their box labels.—It is said that over one million and a half dollars was the profit on Sumatra tobacco made at the last sale in New York, without the investment of a dollar.—The co-operation of our executive board with our label committee has done much to contribute to our success.—President Standcumbe of the New England Conference has been in Rutland, Vt., and in Washington, where he investigated rumor reference to the embargo on tobacco. He is now at the State Branch Convention.—In one of the windows of a great daily there was an exhibit of non-union cigars. An interview by our president with the business manager resulted in their removal and a promise that no other brand of cigars would be exhibited without consulting 97.—John J. Jong, a member of 97, was killed somewhere in France, and now a flag with a gold star flies from the office of our local.

March 3, 1879.

Organized labor and American citizenship in general will join in a national welcome to Samuel Gompers on his return from Europe.

Welcome to Under the auspices of the American Alliance for Labor and Democracy, of which Mr. Gompers is president, a national mass-meeting will be held in the magnificent Auditorium in Chicago on a date tentatively fixed as Nov. 8.

To this great national gathering the Alliance has invited men and women representative of all walks of American life.

It will be impossible for President Gompers to make an extended speaking tour upon his return, and the meeting planned for Chicago has been arranged so as to bring together as large a number of people as possible from all parts of the nation to hear the message the great labor leader will have to deliver.

President Gompers will return from Europe on a date that cannot be known until he sets foot on American soil—but at whatever date he returns it will be as a center of national interest. He will come home after having seen the war from every possible viewpoint, and he will return after having rendered a service not surpassed by any American who has gone to the other side. After having given marvelous service at home, he went to Europe at a critical hour and performed there a service that must be recorded in the history of America for all time.

The reputation of tobacco as a preventative of septic conditions, is well established.

Essential Industries. Its alleged evils, even if verified, appear negligible, when brought into comparison with that "vast aggregate of gentle, exhilarating, soothing and social comfort" extracted from our cigars. Cigars, as well as tobacco in all its forms, are furnished to and used by our soldiers and sailors. It has proven to be to them a particularly sustaining "solace." The Government has recognized this fact in many ways. The parents, relatives generally, and friends of our soldier boys, see to it that their boy is supplied with "smokes." Men's clubs and women's societies, newspaper offices and many smaller clubs and societies, are organized for the express purpose of looking after this great need of "the one over there," and all of them are as successful in their way as the more prominent organizations engaged in war activities.

Even under the present busy conditions "over there" the soldier finds some time to think of himself and his deprivations. Lonesomeness and homesickness are liable to attack him during such periods, and when these attacks come, it is well that a cigar and a light are within his reach. Even while the first puff is still in anticipation, the keenness of his agony begins to dull and soon his troubles become endurable and he resumes his philosophical view of life.

In the hospitals, the patients' need of this solace is far greater than that of the boy who has so many duties to keep him from himself.

Does any well balanced mind doubt for a moment that the cigar making industry is essential? Essential—that is—"necessary for the maintainance of the national interests during the emergency."

Despite all of this, and more too, some of the "self styled reformers" are now trying to "kid themselves" into believing and making others believe, that the cigar industry is a "non-essential" industry. We know that it isn't, and so do all other well informed, intelligent, right thinking people.

The General Cigar Company, composed largely of the cigar manufacturers that were formerly in the trust known as "The United Cigar Trust Methods. Manufacturers" and now associated with several leaf dealers and others closely allied to the cigar manufacturer and cigar industry, has been investigated and indicted by a federal grand jury for the alleged violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law and the Wilson Tariff Law.

One of the chief transactions investigated was the importation, transportation and distribution of twenty million dollars' worth of Sumatra wrappers during the past two years. Thousands of small manufacturers have recently been complaining that they could not get Sumatra wrappers. The Government is now trying to furnish the reason why.

Nearly every concern in the General Cigar Company is non-union from cellar to garret, and largely conduct their cigar factories through the employment of unorganized and unprotected women workers at starvation wages. Everybody knows, without saying, that Sumatra tobacco was cornered and that only those in the "combine" had a "look in." Small independent and union manufacturers in a great many instances, were unable to buy Sumatra tobacco, because of the high price. All such were generally told that it was "because of the war." It now remains to be seen what the Government will do further in the matter. There should be no compromise. If these people are guilty, as charged, they should be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

What will the harvest be?

The Illinois union coal miners, the pioneers in the co-operative movement in this "neck of the woods," several years ago started out in a small way, basing their movement strictly upon the so-called "Rochdale co-operative plan." There are now about seventy stores in operation in the state of Illinois, and all doing a splendid and successful business. Those who were "wise enough" to start these co-operative movements are now particularly fortunate in reaping the benefits.

Co-operatively owned and conducted stores enable the members thereof to protect their union-made wages against the merciless greed of profiteers. Profiteering has always existed, but not to the extent practiced during the war. It probably always will exist. The workers, however, have it in their power to protect their interests, and can do so without the changing of a single law or the upsetting of any political system, federal, state, municipal or any subdivision thereof by the simple application of "The Rochdale co-operative system."

The American Federation of Labor at its Buffalo convention in 1917 started a movement to encourage the formation and development of a co-operative system. Headway in this direction, however, has been greatly interfered with, because of the war and the supreme importance of devoting every ounce of energy and time necessary in war work.

It is to be hoped that this movement will not be entirely lost sight of, even during the war, and that as soon as it is over a redoubled and earnest effort will be made to establish the co-operative movement all over the length and breadth of our fair land.

We publish, herewith, a letter from E. B. Parker of the Priorities Commissioner, and which is self explanatory.

To All Tobacco Manufacturers:

Preference List No. 2, issued September 3, 1918, by the Priorities Division of the War Industries Board (Circular No. 20), furnishes a guide to—

All governmental agencies and all others interested in (1) the production and supply of fuel and electric energy, (2) the supply of labor, and (3) the supply of transportation service by rail, water, pipe lines, or otherwise, in so far as such service contributes to production of finished products.

Priorities in the supply and distribution of raw materials, semi-finished products, and finished products are not governed by the Preference List, but by priority certificates and automatic ratings described in Circular No. 4 and its supplements, issued by this Division.

Attention is particularly invited to the fact that no attempt has been made to embrace within the Preference List all essential industries, but only such as, taking into account the urgency of the demand and the relation of the supply to the demand, in the public interest, as a war measure, require the artificial stimulus of priority over other essential industries. It should be constantly borne in mind that there are industries and plants which, measured by this test, do not require general preferential treatment, which are nevertheless essential industries.

The Priorities Board has, in issuing Preference List No. 2, recognized that the tobacco industry is entitled to preferential treatment to the extent of "preserving, drying, curing, packing and storing same"; and to this extent it is given a Class IV rating. While the Priorities Board recognizes that to the extent tobacco is required by the armies and navies of the United States and its Allies, and by the man who toils, it is essential, it nevertheless has decided that the industry as a whole does not require the artificial stimulus of priority, save as hereinafter provided.

In view of the essential nature of the industry, as heretofore indicated, the tobacco manufacturers and the producers of tobacco-manufacturing machinery and supplies are hereby given an automatic class B-6 rating, under the provisions of Circular No. 4 above mentioned, for such materials, equipment, and supplies as may be necessary to keep their existing plants in operation during the war, without expanding them or creating new facilities; conditioned, however, upon their strictly complying with the provisions following:

1. Each manufacturer shall execute and file with this division its pledge in writing, as follows:

Pledge of Tobacco Manufacturers.

Priorities Division, War Industries Board,
Washington, D. C.:

The undersigned hereby pledges itself that (1) during the period of the war it will not expand its existing manufacturing facilities or create new facilities without first obtaining the approval in writing of the Priorities Division of the War Industries Board; (2) it will use its utmost endeavors to keep its existing facilities and equipment in repair rather than install new equipment; (3) it will comply with all the regulations of the Priorities Division and the Conservation Division of the War Industries Board as to economies in and substitutions for materials, particularly those regulations to be hereafter promulgated for the purpose of eliminating the use of iron, steel, and tin in packing and marketing tobacco.

2. Steel is now the world's most precious metal, and every pound of it consumed where some other substance can be substituted, is a criminal waste of material urgently needed for the war. The tobacco industry in 1917 used metal containers for their products in the manufacture of which 4 per cent of the tin-plate production of the United States was consumed, being 1,481,187 base boxes, containing 74,069 tons of steel and 1,333 tons of pig tin. Tinfoil contains in excess of 4 per cent of pig tin, which must be imported from the Far East, the shipping space for which is extremely limited. Regulations will hereafter be promulgated fixing a day beyond which the manufacturer of tobacco should not use these metals for packing and marketing his product. The demand for box board and paper cartons and other containers for packing and transportation purposes is so abnormally heavy that the strictest economy in their use is imperative.

3. In view of these conditions it is confidently expected that you will put forth every effort to co-operate to the fullest extent, to the end that the purpose and intent of this circular may be consummated.

Yours very truly,
EDWIN B. PARKER,
Priorities Commissioner.

The following interesting report was made by a committee, representing a number of cigar manufacturers, who met recently in New York City.

We publish the report, and without comment:

Proposed Conservation Schedule Boxes.

1. That no cigars of the Class A type as defined by the Internal Revenue Laws or Regulations shall be packed in wooden boxes of less than 100 each; provided, however, that a reasonable number of boxes containing 25 cigars each or less may be used to meet ordinary requirements for samples.

2. That no cigars of the Class B type as defined by the Internal Revenue Laws or Regulations shall be packed in wooden boxes of less than 100 each; provided, however, that a reasonable number of boxes containing 25 cigars each or less may be used to meet ordinary requirements for samples.

3. That no cigars of the Class C type as defined by the Internal Revenue Laws or Regulations shall be packed in wooden boxes of less than 50 each; provided, however, that a reasonable number of boxes containing 25 cigars each or less may be used to meet ordinary requirements for samples.

4. The use of package units smaller than those hereinabove specified of material other than wood, tin, or foil may be continued, subject to the regulations of the Fibre Board and Container Section of the War Industries Board; provided, however, that no labels or separate wrappers covering such packages or any parts thereof shall be used in connection therewith, and that all printing on such packages shall be done directly upon the package, shell, box or container, and shall not be of more than four colors.

5. The use of Boite Nature Boxes is deemed to be an economy, provided that the wood used for such boxes shall be reduced approximately to the thickness of the regular cigar boxes, and that such boxes have flat tops. As thus specified, the use of Boite Nature Boxes may be continued.

6. The use of varnish for any cigar boxes is to be discontinued.

Labels, Etc.

7. All tags, pasters, front marks, color marks, distributor's tags, and all outside labels, with the exception of box-end labels, are to be discontinued. Such box-end labels may be used on one end of the box only; provided, however, that the size of such label be limited to the size of the box-end, so as not to extend over to cover any part of the top or bottom of the box.

8. Printed or lithographed flaps, extension tags, or back strips are to be discontinued. Detached top sheets of uncoated paper, unprinted, may be used in lieu of flaps. A single imprint on the rear side of the box lining is permissible.

9. The use of colored or cedar paper for the purpose of covering the outside of boxes other than the tops is to be discontinued. The tops may be covered with such paper, but uncoated and unvarnished, and such paper tops may have but one imprint thereon.

10. Edgings being necessary to strengthen the box, the use of same must therefore necessarily be continued, but such edgings shall be of uncoated stock and the printing or lithographing thereon shall not exceed four (4) colors, nor shall it contain bronze, gold, or metal leaf.

11. The wrapping of individual cigars in paper may be continued, and such paper wrappers may have one imprint thereon, but cigars so wrapped in paper shall not have any bands thereon.

12. The use of oil or wax paper for the outside covering (wrapping) of packages is to be discontinued.

Tin Containers.

13. Tin containers are to be eliminated, using in lieu thereof such substitutes as may be found available; or such other containers or boxes as may be found practicable, but which shall not be in conflict with the foregoing recommendations, and shall comply with the regulations of the Fibre Board and Container Section of the War Industries Board.

Tin Foil.

14. The use of tin foil in any manner whatsoever in connection with cigars shall be discontinued.

Ribbons.

15. The use of pure silk ribbons is to be discontinued.

General Provisions.

A. It is of course understood that the foregoing provisions apply only to cigars weighing over three pounds per thousand and that except as hereinabove specifically provided for, no changes are required either in packing, labeling or manufacturing of cigars.

B. Stock on hand or in process at the time of the adoption of this conservation schedule affected by the provisions contained in paragraphs 4, 5, 6, 10, and 11, may be utilized, but no new orders for such material shall be placed or accepted after the conservation schedule has been adopted.

C. The provisions contained in paragraphs 7, 8, 9, 12, 14 and 15 are to take effect immediately upon the adoption of this conservation schedule; provided, however, that (a) box-end labels, and (b) cedar or colored paper for box tops only, on hand or in process of manufacture, may be utilized, but no further orders shall be placed or received for same except as herein specified.

D. The provisions contained in paragraphs 1, 2, 3 and 13 of the foregoing schedule are to take effect on January 31, 1919.

Savings.

It is conservatively figured that by the adoption of the foregoing recommendations, the following savings will be effected:

	Tons.
Curtailment in the use of 25's and 50's...	570
Elimination of coated flaps and extension or back strips	325
Elimination of unnecessary labels.....	54
Total	949
Less uncoated paper required to replace coated paper for flaps, etc.....	190

Coated Edgings.

Curtailment in the use of 25's and 50's... 185
Elimination of coated edgings..... 806

Total 991
Less uncoated edgings to replace coated.. 650

341

Oil or wax paper 8
Box linings 95
Nails 36
Hinge glue 115
Label glue 3,000
Tin 75
Tin foil 610
Paste 6,125
Lumber 22
Muslin 22

Total 11,284

From the above there should, of course, be deducted the necessary material that may be used to replace approximately 15,000,000 tin containers.

Conclusion.

In connection with our recommendations, it is deemed proper that we submit herewith a report of the lithographers' committee and also several communications from the box-making trade.

In submitting the above conservation plan, we desire to assure you that it is our belief that the foregoing schedule are the maximum of saving that the Cigar Industry can stand without suffering irreparable injury.

It must be remembered that the cigar business is a business of brands or trademarks, and that the only means of identifying any particular cigar is the band around it, the label on the box, or the general make-up or appearance of the package. These identifying marks, needless to say, are immensely valuable to the owners of the respective brands, for without them the cigars would not only lose their identity, which would mean the loss of most valuable trade-marks, but the consuming public would be placed at the mercy of unscrupulous dealers.

Sturdy Stock.

By Henry A. McAnarney.

(From the Department of Labor, Information and Education Service.)

There have been more than 2,000,000 sturdy men between the ages of 21 and 31 withdrawn from productive industries in the last year—men whose positions cannot be filled by women. And these figures are for the United States alone. They do not take into account the limitation of the labor supply through the natural cessation of immigration, because of the amalgamation of the immigrant class with the fighting forces of Europe.

The United States must recoup the industrial deficit of the entire world—a herculean undertaking in normal times; titanic in the present day. Yet a task which the country faces with calm assurance of accomplishment.

The nation has faith in the loyalty, the patriotism and the capacity of its reserve working forces to overcome the gigantic barriers that obstruct the way. The time has come when that faith must be justified.

The nation's fighting forces have proved their mettle on the battle field overseas; demonstrated it to the confusion of the sneering cynics at home; to the bewilderment of the Prussian military strategists—those superman mathematicians who riddled with diagrams and drivel, maps and mutilage, ink and idiosyncrasy, the plan of the United States to land an army of a million fighting men on European soil in fewer than five years.

Those "masters of the arts of war" had put it down in figures that this could not be done; every fact of history denied its possibility. They made merry over the mere suggestion. A contemptuous shrug of the shoulders dismissed the United States as a factor in the war.

But the United States did that—and more. In one year there were a million and a half Americans fighting on the western front of France.

That was triumphant thrusting aside of "facts and figures," and a new scale for guiding scientific calculation. A successful climax to a stupendous undertaking.

Now the working men and women of the country are called upon to duplicate in the field of industry the valor and the courage that our troops have shown on the field of battle.

Our workers are courageous. They know that the war must be won. They realize that their forces of will and their indomitable determination, are the guardians of universal liberty. They are confronted by the supreme obligation of supporting our magnificent fighting forces overseas with munitions and supplies of war, of feeding the nation's allies, of keeping the whole machinery of life in motion.

Shall they fulfill that supreme obligation voluntarily and vigorously?

They shall; for they come of the sturdy stock that stand by their guns when their country calls.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1, 1918.

To Trades Union Official Journals and Labor Papers:

Greeting: We are in receipt of a letter from the National Headquarters of the American Red Cross advising that upon the urgent request of Surgeon General Gorgas, United States Army, endorsed by Secretary of War Baker, the American Red Cross will make a nation-wide survey of the country's nursing resources during October. This information is needed because of the increased military program and the necessity of having definite information as to the number of nurses available for military service. The work of the survey will be done through the Red Cross chapters and branches. The American Federation of Labor has been asked to request the co-operation of all affiliated bodies, and that the local bodies secure the services of women relatives of members for the nearest Red Cross chapter or branch to help locate nurses in their community.

Because of the importance of the matter we communicate the request of the American Red Cross to the Trades Union Official Journals and Labor Papers, being confident that they will be glad to assist in the matter by giving publicity to it through their columns.

Fraternally yours,

FRANK MORRISON,
Secretary American Federation of Labor.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 7, 1918.

To the Secretaries of National and International Unions.

Dear Sirs and Brothers: Under date of Sept. 25, I communicated to Colonel Charles B. Warren, of the Provost Marshal General's office, the complaint of President Voll of the Glass Bottle Blowers' Association of the United States and Canada, that the local board at Tarentum, Pennsylvania, had ordered two members of that association, who were picketing, to either go to work or fight.

Today, I received the following reply from Lieutenant Colonel Judge Advocate Joseph Fairbanks, of the Provost Marshal General's office, in which he advises that they have requested the Adjutant General of Pennsylvania to advise the local board at Tarentum, Pennsylvania, that Sections 121A to 121L, Selective Service Regulations, "are not to be invoked in regard to persons who are engaged in an industrial controversy." The following is the communication:

WAR DEPARTMENT.
Office of the Provost Marshal General.

Washington, Oct. 2, 1918.

Mr. Frank Morrison, Secretary,

American Federation of Labor,

A. F. of L. Building, Washington, D. C.
Dear Sir: Your communication addressed to Colonel Charles B. Warren, under date of Sept. 25th, received.

This office has requested the Adjutant General of Pennsylvania to advise the local board at Tarentum, Pennsylvania, that Sections 121A to 121L, Selective Service Regulations, which provide for the withdrawal of deferred classification and order number of registrants found to be idlers or engaged in non-productive occupations or employment, are not to be invoked in regard to persons who are engaged in an industrial controversy.

E. H. CROWDER,
Provost Marshal General.
(Signed) JOSEPH FAIRBANKS,

Lieut. Col. Judge Advocate.
It occurred to me that it would be well for you to have this information so that you would be in a position to answer queries that might reach your office, and also to give it as much publicity as possible.

Yours fraternally,
FRANK MORRISON,
Secretary, American Federation of Labor.

Los Angeles, Cal.

What are you doing with all that money? That is the question put up over 100 times to the secretaries of our Union the last couple of weeks.

Well, I am trying to tell you. Will you please take a look in the April Journal? There are benefits paid during 38 years—$13,967,584.44. Look at it right, it is a nice little sum.

Now, I would like to ask you, where do you think this money comes from? Surely from your weekly 30c, 20c and 15c, and the assessments. Now we are going to take this in a nearer consideration.

Cigarmakers are a good-hearted set of people from nature. We give you after five years $200 death benefit. After ten years $350, and after fifteen years we even give you $550 death benefit. Besides this you are allowed to draw every year $65.00 sick benefit. When you are out of work, we will give you 18 weeks yearly out-of-work benefit, and when you wife dies, we help you and pay you $40.00 death benefit. When you are a member—even only a 15-cent one for only one year—and you want to travel, you can draw up to $20 traveling loan. You see, we give you more than any other institution can do. We got the money, and when our fund is getting low we raise it by assessments.

Our intentions are noble and good hearted, but they are a mathematical impossibility. Our conventions and meetings adopt resolutions, which cannot be brought under any formula. Take for instance the death benefit, it jumps from $200 to $350, from there to $550 without any consideration to the duration of membership. A member who joins the union in the age of from 48 to 50 years receives just the same death benefit as the one who joins at 15 to 20 years.

We do not have to put the 20c member under the magnifying glass. The only difference between a 30c and a 20c member is that the latter is not entitled to any out-of-work benefit. A 20c member who draws 6 to 8 years' sick benefit—and we have plenty of them—has to pay dues all his lifetime, for the sick benefit he received, and we pay him $550 death benefit on top of it. No wonder we have to pay all these assessments.

Our Cigarmakers Union is not only a trades union, it is in addition a beneficiary institution, and these benefits are one of the most important factors, the cohesive force of this union.

We know the giant liabilities of this union can not be made up by assessments in the length of time. In my estimation these liabilities will grow for the next five to eight years, increasing every year, while the other factor, that is the number of the paying members, will decrease, and we will meet the same fate as all other organizations which were built up on the same principles—we will collapse. To avoid this, I wish to make some proposals:

1. To fix the rate of death benefit according to the length of time of membership.

2. To deduct a certain percentage from the sick benefit drawn, from the future death benefit.

3. Strike and out-of-work benefit may be replenished by assessments, on account of uncertain occurrences.

4. All funds have to be kept separate.

To accomplish point 1, the present age and length of membership of each member is required.

With this material on hand, based on the laws of probability and other statistic foundations, we are able to bring our liabilities and our means in equilibrium, for the present and future, to the justice and welfare of every member.

Then it might be time to call a convention and to recommend our proposals, proposals not made by good heartedness and ignorance, but based on mathematical and natural foundations.

HAASE, Sec'y.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 1, 1918.

Now, that the referendum spoke against the appeal of No. 527, and the Joint Advisory Board of Chicago has made the decision plain in the following words: "The J. A. B. is a Label Body," many questions arise. If that be the understanding of the 5,000 members who voted against us, then we would like to know, what Class A Local No. 527 should do in this matter?

We are not concerned with the Label as we are not using it, hence we have nothing to do with Label business at J. A. B. meetings. If we understand the decision right, then we have absolutely nothing to do with the Joint Advisory Board. We wish to call your attention to Sec. 207 of the International Constitution, which reads:

"In localities where more than one Union holds a charter, said Union shall form a Joint Advisory Committee, for the management of all differences arising between the members and their employers, and the regulation of the prices of labor."

If we have no say by vote or voice, how can we have an organized city to uphold the rights of the Cigar Makers? The injustice of this suicidal idea in practice, was shown here in this city, in the general strike just over. A general raise in the bill of prices was asked, from one to six dollars on the M. The team workers, Class A, were to get one dollar less on Mould Work and two dollars less on Hand Work, below the whole cigar maker. These terms were agreed upon at a Special Joint Meeting, held on August 15th, 1918, where both 30c members (whole cigar makers), and 15c (team workers) were present. Jointly, Class A and the Journeymen voted that the bill go into effect on Monday, August 26th, and if the Cigar Manufacturers' Association refuse to grant our demands, a general strike is then declared. The Manufacturers' Ass'n refused our demands, and the general strike was declared.

There were two committees appointed. One, a strike committee, appointed at the above joint meeting, consisting of six men, one representing each Local, to conduct the strike, and a settlement committee was appointed at a meeting of the Joint Advisory Board, including five members of Local No. 527. Remember this, as it has an important bearing on the actions that followed.

After the strike was in progress for three weeks, the Cigar Manufacturers' Ass'n, who consist of Class A as well as Union Label bosses, requested a conference with a committee of the striking cigar makers. The J. A. B. sent a committee of Label cigar makers, barring any representation to the striking Class A members of Local 527, to take part in this conference.

At this conference Union Label bosses presented demands of the Class A manufacturers for consideration. The Label Strike Committee was in an awful position. They could not handle Class A business, because Class A were not present, and it was, therefore, dropped by the bosses.

In the counter propositions the Union Label bosses made to the 30c cigar makers, the manufacturers touched on many very important things in the bill, which affected alike: the 30c and 15c members.

A special joint meeting was called for Tuesday, September 17th, to consider the Manufacturers' propositions, excluding the striking team workers from this important meeting. Many of the J. A. B. delegates advocated the acceptance of the Bosses' offer, which besides giving less money than was originally asked, they also asked to cut out certain shop requirements, that if accepted by the cigar makers would have put the cigar trade in a deplorable condition as existed 15 years ago.

The 30c cigar makers voted the Bosses' offer down more than two to one (376 against 153). The day after this meeting, the Manufacturers' Ass'n held a meeting and decided to give in to all our demands.

This is told merely as an illustration of the point in question. Are the team workers a factor in the cigar trade? If they are, and Mr. Perkins says they are, then they must be given rights consistent with the principles of Unionism. Is it Unionism to bar members of the same International Union from having a voice and vote pertaining to the good and welfare of the trade? Is it right and just to exclude members from voting on things they pay for?

We do not pay for the Label, nor do we ask to have a say on that. We do pay on all other benefits, and are entitled to a vote and voice according to the Constitution.

The agreement we have with the Joint Unions of Chicago is plain on that point, granting us our rights, and yet we are denied from taking part in general affairs of the union. We are not clouding the issue. Our opponents are doing that. That the opponents of No. 527 do not know what they are doing is proven by the following facts:

When we were first affiliated we were allowed to vote for officers of the J. A. B. Six months later we were denied that right, although the nominees were of the 30c locals. We were admitted to all joint meetings, although we did not take part in any Label business, but only in general affairs. Later we were denied to be present at joint meetings. Still later, the delegates of No. 527 were barred from voting on their own motion. And last comes this infamous decision from the Secretary and Chairman of the J. A. B. at the last joint meeting, held on Thursday, September 26th, that the J. A. B. is a strictly Label Body.

According to this we come to the logical conclusion, that we have nothing to do at J. A. B. meetings. We, therefore, ask you, members of the C. M. I. U. of A., to advise us what to do to remedy this evil. We are in the International Union to stay, and if you want us to stay, you must make provisions other than those we now officially have.

It is a thing unheard of in the labor movement: "pay without say." We would like the membership to discuss this matter in our Journal, leaving out personalities and dealing with the following question: What rights, if any, has a Class A Local in the International as well as in the J. A. B.?

PROGRESSIVE LOCAL NO. 527, Cigar Makers' International Union, Chicago, Ill.
Attest: R. Youkelson, Sec'y.

Witley Camp, Surrey, England, Aug. 26, '18.

Having many friends in our organization, who are spread over a wide part of the U. S. and Canada, and whom I feel would be pleased to know my whereabouts at the present time, it being entirely to great a task to correspond with each one individually, I am taking this means of greeting them all at the one time as each one, him or her, may consider this as a personal letter. Have been a member of the Canadian overseas army since April 22, 1918, and a member of the Cigar Makers' International Union of America for twenty years, I will take this opportunity of stating that I am in good standing. I can truthfully say that I had no conception of what it means to be classed as a trained soldier, otherwise I do not believe I should have had courage enough to "join up," which goes to prove that a person never knows what they really can do until they have tried. I do not mean to infer that I have done anything deserving of credit, merely that I have "stood the gaft" along with the rest of the rookies and so far am keeping up the pace with the best of them, which for a man who has done nothing but "make them round" for a period of twenty-two years is quite a feat in itself. At least that is the way it seems to the man that is going through it. To attempt any description of Army life would be useless. Suffice to say that it is like being suddenly transferred to a new world, and when the bugle sounds at 5:15 a. m. for "rouse parade" I often wonder whether I am having a touch of the "jimmies" or whether it is real. But the wonderment only lasts a few seconds, as by the time I have rolled over and find myself lying on a couple of boards, it is borne to my mind that it is no dream but very, very real. Among the many things we have to learn are: to jerk a gas mask from a haversack and get a complete adjustment of it in six seconds, dig a trench the length of your body and sufficiently deep to afford protection from enemy fire, lying prone the while, and digging with one arm, in twenty-five minutes. Ten men build a barbed wire entanglement consisting of twenty-six posts and twelve strands of wire twenty-five yards long in ten minutes. We throw bombs, fire bombs from our rifles, learn to handle the Lewis machine gun and a thousand other things aside from one hour of physical training every morning. Which I believe every one will agree is quite a radical change from sitting leisurely rolling up smokes. However, I want every one to know that I feel that I am in the place every liberty loving son of America ought to be and my only worryment has been my physical condition and that I am glad to say, has been good enough to carry me through so far. The hardest part of the training is over. I only have about two more weeks to go when I shall finish all training and be adjudged "fit for France." I may not have much chance of writing letters after arriving there so I am writing this while I have the opportunity. Haven't had any opportunity of looking over the clear industry in this country as yet, but intended doing so when I have the chance. I send my kindest regards to all the boys and girls of the entire C. M. I. U. of A.

BERT SEELY,

New York, Oct. 5, 1918.

As the membership has refused to reduce other benefits, and as it is impossible to maintain these benefits under the present dues, and as the Out of Work benefit would not be a hardship upon members if abolished for the present time when the Int. Union is passing through a crisis, Union 141 of New York, N. Y., offers this amendment for the consideration of the membership at large.

JOSEPH Wodicka, Secy.

San Jose, Cal.

Trust that the assessment now levied, will be kept on long enough to get the organization to where it should be—plenty of money and then some.

Keep it going for a year if necessary, and longer. Am of the opinion that now is a good time for the levy—personally, I would like to see the per capita up to at least $25.00 per member.

T. B. UNIONIST.

Stettler, Alta., Oct. 3, 1918.

I am exceedingly pleased with your action in having this assessment put on and I wish this 55c a week dues would last for a long time to come. It would put our Organization in a good financial standing and this would mean a better and more powerful organization.

J. E. ST. PIERRE.

New Brunswick, N. J., Sept. 28, 1918.

In offering this repeal to the foregoing sections of the Constitution, 117-133 inclusive, is that the 30c dues and heavy assessments we see no other way but to cut a benefit, that to the best of our knowledge was always abused and that 70% of that benefit was illegally drawn. Hoping this repeal will meet with your approval, we remain, fraternally yours,

BEN FREEDMAN,
SAMUEL SHAMO,
ISAAC HESS.

Referendum Vote on Appeals of Certain Members of the J. A. B. of Chicago and Union 527, Chicago.

Report of Organizer.

Lancaster, Pa., Oct. 5, 1918.

During the biggest part of August I worked with the Strike Committee of Union 55, Hamilton, Ont., visiting unions of every craft, urging them to redouble their demands for union label cigars and all label goods. On August 28 went to Buffalo, N. Y., learned from the secretary of Union 2 that many members had went to work in other industries, therefore there were jobs open in that city. I stopped off in Rochester, N. Y., where the New York State Federation was holding its annual convention. This convention was one of the largest in its history and the reports of its officers and delegates showed it was doing good work. They again renewed their pledge of loyalty to our government to help to carry on and win the war. I stopped in Syracuse, N. Y., found there was jobs open and the members there had every hope of obtaining an increase in prices without trouble.

In Albany the business was bad owing to the largest firm there (namely) the B. Payne Tobacco Co., now the Andora Cigar Co., giving up running a union shop and now working girls with suction tables. I have worked the largest part of September and up to date here in Lancaster, Pa., where there is a forward movement on trying to organize all crafts. Some of the trades here have organized fairly well hoping to have their scale of wages adjusted by the War Labor Board. It looks like their case will go to that Board and possibly they will get a fair standard of wages, but if it should fall to get to the Board then we must guess on how long the organization will live. The great trouble in our industry is many men of every trade send their wives and daughters into cigar shops and other factories where they work all kinds of hours and then think the women have no business to belong to a trade union. Yes, even this can be applied to some cigar makers. So long as this state of affairs lasts it is next to impossible to organize the cigar trade or any trades in which women are employed. There may be some hopes when the other trades get organized to make the cigar makers of these districts see the light of organization.

Now that a small voluntary increase has been given by the manufacturers and that since cigars have went up to a high mark in selling price, the workers here are making a little more wages than they ever did but still working the same long hours and seem willing to continue that way, although it may only last a short while. They are like those who expect the bonuses in other trades will have it taken from them very easy with no organization to protect them.

There is a epidemic of influenza here now which will retard organization work for a while but committees hope to keep up missionary work among the workers to hold the organization intact.

Fraternally yours,

WM. A. McCABE,
Organizer.

The union label tends to make strikes unnecessary by making compliance with union conditions an advantage to business.

Do not overlook complying with Section 173, also 73, and refund the deficiency as was agreed upon.

Yours fraternally,

W. A. CAMPBELL,
International Financier.

SPECIAL EXAMINATION.

Union 187, Covington, Ky.

The finance committee and the officers of this local union surely did not attend to their duties, as the bank book must not have been seen for a year or more, and in the future this local should enforce Secs. 173 and 187 of the constitution. After a careful search for benefit cards and vouchers most of them were found. Ledger has not been posted for 7 months, and cards received by this local did not have a ledger account, where they have been paying dues in this local for over a year.

The union label protects the trade union against attack by making the purchaser the real employer.

Washington, Oct. 8.—"The more men we preserve in industry, the more lives are lengthened and the more we have for production," said Secretary of Labor Wilson at a conference of state and federal officials called to consider the enforcement of labor laws.

"It has been variously estimated that six to ten workers in the rear are necessary to maintain a soldier in the trenches," he said. "That has made industry a much more important factor than it has ever been before."

"There has been an agitation for lowering of standards—or the argument that it would increase production. The assumption of a demand that a nine-hour day be substituted for an eight-hour day in mines arose from that. We found that anthracite coal miners working eight hours in 1917 were producing 2 per cent more coal than during 1915 and 1916 in a nine-hour day. In some industries, of course, this might not be true. But reduction of hours is not solely for the purpose of increasing productivity. It is designed to protect the worker in his leisure. Every effort that we can make is utilized to protect the life and health of the men in the trenches. If we can save the life of the man before he reaches the trenches, man power is increased. Just so industry has to be safeguarded. It is just as important that we protect those engaged in industry as those on the battlefield. The more we preserve the more we have for production."

Labor Laws to Stand.

Washington, Oct. 12.—At a conference of federal and state officials charged with the enforcement of labor laws, the following was adopted:

"It is the sense of this meeting that we are opposed to lowering of labor laws and labor standards unless on recommendation of federal authority of competent jurisdiction."

This is in line with the position of the Council of National Defense, which declares against the lowering of working standards or setting aside of labor laws except on its recommendation.

There is only one way to be assured of the patronage of your own union label and that is to demand the union label of any other trade on goods which you may purchase.

Do not be deceived when a merchant tells you that goods bearing the union label cost more than those without. If this is true it is for the reason that the union manufacturer pays better wages to his union men than is paid to non-union men.

The union label on an article you purchase is the only assurance you can have that it is produced by union labor. Protect yourself and your union conditions by buying nothing to which it is not attached.

When the union card is hanging in a barber shop it is an assurance that union barbers are employed exclusively. Its absence indicating a non-union shop. Assist your fellow union men by patronizing only the union card shops.

It may be all right to give the devil his due, but it is not all right for a union man to give his money to a non-union employer. Buy union-labeled goods and there will be no non-union employers.

If it shall become necessary to employ women on work ordinarily performed by men, they must be allowed equal pay for equal work and must not be allotted tasks disproportionate to their strength.—Principles and Policies of the National War Labor Board.

1. The right of all workers, including common laborers, to a living wage is hereby declared.

2. In fixing wages, minimum rates of pay shall be established which will insure the subsistence of the worker and his family in health and reasonable comfort.—Principles and Policies of National War Labor Board.

The right of workers to organize in trade unions and to bargain collectively through chosen representatives is recognized and affirmed. This right shall not be denied, abridged or interfered with by the employers in any manner whatsoever.

Employers should not discharge workers for membership in trade unions, nor for legitimate trade union activities.—Principles and Policies of the National War Labor Board.

Freedom is our heritage and we are resolved to maintain and extend it no matter what the sacrifice.

NOTICE TO LOCAL UNIONS.

Always refer to your Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 30c to the 20c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Members who while at work refuse or fail to pay per cent on loans suspend themselves without any action of the secretary.

In several instances where cards had been stolen from members secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book and in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privileges in dues unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes travelling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such report the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per Section 149, give full record of membership as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity of complying with the request, carefully study Section 144c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal will" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

Section 144c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there be no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there be no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death were dependent for support in whole or in part.

The International Union cannot authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnished the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefit rests entirely with such members.

In order to avoid confusion when a Class A member changes from 15-cent dues to 30-cent dues, secretaries under the law are to give such members one-half time on length of membership, and write the following in ink in the due book: "Changed from Class A to 30-cent due paying class. Time on full benefits commences (computed on basis of one-half time)." Should such member desire to travel he should be given a new due book and traveling card, both of which should give the date of initiation computed on the above mentioned basis, and the words "Changed From Class A" written on both due book and traveling card. Whenever a Class A 15-cent member changes to a 30-cent membership secretaries should always so state on their monthly reports, and record the transaction on their books.

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

In compliance with Section 184 of the Constitution, the International Executive Board levied a running weekly assessment, to replenish the General Fund, of 25c on each 30-cent, 20-cent and 15-cent member, and 12c on Class A members. The assessment commences on September 2, 1918, and continues until the General Fund reaches the Constitutional requirement.

INTERNATIONAL FINES

The International Executive Board approved the application of 530, Benton Harbor, to fine the following members and suspend them for going to work in the La Kurba shop, but reduced the fines from $100 to $50—Frank Troltman (5209), Leo Cissue (5236), and Mrs. Martin (5248). Vote: Affirmative—3; one member disapproved suspension; one member approved $50 fine; two members approved $25.

Approved the application of 27, Toronto, to fine R. Haberstock (38045), Jul H. Kressler (20507), and Miss Minnie Moster (87850), $100 each for continuing to work, Miss Moster as a packer, for the Andrew Wilson Co., who locked out their employees. Vote: Affirmative—5; one member approved $50; and one member approved $50 for Kressler and Haberstock and $25 for Miss Moster.

Approved the application of 167, Owosso, to fine Jerry Myers (76577) and Fred Bulher (104415) each $25 for working in the Freidman Cigar Co. closed shop. Vote: Armative—7.

Approved the application of 46, Grand Rapids to fine H. Lawrence $25 for working in the nonunion factory of G. J. Johnson. Vote: Affirmative—6.

FINES OF $10 OR LESS.

Secretary holding card of John E. Carey (62513) please collect $5 fine imposed on him by Union 26, South Norwalk, for abusing and insulting the secretary.

UNION NOTES

Prior to 1835 the length of the day's work was from sunrise to sunset—averaging thirteen to fifteen hours. In 1833 carpenters demanded a ten hour day, they standing at their benches from 15 to 17 hours for the paltry sum of $1.37½ a week. In 1831 the wages for other operatives in Massachusetts was $2.25 per week. In 1868 Congress passed the eight hour law. After the war a universal eight hour law. First came the locals, then the central bodies and then the national organizations. Pres. Yelleman has sold to our membership $30,000 worth of Liberty Bonds. President may veto the prohibition bill, it violates treaties with foreign nations. Play grounds for the children and better homes for the workers. Owing to influenza we have not had a meeting for a month. 97 has over 300 cases and 8 deaths. Embargo on tobacco may take place. Secretaries are requested to bring our amendments before their local. There are two, one for a convention, another to make label smaller, conservation of paper. Our international President may not be blue paper for the union label. Gompers of the A. F. of L. is the right place, and he is only joined with tact. Human nature is. We are opposed to the bonus system. Opinion has changed in regard to union. Female labor will be one of the difficulties that can only be overcome by mandating equal pay for equal work. Yes, we gave $500 to Montreal, $100 to Toronto and $100 to Hamilton, Canada. Tobacco journals are advocating the teaching of girls the trade. Don't be ultra-conservative, we are entering a new era. Buy Liberty Bonds—help win the war. We must preserve the industrial structure of the nation. Conscription of labor has been defeated. Vote for a convention. Vote for a smaller label. Second our amendments. Invest your money where you earn it. Mooney ought to be set free by the governor. Dues must be increased. Maintain conditions.

Chas. H. Miller (73047) is requested to forward the amount of $3. a personal loan granted him by John Pfisterer when he was secretary of Union 429, Niagara Falls, or Union 429 will take action.

W. E. Shields (245) is requested to forward the amount of 75c that was loaned him by G. B. Repsher, or Union 429 will take action.

Union 39, New Haven, Conn., would like to hear from George Strasburger (89606) on the J. Rosenberg benefit; and from Ernest Fisher (39132) and Luther Mapes (35564) reference the Arbitration Award.

Members of the Cigar Makers' Union, Local 97, Boston, have just received a copy of a citation awarded to Corporal Lewis E. Meckel, formerly of 29 Webster street, Maplewood, now with the 163d American Aero Squadron in France. The citation signed by Lieutenant E. R. Humphries says, "an aeroplane crashed to the ground and burst into flames. The above mentioned officer and American N. C. O., regardless of all personal risk, rushed into the flames and extricated the pilot of the machine, thus by so doing saved his life."—Boston Post.

No. 282 fined Henry Brelner (60319) $10 for holding two jobs.

The union label organizes the purchasing power upon lines of fair conditions of labor, as against those conditions that destroy the health and morality of the producer and endanger the well-being of the purchaser.

Labor Not Lacking in Patriotism.

"We have relied in the main upon the law of economic motive—high wages, urgent labor demand—to speed up the pace of industry. On the whole, the progress has been encouraging. The world of labor—organized and unorganized—has shown itself, now, as always, not lacking in patriotism. Trade union restrictions upon admission, output, apprenticeship, working conditions, have been relaxed, or diluted—and labor leaders have shown little disposition to exploit strategic opportunities to the injury of the Nation's needs. When we realize how, in train of war inflation, wages have risen much more slowly than commodity prices, this moderation is in striking contrast to the ardor with which, in a higher stratum, 'War Brides' have been wooed."

Entered as second class matter, Nov. 28, 1894,
at the Post Office at Chicago, Ill., under Act of March 3, 1879.

The International Executive Board adopted, as you know, the following declaration and resolution of loyalty, to our country and our government, defining our position in the war.

One-hundred Per Cent Loyal.

The government and the people of the United States of America are at war with the militarist, autocratic and imperialist governments of Germany and Austria. In that conflict the principles of freedom, justice and democracy are contending against tyranny, injustice, brutality and autocracy. In this war we, the Executive Board of the Cigar Makers' International Union of America, declare our unreserved, whole-hearted endorsement and support to our republic, our government, our people and our allies, in the prosecution of the war to a triumphant conclusion."

The foregoing resolution was submitted to popular vote under our referendum system and was practically unanimously adopted. This all occurred before the central powers had sued for an armistice and before there was any thought of peace. Because of this, and since a triumphant peace for our allies and our country is now in sight we may be pardoned for saying we are proud of this vote. We are the only organization, civil, military, fraternal, or otherwise, that submitted a resolution for the endorsement of our country and our cause in this war, to popular vote. Of course many conventions and representative bodies adopted similar loyalty resolutions, but it may truthfully be said that ours is the only organization wherein the members in their sovereign capacity voted on this question. The popular vote on this momentous question resulted in 9,451 for and 48 against, which stamped the organization practically one-hundred per cent American—one-hundred per cent loyal. We are of the opinion that most of the 48 votes cast against the resolution were cast through mistake, or were wrongly reported. Nearly all of them were cast by two unions, and in one instance we are quite sure there was a mistake in the vote as reported. What is particularly gratifying is the fact that this is one of the largest referendum votes we have ever taken on any question with the exception of the vote for International Officers, and in that event the voting is compulsory. The vote under our popular referendum voting system is taken at the regular meetings of the unions, which indicates that practically every member who attended the meeting of the local union of which he is a member voted in favor of the loyalty resolution.

Heretofore on this page we have repeatedly said that the world war would result in a triumphant victory Reconstruction. for the United States and our allies: that autocracy and militarism would be crushed to the earth and that the world would be made safe for democracy and self-determination. We also have said that the real fruits of victory would be tempered and controlled for good or evil just in proportion with the amount of ability for self-government and self-control that the masses developed. Momentous times lie just ahead of us. The period of reconstruction here and abroad is fraught with just as much danger to a stable form of government under democracy's rule as that which confronted us during the blare of trumpets, rattle of musketry, and the roar of cannon. Much depends upon self-control, a kindly feeling of toleration, forbearance and a true spirit of justice, here and abroad. Democracy is not a fanciful thing to be toyed with or practised by the few and applied to the few. It must permeate the whole body politic of our nation and our people. There is no true democracy unless this is done.

Labor can be depended upon to do its share and its duty and its part during the period of reconstruction as it has done during the trying times of destructive warfare. Labor will ring true, but will demand a new alignment and a new deal, will demand a full exemplification of the true meaning of democracy, self-determination, and justice. Demanding justice for itself, it will accord it to others. It remains to be seen whether the profiteers, the money-mad, and the cheap-John, grad-grind manufacturers will measure up to the new order of society. Upon them, partly, rests the responsibility for a peaceful and a happy future for all, regardless of their chosen occupation or their status in life. The new order, industrially to our minds, is—Each for all, and all for each; live and let live.

While the following attached communication is dated November 11, the program was undoubtedly adopted before hostilities had ceased on the battle fronts in Europe. However, it is printed as a matter of news, and we suppose will have to be observed until countermanded. The program does not place the industry on the non-essential or restricted list except in so far as the use of all unnecessary things in the making of cigars is concerned. The restriction order applies to tags, pasters, paper frontmarks or color marks, to conserve the paper supply. The program also requires that cigars must be packed in wooden boxes, that the use of tin foil, tin boxes, and tin containers must be discontinued after January 1, provided this program is not altered before then because of the peace negotiations.

November 11, 1918.

From the Committee on Public Information.

B. M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board, authorizes the following:

Cigars have been brought under a conservation program by the War Industries

Board. Saving of material, capital and labor in manufacture is sought. There is no ordered curtailment of the quantity of tobacco for use in the manufacture of cigars under the program.

Cigar manufacturers are asked to reduce where possible the number of brands, sizes and shapes of cigars made by them. Discontinuance of the use of tin foil to wrap cigars and of tin boxes and tin containers for packing is ordered, beginning January 31 next.

A. I. Esberg, chief of the Tobacco Section of the Board, has sent the conservation program out to the cigar manufacturers, distributors and retailers with a request for co-operation. The object of the program is "to husband to the utmost all labor, material, capital and equipment" and the industry can assist by simplifying manufacturing operations, enlarging packages, reducing the number of brands, shapes and sizes, eliminating needless packing and handling operations discontinuing needless use of material.

Part of the program, effective November 18, eliminates new brands, except on written approval, prohibits the varnishing of cigar boxes, and places restrictions on the use of tags, pasters, paper frontmarks or color marks to conserve the paper supply. The other part of the program becomes effective January 31, 1919. This regulates packing in wooden boxes, and requires discontinuance of the use of tin foil and of tin boxes and tin containers. It is provided, however, that boxes and labels, cedar or colored paper, and exterior box covering and edgings on hand or in process of manufacture may be utilized, but no further orders not in conformity with the program shall be placed or received. The regulations do not apply to the purchases of the United States Army.

Cigar manufacturers are asked to pledge themselves that during the period of the war they shall endeavor to keep existing facilities and equipment in repair rather than install new equipment, not to expand existing manufacturing facilities or create new facilities without the approval of the War Industries Board, and to comply with the conservation program. They are to report on the number of brands and sizes eliminated by February 1, 1919, that they were marketing July 1, 1918.

A truly heroic spirit such as typifies real manhood and human kindness is one that can rise above hatred and vengeance and at the same time hand out due punishment for those who ruthlessly started and caused the greatest catastrophe the world has ever suffered.

The United States Government is resolved to do its best to restore every wounded American soldier and sailor to health, strength, and self-supporting activity.

Every Liberty Bond holder who holds his bond is keeping up a part of this great work of restoring to health, strength, and usefulness the men who have suffered for their country.

Until his discharge from the hospital all the medical and surgical treatment necessary to restore him to health is under the jurisdiction of the military or naval authorities, according to the branch of the service he is in. The vocational training, the re-education and rehabilitation necessary to restore him to self-supporting activity, is under the jurisdiction of the Federal Board for Vocational Education.

If he needs an artificial limb or mechanical appliance the Government will supply it free, will keep it in repair, and renew it when necessary. If after his discharge he again needs medical treatment on account of his disability, the Government will supply it free. While he is in the hospital and while in training afterwards the soldier or sailor will receive compensation as if in service and his family or dependents will receive their allotment.

A wounded soldier or sailor, although his disability does not prevent him from returning to employment without training, can take a course of vocational training free of cost and the compensation provided by the war-risk insurance act will be paid to him and the training will be free, but no allotment will be paid to his family.

Hold Your Liberty Bonds.

Don't surrender your Liberty Bond conditionally or unconditionally.

Hold fast to that which is good. Keep your Liberty Bonds.

The union label signifies merit in an article to which it is attached, as it guarantees good, clean workmanship, as well as sanitary conditions and fair treatment by employers.

The union label is an inspiration, a guidepost and a rallying point for the energetic and conscientious women in every community, and for this reason the Woman's Union Label League came into being.

The union label is the medium through which the public may enforce its rightful power of arbitrament between employer and employee.

The union label aspires to educate in unity the masses through the unfaltering devotion of its label leagues. It is a power for good to the rising generation, for their interests, their rights and their liberties go with its tenets. It stands for the well-being and progress of all. It aspires to unity and federation. It gives energy and impetus to work, for it is ennobling, full of the highest conceptions of duty.

The union label is a competent and impartial record of aims and purposes. It is to a large extent a restraint on the trusts, for every purchase which goes with it, every label which bears the significant words, "eight hours," means employment to more men. It is the very acme of union co-operation.

The union label is essentially an emblem of peace, both in suggestion and practice.

The union label acts as an educator, organizer and director for the public, thus making the purchaser the intelligent and friendly ally of, instead of the indifferent foe to organized labor.

Union 478, Juana Diaz, Porto Rico.

This union was duly installed by myself on January 26th, inst. I filled out its financial monthly reports for January, February and March and left in the books accounts started for April. Secretary Herminio Alvarez when called to military duty rushed to camp and left everything apparently unsettled, and nobody dared to take charge of the office. There was a shortage of fifteen 25-cent stamps of International assessments and six 15-cent Class A stamps and an amount of $4.65 was charged to the union and entered in October accounts as stamps sold. Statement as follows:

NOTICE TO LOCAL UNIONS.

Always refer to your Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 30c to the 20c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Members who while at work refuse or fail to pay per cent on loans suspend themselves without any action of the secretary.

In several instances where cards had been stolen from members secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book and in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the 'sixteen weeks' privileges in dues unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such reports the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per Section 149, give full record of membership as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity of complying with the request, carefully study Section 144c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal wills" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

Section 144c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there be no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there be no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death were dependent for support in whole or in part.

The International Union cannot authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefit rests entirely with such members.

In order to avoid confusion when a Class A member changes from 15-cent dues to 30-cent dues, secretaries under the law are to give such members one-half time on length of membership, and write the following in ink in the due book: "Changed from Class A to 30-cent due paying class. Time on full benefits commences (computed on basis of one-half time)." Should such member desire to travel he should be given a new due book and traveling card, both of which should give the date of initiation computed on the above mentioned basis, and the words "Changed From Class A" written on both due book and traveling card. Whenever a Class A 15-cent member changes to a 30-cent membership secretaries should always so state on their monthly reports, and record the transaction on their books.

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

In compliance with Section 184 of the Constitution, the International Executive Board levied a running weekly assessment, to replenish the General Fund, of 25c on each 30-cent, 20-cent and 15-cent members, and 12c on Class A members. The assessment commences on Sept. 2, 1918, and continues until the General Fund reaches the constitutional requirement.

Section 73 provides that "all dues and assessments of members receiving benefits shall be deducted from such benefits." This means any benefit and all dues and assessments. If a member has $5.00 sick benefit coming and owes 8 dues and 8 assessments he would receive just 60 cents in cash and credit for 8 dues and assessments.

Decision of International Executive Board.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 6, 1918.

In the case of the appeal to the Executive Board, C. M. I. U. of A., by Union No. 29 of Jacksonville, Fla., against the decision rendered by the International President, the vote was as follows:

Affirmative—Stack.

Negative—Hoffman, Garlepy, Reichert, Hall, Stevens and Gompers.

The basis of the appeal was the refusal of the International President to authorize payment of death benefit in the case of a deceased member, the deceased having failed to designate a beneficiary.

The union claims that the deceased on numerous occasions had declared that his mother should receive whatever money might be due him at the time of his death. The union also claims that the mother of the deceased was dependent on him for maintenance and support. The union thereupon appealed against the decision of the International President to the Executive Board.

The International President bases his decision upon substantially the following grounds: That Section 144-C is very explicit and distinctly provides that the member shall make a "will" designating his beneficiary. The blanks for this purpose are furnished on application. If there is no such blank filled out then the money should be paid to the widow, if there be no widow then to the minor children of the deceased, and if there be no widow or minor children, then to any relative of the deceased who at the time of the member's death is dependent upon him for support in whole or in part. That the mother of the deceased member does not come within the province of this section since she has submitted nothing to prove that she is dependent upon the deceased, and as there was no designation blank filled out, no benefit can be paid. The claim that the member had stated in the presence of witnesses that he wanted his mother to have the death benefit cannot stand, since the constitution plainly states that:

"Such designation shall be in writing, signed by such member and witnessed by the secretary of the local union to which such member then belongs or by two other credible persons."

That there is published in the Official Journal the statement that "verbal wills do not comply with the terms of the constitution." That the enforcement of this section does not deprive any member of any constitutional right. If the members will comply with the constitution and name a beneficiary there will never be a question as to payment of benefits.

In accordance with the vote cast and above recorded, the decision of the International President is sustained.

Fraternalty yours,

SAMUEL GOMPERS,
First Vice-President.

INTERNATIONAL FINES

The International Executive Board disapproved the application of Union 24, Muskegon, Mich., to suspend Henry Dornbush (95953) for alleged conduct unbecoming a union man. Vote: Affirmative—0. Negative—7.

Fines of $10 or Less.

Union 188, Seattle, Wash., fined James Collins (26922) $7 for working in a non-union shop when there were jobs in label shops.

Union 225, Los Angeles, fined Julio Ramirez (118425) $5 for conduct unbecoming a union man.

U. shall consist of the International President and the International Executive Board and shall be called whenever a general revision of the constitution is deemed necessary by the majority voting on the question. When a convention has been called by a majority vote local unions may forward to the International President any amendment or proposition passed by a majority vote at any regular meeting.

"It shall be the duty of the International President to present all such amendments and propositions to the convention, who, in turn, shall give due consideration to all such amendments and propositions in the general revision of the constitution.

"Within thirty days after the adjournment of the convention the International President shall have published in the Official Journal the amendments as adopted by the convention.

"The International President shall notify local unions when to vote on proposed amendments, but in no case shall it be sooner than three months or later than six months after the adjournment of the convention, the vote to be on each amendment separately, and a majority of votes cast on each amendment to be final. Conventions to be held at seat of C. M. I. U."

Received the endorsement of 218, Binghamton; 259, Bloomington, and 179, Bangor.

Local 383, Chicago, offers the following amendment to our constitution:

Amend Section 79, in line 6, after the word

"weeks," inserting the following: "Counting from the first day the member or members quit working." After the word "week," on the same line, strike out "until the strike or lockout shall have terminated," and insert the following: "Thereafter until work is resumed." Balance of section to read accordingly.

Union 248, Jacksonville, offers the following amendment to the constitution: Section 64—Cut out "the regular" and insert "$1 initiation fee" instead, and insert "15c weekly dues; said 15c members shall not be required to pay more than one-half of all International assessments levied, but shall pay all label assessments in full."

Part of Section 64 to read as follows: "Applicants that are affected with chronic disease or that are over 50 years of age can become members by paying $1 initiation fee and 15c weekly dues; these said 15c members shall not be required to pay more than one-half of all International assessments levied, but shall pay all label assessments in full."

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

(An amendment takes effect the first of the month following the publication of notice of its adoption in the Official Journal.)

Amendments adopted since the June 15, 1917, edition of the constitution:

By 208, Kalamazoo, Mich.: To amend Section 154 by adding after the word "bunches," on line 23, "nor which pays less than $10.00 per thousand for hand work, less than four molds of 10 bunches each with press on table, or two 20-bunch molds in shaper press, to be considered hand work."

Take Notice.—The amendment of 238, Sacramento, Calif., takes the place of the 132, Brooklyn, amendment, and supersedes all other amendments reference war retiring cards and benefits. The amendment, published elsewhere in this Journal, says: "This amendment shall govern all other sections which deal with benefits of such members who may be doing military duty or are beyond the boundary lines as defined in our constitution."

By 238, Sacramento, Calif.: War Retiring Card Amendment:

(a) That the President of the International Cigar Makers' Union cause to be printed a War Retiring Card, to read as follows:

(b) This is to certify that Mr.
Card No., Initiated by
When has entered the service of (U. S. or Allies' Army or Navy), and is entitled to all benefits as may be contained in the War Retiring Card Amendment.

Pres. C. M. I. U.
Signed—

....., Local Pres.
....., Fin. Sec.

(c) Any member who may by draft or voluntary enlistment enter the service of the United States Army or Navy or the service of the Army or Navy of any allied country, during this period of war, shall be entitled to a War Retiring Card, provided such member is in good standing at the time of his or her application for a War Retiring Card.

(d) Any member who is a holder of a War Retiring Card shall be exempt from all dues, fines and assessments, and upon his or her re-entrance in the actual making or packing of cigars shall be entitled to his or her original card from which he or she was transferred, with all benefits as entitled to from date of initiation, except for such time as he or she was holding a War Retiring Card.

(e) Any member holding a War Retiring Card shall be entitled to his or her original card free of charge.

(f) All transfers shall be made at regular or executive board meetings.

(g) Applications for transfer to the War Retiring Card may be made in writing.

(h) All cards from which members transfer to the War Retiring Card shall be sent to the International President to be kept on file.

(i) It shall be the duty of the International President to have sufficient War Retiring Cards printed, which shall be distributed to all local unions.

(j) No benefits shall be paid to any member while holding a War Retiring Card.

(k) This amendment shall govern all other sections which deal with benefits of such members who may be doing military duty or are beyond the boundary lines as is defined by our constitution.

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and, in addition, send in such cards, but place on your letter the information necessary, as the letter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 148 to 149, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted resolutions of respect and condolence relative to death or deaths as follows and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days:

Union 129, Denver, Colo. — Joseph Helm (58614), who died November 7.

Union 5, Rochester, N. Y. — Frank Beesch (83989), who died in Boston, Mass., Sept. 22.

UNION NOTES

Notes by Union, 97, Boston: Why not have a clearing day, say the first Saturday in July, when all members who are working should be absolutely clear on the books?—Why would it not be a good idea to adopt the English custom of the shop collector placing on the table of every member who does not speak English a slip informing him what he has to pay?—America was in the war to make this world safe for democracy.—Why not raise the dues?—Why not unite all unions of our craft in all cities except where race prejudices exist?—Union 65, Lynn, returned its charter. Boston's Label Committee immediately voted to place label signs in Lynn and Salem.—Patronize union restaurants and barber shops.—If we all demand label goods we shall not only hold our own but organize the unorganized.—No lowering the standard of living.—Well fed, well housed and well clad men and women mean better homes and a higher type of men and women.—We cannot pay death and sick benefits, together with strike and out-of-work benefits, on 30 cents a week. We pay less dues for benefits received than any other organization.—In fat years prepare for lean ones.—Influenza attacked many of our members.—Are the cheap districts of Pennsylvania and Ohio ever going to organize and ask for a living wage? Are they working nights?—Equal pay for equal work.—After the war a universal 8-hour day with a Saturday half holiday, and then?—Label Committee are addressing meetings.

The secretary of 156, Suffield, Conn., wants to hear from George Clancy (84381) and William Mosher (7488).

The secretary of 429, Niagara Falls, N. Y., would like to hear from Wm. Axt (10069).

The secretary of 123, Hamilton, O., would like to hear from A. L. Carleton (24533) reference a letter.

BUREAU OF INFORMATION

Fred Cunningham, Bangor, Me., would like to hear from Fred Caserman. By Union 179.

Rudolph Schmutz—Your brother, F. J., Box 526, Little Rock, Ark., and your friend, J. J. M., 1221 Monticello avenue, Chicago, would like to hear from you. Letters failed to locate you at Great Falls, Mont.

Mrs. J. A. Addington, Independence, Kans., wants to hear from A. L. Carlton.

Herbert Bean—Your mother is very anxious to hear from you. Do not fail to write. 2½ Grand avenue, Portland, Ore.

Millette, 107375; R. J. Quinn, 98506, $8.50 private loan and $5.50 illegal benefit. These members have been repeatedly requested through the Journal to pay up, but up to date we have received nothing but promises, and all are hereby notified that their promises will not replenish our local fund, nor are they of much use to other members needing assistance. Please remember, boys, it was not promises that you received, but cash.

All members owing private loans to J. A. B., Chicago, must pay at once. If you are not paying by Dec. 1, 1918, your name will be published in Journal and the secretary holding your card will be notified to suspend you.—Signed, Auditors, J. A. B., Chicago.

Reconstruction and rehabilitation is an important proposition. It, however, has brought no startling new Reconstruction thought nor confusion, nor has it changed the hopes, the aspirations, and the expectations of the right-thinking, level-headed trade-unionists. Reconstruction has simply accentuated an always pressing, important, great problem, to-wit: The organization of the working, producing classes in order that they may thus, through collective bargaining and united effort redress admitted wrongs and improve their economic, social, and political condition in life. The trade-union movement will continue now, as it has in the past, to organize the unorganized workers and to strive in every legitimate way to increase their wages and to shorten their hours of labor, and to improve their working and living conditions. The war has taught the thoughtful, intelligent men of organized labor hardly a new thing. It, however, has brought home to the great mass a more comprehensive realization of the importance of labor and the necessity of coöperation and joint action, and of the absolute necessity of organization and unity of purpose, and, we hope, a determination to hold what we have and to carry forward with renewed vigor and determination the legitimate work of the trade-union movement.

Coming events cast their shadows before them and those who read can plainly see the handwriting on the wall. Already propaganda is working to divert the minds of the workers from the solid, concrete things which lie immediately before us. During the war organization in many industries made wonderful progress. The stockyard workers were organized and through organized effort received a substantial increase in wages and a substantial reduction in the hours of labor. A start was made among the steel workers and many thousands of so-called unskilled or common laborers were organized and received substantial increases in wages and reductions in working time. Insidious efforts will be made to divert the attention and to minimize trade-union organization work. A word to the wise should be sufficient! Do not be stampeded away from the real fundamental work in hand. Do not permit your minds and attention to be diverted from the concrete, specific work of sticking hard and fast to the effort to organize the workers along trade-union lines. We do not attempt to tell you what to do otherwise; vote and pray as you like, but guard against neglecting the organized trade-union movement.

Immigration becomes one of the extremely pressing problems for immediate and rightful solution. America has often been referred to as the great melting pot of the peoples of all nations, especially those who here seek freedom and justice under our democracy, and who come in protest against admitted wrongs and restrictions placed upon them through autocratic misrule and imperialism of other countries. Prior to the war there came to our shores an average of one million or more immigrants each year, and during the last three years less than one million all told have come.

One way to protect the workers here against a surplus of labor if such exists, caused by our returning soldiers, is to put greater restrictions upon immigration. If our country is to continue its onward march for freedom and democratic ideas and ideals it must not admit the untrained hordes from other countries one jot faster than they can be absorbed and made to understand, through education and environment, our democratic form of government with its republican form of representation. Permit unrestricted immigration, and this with the returning soldiers and the large number of women who have been pressed into industries during and because of the war, will cause a surplus of labor and a serious condition of affairs here in our own country.

In 1914 we in substance said: "Let us not forget that sordid greed, lack of proper safeguards and proper sanitation, Deadly low wages, etc., here and elsewhere, on the industrial field and Results in transportation takes more human lives, maims more human beings, and causes more sickness, want, and privation than have resulted from any previous war or may result from this war." That statement was true in 1914 and it is true today. Henry Moir, President of the Actuary Society of America, just recently said that "From a study of statistics I have reached a general impression that the deaths resulting from the Spanish influenza epidemic in this country total in the neighborhood of 400,000, which means an economic waste of 10,000,000 years." The lowest estimate we have seen so far on the death total from the influenza is 300,000. The American Expeditionary Forces in France lost by death a total of 58,478 men. When all of the figures are finally compiled, showing the number of those who made the supreme sacrifice in the world war, and we compile the total number of deaths from preventable disease and from preventable accidents, we are quite sure it will be found that more people passed into the Great Beyond from preventable disease and from preventable accidents than were lost on the battle fields of Europe.

The whole civilized world throw up their hands in holy horror at the awful carnage and devastation caused by war, and yet as great a sacrifice and as great a toll is being exacted in peaceful pursuits, and we blindly, carelessly, and criminally accept it as a matter of fact—yes, even without protest. In this life deaths are bound to occur, accidents are bound to occur, disease will always be with us; but accidental deaths and preventable diseases can and should be reduced to a minimum. We talk of preparedness to prevent wars, to save human lives and countless treasures, against which no sane, rational man protests. In view of the facts concerning the slaughter on the economic and social field of endeavor in time of peace, there should be a little more time and attention devoted to preparedness against this barbarous, brutal, careless, indifferent, system which takes such terrific toll. From now on preparedness against preventable disease and preventable accidents should be paramount to any other kind of preparedness.

What will the harvest be? The war has destroyed imperialism and autocracy in nearly all civilized governments, and democracies with a representative form of government are taking their places. Our country, the United States of America, went into the war on the side of the allies, with the avowed purpose of making the world safe for democracy, freedom, and justice. The words "freedom and justice" mean more than the establishment of political democracy. There can be no freedom and justice, even in a democracy, where autocracy holds sway in financial, commercial and industrial enterprise. Without the application of freedom and justice on the economic and social field of endeavor in our country the war with its appalling sacrifice of human life and countless millions of dollars has been in vain. Labor gave its whole-hearted support in the trenches, in the mine, in the factory, and in the fields to the effort to bring the war to a successful conclusion and a realization of the high ideals for which we entered the titanic struggle. These sacrifices were fundamentally predicated upon patriotism and a love of country, but after all, upon the expectation of realizing the full fruits of a victory for democracy, freedom, and justice. Labor, neither here nor elsewhere, will tamely submit to any plan or proposition that attempts to interfere with a full realization of all that the term "justice" implies. The terms of peace must declare democracy, freedom, and justice, and must safeguard and protect these fundamentals in so far as lies within the power of the peace council, without encroachment upon the rights of nations to determine, regulate, and control their own internal problems.

Universal training for preparedness, heretofore called military training, is bound to command the serious Preparedness thought, consideration, and action of the American people in the very near future. It is thought that one of the results of the successful conclusion of the world war, by the Allies and the United States, will be a league of nations the avowed purpose of which is to prevent future world wars, that is, that the league of nations will protect any member of this league of nations, large or small, against an armed invasion by any other nation. Such a league has nothing to do with the determination and regulation of the internal affairs and destinies of a nation. If such a league is formed and honestly carries out the purpose for which it is to be born then the danger of another world war is reduced to a minimum. If this be true then there will be no need of large standing armies and armaments, as a burden on the masses of the people.

The world war, just concluded, has changed many who heretofore were dyed-in-the-wool pacifists to—we will say for want of a better term—anti-pacifists. Many who were violently opposed to militarism (and justly so) while still being opposed to militarism, are thinking seriously along the line of universal preparedness that will prevent our country being caught napping in the event of an invasion of any other country or combination of countries, and will further compel respect for our rights and destinies from other nations. How to do this without resorting to militarism or anything savoring of militarism is in the eyes of many one of the immediate serious problems. Many thoughtful men incline to the Australian system of preparedness. Briefly—the Australian system provides for a small standing army and a large citizen soldiery. This citizen soldiery, instead of being taken out of industry and put to nothing but training for war, is kept in industry, kept at home where they join companies within their immediate neighborhoods, and these companies then drill in the evening once or twice a week, and at the end of the year they go to a central camp where they put in two or three weeks of intensive training. This in brief is the so-called Australian system of universal training for preparedness for any eventuality. Many incline to and are strongly urging the adoption of such a system in our own country.

We are of the opinion that whatever the plan finally adopted may be we should take the profit out of war, and if we do we will do much to stop war. Take the profit out of war and the guns and munitions and all the accessories of war in times of peace or in actual war. There should be no fortunes made because of destructive warfare, and absolutely no profits. Even under the most favorable circumstances America will have to maintain a small standing army. In order to prevent profiteering and the incentive to anyone to create war, the nation should own and control its munition plants, its gun factories, and its ship-building yards; in fact own and control every single thing associated with the creation and maintenance of the citizen soldiery or the regular standing army, and all the institutions directly or remotely connected therewith.

Not only the citizen soldiery, but the regular army, should have efficient officers, but both should be democratically controlled during peace times. The regular army soldier, instead of spending all of his time in drilling and learning how to successfully kill, could spend a part of his time in the munition plants and the shipyards, and on the farms and in the factories, where he would produce all of the things necessary for the upkeep of the regular army and possibly of the citizen soldiery. This would minimize the terrific burden of cost which under any other plan falls upon the consuming and laboring masses of our country. It would in a measure make the institution self-sustaining, and is not unlike the plan in vogue in several states of having the prisoners in penal institutions make the things necessary for their upkeep and for the use of the state and in political subdivisions thereof.

The regular army and citizen soldiery if maintained at all should be for the sole, exclusive purpose of safeguarding our democracy, freedom, and justice. They under no circumstances should be known and looked upon as the obnoxious, brutal form of militarism which was a plaything in the hands of autocrats in monarchies, or, in republics, in the hands of demagogues or profiteers.

TRADE NOTES.

37,000,000,000 cigarettes were made in the U. S. during the last fiscal year, which placed end to end would extend seven times the distance to the moon.

Through rulings of health commissioners the cigar business has been seriously handicapped. St. Louis was hit hard when both factories and retail stores were closed.

The foreign trade of the United States in the year which ends with next month, the calendar year 1918, seems likely to make another "high record." A compilation by the National City Bank of New York, estimating the trade of the full year based upon the figures thus far available, puts the total imports at approximately $3,100,000,000, and the total exports at approximately $6,200,000,000, thus estimating the year's total trade at approximately $9,300,000,000, against $9,185,000,000 in 1917—the former high record year. The excess of exports over imports will approximate $3,000,000,000 and the aggregate excess of exports over imports for the 4½ years of war will exceed $11,000,000,000, or more than that of the forty years preceding the war.

Havana, Cuba, cigar factories are crowded with orders, exports for October showing an increase over last year.

Great Britain is at present the main support of the Havana factories.

The Union American Cigar Co. has declared a dividend of 1 per cent on preferred stock.

The Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. has declared a 3 per cent quarterly dividend on common stock.

Sacramento, Calif., cigar dealers claim sales have fallen off 50 per cent on account of the flu.

All California cities have enforced the wearing of masks, which made smoking impossible.

The collections of internal revenue from cigars in the First Ohio District for October showed an increase of 3 per cent over the corresponding month last year, while the October output shows a decrease in the number of cigars manufactured amounting to 4,014,338. The record for 10 months shows a decrease of 40,642,937, or 23 per cent under the corresponding months last year.

Our exports of leaf tobacco for the seven months ending July 1, 1917, amounted to 129,449,937 lbs., and for the corresponding months this year we exported 186,216,070 lbs., an increase of 56,766,133 lbs.

Exports of cigars for the same period increased from 1,425,000 to 14,113,000, and cigarettes increased from 5,834,963 to 7,172,887.

The proposed change from central to eastern time is causing considerable discussion in Tampa, where much of the work cannot be done by artificial light. Cigar factories at present are working under central time, while other business has adopted eastern time.

The U. S. imported 3,647,377 cigars from Cuba the first half of October, 1918, which was a decrease of 309,503 as compared with the same period of 1917.

The Tobacco Manufacturers' Association announces that a strong effort will be made to have the War Industries Board revoke the order of Nov. 1, containing the conservation program for cigar manufacturers. The most drastic part of the order, which provided for the packing of Class A and B cigars in not less than 100s and the elimination of tin containers was to have become effective Jan. 31.

Stockholders of the Tobacco Products Corporation have voted to increase the common share capital from $16,000,000 to $20,000,000. This increase makes possible the 10 per cent stock dividend on common stock voted Nov. 15 to be distributed Jan. 15.

American Tobacco will do a business of approximately $145,000,000 in the current year, as compared with less than $90,000,000 in 1917.

CORRESPONDENCE

Boston, Mass., Nov. 30, 1918.

Will you kindly publish enclosed letter in our Official Journal and return same after you are through using?

HENRY ABRAHAMS, Sec'y.

Nov. 21, 1918.

Aaron Velleman, President Cigarmakers' Union No. 97, Boston, Mass.

Your favor of the 20th inst. inclosing check for $363.62 has been referred to me for answer. This is a fine piece of work on the part of the men of Cigarmakers' Union 97, Boston, and it is gratefully appreciated. I am forwarding your letter and check to Alfred L. Aiken of the National Shawmut Bank, who is treasurer of the Boston Metropolitan District, and formal receipt will be sent you by Mr. Aiken in due course. Believe me to be Gratefully yours,

C. F. WEED,

State Chairman, United War Work Campaign.

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 3, 1918.

To Members Everywhere:

Union No. 2 believes it to be to our disadvantage that the necessary number of endorsements were not forthcoming making it possible to submit to the membership the Boston amendment (October Journal) providing for a reduction of the size of the blue label.

This union endorsed the amendment, but because of the ban placed upon meetings during the recent epidemic of influenza action was too late to be of service in the direction intended.

We here are of the opinion that there are many reasons why the size of the label should be reduced. Primarily there is the element of cost of paper stock which we believe can be reduced nearly one-half, and in these times of high prices this feature of the matter should receive serious consideration.

There is also the added attractiveness of the smaller label when placed on the box. The government has reduced the size of the revenue stamp and who will deny the statement that both box and stamp are much more pleasing to the eye than when the larger stamp was in use.

For at least five years the secretary of this union has interviewed manufacturers in the states and Canada regarding the size of our label, and without exception opinion was expressed that for the sake of appearance and neatness the label could easily be reduced in size.

It was about three years ago that a cigar box was sent to the International President showing the label to be almost hidden through the use of various other labels, although the manufacturer declared he had no intention to cover it, but that it was altogether too big, and his own labels must be used.

We believe that one reason why the constitutional number of seconds was not recorded for the Boston amendment is that secretaries, as a rule, do not read at meetings proposed amendments as they appear in the Journal, and we hope that in at least this instance if your secretary does not read at your next meeting the amendment offered by Buffalo that some live member will request that it be read and that you will second it. Let us give the members a chance to express an opinion upon this proposition.

Let us show just a little spirit of advancement. Let us awake to the fact that cigarmakers recognize the signs of the time in which we live, that conservation of both material and money is necessary and commendable and that neatness, if not dispatch, is a factor that cannot be overlooked.

Fraternally yours,

HARRY SLATER, Pres.
J. HADIDA, Sec.-Treas.

H. I. Ross, Birmingham, Ala.

Dear Sir and Brother—You know that I lost my leg a couple of months ago, and being 63 years old, have trouble to learn to walk with crutches. I have to crawl up and down the steps both at the boarding house and factory, so I ask you to appeal to President Perkins to have a collection taken from all locals for an artificial leg. The boys in the shop have volunteered to press my molds, but everything has its limit, and I cannot expect it much longer. If you knew the circumstances I am sure you would fulfill this request of mine. My card is thirty-eight years old and during that time I always went in my pocket in similar cases.

Fraternally,

J. DOREY HUNNELL.

The above appeal has been approved. Respectfully ask that the International President enter the same in next Journal. All donations will be published in the Journal.

HERMAN I. ROSS,

Fin. Sec'y Union 405, Birmingham, Ala.

Chicago, Dec. 1, 1918.

Any discussion as to the merit of the Class A plan should be predicated on facts rather than on a misstatement, so if the members are to draw any conclusions as to the Class A plan it is well to keep in mind that the Chicago situation is purely local, as has been pointed out in previous articles.

In their appeal for sympathy in the October Journal they misquote the secretary of the J. A. B., who really stated, "The J. A. B. has been, by a referendum vote, declared to be primarily a label body, wherein the rights of 527 are restricted by the Constitution and their signed agreement."

They further claim that they were denied the right to vote on a proposed assessment.

They were not denied the vote on this question, but were instructed to vote on same in their own meeting, as their agreement provides.

This assessment was for the running expenses of the J. A. B., a part of which they incur, but at this writing they have not voted to assess themselves for this purpose, nor have they paid one cent toward such expense.

Their "Pay without say" falls flat in the face of this fact and it would be nearer the truth had they said, "Say without pay," as they attend all meetings.

They have long tried to dominate the local situation, but we feel here that the 30c members cannot afford to surrender their rights to 15c members working in the majority in the so-called "Trust Shop," where they do not get even their own differential bill of prices.

NOTICE TO LOCAL UNIONS.

Always refer to your Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 30c to the 20c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Members who while at work refuse or fail to pay per cent on loans suspend themselves without any action of the secretary.

In several instances where cards had been stolen from members secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book and in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privileges in dues unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such reports the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per Section 149, give full record of membership as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity of complying with the request carefully study Section 144c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal will" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

Section 144c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there be no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there be no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death were dependent for support in whole or in part.

The International Union cannot authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefit rests entirely with such members.

In order to avoid confusion when a Class A member changes from 15-cent dues to 30-cent dues, secretaries under the law are to give such members one-half time on length of membership, and write the following in ink in the due book: "Change from Class A to 30-cent due paying class. Time on full benefits commences (computed on basis of one-half time)." Should such member desire to travel he should be given a new due book and traveling card, both of which should give the date of initiation computed on the above mentioned basis, and the words "Changed From Class A" written on both due book and traveling card. Whenever a Class A 15-cent member changes to a 30-cent membership secretaries should always so state on their monthly reports, and record the transaction on their books.

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

In compliance with Section 184 of the Constitution, the International Executive Board levied a running weekly assessment, to replenish the General Fund, of 25c on each 30-cent, 20-cent and 15-cent members, and 12c on Class A members. The assessment commences on Sept. 2, 1918, and continues until the General Fund reaches the constitutional requirement.

Section 73 provides that "all dues and assessments of members receiving benefits shall be deducted from such benefits." This means any benefit and all dues and assessments. If a member has $5.00 sick benefit coming and owes 8 dues and 8 assessments he would receive just 60 cents in cash and credit for 8 dues and assessments.

NOTICE TO SECRETARIES.

Many requests are received for blank monthly reports about this time. Monthly blanks are mailed from Jan. 13 to 16 to the corresponding secretary of each union and contain the following supplies for the year:

- 24 financial statements.
- 12 label reports.
- 12 state of trade.
- 12 sick and out of work.
- 2 officers' reports.
- 10 supply orders.

Secretaries who do not receive the package within a reasonable time should make inquiries at the postoffice, and if it is not there, they should notify this office at once so the proper inquiries may be made.

NOTICE.

Lack of space prevents publishing report of referendum vote. (amendment Union 90) to Section 92. (See page 12.) It will appear in the January Journal.

BUREAU OF INFORMATION

Will Lillian Niver Colvert, wife of Charles Colvert, or her daughter Ora, or any one knowing their whereabouts, inform the undersigned. They formerly lived in Bradford County, Pa.; later lived at Seligman, Mo., and when last heard from were in Amarillo, Tex. Her daughter Ora would be somewhere around 21 or 22 years old. Important to them.—Gibson Weber, 1620 N. 17th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

The International Executive Board approved the application of 46 Grand Rapids to fine Charles Weinkauff $6795 $25 for working in the non-union factory of G. J. Johnson Cigar Co. Vote: Affirmative—7.

Approved the application of 22 Detroit to fine Julia Kadlowski 52256 $15.00, Mary Behuske 58161 $25.00, Anna Radtke 57958 $35.00, and Martha Grabo 14472 $35.00, for working in a strike shop; and Max Gold $15.00 for working against the interest of the union. Vote: Affirmative—7.

Approved the application of 205 Battle Creek to fine F. C. Emery and Mrs. Nellie Emery each $100.00 for hiring non-union girls for the purpose of turning their shop into a non-union shop. Vote: Affirmative—5; one member approved $25.00 fine.

Approved the application of 305 Monmouth, Ill., to fine Arthur Melburg, C. W. Claycomb and Peter Thart, for taking jobs in the Monmouth Cigar Company when the shop was locked out, approving a fine of $50 on each (the application was for $100 on Melburg and $50 on Claycomb and Thart). Vote: Affirmative—4; one member approved $50; and three members approved $25.

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and, in addition, send in such cards, but place on your letter the information necessary, as the letter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 148 to 149, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted resolutions of respect and condolence relative to death or deaths as follows and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days:

Union 97 offers the following amendments to the Constitution:

Amend Section 212 by striking out "three years" and inserting "two years." Section to read:

ALL persons learning cigarmaking or packing must serve at least two years. Proof of same must be attested by officers of local unions under whose jurisdiction said apprentice shall have served the whole or a part of his or her time. The recording secretary of each local union shall keep a complete list of all apprentices serving in his jurisdiction. All persons learning cigarmaking or packing must serve two years, but not longer without the consent of the local union. All apprentices shall be honorary members of the union until their term of apprenticeship has ended, when they must become paying members.

Amendment—New section:

When a cigar factory employs five cigar-makers, a journeyman packer, a cigarmaker packer must be employed, and in no case shall an apprentice packer be employed unless a journeyman packer is employed.

Randall Hoyd (105343) is earnestly requested to make some effort to settle up his unpaid board bill (of long standing) in the very near future, otherwise Union 463, Pontiac, will take action against him.

Union 77, Minneapolis, would like to know the whereabouts of Charles Duboy (104664). Secretary holding his card please notify Union 77.

Union 239, Lyons, Iowa, would like to hear from Harry E. Turner (12472).

Any secretary holding the card of H. Hart (30185) please collect room bill and forward to Union 160, Milford, Mass.

The union label protects the purchasing public of all classes, as well as the union for which it stands.

Proposed by Union 2, Buffalo:

Amend Section 150 of the constitution: Add after the words "Blue Color," on line 6—"And no more than four inches in length and no more than one inch in width." Section to read:

that the President of the International Union shall have prepared, printed and registered a trade-mark label to be known as the Union Label, perforated sheets of not less than ten, suitable to be pasted on the outside of the box, so that the label will be conspicuously displayed. The labels shall be of light blue color and no more than four inches in length and no more than one inch in width. All labels issued shall be printed in series and numbered consecutively. The proportion of labels used by the Canadian unions to be printed in Canada by order and under the supervision of the International President."

Union No. 14, Chicago, Ill., offers the following amendment to Section 150:

Add after the words "Blue Color" on line 6: "and no more than four inches in length, and no more than one inch in width." Balance of section to remain unchanged.

The amendment of 37, Fort Wayne, providing that the convention of the Cigarmakers' International Union shall consist of the International President and Executive Board, as published in the October Journal—Received the endorsement of 218, Binghamton; 259, Bloomington; 179, Bangor; 69, Three Rivers, and 402, Quakertown.

Not having received the required endorsements, it can not be submitted to popular vote.

The amendment of 383, Chicago, Ill., as published in the November Journal, as follows:

Amend Section 79, in line 6, after the word "weeks," inserting the following: "Counting from the first day the member or members quit working." After the word "week," on the same line, strike out "until the strike or lockout shall have terminated," and insert the following: "Thereafter until work is resumed." Balance of section to read accordingly.

Received the endorsement of 90, New York, and 218, Binghamton.

The amendment of 248, Jacksonville, Fla., as published in the November Journal, as follows:

Section 64—Cut out "the regular" and insert "$1 initiation fee" instead, and insert "15c weekly dues; said 15c members shall not be required to pay more than one-half of all International assessments levied, but shall pay all label assessments in full."

Part of Section 64 to read as follows: "Applicants that are affected with chronic disease or that are over 50 years of age can become members by paying $1 initiation fee and 15c weekly dues; these said 15c members shall not be required to pay more than one-half of all International assessments levied, but shall pay all label assessments in full."

Received the endorsement of 90, New York.

Amendment proposed by Union No. 337, Key West, Fla.:

Amend Section 184 of the constitution by adding the following: No assessment shall be levied on members, including Class A, for the period of one year commencing from the date of initiation. This exemption shall not apply to suspended members having been reinstated.

The amended section to read as follows: Section 184. Whenever such general fund of the Cigar Makers International Union shall fall below the sum provided for in Section 183, the Executive Board shall levy an assessment on each member to replenish the same. But no assessment shall be levied on members, including Class A, for the period of one year, commencing from the date of initiation. This exemption shall not apply to suspended members having been reinstated.

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

(An amendment takes effect the first of the month following the publication of notice of its adoption in the Official Journal.)

Amendments adopted since the June 15, 1917, edition of the constitution:

By 208, Kalamazoo, Mich.: To amend Section 154 by adding after the word "bunches," on line 23, "nor which pays less than $10.00 per thousand for hand work, less than four molds of 10 bunches each with press on table, or two 20-bunch molds in shaper press, to be considered hand work."

Take Notice.—The amendment of 238, Sacramento, Calif., takes the place of the 132, Brooklyn, amendment, and supersedes all other amendments reference war retiring cards and benefits. The amendment, published elsewhere in this Journal, says: "This amendment shall govern all other sections which deal with benefits of such members who may be doing military duty or are beyond the boundary lines as defined in our constitution."

By 238, Sacramento, Calif.: War Retiring Card Amendment:

(a) That the President of the International Cigarmakers' Union cause to be printed a War Retiring Card, to read as follows:

(b) This is to certify that Mr., Card No., Initiated by, When, has entered the service of (U. S. or Allies' Army or Navy), and is entitled to all benefits as may be contained in the War Retiring Card Amendment.

Pres. C. M. I. U.
Signed—

....., Local Pres.
....., Fin. Sec.

(c) Any member who may by draft or voluntary enlistment enter the service of the United States Army or Navy or the service of the Army or Navy of any allied country, during this period of war, shall be entitled to a War Retiring Card, provided such member is in good standing at the time of his or her application for a War Retiring Card.

(d) Any member who is a holder of a War Retiring Card shall be exempt from all dues, fines and assessments, and upon his or her reentrance in the actual making or packing of cigars shall be entitled to his or her original card from which he or she was transferred, with all benefits as entitled to from date of initiation, except for such time as he or she was holding a War Retiring Card.

(e) Any member holding a War Retiring Card shall be entitled to his or her original card free of charge.

(f) All transfers shall be made at regular or executive board meetings.

(g) Applications for transfer to the War Retiring Card may be made in writing.

(h) All cards from which members transfer to the War Retiring Card shall be sent to the International President to be kept on file.

(i) It shall be the duty of the International President to have sufficient War Retiring Cards printed, which shall be distributed to all local unions.

(j) No benefits shall be paid to any member while holding a War Retiring Card.

(k) This amendment shall govern all other sections which deal with benefits of such members who may be doing military duty or are beyond the boundary lines as is defined by our constitution.

By Union 90, New York:

Strike out in Sec. 92 all from second line after wages till September, on line 10, and insert "from December 15 until January 15."

Section to read:

No strike shall be approved or sustained by the International Union for an increase in wages between the 15th day of December until the 15th day of January of any year.

But this shall in nowise preclude the approval of strikes against the reduction of wages or the truck system, or against the introduction of tenement house work.

ASPIRATION OF THE LABEL.

The aspiration of the union label knows no bounds. Its ambition is to redeem a world. Nothing in the whole realm of unionized labor is capable of such effective and continuous utility. Other agencies have varying degrees of potentiality, and are intermittent in effectiveness. Unhappily, they sometimes fail to win public sympathy, translate indifference into antagonism, intensifying the suspicion of employers, and energize auction pens into a malevolent assault upon the labor movement.

Considering the close of the war, its triumphant conclusion on the side of the Allies fighting for democracy and justice and for the suppression of autocracy and militarism; all its glorious phases and many sacrifices; the record of the International Union, the adoption of the loyalty resolution, and the many sacrifices made by our members, it is interesting to take note of the fact that the first President of the Cigar Makers' International Union, Mr. A. J. Zeitler, Albany, N. Y., was a volunteer in the Civil War, 1861-65, and lost his life in the defense of the Union of the States, and that the Cigar Makers' International Union, at the convention held in the city of Cleveland, Ohio, in 1866, adopted as a tribute to his memory the following resolution: "Resolved, That we, the representatives in convention assembled, deplore the loss of an honest, able and useful man; and, as moreover thereto, that as his life was pure, so was his death glorious and honorable, having met it in defense of the dear old flag of our beloved country."

During the war just brought to a triumphant conclusion for democracy and justice, the members of many unions were directly or indirectly engaged in making, or working on munitions and other things that came directly or indirectly under the heading of necessities for the maintenance of military efficiency, and were enabled to and did secure substantial increases in wages, reductions in hours of labor, and other favorable shop and working conditions. On the other hand, the unions, including our own, that were not engaged in what were known as "necessary industries," did not have the same advantage in retaining their membership and in bringing about improved prices and working conditions.

Under the new alignment and the determination on the part of the workers to maintain their standard of life, wages, and working conditions, it is the duty of the unions and members thereof, who profited most, to help those less fortunately situated. We call upon all organized labor to give us their moral support in helping the union cigar makers to maintain and improve present conditions.

Amplifying the old biblical saying that "The Lord helps those who help themselves," we declare it is the first duty of organized cigar makers to be "up and stirring" to make their conditions and wants known and demand the loyal support of other workers and friends for our union label. Unless every member recognizes and assumes full responsibility and resolves to do his full individual share, the progress made will be slow and disappointing.

We are occasionally asked how long the weekly assessment is to continue. There is only one response and that is: We are unable to state or Distress. definitely at present. The constitution in part reads as follows:

Sec. 183. The International Union shall maintain a fund, to be known as the General Fund, which shall consist of the funds in the hands of local unions, and shall at all times amount to the sum of $10 per member.

Sec. 184. Whenever such General Fund of the International Union shall fall below the sum provided for in Sec. 183, the Executive Board shall levy an assessment on each member to replenish the same.

The foregoing makes it a constitutional obligation upon the Executive Board to levy assessments to replenish the general fund.

It must be remembered that we have recently passed through extraordinary times and conditions. Nearly every member of the International Union has received from one to three increases of wages in the last two years. All of this entailed some expense on our general fund. In addition to this and the regular payment of sick and death and other benefits, we have just passed through one of the most serious epidemics the modern world has ever known. It is said that over ten million people have died from influenza, and millions more were sick with this dreadful disease, who recovered. The members of the International Union were not immune, and, like all other citizens, suffered from this pestilence. A few examples will indicate to your minds how far reaching the effect was upon our membership and our funds.

Union 462, Tampa, paid out in sick benefit in October and November, 1918, $6,165, and in the same months of 1917, $542. This is $5,623 more paid in October and November, 1918, than in the corresponding months in 1917. Union 97, Boston, paid out in sick benefit in October and November, 1918, $3,608, and in the same months of 1917, $1,789, a difference of $1,819. Union 278, London, paid out in sick benefit in October and November, 1918, $819, and in the same months of 1917, $193, a difference of $626. Union 316, McSherrystown, paid out in sick benefit in October and November, 1918, $1,546, and in the same months of 1917, $511, a difference of $1,035. Union 336, Tampa, paid out in sick benefit in October and November, 1918, $3,728, and in the same months of 1917, $596, a difference of $3,132. Union 500, Tampa, paid out in sick benefit in October and November, 1918, $6,000, and in the same months of 1917, $884, a difference of $5,116. The total amounts expended by the foregoing stated unions for the months of October and November, 1917, was $4,515, while for the influenza months, October and November, 1918, the total amount was $23,866, showing that $19,351 more was expended for sick benefit in November and October, 1918, by these six unions, taken at random, than was expended in the corresponding months in 1917.

As some indication of where the weekly assessment went, the records show that the sick benefit in these unions referred to for the two months in 1917 amounted to 66c per capita, while for the influenza months of 1918 it amounted $3.70 per capita. The weekly assessment amounted to $2.00 per member, which shows that despite the extra weekly assessment we ran behind because of this enormous expenditure occasioned by the influenza epidemic. The expenditure was $1.70 per member in excess of the assessment. The figures quoted relate only to the payment of sick benefit, and do not take into account the extraordinary number of deaths which occurred during the epidemic, and for which death benefit was paid.

The foregoing are only a few unions picked at random. It is needless to say that when all unions are accounted for it will be found that enormous sums were paid for sick benefit due to this one cause, which of course was unforeseen and unprecedented, and usually occurs only once in a lifetime. If the Executive Board had not levied this weekly assessment the International Union would have been dangerously close to being bankrupt.

After all, who is there that will complain over the assessment which went to relieve dire distress, and to alleviate suffering, and kept so many of our members and their families from want and privation? The regret should be that we did not have more to give than we really did.

Because of this extraordinary, unforeseen, and almost unprecedented drain upon our funds, the weekly assessment will have to continue longer than was originally thought and intended. It is either assessments or impoverishment for members and our union. The true spirit of human kindness, self-protection, fraternal fellowship, and true unionism, determined to fight for and maintain justice and freedom upon the economic field of endeavor, can and will return the right answer.

During the year just closed the International Union suffered some loss in membership, which is due to several causes. First of all, there were less cigars smoked. Second, while there are a great many women in the industry, the great bulk of our membership is composed of men. Women were exempt from war service, and the great bulk of those in our industry who "went to the front" were members of the International Union. The big non-union concerns, with hardly an exception, employ eighty to ninety per cent women. Last, wholly aside from the number we lost through members "joining the colors," a goodly number secured employment in munition works and other industries which, for the time being, offered greater inducements in the way of wages than there were in the cigar industry.

These losses were temporary, and we can quickly get back to our former numerical strength. The more agitation we do for the label the sooner this result will be achieved.

Considering the fact that we were one of the industries "non-essential for the maintenance of military efficiency," we came through and out of the war with a record full of encouragement, which speaks volumes for the stability of the International Union and warrants the oft-repeated assertion that we can meet and overcome all obstacles just as successfully in the future as we have in the past. To do this, however, requires work, agitation, energy, and tireless activity on the part of all concerned.

Encouraging Results.

Review and General Trade Statistics.

The coming year will see many changes. New problems, that will necessitate level-headed council, will have to be faced by both capital and labor.

There seems to be a sincere effort on all sides to readjust in some manner that will cause the least hardship to all concerned.

The recognition of "Collective Bargaining" by the Government and as a result of the recognition of this spirit in the conciliation service of the Department of Labor, a more general application of this principle in the settlement of all wage disputes will go far to make easier and less costly any differences that may arise in the readjustment of wage agreements.

Secretary of Labor Wilson, in his annual report to the President, says for Collective Bargaining: "For many years the law has been making it easier, and properly so, for our employing interests to deal collectively. The department has recognized the necessity and the desirability for such organization on the part of the wage earners, for without it the wage earner is at a tremendous disadvantage. His employer is granted a normal and orderly method of dealing and is encouraged to so deal by the law. Fairness demands that like facilities be at the disposal of wage earners."

"The fixed policy of the department has always been to acknowledge the right of both employers and wage earners to organize and to use its influence against abuse of organization by either side."

In the coming four or five months will perhaps lie the greatest danger. The closing of munition factories, with their higher rate of pay for almost all kinds of work, readjusting these plants from a war to a peace basis, and the rapid demobilization of our fighting forces is likely to bring on some friction and dissatisfaction as to term of employment.

With coming social unrest it will be our duty to guard against hasty or ill-advised tendencies that are bound to foment in certain quarters. Mediation, conciliation and voluntary arbitration should govern our first step.

While we are facing the supreme test of Democracy, there is at the present time nothing in sight to cause undue apprehension.

At a meeting of steel manufacturers in New York recently Elbert H. Gary is quoted as declaring that, "While labor is receiving higher compensation than ever before, the rates are no higher than are proper and just. Our employees must continue to be treated liberally with respect to their compensation and general welfare."

He predicted, "If business is fair to its employees, its customers and its competitors, the next five years will be the most progressive, prosperous and successful in our history."

There could be no greater contrast than the ushering in of 1919 and that of 1918. The year just ended was born in the gloom of destructive warfare; the great war was yet to be fought, in so far as our country was concerned; while this year, peace, hoped to be eternal, adds the necessary confidence and optimism to our nation. We are done with the horrors and uncertainty of war and find our nation stronger and greater than when we went in.

The national wealth has increased from $230,000,000,000 to $250,000,000,000 within the year and money in circulation per capita has increased from $48.50 to $55.84.

While we have drawn upon our natural resources somewhat through the enormous sales of coal, iron, copper, etc., to foreign powers, we have created larger industries, successfully embarked in manufacturing that before the war was given over entirely to other nations, and through a merchant marine that has increased from 2,412,381 tons to 10,334,196 tons, made of 1,842 steamers and 772 sailing vessels, we are now in a position to control some of the world's trade.

Before the war less than 300,000 people in the United States were bond holders; 21,000,000 purchased $6,989,047,000 of the fourth liberty loan, to say nothing of the preceding three. Not only have bond holders increased through the purchase of Liberty Bonds, but in buying of other bonds as well. Owners of U. S. Steel common stock now number 72,779, against 51,689 a year ago.

The volume of business in the United States for the year broke all records. While exports for the eleven months ending November 30th of $5,585,000,000 were slightly below the total of $5,633,000,000 for the corresponding period of 1917, our domestic business was much larger, as is indicated by a gain of 8 per cent in bank clearings.

Imports for the eleven months ending November 30th were $2,820,326,193, as compared with $2,724,556,458 for the same period in 1917.

The value of all crops produced in 1918 and of live stock on farms Jan. 1st is estimated at $24,700,000,000, against $21,325,000,000 a year ago.

Final figures on the acreage and production of the leading crops of the United States as reported by the department of agriculture follow:

Crops.	Acreage.	Total production.
Corn, 1918.....	107,494,000	2,582,814,000
Corn, 1917.....	116,730,000	3,065,298,000

Final figures on cotton are not at hand, but the department of agriculture estimates the 1918 crop at 11,700,000 bales against 11,302,375 bales in 1917. All previous records for prices on raw cotton and cotton goods were broken during the year. Cotton sold in May, 1918, at 34½ cents per pound, pre-war prices ranged from 11 to 14 cents per pound.

Building operations were less than in any year for the last fifteen, it is declared. The reasons given are Government restrictions, unprecedented high prices on material of all kinds and the shortage of labor. Building permits for 110 cities for eleven months in 1918 totaled but $392,741,610, as compared with $631,746,722 for 1917.

Internal revenue collections for the fiscal year ended June 30th, 1918, amounted to $3,694,619,638.72, as compared with $809,393,640.44 for the preceding fiscal year. A comparative summary follows of the larger items:

	1918.	1917.
Income and excess profits.....	$2,838,999,894.28	$359,685,147.50
Distilled spirits....	317,553,687.33	192,111,318.81
Fermented liquors..	126,285,857.65	91,897,193.81
Tobacco.....	156,188,659.90	103,201,502.16

Our trade with the Orient in 1918 will aggregate more than one billion dollars, and if we include Australasia the total will exceed one and a half billions, or more than double that at the beginning of the war.

The largest growth occurs in the trade with Japan, though there are marked increases to China, India and Australia. The total exports to Japan for the nine months ending with September are $209,000,000, against $108,000,000 in the same months in 1917. Imports from Japan were $227,000,000 during this period of nine months, as compared with $181,000,000 in the corresponding months of 1917. These increases are for manufactured goods on the export side and for raw materials and foodstuffs on the import side, silk and tea being the two articles of import of the greater volume.

The year shows fewer business failures than in any year for the last ten. As summarized by R. G. Dunn & Co., the failures for 1918 numbered 9,982, with liabilities of $163,019,979, as compared with 13,855 defaults involving $182,441,371 in 1917 and 16,933 reverses for $196,212,256 in 1916.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

From August 1st, 1910, to August 1st, 1914, 2,862,624 male immigrants above the age of 16 were absorbed into the industries of this country. From August 1st, 1914, to August 1st, 1918, but 581,339 came within our borders.

According to a report just issued by a department of labor, Washington, trades unions in Scandinavian countries have increased their membership during the war.

In Sweden the membership increased 45,334 during the year just ended, making the total membership 186,146. Women trades unionists have increased from 8,238 to 14,402.

In Norway the increase is about 14,000 within the last year, with a present total membership of 93,000.

Denmark's increase was 28,162, and their total membership is now 179,284, of which 27,776 are women.

Investigations conducted by the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor show a great increase in the employment of children since the federal child labor law was declared unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court. This law prohibited the transportation in inter-state commerce of commodities made by children under 14 years in factories and under 16 years in mines and quarries. It also provided that children between 14 and 16 years should not be employed more than eight hours a day, six days a week and not before 6 a. m. or after 7 p. m.

The Children's Bureau states that since the federal law has been set aside, the long work-day for children has again been established. In North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia an 11-hour day and the 60-hour week are now general. In the former state children from 5 to 14 years of age were found employed more than eight hours a day.

In the six years from 1911 to 1917 membership in trades unions in Canada has increased from 133,132 to 204,630, composed of 1,974 local branches.

* * *

A Union card in the pocket of a non-union made coat would say some interesting things if it could speak.

* * *

In an editorial in the December issue entitled "Deadly Results," we showed the enormous cost in human life and the economic waste that preventable disease and accident exacts from the nation.

This loss was based on the toll of death and did not touch the much greater economic loss entailed through sickness. When the annual economic losses through sickness are compiled their figures are so staggering as to be almost unbelievable and we at once look for some plan that will in a measure ameliorate the burden it entails.

While the loss can only be reduced by some plan of bettering living conditions and furthering improved means of combating disease, the burden can be lightened for the individual through the payment of fraternal sick benefits.

* * *

Our sick benefit provides the difference between comfort and want, between keeping even and running into debt and we should safeguard it at all times as one of the essentials of trades unionism that makes for continuous membership. Continuous membership is one of the vital points of the strength of a union and those unions whose members are in today and out tomorrow are ever at the mercy of the employer who is in a position to force conditions to the disadvantage of the workers.

* * *

Just how much the present influenza epidemic will cost the Cigar Makers' International Union cannot as yet be definitely stated. That it will cost us considerable is a certainty, and it is gratifying to know we are in a position to meet whatever it may be.

* * *

The prompt payment of death and sick benefits bring much into the lives of dependent ones and we should be proud indeed of our foresight in making provision for a system that is in keeping with the spirit of fraternal fellowship that now appears to be dawning on the entire world.

TRADE NOTES.

Havana cigar exports showed a general increase for the first ten months of 1918 of 37,-496,048. Exports to the United States showed a decrease for this period, the greater increase being to Great Britain and France.

The New York World says that hostilities between the United Cigar Stores Company and the Tobacco Products Corporation will be terminated by a merger.

The diverting of many vessels from the Pacific to the Atlantic has caused a considerable falling off in the importation of Manila cigars.

Connecticut growers plan for a reduction of shade grown tobacco this year owing to the cost of cloth. It is estimated that not more than 2,000 acres will be grown, against 5,073 last year.

During the first eight months of the current year the sales of the leading brands of cigarettes showed an increase of approximately 75 per cent over sales for the like period of last year.

In order to permit the full utilization of equipment in the shipment of tobacco a plan for the adoption of a so-called "standard hogshead" which will allow double tiering in freight cars is being worked out by the Director General of Railroads. It is intended to change the size of the containers and in this manner increase the carrying capacity of freight cars about one-third.

The production of shade grown Connecticut in 1918 was approximately 7,467,000 pounds. This is some 1,600,000 pounds more than that of 1917. The total acreage in Connecticut (shade grown) was 5,073 in 1918, against 4,762 in 1917.

The United States vice-consul at Athens reports that the Greek tobacco crop will amount to only 51,000,000 pounds, or about one-half the production for 1917. The cause given is the extremely dry weather which prevailed during the growing period. The new crop with the old tobacco on hand amounts to 82,000,000 pounds. European Turkey and Asia Minor will contribute 87,000,000 pounds, making a total supply of 169,000,000 pounds, of which America will use 28,215,000 pounds, based on pre-war distribution.

The American Cigar Company has declared a quarterly dividend of 2 per cent payable Feb. 1. This is an increase of one-half of 1 per cent over the regular quarterly dividend that has been paid since 1912.

There was a total net increase of 15,970,824 pounds in the materials used in the manufacture of tobacco products in 1918 compared with the year 1917.

It is predicted that the output of Manila cigars will be much larger in 1919 than in any previous year.

Machine made cigars are coming on the market in increased quantities and late patents have been granted for improved bunching and rolling machines.

The Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada has declared a dividend of 1 per cent on preferred stock, making 7 per cent for the year. The usual dividend of $1\frac{1}{2}$ per cent on common stock was also declared.

Based on actual figures for the first eleven months of the year 1918 it is expected that the sales of the American Tobacco Company will exceed $145,000,000, as compared with a total of $89,920,000 in 1917 and $70,009,000 in 1916. With the business of the subsidiary companies included it is expected that the sales will reach $200,000,000, as compared with $109,000,000 in 1917.

It is expected that the American Cigar Company will increase the dividend on its common stock soon. The company has been paying an annual cash dividend of $6 per share since October, 1912. Estimated earnings for 1918 were $18 a share after allowance for war taxes.

In reporting on its survey of industrial conditions now in Greater New York, the Bulletin of the Merchants' Association says, concerning the cigar business: "The quantity of cigar production has been somewhat decreased, chiefly on account of labor shortage, although the value of the product has increased. The large government orders have been small in proportion to normal output, so that any decrease in such orders will not materially affect the industry. Possibly the continued high price of cigars may to a very slight extent affect the industry through decreased consumption."

It is asserted that Governor Stephens of California has assured a committee recently that he would sign an anti-coupon bill similar to the Washington law if such legislation was passed in the coming session of the legislature.

The following table shows the number of cigar, cigarette, tobacco and snuff factories in operation and the number of retail dealers in leaf tobacco in business at the close of each calendar year since 1913:

Years.	Cigar.	Cigarette.	bacco.	Snuff.	Retail Dealers in leaf to-
1913	20,555	469	2,727	76	833
1914	19,841	447	2,766	68	591
1915	16,764	381	2,364	68	397
1916	15,732	367	2,214	71	431
1917	14,576	311	2,085	67	331
1918	13,217	311	1,915	61	277

The loss of 7,338 cigar factories in five years indicates that the day of the "Buckeye" is passing, that our trade is rapidly becoming centralized in the hands of large concerns and provides an unanswerable argument as to the necessity for increased efforts in organization activity.

Receipts for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918, from internal revenue taxes on domestic and imported tobacco manufacturers amounted to $156,188,650.90. Large quantities of tobacco, cigars and cigarettes were also exported free of tax for the use of the army abroad. Complete statistics are not as yet available, but during the month of May, a representative month, 2,272,000 pounds of tobacco, 9,600,000 cigars and 377,000,000 cigarettes were exported for the use of the army.

The production of tobacco products in the United States (Philippine Islands not included), for October, 1918, follows, with a comparative statement for October, 1917. (In the 1917 statement products from the Philippines are included.)

Frank L. Sayward, an agent for the American Tobacco Co., is quoted as follows: "War conditions caused a vast increase in the use of chewing tobacco; increased pipe smoking, decreased cigar smoking to a noticeable degree, and started a boom in the cheap cigarette business. We learned that chewing tobacco was more sought after in the trenches than any other kind. Cigarettes were in second place, and men smoked cigarettes simply because they could not get anything else to smoke."

According to data reaching government officials in Washington, synthetic tobacco containing even a substitute for nicotine has been concocted by German chemists.

Production in the first Ohio District as indicated by the internal revenue collections for the month of November, shows a considerable falling off in contrast with the corresponding month last year, the November output being the smallest since last July, but in the expired eleven months period, three other months, February, March and April fell below.

The total November production was 12,787,850, against 17,516,201 for November, 1917, a decrease of 4,728,351. The total production for the eleven months of 1918 was 149,112,262, as compared with 194,483,550 for the corresponding eleven months of 1917, showing a decrease of 45,371,288, or 23 per cent.

The total production of cigars, all grades, in the Ninth Pennsylvania District in November was 59,826,955, as compared with 69,969,112 in 1917, and 69,962,320 in 1916.

The greatest loss was in the cheaper grades of cigars, the Class C output being exceeded but in one month of the preceding year.

Comparative figures for October and November, 1918, follow:

Total cigars manufactured Oct., 1918... 71,019,300
Total cigars manufactured Nov., 1918... 59,826,955

Decrease 11,192,345

In the downward revision of the revenue bill the Senate Committee on Finance has cut down the proposed tax rates on cigars in the manner shown in the following table:

Class.	Present rate.	Rate fixed House bill.	Revised rates of Senate committee.
	Per M.	Per M.	Per M.
A.....	$3.00	$ 5.00	$ 4.00
B.....	4.00	8 00	5.40
C.....	6.00	12 00	9.00
D.....	8.00	16 00	12.00
E.....	10.00	20 00	15.00

Class A under existing law includes cigars retailing at not over 4 cents each. Under the new law Class A will include cigars retailing at not over 5 cents each.

Class B under the existing law embraces cigars retailing at over 4 cents and not over 7 cents. Under the proposed law Class B will include all cigars retailing at over 5 cents and not over 8 cents each.

The government crop report for December gives the following comparative figures on tobacco production for 1917-18, also the average for the four preceding years and the estimated farm value of the crop on December 1 of each year.

Year.	Acreage.	Farm value
		Production per lb.,	Dec. 1. cents.
1918...	1,549,000	1,340,019,000	27 9c
1917...	1,518,000	1,249,608,000	24.1c
Av.
1912-16	1,290,000	1,033,357,000	11.5c

The comparative farm values should be carefully studied, for in these figures we can learn much that has to do with our own as well as the manufacturers' present condition.

According to the statement of earnings for the first ten months of 1918 furnished the New York Stock Exchange by the Tobacco Products Corporation their gross sales totaled $13,484,468, with a net income of $3,141,886. The balance applicable to common stock after excess profits and preferred dividend allowances are deducted will amount to $15.50 a share.

CORRESPONDENCE

London, Ont., Dec. 9, 1918.

Kindly insert the following in the next issue of the Journal and also have the International Executive Board ratify the action taken by this local:

We would like to give a little publicity of an ex-member of our union, Ernie Singer, just to show the ingratitude of some people who call themselves men.

In August, 1917, after careful investigation we found this man $85.00 short in his accounts. The local union did not prosecute him on him promising to pay this amount back with the cost of the investigation.

About three weeks after he was arrested for an unmentionable crime. He pleaded guilty and was given six months in jail. At the conclusion of his sentence he appealed for an opportunity to earn his living as a union man under union conditions.

At this time his brother, who had been supporting the family, was found to be a victim of tuberculosis. Taking into consideration the domestic conditions existing in the Singer family, the local union closing their eyes to the past record of the applicant, and on purely charitable grounds and against the wishes of many of the members, for the second time granted him a card, thereby placing him in a position where he could again earn his living as a union man. Singer secured a position in the local branch of the Tuckett firm, and after working three weeks a strike occurred there. He quit work with the rest of the men, and not being entitled to benefits, he was given benefits out of the local fund.

In the course of a short time he secured work in another factory, and in gratitude for the favors thus shown him and the lenient treatment he had received from Local 278, on some slight pretext he quit his job and placed himself at the disposal of the Tuckett firm, which was and is still a strike shop and a firm which is now waging one of the most bitter battles against union principles and union conditions that probably has ever been fought in the cigar industry in Canada.

By resolution and without a dissenting voice it was resolved that no action that this union could conceive could be too drastic to apply to this man, and that the International office should place Singer on the blacklist in so far as allowing him to work in any factory where they had the power to prevent him from working, or where he would come in contact with men who had the best interests and principles of unionism at heart.

This blacklist against Singer to be based on his personal reputation, and also on the grounds that he is positively unfit to be employed where union men earn their living, for the reason that he is a moral degenerate and a strike-breaker by reputation, a detriment to all the principles which unionism stands for.

Fifth Liberty Loan.

(From Liberty Loan Press Bureau—Exclusive release to Cigarmakers' Journal.)

American trade unionism and American fighting spirit will make the years of 1917 and 1918 memorable as long as there is a race of men loving liberty and hating slavery. No matter how much bickering there has been or may be about the skill or bungling in the carrying on of war, this fact stands out above all dispute: Union labor was as loyal and patriotic in its tasks with the army and behind the army as the best and bravest of the Marine Corps who fought to the last drop of blood against the Prussian Guards at Chateau Thierry. American victory at Sedan and the overwhelming defeat of Germany belong equally to the trade union soldiers at home and to the Army and Navy in France.

Well—Victory is ours. The Flag is venerated abroad hardly less than at home. Organized labor has won the recognition of all thinking people as a vast force for Freedom, Justice and Right. The governments of the world have given their sanction to the principle of wages always upheld by trade unionism. The standards of living have been raised for the worker and his children the whole world over.

Government figures show that 97.3 per cent of the Third Liberty Loan was taken by 18,286,000 persons, averaging $150 per capita subscribed. Two-thirds the money provided for the war on the Third Loan came from these "small subscribers." How did it come that they were able to buy the loan so generally and as generously as 50 cents a day average indicates?

The answer is easy and clear: Fair wages, decent leisure, personal pride in the worker himself and in the worker's children; more of the joy of life, more freedom, less serfdom; more manhood, less vassalage to the mattoek and maul—in one word, the ascendancy of Trade Union Principles throughout the body of labor. To the extent that workers are government bondholders, they are capitalists with some of the "unearned income" that we have heard talked about for years. To the extent that they are government bondholders they receive federal payments for interest and redemptions. To the extent that they receive such federal payments they receive an offset against federal and other taxes. It is true that the increase of the bonded debt of the government tends to enforce the collection of higher taxes; but that, in turn, enforces on all employers the need of larger production. Larger production means more labor. Greater demand for labor means maintained wages for labor, or shorter working hours without reduction of wages. The increased taxes collected by the government must be spent and will be spent largely for the things produced by labor. Thus the chain is complete.

To pay the bills and wind up the war the government will offer a Fifth Liberty Loan some time next spring. All the money raised by previous loans has been spent and short-term borrowing has been necessary to pay the current bills. It is imperative that the Fifth Loan be generously supported and heavily over-subscribed.

After the foregoing analysis of the position of bondholding workingmen it is not necessary to add that the interests of all trade unionists will be served in various ways by buying the Fifth Liberty Bonds. They are the best for investment. They tend to maintain wages and high standards of living among workers. They are a protection against adversity. They insure the proper education of the children. They make the worker a better man and a happier American.

Buy Fifth Liberty Bonds to your limit, and do it on good trade union principles—the greatest good for the greatest number.

The union label is an appeal to principle—principle that is above price; the principle that a dollar expended in the maintenance of fair labor is worth more in the end than a dollar saved at the bargain counter.

ORGANIZER'S REPORT.

Lancaster, Dec. 6, 1918.

Since my last report I continued working through the First and Ninth Districts of Pennsylvania.

During October while the influenza epidemic was raging meetings were postponed by order of the state board of health. Meetings that were held later in this month by organizations of labor were to formulate demands to be presented to employers and if denied to be placed before the War Labor Board.

On request of several organized trades I addressed those union were held, open meetings were means employed to arouse the the unions of their craft so that of wages might be raised and

The cigar trade is busy now are looking for workers, their employees in many cases are get out the goods required. What will be the state of trade days everyone will have to guess.

The Lancaster County Label League held a mass meeting on Dec. 1 to which all trade unionists and their friends were invited. The meeting was fairly well attended, the principal speaker was John J. Maning, secretary-treasurer of the label department of the A. F. of L. Your humble servant was called upon to address the meeting and I lent my voice in sounding the cause of labor and the union labels. President M. G. Evans of the County League has done splendid work for union labels and with the co-operation of the delegates to the league and the trade unionists in general in and around Lancaster no doubt the patronage of the label will grow.

Fraternally yours,
W. A. McCABE, Organizer.

TRADE BENEFITS SECURED BY THE UNION LABEL.

The union label adds to business as a leading inducement to union buyers and to union merchants. It keeps trade at home where there is local enterprise. It benefits the retailer as well as the wholesaler. It individualizes quality with price. It aids the newspaper and the union whose tenets it advertises. It is beneficial for stability. It defies unscrupulous competition. It helps to establish the wage scale. It insures a recognition of rights. It is a profit producer. Its colors glow with humanity. Its insignias stand for health, skill and dignity. It is the foe of the "open shop," and it points to a growing co-operation among the workers for the millennium of universal rights. It wins patronage on merit, indexes character, and promotes American individuality. It stands for some of the noblest feelings of mankind and womankind.

Report of International Financier.

Havana, Cuba, Jan. 1, 1919.

Since last report have examined the accounts of the following unions, viz:

Union 119, San Juan, Puerto Rico.

The accounts of this union would be in good condition only that the members do not comply with Section 73. The $1,590 due to International Union on examination is strike benefit—"illegal" because of failure to pay dues when at work. Statement as follows:

Receipts from organization, December, 1906, to Oct. 28, 1918.....$37,823.71

Expended over percentage, 1907 and 1916, inclusive.....1,840.66

Due Int'l Union on examination.....1,590.00

Total.....$1,254.37

Expense to Oct. 28, 1918.....39,067.09

Int'l balance should be Oct. 28, 1918..$ 2,187.28

Funds of Union—

Oct. 31, 1918, in the Popular Bank.....$781.00

In possession Sec'y Estavan Colon.....14.07

Total.....$ 795.07

Deficiency of union Oct. 28, 1918.....$ 1,392.21

Until this $1,590 illegal strike benefit was entered in their accounts they had a surplus of $197.79.

Union 148, Caguas, P. R.

In some respects the books and accounts here are in excellent condition. Cash and stamp accounts correct. All vouchers and benefit cards except the last few days—as they run out of benefit cards. Ledger nicely posted and to date. Failure to comply with Section 73 cost them $902.51 in illegal benefits. Statement as follows:

International balance April 1, 1916...$ 51.70

International receipts to Nov. 1, 1918..11,228.63

Expended over percentage in 1915, 1916 and 1917.....381.81

Due to International Union on examination.....902.51

Total.....$12,564.70

Expense to Nov. 1, 1918.....11,428.42

International balance for Nov. 1, 1918.$ 1,136.28

Funds of Union—

Nov. 1, 1918, in possession Sec'y Placido Cruz.....48.13

Deficiency of union Nov. 1, 1918...$ 1,088.15

Includes balance not refunded on amounts expended over percentage and the $902.50 in illegal benefits.

Union 151, Havana, Cuba.

The accounts of this union are in better condition than this statement would indicate. This seems to be a place where the Cuban and Spanish members come when sick, which accounts for the amount of sick benefits paid here. Statement as follows:

International balance for Mar. 1, 1916..$ 44.02

Receipts to Jan. 1, 1919.....4,369.37

Over percentage for year 1917.....37.21

Over percentage for year 1918.....13.40

Report of International Financier.

Havana, Cuba, Jan. 1, 1919.

Since last report have examined the accounts of the following unions, viz.:

Union 119, San Juan, Puerto Rico.

The accounts of this union would be in good condition only that the members do not comply with Section 73. The $1,590 due to International Union on examination is strike benefit—"illegal" because of failure to pay dues when at work. Statement as follows:

Receipts from organization, December, 1906, to Oct. 28, 1918.....$37,823.71
Expended over percentage, 1907 and 1916, inclusive 1,840.66
Due Int'l Union on examination..... 1,590.00

Total$41,254.37
Expense to Oct. 28, 1918..... 39,067.09

Int'l balance should be Oct. 28, 1918..$ 2,187.28

Funds of Union—

Oct. 31, 1918, in the Popular Bank$781.00
In possession Sec'y Estavan Colon 14.07

Total$ 795.07

Deficiency of union Oct. 28, 1918.....$ 1,392.21

Until this $1,590 illegal strike benefit was entered in their accounts they had a surplus of $197.79.

Union 148, Caguas, P. R.

In some respects the books and accounts here are in excellent condition. Cash and stamp accounts correct. All vouchers and benefit cards except the last few days—as they run out of benefit cards. Ledger nicely posted and to date. Failure to comply with Section 73 cost them $902.51 in illegal benefits. Statement as follows:

International balance April 1, 1918...$ 51.70
International receipts to Nov. 1, 1918.. 11,228.65
Expended over percentage in 1915, 1916 and 1917 381.84
Due to International Union on examination 902.51

Total$12,564.70
Expense to Nov. 1, 1918..... 11,428.42

International balance for Nov. 1, 1918.$ 1,136.28

Funds of Union—
Nov. 1, 1918, in possession Sec'y Placido Cruz 48.13

Deficiency of union Nov. 1, 1918...$ 1,088.15

Includes balance not refunded on amounts expended over percentage and the $902.50 in illegal benefits.

Union 151, Havana, Cuba.

The accounts of this union are in better condition than this statement would indicate. This seems to be a place where the Cuban and Spanish members come when sick, which accounts for the amount of sick benefits paid here. Statement as follows:

International balance for Mar. 1, 1916...$ 44.02
Receipts to Jan. 1, 1919..... 4,369.37
Over percentage for year 1917..... 37.21

Union 190, Gurabo, P. R.
The accounts here are not so good as they look. Statement as follows:
Receipts from organization, July, 1907, to Nov. 1, 1918.....$6,974.16
Expended over percentage in 1909..... 10.39
Due International Union on examination 18.84

Union 194, Cayey, P. R.

The books and accounts here for a part of the time when A. Lopez was secretary are about as bad as they could be. The present secretary appears both capable and willing to do the work as it should be done. It will make a big change in this local. Section 73 cost them $755.15 in illegal benefits. Statement as follows:
Receipts from organization, September, 1909, to Dec. 1, 1918.....$13,972.03
Expended over percentage in 1909-11-12-13-14-15-16 247.06
Due International Union on examination 765.80

Total$14,984.89

Union 333, San Lorenzo, P. R.

Another union that will quite likely comply with Section 73 in the future. Other than this their accounts are in very fair condition. Statement as follows:

Balance for May 1, 1913.....$ 318.01
Receipts to Nov. 1, 1918..... 19,519.68
Expended over percentage in 1914-15-16 169.63

In possession Sec'y Jose G. Garcia 27.85

Total 986.59

Deficiency of union Nov. 1st.....$2,010.14

Union 350, Manati, P. R.

The books and accounts here are in very fair condition, except for strike expense. This union reported for Dec., 1917—
Strike benefit paid$1,100.00
March, 1918, strike benefit..... 2,240.00

Total expense$3,340.00

The weekly strike reports for the six (6) weeks show expense of $3,140.00, $200.00 less than reported expense. This benefit is not entered in the day book, neither are there vouchers with which to verify the expense.

For these reasons I insist that this union be held for this amount—$200.00. Statement as follows:

International balance for Oct. 1, 1916...$ 168.05
Receipts to Nov. 1, 1918..... 7,045.65

Total$7,213.70
Expense to Nov. 1, 1918..... 6,410.51

Possible balance for Nov. 1.....$ 803.19
Funds of Union—
In Territorial Bank$600.00
In Am.-Col. Bank 200.00
In possession Sec'y N. Cabellero.. 51.47

Total 851.47

Surplus appears to be Nov. 1, 1918...$ 48.28 which does not include this difference of $200.00 strike benefit, which would give them a deficiency of $151.72.

Union 376, Utuado, P. R.

Many of the members here are over the limit in dues. You must get inside the limit, then stay there. Benefit cards and vouchers for expense must be kept on file. Statement as follows:

International balance for Nov. 30, 1914...$ 297.80

When we were there the secretary gave $183.50 to Benito Orsini, Sec'y of Union 449, Ponce, to deposit in bank for him—another town without a bank.

Union 386, Cabo-Rojo, P. R.

In some respects the accounts here are in very fair condition. Failure to comply with Section 73 has made an awful load for them to carry. Statement as follows:

Receipts from Org., Nov., 1915, to Nov. 1, 1918.....$1,866.65

At this time the books and accounts are really in very nice condition. Section 73 is and has been the stumbling block and the result of this examination will convince the membership that this section (73) is a part of the constitution. Statement as follows:

With the exception of having paid $95.00 illegal sick benefits the books and accounts here are fine. Benefit cards especially correct, also vouchers for expense. Statement as follows:

Would-be balance Nov. 1, 1918.....$ 77.02

The fact is the accounts of this union showed them as having expended $17.98 over income. Amount due to International Union on examination ($95.00) has been entered in their accounts. As a result this balance does not show their entire deficiency—should be $95.00.

Union 472, Juncos, P. R.

The books and accounts, so far as the work of the present officers are concerned, are in fine condition. Benefit cards and vouchers nicely filed. Cash and stamp accounts correct. Too bad I had to charge them with $140.00 illegal benefits. Same fault—failure to comply with Section 73. Statement as follows:

Union 481, Bayamon, P. R.

Considering the fact that the accounts of this local had never been examined they were in really good condition. Benefit cards and vouchers for expense very nearly complete. Cash and stamp accounts practically correct. I believe that the amount due on this examination, $1,655 illegal benefits, will convince them that Section 73 is really a part of the constitution and must be complied with. Statement as follows:

Just now the books and accounts are in the best condition I ever found them in at Escanaba. Cash and stamp accounts correct. Benefit cards and vouchers for expense all on file. Ledger nicely indexed and posted. Section 177 must be applied here. Section 73 also has one of the members here just now where he would feel better satisfied if he had been reasonably prompt in the payment of his dues. Too bad, but it is entirely his own fault. Statement as follows:

Before closing this report I want to say to all our members the International Union has a man for Organizer for Puerto Rico—Prudence Rivera Martinez—who is just the man needed, mentally well equipped, quiet and courteous. He is capable of meeting both the business man and the men of toil—a fluent speaker in either Spanish or English. He did translating for all of my examinations and also interpreted for me.

Yours fraternally,
W. A. CAMPBELL,

The union label seeks to be, by patronage or proscription, the great educator of manufacturer and consumer, the trade semaphore of the one, the social arbiter of the other. The attitude of its advocates toward defiant tradesmen is to shun their stores and invoke public following in the ostracism; but that reprisal will bring many a merchant to his senses, and that invocation will make as big a dent in a cash account as the hammer of Thor made in the mountain.

The union label is the acme of good will and confidence, and its influence is unlimited. It is bound up with consistent, persistent and aggressive movements, yet its mission is a federation of humanity. It has yet to be recognized at its true worth, for it is destined to occupy one of the proudest places in the labor temple of the future.

THE TRADE UNION LABEL AS AN EDUCATIONAL FORCE.

The union label aims to be the "schoolmaster abroad," the schoolmaster at home, teaching the women folks their primal obligation to the great cause, while steadily winning its way into the hearts of the general public. It would be an evangel for the world for a vineyard—a freemason in university, but benefiting all, withholding from none. It is the supreme teacher—one that teaches by example; in store, hotel bar, and elsewhere the unionist and unionist's friends, ask for the label and insist on the label, thus bringing home a commercial lesson that no other method can impart. It seeks to enlist woman as the chief auxiliary and trumpeter of the affiliated legions; not alone the wife, mother and daughter of the organized wage earner, but through them and their propagandism all other women. As a pleader before the bar of public opinion no eloquence can match it, no sophistry can vanquish it. To conviction it gives a soul—the soul of enthusiasm—and like the gifts of the gods of Perseus, it goes forth, full-armed to conquer the monsters of rapacity, injustice and oppression. —P. H. Shevlin.

In peace the union label aims to be ever alert, ever accomplishing results. In defensive warfare it is the most powerful weapon in the arsenal of labor, and when the battle is on it attacks the enemy in his rear, captures his base of supplies, and brings victory to the standard of unionism. It is the one and only fetish of the labor movement, an idolatry revealing the purest of hearts and the sanest of minds.

When a member changes from the 30c to the 20c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Members who while at work refuse or fail to pay per cent on loans suspend themselves without any action of the secretary.

In several instances where cards had been stolen from members secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book and in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privileges in dues unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such reports the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per Section 149, give full record of membership as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity of complying with the request carefully study Section 144c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal wills" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

Section 144c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there be no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there be no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death were dependent for support in whole or in part.

The International Union cannot authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefit rests entirely with such members.

In order to avoid confusion when a Class A member changes from 15-cent dues to 30-cent dues secretaries under the law are to give such members one-half time on length of membership, and write the following in ink in the due book: "Change from Class A to 30-cent due paying class. Time on full benefits commences (computed on basis of one-half time)." Should such member desire to travel he should be given a new due book and traveling card, both of which should give the date of initiation computed on the above mentioned basis, and the words "Changed From Class A" written on both due book and traveling card. Whenever a Class A 15-cent member changes to a 30-cent membership secretaries should always so state on their monthly reports, and record the transaction on their books.

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

In compliance with Section 184 of the Constitution, the International Executive Board levied a running weekly assessment, to replenish the General Fund, of 20c on each 30-cent, 20-cent and 15-cent members, and 10c on Class A members. The assessment commences on Feb. 3, 1919, and continues until the General Fund reaches the constitutional requirement.

Note.—The 25c assessment continues up to Feb. 3, 1919.

Section 73 provides that "all dues and assessments of members receiving benefits shall be deducted from such benefits." This means any benefit and all dues and assessments. If a member has $5.00 sick benefit coming and owes 8 dues and 8 assessments he would receive just 60 cents in cash and credit for 8 dues and assessments.

DECISIONS OF THE PRESIDENT

A. Bernard appealed against Union 94, Pawtucket, for suspending him for non-payment of dues. The appeal is not sustained.

H. W. Burfield appealed against Union 77, Minneapolis, for refusing to accept him to membership. The union replied that he was employed steadily at another occupation. The appeal is not sustained.

Reverend M. Lavine appealed against Union 6, Syracuse, for refusing his claim for sick benefit. The appeal is not sustained.

W. A. Giese appealed against Union 92, Worcester, reference working rules concerning packers and cigarmakers, share and share alike under a limit. The appeal is not sustained.

M. Berlyn appealed against Union 97, Boston, for suspending him for non-payment of dues. The appeal is not sustained.

L. O. Bingham appealed against Union 473, Calgary, for suspending him. The evidence shows that he was on the tenth week, and extenuating circumstances. The decision is that he be reinstated and placed on the ninety-day list.

H. G. Eben, appealed against Union 1, Baltimore, for suspending him for non-payment of assessments. The appeal is not sustained.

INTERNATIONAL FINES

The International Executive Board approved the application of 16, Binghamton, N. Y., to annul the card of Merton Clark (14035) and fine him $100 for working in the closed factory of E. L. Fallaker. Vote: Affirmative—5; two members approved fine of $25.

FINES OF $10.00 OR LESS.

Union 368, Port Huron, Mich., fined George Lorgell (old card 88098) $10 for taking a job in a non-union shop.

UNION NOTES

If Mat. Weber (99294) will communicate with Union 12, Oneida, the bank book and Liberty Bond he left there will be returned.

If Chas. Plumhoff (59700) will send his address to Union 426, Virginia, Minn., $2 will be remitted.

E. J. Tribut (23165) is requested to correspond at once with Union 122, Warren, Pa., reference matter of importance. It will be to his advantage to comply with this request.

Peter Vrenna (116908) is requested to correspond at once with Union 122, Warren, Pa. It will be to his advantage to do this.

Union 117, Pine Bluff, would like to hear from Wm. Kohlmer (103020) and Tom Riley.

Any secretary holding card of Frank Wilson (31713) or knowing his whereabouts please notify Union 77, Minneapolis.

Union 120, Muscatine, Ia., would like to hear from George Wilson (4931) at once.

Notes by Union 97, Boston: Now organize, educate and agitate.—Massachusetts State Branch has introduced a bill in our Legislature for a free state university where there will be free tuition and text books.—Are we to have prohibition? If so, what becomes of personal liberty?—Boom the label.—Members of 97 have a first-class credit union.—Mooney ought to have a new trial. 97 contributed $500 to defense.—Study co-operation. — When will the cheap districts of Pennsylvania organize?—Raise the school age.—Transact your business in English in the United States.—Labor is not a commodity.—Raise dues and do away with the weekly International assessment.—At this time take stock in the past, the present, and build for the future.—Buffalo amendment should be endorsed and adopted.—Let us do more than talk about better housing of the worker.—Why not one union in every city?—No reductions. No increase in the hours of labor.—Apprentices who serve their full time in a union shop should be admitted free.—97 is fortunate in having able and efficient shop collectors. In the future they will do more than now in the settlement of shop grievances.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

The amendment of Union 97, Boston, as published in the December issue, as follows:

Amend Section 212 by striking out "three years" and inserting "two years." Section to read:

All persons learning cigarmaking or packing must serve at least two years. Proof of same must be attested by officers of local unions under whose jurisdiction said apprentice shall have served the whole or a part of his or her time. The recording secretary of each local union shall keep a complete list of all apprentices serving in his jurisdiction. All persons learning cigarmaking or packing must serve two years, but no longer without the consent of the local union. All apprentices shall be honorary members of the union until their term of apprenticeship has ended, when they must become paying members.

Received the endorsement of 41, St. Louis; 179, Bangor; 130, Saginaw.

The amendment of Union 97, Boston, as published in the December issue, as follows:

When a cigar factory employs five cigarmakers, a journeyman packer, a cigarmaker packer must be employed, and in no case shall an apprentice packer be employed unless a journeyman packer is employed.

Received the endorsement of 179, Bangor; 130, Saginaw.

The amendment of Union 2, Buffalo, as published in the December issue, as follows:

Amend Section 150 of the constitution: Add after the words "Blue color," on line 6—"And no more than four inches in length and no more than one inch in width." Section to read:

"The President of the International Union shall have prepared, printed and registered a trade-mark label, to be known as the Union Label, perforated sheets of not less than ten, suitable to be pasted on the outside of the box, so that the label will be conspicuously displayed. The labels shall be of light blue color and no more than four inches in length and no more than one inch in width. All labels issued shall be printed in series and numbered consecutively. The proportion of labels used by the Canadian unions to be printed in Canada by order and under the supervision of the International President."

Received the endorsement of 84, Saugerties; 191, Morris; 220, New Orleans; 381, Watertown; 274, Pekin; 179, Bangor; 130, Saginaw.

The amendment of 14, Chicago, as published in the December issue, as follows:

Amendment to Section 150.

Add after the words "Blue Color," on line 6: "And no more than four inches in length and no more than one inch in width." Balance of section to remain unchanged.

Received the endorsement of 381, Watertown; 182, Madison; 191, Morris; 120, Muscatine.

The amendment of 383, Chicago, making strike benefits payable from the time the strikers cease work until they again resume it, as published in the November Journal—

Received the endorsement of 90, New York; 218, Binghamton; 361, East St. Louis; 69, Three Rivers; 44, St. Louis; 130, Saginaw.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, it cannot be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of 248, Jacksonville, reducing the initiation fee and international assessments for 15-cent members, as published in the November Journal—

Received the endorsement of 90, New York; 69, Three Rivers; 88, Dubuque; 220, New Or-jeans; 14, St. Louis; 179, Bangor; 130, Saginaw; 242, York.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, it cannot be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of 337, Key West, as published in the December issue, as follows:

Amend Section 184 of the constitution by adding the following: No assessment shall be levied on members, including Class A, for the period of one year commencing from the date of initiation. This exemption shall not apply to suspended members having been reinstated.

The amended section to read as follows: Section 184: Whenever such general fund of the Cigarmakers' International Union shall fall below the sum provided for in Section 183, the Executive Board shall levy an assessment on each member to replenish the same. But no assessment shall be levied on members, including Class A, for the period of one year, commencing from the date of initiation. This exemption shall not apply to suspended members having been reinstated.

Received the endorsement of 220, New Orleans; 130, Saginaw; 242, York.

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

(An amendment takes effect the first of the month following the publication of notice of its adoption in the Official Journal.)

Amendments adopted since the June 15, 1917, edition of the constitution:

By 208, Kalamazoo, Mich.: To amend Section 154 by adding after the word "bunches," on line 23, "nor which pays less than $10.00 per thousand for hand work, less than four molds of 10 bunches each with press on table, or two 20-bunch molds in shaper press, to be considered hand work."

In effect Nov. 1, 1917.

Take Notice.—The amendment of 238, Sacramento, Calif., takes the place of the 132, Brooklyn, amendment, and supersedes all other amendments reference war retiring cards and benefits. The amendment, published elsewhere in this Journal, says: "This amendment shall govern all other sections which deal with benefits of such members who may be doing military duty or are beyond the boundary lines as defined in our constitution."

By 238, Sacramento, Calif.: War Retiring Card Amendment:

(a) That the President of the International Cigarmakers' Union cause to be printed a War Retiring Card, to read as follows:

(b) This is to certify that Mr.
Card No., Initiated by
When has entered the service of (U. S. or Allies' Army or Navy), and is entitled to all benefits as may be contained in the War Retiring Card Amendment.
Pres. C. M. I. U.

Signed—

....., Local Pres.
....., Fin. Sec.

(c) Any member who may by draft or voluntary enlistment enter the service of the United States Army or Navy or the service of the Army or Navy of any allied country, during this period of war, shall be entitled to a War Retiring Card, provided such member is in good standing at the time of his or her application for a War Retiring Card.

(d) Any member who is a holder of a War Retiring Card shall be exempt from all dues, fines and assessments, and upon his or her re-entrance in the actual making or packing of cigars shall be entitled to his or her original card from which he or she was transferred, with all benefits as entitled to from date of initiation, except for such time as he or she was holding a War Retiring Card.

(e) Any member holding a War Retiring Card shall be entitled to his or her original card free of charge.

(f) All transfers shall be made at regular or executive board meetings.

(g) Applications for transfer to the War Retiring Card may be made in writing.

(h) All cards from which members transfer to the War Retiring Card shall be sent to the International President to be kept on file.

(i) It shall be the duty of the International President to have sufficient War Retiring Cards printed, which shall be distributed to all local unions.

(j) No benefits shall be paid to any member while holding a War Retiring Card.

(k) This amendment shall govern all other sections which deal with benefits of such members who may be doing military duty or are beyond the boundary lines as is defined by our constitution.

In effect March 1, 1918.

By Union 90, New York:

Strike out in Sec. 92 all from second line after wages till September, on line 10; and insert "from December 15 until January 15."

Section to read:

No strike shall be approved or sustained by the International Union for an increase in wages between the 15th day of December until the 15th day of January of any year.

But this shall in nowise preclude the approval of strikes against the reduction of wages or the truck system, or against the introduction of tenement house work.

In effect January 1, 1919.

PRIVATE LOANS

Unions holding cards of members indebted to Union 218, Binghamton, for private loans, please collect percentage as provided in the constitution or we shall enforce the law.

Members owing private loans to Union 179, Bangor, can avoid having their names published in the Journal by paying same in the near future.

All members owing private loans to Union 122, Warren, Pa., please remit at once. Names have been published three times, giving sufficient notice. Action has been taken at last regular meeting and if members owing private loans do not pay the constitutional percentage or make good within ninety days suspension will be demanded without fail. Consider this as final notice.

The J. A. B. of Chicago desire to correct its published list by stating that with the assistance of the International office it was established that Jas. Coffey, Wm. Crawford, Carl Streebeck and Wm. Kaspar (Caspar) had paid their private loans "somewhere."

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and, in addition, send in such cards, but place in your letter the information necessary, as the letter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 148 to 149, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted resolutions of respect and condolence relative to death or deaths as follows and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days:

THE UNION LABEL A GLORIOUS CONCEPTION OF EQUALITY.

The union label of organized labor creates the trade agreement. It is a most glorious conception of equality, the very incarnation of those attributes which beautified the guild hall-mark. It is moving toward a plane of perfection, though at the present moment it has just reached the intermediate stage of progress. Its future stands for all that is noble; all that is sweet in life; all that is earnest for the elevation of mankind and womankind. It is the educator of the coming generation. Unity, federation, right and justice, legislation, a happy and prosperous future go with the union label of organized labor. It is the highest type of patriotism which springs from the heart of man, and a factor in the ultimate attainment of real liberty.

Review and General Trade Statistics.

A general depression in all lines, especially in manufacturing, marks February reports as decreasing, this, however, being but the natural result of the transition period.

Steel, which is considered a barometer, is dull in comparison to the conditions that have prevailed for the past two years. Mills are running on less than 65 per cent capacity on old orders. The consumer shows no indications of bidding for supplies and indications are that further declines are inevitable.

The reconstruction work in devastated regions of Europe, on which many American business men were depending for large orders of various kinds of materials, will be done with local commodities, according to a cabled interview with Charles M. Schwab from American headquarters in Germany.

The mild winter weather and the shutting down of many steel mills and manufacturing plants has resulted in a stagnation of the coal business. Many operators are reported to have difficulty in keeping their mines going more than three days a week.

The number of idle cars on the United States railroads was given on Jan. 31st, as 100,000.

The Department of Labor authorizes the following:

All signs point to a revival of manufacturing demand in the spring, according to Director Charles T. Clayton, of the Training Service Department of Labor, who believes that the proportions of this revival will not only recall all the labor now being laid off, but make still further demands for help. He estimates that there are 300,000 manufacturing establishments in this country, employing 10,000,000 hands. There were at the time of the last census report, in 1914, wage-workers in factories to the number of 7,036,367, but the enormous expansion of industry since that time has added greatly to the total.

Only about 6 or 7 per cent of the war workers have been thrown out of jobs by the suspension of hostilities, according to estimates prepared for the service.

According to a bulletin issued by the Department of Commerce, the American cotton crop of 1917 amounted to 11,302,375 bales of 500 pounds each, worth $1,532,690,000 to the grower, and 5,040,000 pounds of cotton seed, worth $333,550,000. The totals for 1918 are not as yet available.

The cotton year, ended July 31, 1918, showed a consumption of 6,566,489 bales (excluding linters), exports of 4,288,420 bales and net imports of 217,381 bales. Stocks on hand at the beginning of the year amounted to 2,720,173 bales, and the end of the year showed a balance on hand of 3,450,188 bales.

The crop of 1917 fell below that of 1916 by 147,555 bales, or 1.3 per cent, but exceeded that of 1915 by 110,555 bales, or 1 per cent.

Texas produced 3,125,378 bales, or nearly 28 per cent of the total crop of 1917, and three states—Texas, Georgia and South Carolina each with an output of over 1,000,000 bales—produced 55 per cent of the total.

Exports for the year ending June 30, 1918, were less than for any preceding year since 1893 and fell below 1917 by nearly 25 per cent. Less than one-half as much cotton was exported in the fiscal year 1918 as in the fiscal year 1914.

Revised estimates by the Department of Agriculture place the acreage of 1917 at 38,841,000—the smallest, with the exception of 1915, shown for any year since 1910.

Liquor stocks are falling low. A rush to remove bonded spirits before the nation-wide "Dry Spell" sets in is making deep inroads into the available holdings in government warehouses, which represents practically all that is left.

Stocks of distilled spirits have fallen to 130,000,000 gallons, the lowest figure recorded in late years. This includes 12,000,000 gallons of raw alcohol which is not used for beverage purposes so that the stock of "Drinks" amounts to but 118,000,000 gallons.

In the year ended June 30, 1918, only 37,787,323 gallons were withdrawn from bond for beverage purposes, which is the smallest amount for any fiscal year of the present century and but little over one-half of the amount withdrawn in 1917.

Live stock on farms in the United States Jan. 1, as given by the government report, aggregated 219,775,000, an increase of 6,344,000 over the same time a year ago. Valuation and numbers are the highest known, the valuation being $8,830,204,000, a gain of $546,006,000 for the year, and 2,000,000,000 as compared with two years ago.

The National Biscuit Co. for the year ended Dec. 31, 1918, report net earnings of $5,135,839, against $4,622,348 in 1917. The balance for common stock amounts to $3,999,524, which equals $11.62 a share, as compared with $9.87 a share paid in 1917.

The world's output of copper in 1918 is calculated at 3,125,158,000 pounds. This is less than 100,000,000 pounds under the high record of the preceding year. Rapid as has been the expansion of production in North America and South America, the rest of the world is not falling behind, although its percentage of the total is only about 25.

The financial report of the United Fruit Co. for 1918 shows a balance available for dividends of $19,990,496, equal to 39.72 per cent on the outstanding stock. The percentage earned on the stock in 1917 was 26.72. In the last four years the surplus available for dividends has equalled 106.89 per cent.

About one-half of the world's diamonds are apparently owned in the United States. An estimate made in 1900 by the National City Bank of New York placed the value of the world's stock of diamonds at rather more than $1,000,000,000, and indicated that the United States then owned about one-third of the total known stock. With the rapid addition to our stock through the importation of $506,000,000 since 1900 it seems probable that fully one-half of the world's stock of diamonds is now held in the United States.

Small change required to pay war taxes on many retail articles caused the mints to produce 307,614,000 1-cent pieces in 1918, a record output, according to report by the Director of the mint. A total of $38,160,000 coins were minted, more than ever before in the Nation's history, but owing to the large proportion of pennies the value of the output was $31,745,000, or lower than in 1917. The number of nickels minted was 45,334,000; dimes, 68,654,000; quarters, 32,000,000.

692,000, and half-dollars, 20,769,000. Neither silver dollars nor gold coins were struck off.

Heavy December shipments brought the total exports for 1918 to $6,150,000,000, a decrease of only $83,000,000 from the 1917 total, according to an announcement by the bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. Imports for the year totaled $3,031,000,000, or not quite half the exports. Imports for the previous year were valued at $2,952,000,000.

The value of food-stuffs exported during the year 1918 is in round numbers $1,900,000,000. In 1913, the year preceding the war, our exports of food-stuffs amounted to $495,000,000.

While a part of this enormous increase is due to higher prices, there is a marked increase in quantity.

Editorial Notes.

England's Department of Labor reports the number of trade unionists at the end of 1917 was 5,287,522. In the previous year the number was 4,437,947.

This includes the total membership of the 1,133 trade unions known to the department. The total number of female members now approximates 774,000.

The Department of Labor, through the Bureau of Immigration, announces that from April 1, 1917, until Sept. 30, 1918, or practically for the duration of the war, 178,362 immigrants arrived in the United States and 123,676 departed. These figures are exclusive of non-immigrant aliens and United States citizens who have left the country.

The United States Department of Labor authorizes the following:

The intensive campaign of the Naturalization Bureau of the Department of Labor in the Army during the war has resulted in making 162,864 new American citizens.

This figure covers naturalization to Jan. 11. More are expected, though of course they will not be so numerous, in view of the rapidly proceeding demobilization.

The War Department authorizes the following from the office of the Director of Purchase and Storage:

Food stores for the Army on hand in the United States, its possessions, France and in transit to France on Jan. 1, 1919, were valued at $300,000,000. At the time of the signing of the armistice approximately 10,000,000 pounds of food were being consumed by our troops in France each day, and there were on hand in France at that time 1,000,000,000 pounds of food in reserve. All this food had been transported on an average of 5,000 miles.

It is estimated by the Subsistence Division that 3,000,000,000 meals were served to the Army during the 19 months of warfare with Germany.

The workers who strike in protest against their wrongs may be defeated, but the public protest registered in the demand for the Union Label is invincible.

The value of economic power, as against legislative action in the adjustment of wage rates is shown by a survey of the District of Columbia by the Department of Labor.

Wages paid in government departments, union and non-union establishments are included. It is found that the government pays the lowest wages, non-union establishments pay more and union establishments pay the highest.

The following figures illustrate the value of trade union action:

Blacksmiths—Government, minimum, $200; maximum, $1,000; non-union establishments, minimum, $1,665; union establishments, minimum, $1,670, maximum $1,716.

Carpenters—Government, minimum, $720; maximum, $1,500; non-union establishments, minimum, $1,095; maximum, $1,878; union establishments, minimum, $1,716; maximum, $2,002.

Electricians—Government, minimum, $720; maximum, $1,500; non-union establishments, minimum, $1,252; maximum, $2,080; union establishments, minimum, $1,718; maximum, $2,288.

Machinists—Government, minimum, $840; maximum, $1,800; non-union establishments, minimum, $1,252; maximum, $1,817; union establishments, minimum, $1,602; maximum, $1,716.

Plumbers—Government, minimum, $720; maximum, $1,565; non-union establishments, minimum, $936; maximum, $1,486; union establishments, minimum, $1,716; maximum, $2,285.

Complete figures of the work of the United States employment service for the year 1918 show the following results: Registrations for employment, 4,211,942. Applications for help from employers, 8,799,798. Referred to jobs, 3,931,560. Placed in jobs, 3,099,295.

The percentage of registrations for jobs to applications for help is 47.9 per cent. Of the 4,211,942 registrations 93.3 per cent were referred to jobs and 73.8 per cent were placed; 91.4 per cent of the 3,931,560 referred to jobs were placed.

The War Department authorizes the following statement:

The Statistics Branch, General Staff, War Department, has prepared the following summary of all forces in the Army at the time of its greatest strength, Nov. 11, 1918, the figures being corrected up to Jan. 22, 1919:

	Officers.	Men.	Total.

The present readjustment from a war to a peace basis, with its natural attendant, unemployment, is far reaching.

The readjustment that will necessarily follow the enforcement of the prohibition amendment will lay an added burden of unemployment on thousands of workers engaged in the manufacture and distribution of beverage drinks and the other products dependent on and allied with the liquor question.

There is one class who will be especially hard hit, and that is our professional reformers. Reform, today, is a profession, or a job, and a well paid one too, and its pay roll runs into the hundreds of thousands annually. Just how to keep on the pay roll, now that the goose that has for so many years laid the golden eggs is a dead bird, is the question that is causing quite a little ripple on the placid sea of "Reform."

It now appears that they have picked tobacco as their next best bet and from present indications we may expect a repetition of the same old game with the same old players battling for "Reform."

If the following statement means anything to a professional reformer he (or she) will see that we have a pretty strong pinch hitter in the hole.

The War Department authorizes the following from the Office of the Director of Purchase and Storage:

Tobacco seems to be established as a necessity in the soldier's life, 95 per cent of the members of the American Expeditionary Forces using it in some form. It is part of the regular daily ration, but the quantity allowed is not sufficient for the average tobacco user. However, every soldier may buy at the canteens the most popular brands of cigars, cigarettes and smoking tobacco in unlimited quantities and at prices considerably lower than they are sold in the United States.

Smoking has increased in our Army overseas since the signing of the armistice. The average monthly purchases by the Subsistence Division now amount to 425,000,000 cigarettes and 20,000,000 cigars.

Human Salvage.

Legislation has been enacted by the present Congress providing for the re-education of soldiers and sailors, who by reason of injuries received while in the service of their country, can no longer continue in their old vocation.

Congress has appropriated $1,860,000 toward the payment of teachers and the establishing of schools where these men may be re-educated in trades that will make them self-supporting. It is intended that the states will meet this appropriation, which will make a total of $3,720,000 available for this work.

We know that the conservation of labor is a necessity and a nation lax in this essential is correspondingly weakened.

The past has done nothing for the crippled soldier other than to grant him a pension, which in many cases made absolute idlers of

Trade Notes.

The sales of the United Cigar Stores Company in 1918 totaled $51,956,813. This is an increase over 1917 of 21.16 per cent and represents an increase of 80 per cent since 1914. They are paving the way for a continuance of the present prices, making the following statement: "The available supply of leaf tobacco from which all grades of cigars are made is depleted the world over and we vision no immediate reduction either in the cost of raw material or in other items of manufacture."

The report for the year ended Dec. 31 last, to be issued in about a month, will show earnings of about $10 a share on General Cigars common after providing for taxes and will be the largest the company ever earned. In 1917 the company earned $5.48 a share.

The tobacco market is at the present time unsettled. Growers are indisposed to accept the prices quoted and in many centers associations are being formed to hold leaf until better market conditions prevail. Connecticut growers claim that with the present prices of fertilizer, etc., tobacco, even at the prices which manufacturers claim exorbitant, is a losing crop. Big buyers claim that prices cannot remain at the present rate much longer and that a reduction is bound to come, while growers declare that the acreage will be materially decreased the coming year and the present crop will be held over.

The December crop report gives the following comparative figures on acreage, production, etc., of cigar tobacco by districts for the past three years, as well as comparing same with the census report of 1909:

Type and district.	Acreage (thousands of acres).				Production (thousands of pounds).				Average farm price per pound Dec. 1 (cents).

the recipients, and for the man crippled in industrial life absolutely nothing has been done that would either rehabilitate, re-educate or make it possible that he take his place in life as a self-supporting member of society. In case there was a monetary compensation for his injury it usually came to him after long and costly court procedure and the residue was far from sufficient to either establish him in a paying business or provide for the necessary education in order that he might enter the earning class in another capacity.

Numerically the industrial cripples for one year will far outnumber the entire casualties for the entire period of the war, and their problem is before us at all times.

Let the machinery that is now in operation to put our handicapped soldiers and sailors back into industrial life, back into the independence of self-support, be extended to embrace all those crippled in our industries, and at the same time make it a permanent function of government. Let us prove to the world that we really believe in "National Welfare."

Today is the tomorrow you worried about yesterday and it never happened. Don't worry. When you think you're sad make believe you're glad—it's a fine tonic—try it.

A reasonable amount of "kicking" is good and helpful, while "knocking" is cowardly and abominable.

Analysis of these figures shows a total increase of 19,000 acres grown and an increase of 41,965,000 pounds produced in 1918 over 1917; however, the increased consumption of domestic leaf in the trade has absorbed this surplus to the extent that at the present time there is an actual shortage, especially in wrappers and binders. With the resumption of shipping facilities and the release of trade restrictions we may expect larger imports of Sumatra and Java as well as Havana. This will give the manufacturer a broader market and will no doubt soon tend to stabilize the market.

The Tobacco Products Company has acquired the Harris Tobacco Company. The latter is a manufacturer of granulated tobacco and gives tobacco products a start in a new line of activity. The Harris concern has been in business for fifty years.

A cablegram from the Associated Press correspondent with the American forces in Russia says: "A tobacco famine has become so pronounced in the territory along the Dwina and Vaga rivers that the peasants are willing to exchange almost anything they have for small quantities of tobacco or cigarettes."

"The peasants have been smoking tea leaves, tree leaves and dried moss, and ten cigarettes will go much further in the purchase of produce than a hundred rubles ($50.00), and a piug of tobacco is preferred to a diamond."

The Tobacco Products Corporation has submitted to the New York Stock Exchange their statement of earnings for the first ten months of 1918, showing a net income of $3,141,886.

American consular reports from Bergen, Norway, state that the scarcity of smoking and chewing tobacco has been felt hardly less keenly than the shortage of food. A frequent sign in Norwegian towns is the long line of men waiting for hours outside tobacco shops for their turn to purchase small quantities of tobacco.

A statement prepared by the United Cigar Stores Company on the increase in manufacturing costs, due to war conditions, shows that labor has advanced on an average of 50 per cent. Price of leaf tobacco by departments as follows: Fillers, domestic tobacco, 100 per cent; fillers, imported tobacco, 133 per cent, and wrappers, Sumatra type, 37 per cent. The company says that the available supply of leaf tobacco from which all grades of cigars are made is depleted the world over, and no immediate reduction either in the cost of raw material or in other items of manufacture is expected by the company. The concern now has over 1,300 stores and agencies throughout the United States.

The smoking of cigars and cigarettes in India is fast taking the place of the native hookah and the chewing of tobacco. The introduction of cheap matches from Japan is one of the big factors causing the change.

The manufacture of cigarettes is becoming a substantial industry in the bay district of California, according to figures given out by Collector of Internal Revenue Justus S. Wardell. Revenues derived from this source in the San Francisco district during the year ending Dec. 31 amounted to $1,258,744.28. The output for the year was practically double that of the previous year, 614,021,600 cigarettes being manufactured in 1918 and 359,740,000 in 1917.

The following figures show the total number of cigars and cigarettes entering the United States (tax paid) from Porto Rico for November, 1918:

Cigars, Class A.....	3,816,600
Cigars, Class B.....	9,408,100
Cigars, Class C.....	10,107,400

Total large cigars.....	23,332,100
Small cigars.....	1,000,000
Small cigarettes.....	2,000,200

Statistics attest that 1918 was the banner year in the history of Tampa's cigar industry. The total output for the year was 365,069,928, which is an increase over 1917 of 7,661,326.

While the figures show a regular yearly increase in the number of cigars manufactured, the customs receipts and the imports show that different combinations of domestic tobacco are making great headway in the Tampa industry. In previous years the gain in the amount of domestic tobacco used was matched by a corresponding gain in the amount of Havana tobacco imported, but in the last year while the total amount of cigars manufactured increased 7,661,326 tobacco imports decreased 21,384 bales.

With the advent of American capital and American methods in the tobacco industry of Santo Domingo it is expected that this little country will soon be one of the world's great tobacco producers.

The soil and climatic conditions are ideal and it is expected that with the proper culture and intelligent care in curing an excellent quality of leaf tobacco for cigar purposes will result.

Prior to the war the tobacco industry of Santo Domingo was controlled by German firms in Bremen and Hamburg and almost the entire crop was shipped to Germany, where the major portion of it was consumed.

British-American Tobacco Limited showed net profits of $15,700,850 for the year ended Sept. 30, 1918.

American Sumatra Tobacco has declared a quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent on common stock, payable Feb. 1.

Michigan politicians expect another drive of the anti-cigarette forces in the present session of the legislature. In the sessions of 1913 and 1915 their bill passed the house but was killed in the senate, and the "antis" claim an easy victory at this time, as the liquor question is out of the way.

Leaf tobacco shipped to the United States from Shanghai, China, during the first six months of 1918 amounted to 2,319,075 pounds, valued at $763,840.

Information has been received by government officials at Washington that all tobacco factories in Germany were ordered closed Jan. 1, 1919, owing to the exhaustion of stocks of leaf tobacco.

This ruling of the German government will cause 6,000 factories to close their doors. During 1918 220,000 people were employed in the tobacco industries of that country, but as the number of factories had been cut about one-half during 1917, the number of employes now affected will be approximately 90,000, 80 per cent of whom are employed in the manufacture of cigars.

In October, 1918, there were 28,949,717 large cigars manufactured in the Philippine Islands, as compared with 9,650,463 in October, 1917. In October, 1918, there were 301,502 small cigarettes manufactured in the Philippines, as compared with 510,000 in October, 1917.

Denmark has developed tobacco growing to quite a large extent during the war. In 1917 the total acreage was 524, producing 728,000 pounds, valued at $182,000. The acreage was largely increased in 1918.

According to the latest revised figures from Washington, internal revenue tax was paid on 39,000,000,000 cigarettes manufactured in the year 1918. Add to this the 10,000,000,000 that were sent overseas to our soldiers and sailors, duty free, and an additional 10,000,000,000 manufactured and exported by the British-American Tobacco Co. and we find the total amount manufactured will be nearly 60,000,000,000.

The internal revenue figures for 1917 showed 34,832,385,676 manufactured, tax paid, and it is estimated that the British-American Company did half the business in 1917 as in 1918, which would bring the totals for 1917 to approximately 40,000,000,000, not including the amount sent overseas.

The following table shows the amount manufactured, tax paid, for the past nineteen years, and using the estimated figures of 1918 (89,000,000,000) it shows an increase of about 1,200 per cent.

1917.....	34,832,385,676	1907.....	5,270,556,938

As reported by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, there were 23,332,100 large cigars manufactured in Porto Rico in November, 1918, as compared with 4,460,560 in November, 1917. There were 1,009,000 small cigars manufactured in Porto Rico in November, 1918, as compared with 80,000 in 1917. In November, 1917, there were 163,000 large cigarettes manufactured, but the number manufactured in 1918 is not yet available. In November, 1917, there were 1,226,- 000 small cigarettes manufactured in Porto Rico. In 1918 the output increased to 2,000,000.

The Imperial Tobacco Company has declared a final dividend of 6½ per cent and a bonus of 15 cents per share for the past year.

The cultivation of tobacco utilizes about 6,000,000 acres of the world's land.

The total production of cigars in the First Ohio District for December was 12,486,240, showing a decrease from the November production of 301,610, and when compared to the corresponding month of 1917 shows a decrease of 3,850,953. The following statement shows in detail the output for December, 1918, the corresponding month in 1917, and November, 1918:

			Dec., 1918.	Nov., 1918.	Dec., 1917.

The total production for the calendar year, 1918, was 167,472,354, as compared with 210,826,637 for 1917, showing a decrease of 43,354,283.

Detailed statistics the Commissioner of fiscal year ending June 30, 1917, were twenty-one districts, of which there were only eleven districts in 1917, to the amount of 48,030,532. The largest amount exported the year 1917 showed no York (Second District) amount, the number of an increase of 5,82 year.

The exportations of small cigars in bond from three districts totaled 3,722,400, representing an increase of 3,608,400 for the year.

Eleven districts exported small cigarettes in bond to the amount of 2,382,948,042, which represents an increase of 2,144,228,992 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918, and the increase in tobacco and snuff amounted to 5,081,827 pounds.

Internal revenue reports for the month of November, the latest available figures show a decline in tobacco products except snuff from the previous month, and also a decline when compared with November, 1917. Large cigars, when compared with October, 1918, show a production of 537,794,904 against 607,538,002 and 701,253,530 in the corresponding period of last year, which is a decrease of 69,744,098 and 163,458,626, respectively.

Small cigars show a production of 63,177,200, against 64,111,160 for October and 81,299,341 for November, 1917, which is a decrease of 933,960 and 18,122,141, respectively.

Large cigarettes had a production of 2,255,000, against 3,266,750, which represents a decrease of 1,011,750 over October, 1918, and a decrease of 1,909,086 from the corresponding period last year.

The following table gives the classified figures for November, 1918; October, 1918, and a comparison with the figures for November, 1917:

Great Britain was the largest buyer, having purchased 5,183,705, against 7,539,532 of the previous month of October, which represents a decrease of 2,355,827 for the month of November.

United States was the next largest purchaser, which amounted to 3,320,230, against 3,670,023 in October of 1918, which is a decrease of 449,793 for the month of November, 1918.

Spain ranked third among the purchasers.
France, Canada and Australia were moderate buyers.

In the first eleven months of the calendar year there was shipped 133,804,777, against 99,-396,165 in the corresponding period last year, which represents an increase of 34,408,612.

The United Cigar Stores Company has declared a quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent on common stock, payable Feb. 15.

The following figures are compiled from the internal revenue reports for the eleven months ending Nov. 30, 1918: Cigars manufactured for the eleven months amounted to 6,889,436,156, against 7,463,456,389, which shows a decrease of 574,020,233; small cigars show 783,169,965, against 924,451,774, or a decrease of 141,281,809; small cigarettes amounted to 34,114,715,716, or an increase of 1,530,159,282; large cigarettes decreased in the eleven-month period 3,790,092.

October exports of cigars amounted to 330,000, which is a decrease of 7,000 from September, 1918, but an increase over October, 1917, of 65,000.

The following table, the latest figures obtainable, though incomplete, shows the amount of tobacco manufactured by districts, with comparisons, for December, 1918, and December, 1917.

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR RECONSTRUCTION PROGRAM.

The world war has forced all free peoples to a fuller and deeper realization of the menace to civilization contained in autocratic control of the activities and destinies of mankind.

It has caused a world-wide determination to overthrow and eradicate all autocratic institutions, so that a full measure of freedom and justice can be established between man and man and nation and nation.

It has awakened more fully the consciousness that the principles of democracy should regulate the relationship of men in all their activities.

It has opened the doors of opportunity through which more sound and progressive policies may enter.

New conceptions of human liberty, justice and opportunity are to be applied.

The American Federation of Labor, the one organization representing Labor in America, conscious that its responsibilities are now greater than before, presents a program for the guidance of Labor, based upon experience and formulated with a full consciousness of the principles and policies which have successfully guided American trade unionism in the past.

Democracy in Industry.

Two codes of rules and regulations affect the workers: the law upon the statute books, and the rules within industry.

The first determines their relationship as citizens to all other citizens and to property.

The second largely determines the relationship of employer and employe, the terms of employment, the conditions of labor, and the rules and regulations affecting the workers as employes. The first is secured through the application of the methods of democracy in the enactment of legislation, and is based upon the principle that the laws which govern a free people should exist only with their consent.

The second, except where effective trade unionism exists, is established by the arbitrary or autocratic whim, desire or opinion of the employer and is based upon the principle that industry and commerce cannot be successfully conducted unless the employer exercises the unquestioned right to establish such rules, regulations and provisions affecting the employes as self-interest prompts.

Both forms of law vitally affect the workers' opportunities in life and determine their standard of living. The rules, regulations and conditions within industry in many instances affect them more than legislative enactments. It is, therefore, essential that the workers should have a voice in determining the laws within industry and commerce which affect them, equivalent to the voice which they have as citizens in determining the legislative enactments which shall govern them.

It is as inconceivable that the workers as free citizens should remain under autocratically made law within industry and commerce as it is that the nation could remain a democracy while certain individuals or groups exercise autocratic powers.

It is, therefore, essential that the workers everywhere should insist upon their right to organize into trade unions, and that effective legislation should be enacted which would make it a criminal offense for any employer to interfere with or hamper the exercise of this right or to interfere with the legitimate activities of trade unions.

Unemployment.

Political economy of the old school, conceived by doctrinaires, was based upon unsound and false doctrines, and has since been used to blindfold, deceive and defeat the workers' demands for adequate wages, better living and working conditions, and a just share of the fruits of their labor.

We hold strictly to the trade union philosophy and its developed political economy based upon demonstrated facts.

Unemployment is due to underconsumption. Underconsumption is caused by low or insufficient wages.

Just wages will prevent industrial stagnation and lessen periodical unemployment.

Give the workers just wages and their consuming capacity is correspondingly increased. A man's ability to consume is controlled by the wages received. Just wages will create a market at home which will far surpass any market that may exist elsewhere and will lessen unemployment.

The employment of idle workmen on public work will not permanently remove the cause of unemployment. It is an expedient at best.

There is no basis in fact for the claim that the so-called law of supply and demand is natural in its operations and impossible of control or regulation.

The trade union movement has maintained standards, wages, hours and life in periods of industrial depression and idleness. These in themselves are a refutation of the declared immutability of the law of supply and demand.

There is in fact no such condition as an iron law of wages based upon a natural law of supply and demand. Conditions in commerce and industry, methods of production, storing of commodities, regulation of the volume of production, banking systems, the flow and direction of enterprise influenced by combinations and trusts have effectively destroyed the theory of a natural law of supply and demand as had been formulated by doctrinaire economists.

Wages.

There are no means whereby the workers can obtain and maintain fair wages except through trade union effort. Therefore, economic organization is paramount to all their other activities.

Organization of the workers leads to better wages, fewer working hours, improved working conditions; it develops independence, manhood and character; it fosters tolerance and real justice and makes for a constantly growing better economic, social and political life for the burden-bearing masses.

In countries where wages are best, the greatest progress has been made in economic, social and political advancement, in science, art, literature, education and in the wealth of the people generally. All low wage-paying countries contrasted with America is proof for this statement.

The American standard of life must be maintained and improved. The value of wages is determined by the purchasing power of the dollar. There is no such thing as good wages when the cost of living in decency and comfort equals or exceeds the wages received. There must be no reduction in wages; in many instances wages must be increased.

The workers of the nation demand a living wage for all wage-earners, skilled or unskilled—a wage which will enable the worker and his family to live in health and comfort, provide a competence for illness and old age, and afford to all the opportunity of cultivating the best that is within mankind.

Hours of Labor.

Reasonable hours of labor promote the economic and social well-being of the toiling masses. Their attainment should be one of Labor's principal and essential activities. The shorter workday and a shorter work week make for a constantly growing, higher and better standard of productivity, health, longevity, morals and citizenship.

The right of Labor to fix its hours of work must not be abrogated, abridged or interfered with.

The day's working time should be limited to not more than eight hours, with overtime prohibited, except under the most extraordinary emergencies. The week's working time should be limited to not more than five and one-half days.

Women as Wage-earners.

Women should receive the same pay as men for equal work performed. Women workers must not be permitted to perform tasks disproportionate to their physical strength or which tend to impair their potential motherhood and prevent the continuation of a nation of strong, healthy, sturdy and intelligent men and women.

Child Labor.

The children constitute the nation's most valuable asset. The full responsibility of the government should be recognized by such measures as will protect the health of every child at birth and during its immature years.

It must be one of the chief functions of the nations through effective legislation to put an immediate end to the exploitation of children under sixteen years of age.

State legislatures should protect children of immature years by prohibiting their employment, for gain, under sixteen years of age and restricting the employment of children of less than eighteen years of age to not more than twenty hours within any one week and with not less than twenty hours at school during the same period.

Exploitation of child life for private gain must not be permitted.

Status of Public Employees.

The fixing of wages, hours and conditions of labor for public employes by legislation hampers the necessary exercise of organization and collective bargaining.

Public employes must not be denied the right of organization, free activities and collective bargaining and must not be limited in the exercise of their rights as citizens.

Co-operation.

To attain the greatest possible development of civilization, it is essential, among other things, that the people should never delegate to others those activities and responsibilities which they are capable of assuming for themselves. Democracy can function best with the least interference by the state compatible with due protection to the rights of all citizens.

There are many problems arising from production, transportation and distribution, which would be readily solved by applying the methods of co-operation. Unnecessary middlemen who exact a tax from the community without rendering any useful service can be eliminated.

The farmers through cooperative dairies, canneries, packing houses, grain elevators, distributing houses and other co-operative enterprises, can secure higher prices for their products and yet place these in the consumer's hands at lower prices than would otherwise be paid. There is an almost limitless field for the consumers in which to establish co-operative buying and selling, and in this most necessary development, the trade unionists should take immediate and active part.

Trade unions secure fair wages. Co-operation protects the wage-earner from the profiteer.

Participation in these co-operative agencies must of necessity prepare the mass of the people to participate more effectively in the solution of the industrial, commercial, social and political problems which continually arise.

The People's Final Voice in Legislation.

It is manifestly evident that a people are not self-governing unless they enjoy the unquestioned power to determine the form and substance of the laws which shall govern them. Self-government cannot adequately function if there exists within the nation a superior power or authority which can finally determine what legislation enacted by the people, or their duly elected representatives, shall be placed upon the statute books and what shall be declared null and void.

An insuperable obstacle to self-government in the United States exists in the power which has been gradually assumed by the supreme courts of the federal and state governments, to declare legislation null and void upon the ground that, in the court's opinion, it is unconstitutional.

It is essential that the people, acting directly or through Congress or state legislatures, should have final authority in determining which laws shall be enacted. Ad-equated steps must be taken, therefore, which will provide that in the event of a supreme court declaring an act of Congress or of a state legislature unconstitutional and the people acting directly or through Congress or a state legislature should re-enact the measure, it shall then become the law without being subject to annulment by any court.

Political Policy.

In the political efforts, arising from the workers' necessity to secure legislation covering those conditions and provisions of life not subject to collective bargaining with employers, organized labor has followed two methods; one by organizing political parties, the other by the determination to place in public office representatives from their ranks; to elect those who favor and champion the legislation desired and to defeat those whose policy is opposed to Labor's legislative demands, regardless of partisan politics.

The disastrous experience of organized labor in America with political parties of its own, amply justified the American Federation of Labor's non-partisan political policy. The results secured by labor parties in other countries never have been such as to warrant any deviation from this position. The rules and regulations of trade unionism should not be extended so that the action of a majority could force a minority to vote for or give financial support to any political candidate or party to whom they are opposed. Trade union activities cannot receive the undivided attention of members and officers if the exigencies, burdens and responsibilities of a political party are bound up with their economic and industrial organizations.

The experiences and results attained through the non-partisan political policy of the American Federation of Labor cover a generation. They indicate that through its application the workers of America have secured a much larger measure of fundamental legislation, establishing their rights, safeguarding their interests, protecting their welfare and opening the doors of opportunity than have been secured by the workers of any other country.

The vital legislation now required can be more readily secured through education of public mind and the appeal to its conscience, supplemented by energetic independent political activity on the part of trade unionists, than by any other method. This is and will continue to be the political policy of the American Federation of Labor if the lessons which Labor has learned in the bitter but practical school of experience are to be respected and applied.

It is, therefore, most essential that the officers of the American Federation of Labor, the officers of the affiliated organizations, state federations and central labor bodies and the entire membership of the trade union movement should give the most vigorous application possible to the political policy of the A. F. of L., so that Labor's friends and opponents may be more widely known, and the legislation most required readily secured. This phase of our movement is still in its infancy. It should be continued and developed to its logical conclusion.

Government Ownership.

Public and semi-public utilities should be owned, operated or regulated by the government in the interest of the public.

Whatever final disposition shall be made of the railways of the country in ownership, management or regulation, we insist upon the right of the workers to organize for their common and mutual protection and the full exercise of the normal activities which come with organization. Any attempt at the denial by governmental authority of the rights of the workers to organize, to petition, to representation and to collective bargaining, or the denial of the exercise of their political rights is repugnant to the fundamental principles of free citizenship in a republic and is destructive of their best interest and welfare.

The government should own and operate all wharves and docks connected with public harbors which are used for commerce or transportation.

The American Merchant Marine should be encouraged and developed under governmental control and so manned as to insure successful operation and protect in full the beneficent laws now on the statute books for the rights and welfare of seamen. The seamen must be accorded the same rights and privileges rightfully exercised by the workers in all other employments, public and private.

Waterways and Waterpower.

The lack of a practical development of our waterways and the inadequate extension of canals have seriously handicapped water traffic and created unnecessarily high cost for transportation. In many instances it has established artificial restrictions which have worked to the serious injury of communities, owing to the schemes of those controlling a monopoly of land transportation. Our navigable rivers and our great inland lakes should be connected with the sea by an adequate system of canals, so that inland production can be more effectively fostered, the costs of transportation reduced, the private monopoly of transportation overcome and imports and exports shipped at lower costs.

The nation is possessed of enormous waterpower. Legislation should be enacted providing that the governments, federal and state, should own, develop and operate all waterpower over which they have jurisdiction. The power thus generated should be supplied to all citizens at rates based upon cost. The waterpower of the nation, created by nature, must not be permitted to pass into private hands for private exploitation.

Regulation of Land Ownership.

Agriculture and stock-raising are essential to national safety and well-being. The history of all countries, at all times, indicates that the conditions which create a tenant class of agriculturists work increasing injury to the tillers of the soil. While increasing the price of the product to the consumer, these conditions at the same time develop a class of large land owners who contribute little, if anything, to the welfare of the community, but who exact a continually increasing share of the wealth produced by the tenant. The private ownership of large tracts of usable land is not conducive to the best interests of a democratic people.

Legislation should be enacted placing a graduated tax upon all usable lands above the acreage which is cultivated by the owner. This should include provisions through which the tenant farmer, or others, may purchase land upon the lowest rate of interest and most favorable terms consistent with safety, and so safeguarded by governmental supervision and regulation as to give the fullest and freest opportunity for the development of land-owning agriculturists.

Special assistance should be given in the direction of allotments of lands and the establishment of homes on the public domain.

Establishment of government experimental farms, measures for stock-raising instruction, the irrigation of arid lands and reclamation of swamp and cut-over lands should be undertaken upon a larger scale under direction of the Federal government.

Municipalities and states should be empowered to acquire lands for cultivation or the erection of residential buildings which they may use or dispose of under equitable terms.

Federal and State Regulation of Corporations.

The creation by legislative enactment of corporations without sufficient definition of the powers and scope of activities conferred upon them and without provisions for their adequate supervision, regulation and control by the creative body, has led to the development of far-reaching abuses which have seriously affected commerce, industry and the masses of the people through their influence upon social, industrial, commercial and political development. Legislation is required which will so limit, define and regulate the powers, privileges and activities of corporations that their methods cannot become detrimental to the welfare of the people. It is, therefore, essential that legislation should provide for the federal licensing of all corporations organized for profit. Furthermore, federal supervision and control should include the increasing of capital stock and the incurring of bonded indebtedness with the provision that the books of all corporations shall be open at all times to federal examiners.

Freedom of Expression and Association.

The very life and perpetuity of free and democratic institutions are dependent upon freedom of speech, of the press and of assemblage and association. We insist that all restrictions of freedom of speech, press, public assembly, association and travel be completely removed, individuals and groups being responsible for their utterances. These fundamental rights must be set out with clearness and must not be denied or abridged in any manner.

Workmen's Compensation.

Workmen's compensation laws should be amended to provide more adequately for those incapacitated by industrial accidents or occupational diseases. To assure that the insurance fund derived from commerce and industry will be paid in full to injured workers, state insurance must supplant, and prohibit the existence of, employers' liability insurance operated for profit.

Immigration.

Americanization of those coming from foreign lands, as well as our standards of education and living, are vitally affected by the volume and character of the immigration.

It is essential that additional legislation regulating immigration should be enacted based upon two fundamental propositions, namely, that the flow of immigration must not at any time exceed the nation's ability to assimilate and Americanize the foreigners coming to our shores, and that at no time shall immigration be permitted when there exists an abnormal degree of unemployment.

By reason of existing conditions we urge that immigration into the United States should be prohibited for a period of at least two years after peace has been declared.

Taxation.

One of the nation's most valuable assets is the initiative, energetic, constructive and inventive genius of its people. These qualities when properly applied should be fostered and protected instead of being hampered by legislation, for they constitute an invaluable element of progress and material development. Taxation should, therefore, rest as lightly as possible upon constructive enterprise. Taxation should provide for full contribution from wealth by a tax upon profits which will not discourage industrial or commercial enterprise. There should be provided a progressive increase in taxes upon incomes, inheritances and upon land values of such a nature as to render it unprofitable to hold land without putting it to use, to afford a transition to greater economic quality and to supply means of liquidating the national indebtedness growing out of the war.

Education.

It is impossible to estimate the influence of education upon the world's civilization. Education must not stifle thought and inquiry, but must awaken the mind concerning the application of natural laws and to a conception of independence and progress.

Education must not be for a few but for all our people. While there is an advanced form of public education in many states, there still remains a lack of adequate educational facilities in several states and communities. The welfare of the republic demands that public education should be elevated to the highest degree possible. The government should exercise advisory supervision over public education and where necessary maintain adequate public education through subsidies without giving to the government power to hamper or interfere with the free development of public education by the several states. It is essential that our system of public education should offer the wage-earners' children the opportunity for the fullest possible development. To attain this end state colleges and universities should be developed.

It is also important that the industrial education which is being fostered and developed should have for its purpose not so much training for efficiency in industry as training for life in an industrial society. A full understanding must be had of those principles and activities that are the foundation of all productive efforts. Children should not only become familiar with tools and materials, but they should also receive a thorough knowledge of the principles of human control, of force and matter underlying our industrial relations and sciences. The danger that certain commercial and industrial interests may dominate the character of education must be averted by insisting that the workers shall have equal representation on all boards of education or committees having control over vocational studies and training.

To elevate and advance the interests of the teaching profession and to promote popular and democratic education, the right of the teachers to organize and to affiliate with the movement of the organized workers must be recognized.

Private Employment Agencies.

Essentials in industry and commerce are employe and employer, labor and capital. No one questions the right of organized capital to supply capital to employers. No one should question the right of organized labor to furnish workers. Private employment agencies abridge this right of organized labor.

Where federal, state and municipal employment agencies are maintained they should operate under the supervision of joint committees of trade unionists and employers, equally represented.

Private employment agencies operated for profit should not be permitted to exist.

Housing.

Child life, the workers' physical condition and public health demand that the wage-earner and his family shall be given a full opportunity to live under wholesome conditions. It is not only necessary that there shall be sanitary and appropriate houses to live in but that a sufficient number of dwellings shall be available to free the people from high rents and overcrowding.

The ownership of homes, free from the grasp of exploitive and speculative interests, will make for more efficient workers, more contented families and better citizens. The government should, therefore, inaugurate a plan to build model homes and establish a system of credits whereby the workers may borrow money at a low rate of interest and under favorable terms to build their own homes. Credit should also be extended to voluntary non-profit making housing and joint tenancy associations. States and municipalities should be freed from the restrictions preventing their undertaking proper housing projects and should be permitted to engage in other necessary enterprises relating thereto. The erection and maintenance of dwellings where migratory workers may find lodging and nourishing food during periods of unemployment should be encouraged and supported by municipalities.

If need should arise to expend public funds to relieve unemployment the building of wholesome houses would best serve the public interests.

Militarism.

The trade union movement is unalterably and emphatically opposed to "militarism" or a large standing army. "Militarism" is a system fostered and developed by tyrants in the hope of supporting their arbitrary authority. It is utilized by those whose selfish ambitions for power and worldly glory lead them to invade and subdue other peoples and nations, to destroy their liberties, to acquire their wealth and to fasten the yoke of bondage upon them. The trade union movement is convinced by the experience of mankind that "militarism" brutalizes those influenced by the spirit of the institution. The finer elements of humanity are strangled. Under "militarism" a deceptive patriotism is established in the peoples' minds, where men believe that there is nobility of spirit and heroism in dying for the glory of a dynasty or the maintenance of institutions which are inimical to human progress and democracy. "Militarism" is the application of arbitrary and irresponsible forces as opposed to reason and justice. Resistance to injustice and tyranny is that virile quality which has given purpose and effect to ennobling causes in all countries and at all times. The free institutions of our country and the liberties won by its founders would have been impossible had they been unwilling to take arms and if necessary die in the defense of their liberties. Only a people willing to maintain their rights and defend their liberties are guaranteed free institutions.

Conditions foreign to the institutions of our country have prevented the entire abolition of organized bodies of men trained to carry arms. A voluntary citizen soldiery supplies what would otherwise take its place, a large standing army. To the latter we are unalterably opposed as tending to establish the evils of "militarism." Large standing armies threaten the existence of civil liberty. The history of every nation demonstrates that as standing armies are enlarged the rule of democracy is lessened or extinguished. Our experience has been that even this citizen soldiery, the militia of our states, has given cause at times for grave apprehension. Their ranks have not always been free from undesirable elements, particularly the tools of corporations involved in industrial disputes. During industrial disputes the militia has at times been called upon to support the authority of those who through selfish interests desired to enforce martial law while the courts were open and the civil authorities competent to maintain supremacy of civil law. We insist that the militia of our several states should be wholly organized and controlled by democratic principles so that this voluntary force of soldiery may never be diverted from its true purpose and used to jeopardize or infringe upon the rights and liberties of our people. The right to bear arms is a fundamental principle of our government, a principle accepted at all times by free people as essential to the maintenance of their liberties and institutions. We demand that this right shall remain inviolate.

Soldiers and Sailors.

Soldiers and sailors, those who entered the service in the nation's defense, are entitled to the generous reward of a grateful republic.

The necessities of war called upon millions of workmen to leave their positions in industry and commerce to defend, upon the battlefields, the nation's safety and its free institutions. These defenders are now returning. It is advisable that they should be discharged from military service at the earliest possible moment; that as civilians they may return to their respective homes and families and take up their peace-time pursuits. The nation stands morally obligated to assist them in securing employment.

Industry has undergone great changes, due to the dislocation caused by war production and transportation. Further readjustments in industry and commerce must follow the rehabilitation of business under peaceful conditions. Many positions which our citizen soldiers and sailors filled previous to enlistment do not exist today.

It would be manifestly unjust for the government after having removed the worker from his position in industry and placed him in military service to discharge him from the army or navy without having made adequate provision to assist him in procuring employment and providing sustenance until employment has been secured. The returned citizen soldier or sailor should not be forced by the bitter urgent necessity of securing food and clothing to place himself at a disadvantage when seeking employment.

Upon their discharge, transportation and meals should be supplied to their places of residence. The monthly salary previously paid should be continued for a period not to exceed twelve months if employment is not secured within that period.

The federal and state employment bureaus should be directed to co-operate with trade union agencies in securing employment for discharged soldiers and sailors. In assisting the discharged soldier and sailor to secure employment, government agencies should not expect them to accept employment for less than the prevailing rate of wages being paid in the industry. Neither should any government agency request or require such discharged men to accept employment where a trade dispute exists or is threatened. Nor should the refusal on the part of any of these discharged soldiers or sailors to accept employment where trade disputes exist or are threatened or when less than the prevailing wage rate is offered, deprive them of a continuance of their monthly pay.

Legislation also should be enacted which will give the nation's defenders the opportunity for easy and ready access to the land. Favorable inducements should be provided for them to enter agriculture and husbandry. The government should assume the responsibility for the allotment of such lands, and supply the necessary capital for its development and cultivation, with such safeguards as will protect both the government and the discharged soldier and sailor.

Conclusion.

No element in our nation is more vitally concerned with the problems of making for a permanent peace between all nations than the working people. The opportunities now before us are without precedent. It is of paramount importance that Labor shall be free and unhampered in shaping the principles and agencies affecting the wage-earners' condition of life and work.

By the light that has been given to it the American Federation of Labor has attracted to its fold over three millions of wage-earners and its sphere of influence and helpfulness is growing by leaps and bounds. By having followed safe and sound fundamental principles and policies, founded on freedom, justice and democracy, the American trade union movement has achieved successes of an inestimable value to the masses of toilers of our country. By adhering to these principles and policies we can meet all problems of readjustment, however grave in importance and difficult of solution, with a feeling of assurance that our efforts will be rewarded by a still greater success than that achieved in the past.

Given the whole-hearted support of all men and women of labor, our organized labor movement with its constructive program, its love for freedom, justice and democracy, will prove the most potent factor in protecting, safeguarding and promoting the general welfare of the great mass of our people during this trying period of reconstruction and all times thereafter.

The American Federation of Labor has attained its present position of dignity and splendid influence because of its adherence to one common cause and purpose; that purpose is to protect the rights and interests of the masses of the workers and to secure for them a better and a brighter day. Let us therefore strive on and on to bring into our organizations the yet unorganized. Let us concentrate our efforts to organize all the forces of wage-earners. Let the nation hear the united demand from the laboring voice. Now is the time for the workers of America to come to the stand of their unions and to organize as thoroughly and completely and compactly as is possible. Let each worker bear in mind the words of Longfellow:

"In the world's broad field of battle,
In the bivouac of Life,
Be not like dumb, driven cattle!
Be a hero in the strife!"

The foregoing program was drafted by the Committee on Reconstruction, appointed by instruction of the convention of the American Federation of Labor, held at St. Paul, Minn., June 10-20, 1918.

The committee did not report on "Health Insurance," because that subject, by action of the St. Paul convention, was referred to a special committee.

CORRESPONDENCE

Boston, Mass., Feb. 7, 1919.

No. 97's success has been due in no small measure to the persistent and continuous efforts on the part of the various label committees to boom our label. As many of the cities in New England will have reception committees to entertain the boys on their return from over seas we have sent a copy of enclosed letter to many cities in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts. If you have space kindly publish same, it may encourage others to do likewise.

Fraternally yours,
HENRY ABRAHANS, Secretary.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 7, 1919.

George W. Jones, Esq., Chairman, Reception Committee Returned Soldiers.

Dear Sir: In the event of your committee giving the boys cigars on their return, we respectfully ask that they be given Blue Label New England made cigars such as they have been used to smoking. We are not booming any brand, or manufacturer, but New England made cigars.

Hoping for favorable action we have the honor to be,

Very respectfully yours,
WILLIAM COLLINS, President.
HENRY ABRAHAM, Secretary.

OFFICIAL

EXECUTIVE BOARD:
G. W. Perkins, President,
Monon Building, Chicago.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privileges in dues unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such reports the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per Section 149, give full record of membership as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity of complying with the request carefully study Section 144c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal wills" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

Section 144c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there be no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there be no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death were dependent for support in whole or in part.

The International Union cannot authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children, and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefit rests entirely with such members.

In order to avoid confusion when a Class A member changes from 15-cent dues to 30-cent dues secretaries under the law are to give such members one-half time on length of membership, and write the following in ink in the due book: "Change from Class A to 30-cent due paying class. Time on full benefits commences (computed on basis of one-half time)." Should such member desire to travel he should be given a new due book and traveling card, both of which should give the date of initiation computed on the above mentioned basis, and the words "Changed From Class A" written on both due book and traveling card. Whenever a Class A 15-cent member changes to a 30-cent membership secretaries should always so state on their monthly reports, and record the transactions on their books.

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

In compliance with Section 184 of the Constitution, the International Executive Board levied a running weekly assessment, to replenish the General Fund, of 20c on each 30-cent, 20-cent and 15-cent members, and 10c on Class A members. The assessment commences on

SPECIAL.

Section 134 distinctly and plainly states "No sick or out of work benefit shall be paid to members adjudged insane." All amounts so paid are illegal. No dues shall be collected from an insane member.

NOTICE TO LOCAL UNIONS.

Always refer to your Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 30c to the 20c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Members who while at work refuse or fail to pay per cent on loans suspend themselves without any action of the secretary.

In several instances where cards had been stolen from members secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book and in proper condition.

UNION BUSINESS

In accordance with Sections 58, 59 and 60 of the Constitution, the following unions are hereby notified and requested to remit the following amounts for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the office of the International Union:

290 Owego	$100	310 Manistee	50

306 Monmouth	50	337 Key West	150
307 Reno	100	338 Eureka	50
308 Muncie	$ 50

Feb. 3, 1919, and continues until the General Fund reaches the constitutional requirement.

Note.—The 25c assessment continues up to Feb. 3, 1919.

Section 73 provides that "all dues and assessments of members receiving benefits shall be deducted from such benefits." This means any benefit and all dues and assessments. If a member has $5.00 sick benefit coming and owes 8 dues and assessments he would receive just 60 cents in cash and credit for 8 dues and assessments.

DECISIONS OF THE PRESIDENT

Mrs. N. DeVries appealed against Union 97, Boston, for suspending her for non-payment of assessments. The shop collector admits that she paid him the money and that he forgot to turn it into the union. The appeal was sustained.

Charles Sowell appealed against Union 361, East St. Louis, for suspending him for non-payment of assessments. The appeal was not sustained.

A. J. Goodrow appealed against Union 98, St. Paul, for demanding that he take a retiring card. The appeal was sustained.

J. F. Krieger appealed against Union 98, St. Paul, for demanding that he take a retiring card. The appeal was sustained.

C. Meydam appealed against Union 135, Appleton, for refusing to pay him total disability benefit. The appeal was not sustained.

C. A. Haehl appealed against Union 33, Indianapolis, for allowing extra compensation to the secretary for work performed during the influenza epidemic. The appeal was not sustained.

S. Stan appealed against Union 97, Boston, for suspending him for non-payment of assessments. Owing to extenuating circumstances the appeal was sustained.

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and, in addition, send in such cards, but place in your letter the information necessary, as the letter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 148 to 149, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted resolutions of respect and condolence relative to death or deaths as follows and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days:

Union 129, Denver, Colo.—A. Van Stalten (28445), who died Dec. 29; Frank Licht (95648), who died Jan. 1; H. Wilmes (62422), who died Jan. 16; Mrs. L. Frank (35071), who died Jan. 31.

Union 25, Milwaukee, Wis.—Anton Meyer (58221).

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

(An amendment takes effect the first of the month following the publication of notice of its adoption in the Official Journal.)

Amendments adopted since the June 15, 1917, edition of the constitution:

By 208, Kalamazoo, Mich.: To amend Section 154 by adding after the word "bunches," on line 23, "nor which pays less than $10.00 per thousand for hand work, less than four molds of 10 bunches each with press on table, or two 20-bunch molds in shaper press, to be considered hand work."

In effect Nov. 1, 1917.

Take Notice.—The amendment of 238, Sacramento, Calif., takes the place of the 132, Brooklyn, amendment, and supersedes all other amendments reference war retiring cards and benefits. The amendment, published elsewhere in this Journal, says: "This amendment shall govern all other sections which deal with benefits of such members who may be doing military duty or are beyond the boundary lines as defined in our constitution."

By 238, Sacramento, Calif.: War Retiring Card Amendment:

(a) That the President of the International Cigarmakers' Union cause to be printed a War Retiring Card, to read as follows:

(b) This is to certify that Mr., Card No., Initiated by, When, has entered the service of (U. S. or Allies' Army or Navy), and is entitled to all benefits as may be contained in the War Retiring Card Amendment.

Pres. C. M. I. U.
Signed—

....., Local Pres.
....., Fin. Sec.

(c) Any member who may by draft or voluntary enlistment enter the service of the United States Army or Navy or the service of the Army or Navy of any allied country, during this period of war, shall be entitled to a War Retiring Card, provided such member is in good standing at the time of his or her application for a War Retiring Card.

(d) Any member who is a holder of a War Retiring Card shall be exempt from all dues, fines and assessments, and upon his or her reentrance in the actual making or packing of cigars shall be entitled to his or her original card from which he or she was transferred, with all benefits as entitled to from date of initiation, except for such time as he or she was holding a War Retiring Card.

(e) Any member holding a War Retiring Card shall be entitled to his or her original card free of charge.

(f) All transfers shall be made at regular or executive board meetings.

(g) Applications for transfer to the War Retiring Card may be made in writing.

(h) All cards from which members transfer to the War Retiring Card shall be sent to the International President to be kept on file.

(i) It shall be the duty of the International President to have sufficient War Retiring Cards printed, which shall be distributed to all local unions.

(j) No benefits shall be paid to any member while holding a War Retiring Card.

(k) This amendment shall govern all other sections which deal with benefits of such members who may be doing military duty or are beyond the boundary lines as is defined by our constitution.

In effect March 1, 1918.

By Union 90, New York:

Strike out in Sec. 92 all from second line after wages till September, on line 10, and insert "from December 15 until January 15."

Section to read:

No strike shall be approved or sustained by the International Union for an increase in wages between the 15th day of December until the 15th day of January of any year.

But this shall in nowise preclude the approval of strikes against the reduction of wages or the truck system, or against the introduction of tenement house work.

In effect January 1, 1919.

The reactionary seventeenth century manufacturers, the haughty, autocratic financiers, who never forget or accept anything new if it is in the interests of the masses, have a moral responsibility resting upon them, which they can not shirk. They may do the ostrich act, but they will fool no one except themselves. The public press, or a portion of it, especially that portion which sees best through its commercial spectacles and lets the big interests dominate it in its policies, also has a responsibility in these troublesome, uncertain times, which it can not ignore and retain a placid conscience. The press is prone to exploit the actions of politicians, and print the alleged good acts of employers and financiers under bold face, display headlines, and to totally ignore the things that they do which are not conducive to stability to our government or helpful in the reconstruction period. They forget all about the good deeds of the trade unions and their officials and the steadying influence and constructive action, while publishing all of the alleged things that are calculated to create distrust of these same unions. Recently the press from ocean to ocean, from the Gulf to the St. Lawrence, exploited Mayor Hanson of Seattle as a great patriot, one hundred per cent American, with an undaunted courage, for having brought order out of chaos in the strike which involved about seventy thousand workers in Seattle, Washington. As a matter of fact, Mayor Hanson had no more to do than a wooden Indian with settling that strike. The responsible leadership, officers, and members of the trade union movement are the ones who brought order out of chaos and ended the general, sympathetic strike in that city. Despite this undeniable fact, Mayor Hanson is held up as a super being and a hero. These things may tickle the vanity of the politically ambitious and the despotic autocrats in industry, but they won't stop some people from "rocking the boat," nor are they conducive to tranquillity and stability industrially, socially, or politically.

Without blaming the federal government for its action, it may be said it recently called into conference at Washington the governors of our states and the mayors of our cities, for the purpose of discussing unrest and how to cure it. This conference may have been helpful. We hope it was. Yet while these men, perhaps all good men, wise in their particular lines, may be splendid and successful politicians, they are busy with politics, and their knowledge of economics and what is in the hearts and minds of the workers is extremely limited. Neither labor nor its representatives have been called into conference by the federal government for the purpose of contributing what it knows about unrest and its causes—those who know what is in the minds and hearts of the workers and are able to interpret correctly their hopes, their thoughts, and their ambitions.

The legitimate trade union movement performed its full duty faithfully, ungrudgingly, and without complaint, during the war. It can be depended upon to do its full duty now that the war is over.

During the war labor did not surrender its right to organize, its demand for wages that would enable the workers to live in decency and comfort, nor did it surrender the shorter work day principle, which leads to better health and longevity of the masses. It did not surrender the principle of democracy and free institutions, and it is not going to surrender any of these principles now that the war is over. Labor made uncomplainingly its sacrifices in order that democracy and justice might prevail. Labor demands now industrial democracy as well as political democracy. It demands that the industrial despot and autocrat be held in leash, and it will fight just as valiantly with all the lawful and legitimate means at its command for the maintenance and integrity of the just and natural rights of labor now as it did to maintain democracy, self-determination, and justice in the bloody war.

American organized labor, affiliated to the American Federation of Labor, is not revolutionary in action, regardless of what it may be in thought. It believes thoroughly in our democracy, our free institutions, and can be depended upon to do its share to uphold them, but it demands a square deal. It demands justice and it demands an impartial enforcement of the laws of our land, and will be satisfied with nothing less. It can not be swept off its feet by revolutionary demagogues, who may be masquerading under any issue or ism or who may be camouflaging their movements with any subterfuge. It will mind its own business and carry out its plans and its policies in its own way along legitimate, legal, and lawful lines. It hopes to obtain its end—justice eternal on the economic field of endeavor as well as within the realms of political formation, by the constructive, evolutionary route, through education, organization, and conciliation. It not only hopes to, but will, carry forward its hopes and its aspirations, and its ambitions to a successful conclusion. We are impatient at the admittedly slow progress made, but can not be swerved from our fixed purpose, policy, and method by reactionary, so-called red radicals, who want to tear down but advance nothing of a constructive nature to take the place of that which they would destroy.

There are two kinds of Bolshevik. (We use that term advisedly and simply for convenience sake.) One is the wild-eyed and impatient red Unrest Breeding Camps radical; the other is the despotic, autocratic, grab-it-all employer and financier. The latter is almost wholly responsible for the breeding camps that create the Bolshevik, and is more dangerous to our republican institutions, our democracy, and our destiny than is the former.

After all is said all must agree that the question of unrest and the creation of the destructive, radical element is absolutely an economic issue rather than a political issue. The so-called unrest, world wide in its scope, is caused absolutely by low wages, long hours, and horribly miserable working conditions of especially the migratory workers and the so-called common laborers and the unorganized. There is unrest in the Republic of France, in the limited monarchy of Spain, in the Republic of Russia, in the limited monarchy of England, in the Republic of Switzerland, in the limited monarchy of Italy, in the Republic of Germany, and last but not least, in our own glorious Republic of the United States. We repeat that the cause is not the political formation, but rather that it is due almost wholly to adverse economic working conditions.

The war which we have just passed through aroused new hopes and aspirations and accentuated righteous ambitions in the minds and the hearts of the great mass of the people here and elsewhere. The avowed purpose of America when we went into the world war was to make the world safe for democracy, self-determination, and justice, and our allies accepted this as their purpose, and nothing short of the fulfillment of those pledges and a realization of the expectations of the masses will bring about a reasonable amount of contentment. A certain amount of unrest is good, but the unrest born of oppression and the withholding of natural rights, and justice long deferred breeds contempt for our laws and our institutions, and if not heeded will lead to a dangerous situation in so far as even our own glorious country is concerned.

The cheap-John manufacturers and the autocratic financiers, who are doing business in the twentieth century and who are trying to apply seventeenth century notions in so far as the treatment of the workers is concerned, and who are the worst Bolsheviks we have, will either deal with the legitimate, constructive trade union movement or with the so-called Bolshevik element. This is not a threat; it is a plain statement of facts as they exist, which can not be ignored if we hope to escape the inevitable consequences.

The wild-eyed Bolshevik unblushingly and boldly admits by his action that he would take a chance of Progressive Construction, or Destruction. destroying the legitimate trade union movement, on one single issue, even though that issue be not an economic issue, a question of wages, hours of labor, or shop conditions. He who would destroy the trade union movement, which has taken years and years of sacrifice and money to build up, on one shake of the dice box, and who does so with his eyes wide open, is committing a crime against the workers of our country. The rational leadership and the rational level-headed rank and file in the trade union movement, who are in the vast majority, know of the wrongs perpetrated against labor and of justice long withheld. They have preached against it, talked against it, and have done everything within the bounds of reason to right these wrongs and to achieve justice. We were preaching against wrong and injustice and striving to eradicate it, long before many of the so-called radicals were born or immigrated to this country. We have built up a powerful and numerically strong trade union movement. We are not going to tamely sit idly by and see any one, whether it be despotic autocrat or the wild-eyed radical, destroy that movement so dear to the hearts of real trade unionists and so helpful to the otherwise defenceless workers.

When the legitimate trade union movement strikes it strikes for a known, constructive cause and in the interests of higher wages, shorter hours, and for better working and living conditions, and against injustice. It knows that a strike is a two-edged sword, and that if misused it cuts both ways.

Review and General Trade Statistics.

The world is at school wrestling with "The three R's," Readjustment, Reconstruction and Rehabilitation.

Labor's voice is heard as it should be, and Labor's demands are heeded, as they must be, if Finis is to be written on the final page of the record at the close of the Peace Conference.

While the period of Reconstruction is critical in a sense, owing largely to the extremely high cost of living, there is after all no reason for hysterics as there are no problems that level headed co-operation of Capital and Labor cannot solve.

Unemployment is apparent in many centers, particularly at points of demobilization. It must be remembered that in normal times there is always unemployment at this season of the year when out-door work is practically at a standstill.

Men have been drawn from the farms and small towns into war industries and kindred work and they are not inclined to return immediately to their former homes at a season when there is little to do there.

The large number of women recruited into industry during the war affects the situation to no little extent and this phase of Reconstruction is but another thing that time alone will stabilize.

The validation of about $2,750,000,000 informal war contracts should have an immediate beneficial effect on the general situation as it will allow manufacturers to capitalize production in the essentials of peace.

During the last few days the security markets have been buoyant, while commodity markets have continued a moderate, orderly decline. Stocks rise on the prospect of profits. Commodities fall on the prospect of lower costs. Both movements are prophetic.

The great bank clearings attest the activity of trade while the very few business failures prove its soundness.

No true picture is without shadows, but the shadows only prove that there is sunshine.

A total of 717 freight cars and 1 baggage and mail car were constructed in railroad shops during the month ended January 31, according to a statement issued by the Railroad Administration.

The Bureau of Insular Affairs has received cablegrams from Manila indicating the development of Philippine foreign trade during the past year.

Total imports amounted to $98,599,212—an increase of 50 per cent over those of 1917, while the export total increased from $95,604,307 to $135,682,536. In these larger figures for the year American trade continued to be dominant, constituting 60 per cent of all imports and two-thirds of all exports.

The sugar trade was larger by 66,286 long tons than in 1917, but of the total of 269,941 long tons only 104,405 found an American market in spite of American needs, owing to the double handicap of distance and quality. The shipping shortage was conducive to an Oriental market and Oriental prices, and the total value for the year of $15,804,390 was based on a slightly lower average price than in 1917.

Marked activity continued in the cigar trade, with an increase of 75,000,000 over shipments of 1917. Total exports were 360,000,000, valued at $7,116,719, of which 249,000,000, valued at $5,682,838, went to the American market.

The total number of merchant vessels under construction throughout the world (excluding the Central Powers) on December 31, 1919, according to Lloyd's Register Shipbuilding Returns, was 2,189 ships of 6,921,989 gross tons, or double the largest corresponding tonnage under construction by the world before the war, which was 3,446,890 gross tons in June, 1913.

The details of merchant tonnage under construction on December 31, 1919, were as follows:

The trade of January put the world in our debt $410,000,000 against $470,000,000 for the entire year of 1914.

Heavy December shipments brought the total exports for 1918 to $6,150,000,000, a decrease of only $83,000,000 from the 1917 total, according to an announcement by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce. Imports for the year totaled $3,031,000,000, or not quite half the exports. Imports for the previous year were valued at $2,952,000,000.

Exports for December, the first full month after the signing of the armistice, reached a total of $566,000,000, a decided increase over the $522,000,000 recorded for November, although not up to the high mark of $600,000,000 for December, 1917.

Imports for December, however, were low, being $211,000,000, against $251,000,000 for November and $223,000,000 for December of the previous year.

Imports as well as exports of gold continued to decrease the imports amounting to $62,000,000 in the calendar year 1918, against $552,000,000 in 1917 and the exports to $41,000,000 and $372,000,000 in the same years.

Imports of silver increased from $53,000,000 in the calendar year 1917 to $71,000,000 in 1918. The exports of silver during December, 1918, amounted to $48,000,000, a larger amount than in any month during the past three years. For the calendar year exports of silver amounted to $253,000,000 in 1918 against $84,000,000 in 1917.

The savings made during the war were greater than for any other four-year period in the history of the United States. The per capita of savings in banks, trust companies and war savings was $89.11 in 1914 and $113.45 in 1918, an increase of 27.3 per cent.

February's production of pig iron was 2,940,168 tons, or 105,006 tons per day. This is 1,519 tons less than the daily output of January. On March 1 there were 806 furnaces in blast, making iron at a rate of 101.475 tons daily, against 323 furnaces on Feb. 1, operating at 104,405 tons.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is estimated that 18,000,000 workers were employed in war industries in this country.

The casualty list of the American coal mining army for 1918 includes 2,575 men killed. This is the penalty paid by one peaceful industry during a year of war and it emphasizes the fact that there is much that can be done to make the world safe for the workers as well as for democracy.

During the late war this government issued a mandate forbidding any citizen to trade with the enemy. This was entirely right and just and is not only in keeping with the highest ideals of patriotism, but has an economic effect on the forces brought to bear on the final result that has been proven of great value.

Let organized labor, too, issue such a mandate. Let us prove our patriotism and common sense by trading with friends only—those hiring nothing but union labor and producing goods bearing the union label.

When labor awakens to the power it may sway through its purchases much of the money now spent on strikes will be saved and the bitterness of the struggle between capital and labor will be reduced to a minimum.

The union label is the unmistakable sign of practical co-operation between employer and employee. The demand for the union label completes the relationship necessary to the most effective practice of co-operation by making the purchaser also a partner in the business.

The value of tobacco as a means of soothing the mind and imparting social pleasure is too generally well known to need mention. It became one of the necessities of the soldier, and medical officers declare that it was indispensable in the convalescent wards of our hospitals as well as being one of the "First Aids" to the wounded.

Prejudice against its use on the grounds of its being a menace to health is fast disappearing. Our contention, that if it were a menace to health it would surely show in the general health of our membership, and that such was not the case, is further strengthened by a report of the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry dealing with an exhaustive survey made by Dr. T. Grier Miller, who sums up the case against tobacco as follows:

"1. The literature upon the effects of working in tobacco favors the view that it predisposes the workers to pulmonary tuberculosis, gastro-intestinal disturbances, anaemia and nervous condition.

"2. On a study of the social and medical condition of 400 cigar workers in Philadelphia, we do not find support for any of these conditions.

"3. We did find, however, some wearing of the teeth and some throat congestion, findings due to faulty hygiene.

Even the most hostile of non-smokers must admit that this evidence is remarkably sound. The health of tobacco workers has always been a battle ground, since they are exposed to all the channels of absorption. Such a result as that given above testifies to the harmless character of tobacco.

Trade Notes.

It is estimated that 40,000,000 pounds of Turkish tobacco will soon be on the market as shipping restrictions are being rapidly removed.

February crop reports from Cuba are especially promising. Weather conditions continue favorable and it is believed if nothing unforeseen occurs the 1919 crop will equal the famous crop of 1881.

The Dow Cigar Company of Des Moines, Iowa, declared their usual 7 per cent dividend on preferred stock as well as a 15 per cent dividend on common for 1918.

California seems to have entered tobacco as one of her many and varied products. It is reported that the Tobacco Growers' Association of Fresno controls 250,000 pounds and that a price has been offered for their product higher than was expected. As to just what types of tobacco the crop represents there is some speculation, but the Turkish varieties seem to be the most favored.

In a bulletin issued by the Department of Agriculture the subject of sterilizing tobacco seed beds is completely covered. The sterilization of seed beds is necessary that all forms of weed seed and fungus be destroyed. For many years this was accomplished by the means of open fires on the beds and while this method destroyed the weed seeds it also was harmful to the soil, destroying organic matter necessary to proper growing conditions and causing it to bake easily. Large quantities of wood, not always easy to obtain, was necessary to accomplish the purpose and the location of the seed bed had to be changed each year as too much burning on one place killed the soil entirely.

Sterilization by steam is considered the most satisfactory and is being widely adopted in the tobacco districts. While the first cost is considerable the better results make it well worth the investment and growers are pooling their equipment and making it a community interest.

Our tobacco trade with foreign countries for November did not make as favorable a showing as the previous month of October, but when compared with the same period in 1917, shows an increase.

The exports of leaf tobacco from the United States in November, 1918, totaled $6,988,908 pounds, compared with $9,901,489 pounds in the previous month, and 25,971,486 pounds in the corresponding period of 1917, which represents a decrease of 2,912,581 pounds and an increase of 11,017,422 pounds, respectively. In November, 1918, the imports of leaf tobacco totaled 3,165,379 pounds, against 6,122,493 pounds in October, 1918, and 6,754,219 pounds in November, 1917, which is an increase of 3,957,064 pounds, and 4,588,840 pounds, respectively.

The amount of cigars exported during November were 3,211,000, or an increase of 2,890,000 cigars over November, 1917, and an increase of 2,881,000 over October, 1918.

Imports of leaf tobacco from Porto Rico in November, 1918, amounted to 1,492,660 pounds, against 1,472,089 pounds in the corresponding period of 1917, an increase of 20,571 pounds. The eleven-month period to December 1st, as compared with the same period in 1917 shows that leaf tobacco lost 1,198,879 pounds and cigars gained 4,350,000.

The total quantity of leaf tobacco on hand in the warehouses of manufacturers and dealers in this country, as shown by the Census Bureau, on January 1, 1919, amounted to 1,234,804,396 pounds.

The total amount of cigar types on hand January 1, 1919, was 254,309,051 pounds against 223,432,876 pounds, which represents an increase of 30,876,175 pounds as compared with the stock on the corresponding date of last year.

On January 1, 1919, the total amount of imported types on hand was 67,322,451 pounds as against 59,397,326 pounds on hand January 1, 1918, showing an increase of 7,925,125 pounds.

The following table shows the cigar types and the amount by districts on hand January 1, 1919, and the comparative figures for 1918.

The production of tobacco in Japan amounts now to about 100,000,000 pounds annually, according to reports to the bureau of domestic and foreign commerce. It is manufactured and treated as a government monopoly. During the war Japan's imports of leaf tobacco from the United States has decreased from 2,000,000 pounds in 1915 to about one-third of that quantity in 1917. On the other hand, Japanese exports of tobacco increased from 500,000 pounds in 1915 to 20 times as much in 1917, "much of which went to the United States." A great deal of the imports into the United States was used by manufacturers as a blend in the manufacture of Turkish cigarettes.

The Tobacco Products corporation has acquired the business of Philip Morris & Co., independent cigaret manufacturers. In connection with this acquisition it is announced that valuable rights will be given to both the common and preferred stockholders of the Tobacco Products Corporation.

Just what is causing the present unsettled conditions in the tobacco market is a subject for much speculation. A leading tobacco dealer of Wisconsin is authority for the following statement:

"No sooner had the armistice been signed than the tobacco manufacturers prepared for a large export trade to Europe. While the preparations were being made, they were informed by their foreign agents that tobacco could be secured from Brazil for about one-fourth the cost from the United States.

"Brazil, during the four years of war raised a great quantity of tobacco and had it on hand at the time the armistice was signed. The Brazilians immediately started after the foreign trade and with the large crop on hand were able to wrest the trade from the United States."

Wisconsin growers were refusing 30 to 32 cents per pound last fall, while very few dealers are offering 20 cents at the present time. Growers are organizing holding associations while buyers refuse to consider the crop at the prices asked so the leaf tobacco market in both Wisconsin and Connecticut is very dull as the same conditions as regard to the organization of holding companies exists in both places.

The following is, as it will be, under the new revenue law:

CIGARS.		Rates Adopted by Conference Committee.

Note 2: Class B under existing law embraces cigars retailing at 4c or over and not more than 7c each. Under the new law Class B will include all cigars retailing at over 5c and not over 8c each.

FULL FLOOR TAX PAYMENT REQUIRED. According to the provisions of the bill, the full amount of the difference between the present tax and the new tax will have to be paid upon all stock on hand on the day after the passage of the new law.

CIGAR MANUFACTURERS.
Manufacturers of cigars whose annual sales do not exceed 50,000 shall pay....	$ 4.00
Manufacturers of cigars whose annual sales exceed 50,000 and do not exceed 100,000	6 00
Manufacturers of cigars whose annual sales exceed 100,000 and do not exceed 200,000	12.00
Manufacturers of cigars whose annual sales exceed 200,000 and do not exceed 400,000	24.00
Manufacturers of cigars whose annual sales exceed 400,000 cigars shall each pay $24, and at the rate of 10c per M. or fraction thereof in respect to the excess over 400,000 cigars.

Total exports of cigars from Havana for the year 1918 amounted to 147,957,070 as compared with 111,909,685 for the year 1917, an increase of 36,047,385.

American Tobacco Co. sales for year ended Dec. 31, 1918, were slightly over $143,000,000, against less than $90,000,000 in 1917. Even allowing for drastic revenue bill about to be enacted into law, the company should show $35 a share for $40,242,400 common stock after depreciation, taxes and preferred dividend. This would be $10 more for common than in previous record year.

A battery of cigar-making machines has been installed in the cigar factory of Otto Elslenohr & Bro., Inc., South George Street, York, Pa. It is said that each machine has a capacity equalling the work of 30 cigar-makers.

The business of the United Cigar Stores Co. continues to increase. Sales in January showed an increase of 25% over the corresponding month in 1918. Sales in January, 1918, were 21% greater than those in the same month of 1917. An increase in prices amounting in some instances to about 33 1/4% will be put into effect about March 1 to meet the increased burdens imposed by the pending revenue bill.

Tampa production for January was greater than ever before, the production for the month being 30,791,753.

The cigar manufactures during January, according to classes, are as follows:

	Cigars.
Class A	11,600
Class B	10,433,958
Class C	19,360,007
Class D	892,538
Class E	92,650
Total	30,791,753

The following annual Calendar Year review of the cigar industry of the United States is based on statistics compiled from the regular monthly reports issued by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. Districts in which but few manufacturers are located are not required to report, therefore the statistics are not complete by districts but a general comprehensive report shows there were 7,417,023,254 large cigars manufactured in 1918 as compared with 8,054,854,983 in 1917, a decrease of 637,631,729. Small cigars also showed a decrease of 156,460,435, while cigarettes increased 1,995,737,587. Pennsylvania, 1st District (Lancaster), showed the largest production of cigars and cheroots, having an output of 768,991,272 as compared with 801,522,282 in 1917. Penn., 1st District (Philadelphia), was second in production, the output being 620,118,876 for eleven months. Florida, which ranked fourth in 1917, moved to third place with a production of 480,739,433, an increase of 49,695,164 over 1917. New York, 3rd District (New York), produced 408,398,239 and New Jersey, 5th Dist. (Newark), came next with 302,474,864.

THE UNION LABEL A GLORIOUS CONCEPTION OF EQUALITY.

The union label of organized labor creates the trade agreement. It is a most glorious conception of equality, the very incarnation of those attributes which beautified the guild hall-mark. It is moving toward a plane of perfection, though at the present moment it has just reached the intermediate stage of progress. Its future stands for all that is noble; all that is sweet in life; all that is earnest for the elevation of mankind and womankind. It is the educator of the coming generation. Unity, federation, right and justice, legislation, a happy and prosperous future go with the union label of organized labor. It is the highest type of patriotism which springs from the heart of man, and a factor in the ultimate attainment of real liberty.

SIMON O'LEARY ET AL. vs. EMILE
J. MENARD ET AL.
OPINION.

Penobscot.

DEASY, J. William S. O'Leary, who died August 11, 1916, was a member and the defendants are members of the Cigar Makers' International Union, an unincorporated society. The constitution of this society, by a provision having the force of a contract between its members, creates a death benefit, payable as follows: A member may in writing designate the beneficiary. If no such designation is made the benefit goes to his widow or minor children. If no widow or minor children "then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death were dependent for support, in whole or in part, upon such deceased member."

William O'Leary did not in writing designate a beneficiary. He was unmarried. Margaret, his youngest sister, was twenty-one years old and unmarried at the date of her brother's death. She and her brother William both lived in their father's family. William's earnings considerably exceeded those of his father. In 1916 Margaret was not a wage earner. Simon O'Leary, the father, referring to his son, William, testified: "He helped Margaret. Bought her shoes, clothed her, gave her spending money and like that." Margaret herself gave testimony that her brother William had helped her from the time he began to earn money until the time of his death. "He bought things I needed. He gave me spending money and music lessons for awhile. He gave me the money for anything I had to have." It also appeared in testimony that he paid money to his mother and helped other members of the family. The justice sitting in equity who heard the case ruled that,

"At the time of the death of William S. O'Leary his sister, the plaintiff Margaret O'Leary, while neither completely dependent upon him for support nor yet so dependent in a strict legal sense was, nevertheless, in a material degree regularly partially dependent for support upon him."

The case comes to the Law Court on appeal by the defendants.

The appellee cites and relies upon a line of cases holding that the decision of a single justice in an equity cause will not be reversed by the Law Court unless clearly erroneous, and holding further that the burden of showing such error falls upon the appellant. This is true as to issues of fact, where the sitting justice enjoys the opportunity denied to the Law Court of observing and hearing witnesses by whom the facts are established. In passing upon questions of law he occupies no such vantage ground. The opinion of the single justice may produce conviction, but upon issues of law it brings with it no presumption.

The issue in this case is one of law. It rests upon the interpretation of the meaning of the word "dependent" in a written contract and the application of that interpretation to undisputed facts. The decision must be rendered in accordance with established legal principles.

The word "dependent" as used in this connection has been defined by this and other courts. As thus judicially interpreted it rests upon duty, not bounty, upon continuing obligation not occasional giving, upon services imposed or undertaken not upon favors voluntarily bestowed. True, the duty or obligation which it comprehends may be moral rather than legal, but the impulse that moves a brother to make gifts to his adult sister does not create the relation of dependency as the term is judicially defined.

The case of Supreme Lodge N. E. O. P. vs. Sylvester, 116 Maine 1, in which case dependency was held not to exist, is decisive of the case at bar. The details differ, but the essential facts are the same. In both the element of duty or obligation is wanting. For reasons set forth and upon authorities cited in the opinion in that case we hold that Margaret O'Leary was not a dependent of her deceased brother, William.

Appeal sustained.

Bill dismissed.

No costs.

Solving the National Emergency in Education.

By Elizabeth Harrison.

"We must not sacrifice, even in an emergency, the increased national efficiency which can be obtained only through organized training," is the warning issued by the Educational Committee of the American Federation of Labor.

Can this organization then not see the necessity that the kindergarten shall be added to all our public schools? For it is now a well established fact that it organizes a child's life and starts him along the right road of happy co-operation with other children, into a love of worth-while activities, into a realization that his hands can construct instead of destroy, with a love of happy, wholesome activities, and that it takes care of his physical condition, giving him right, wholesome out-of-doors activities and interests guarded and directed, but not checked.

The union label aims to become the paramount attraction and the imperative essential governing the salableness of everything in the land that is made or mined or moved.

CORRESPONDENCE

Detroit, Mich. Sept. 19, 1918.

At the request of the Label Board I send you this clipping and ask if you will please publish it in the Official Journal.

Fraternally yours,
(MISS) TESSA McKAY,
L. B. Secretary.

(Written by David S. Jones, Business Representative, Cigarmakers' Union, No. 22.)

Read about shameful labor conditions at San Telmo non-union cigar factories, corner Thirty-fifth street and Michigan avenue, west side, and Forest avenue east near St. Aubin avenue. This unfair firm make Pastora 10-cent brand of cigars. Those Little Lost Sisters are mostly foreign girls, and as many of them live at their so-called homes, they receive such starvation wages. They will excite much sympathy when real men and women get wise to those cheap, non-union cigar traps. Those half-grown cigar girls are victims of circumstances, who bear the burdens of their aristocratic masters in order to purchase ease for idle millionaires.

Beds Never Grow Cold.

Most of these poor cigar girls are married and have large families. The facts show they don't spend much time at their homes with their newborn babies. Thousands of babies died because they didn't get a mother's care. A married woman working in the San Telmo factory on Forest avenue east near St. Aubin avenue worked on Saturday, but did not come to work on Monday, and became the mother of a newborn baby Tuesday. Hundreds of those non-union cigar girls when they get married go back to the cigar factories in a few days. They don't enjoy the great benefit of a honeymoon like their aristocratic sisters. The slave driver of a foreman, who receives cheap wages, is sent by the aristocratic owners into their homes to get them to come to work at the non-union cigar traps that he might snatch the mothers from their babies and half-grown girls from school and home.

The Price the Scab Pays.

There are about 1,000 non-union cigar girls employed at San Telmo non-union cigar traps.

Non-union cigar girls employed at San Telmo receive $4.40 per thousand for rolling 10-cent cigars called Pastora.

Bunch-makers receive the sum of $2.25 per thousand 10-cent brand Pastora.

Total amount paid by San Telmo Cigar Company for Pastora 10-cent brand five-inch cigars, $6.65 per thousand.

Another girl states that she received the small sum of $3.75 per thousand for rolling Pastora 10-cent brand.

Each cigar girl victim is forced to give one Pastora 10-cent cigar with each hundred. When they are through with their day's work those cigars are made free and without pay. Each cigar girl makes about 2,000 Pastora cigars free every year. Those Pastora cigars are packed in cigar boxes and sold to cigar jobbers for about $70 per thousand. Cigar dealers receive $4.50 for a box of Pastoras, 50 in a box. Smokers pay at cigar stores 10 and 11 cents each for Pastora. Figure it out for the purpose of turning on the light of publicity against money-mad owners of the free cigar system.

Girls have the privilege of working many years in order to keep the wolf away from the door. (Hellish state of affairs.) They have the same conditions in the manufacturing of their 5-cent non-union cigars. Court Royal Pastora and other brands are sold to cigar jobbers from $35 to $40 per thousand; to the smoker six and seven cents each at cigar stores. Cigar girls receive from $3 to $5 per thousand.

Reasons and statements made by non-union cigar girls why Detroit aristocratic owners of big non-union cigar traps who love to be near the so-called homes of cheap female cigar workers. How can those poor cigar girls live an honest life? That is the reason why so many young girls go wrong today. Starvation wages and slavery conditions. Detroit's shame.

One hundred non-union cigar girls working under this system for one year make free 200,000; 200 girls for one year make free 400,000; 500 girls for one year make free 1,000,000; 1,000 girls for one year make free 2,000,000.

Mr. Smoker, note the prices paid for the same work by union label shops and San Telmo non-union shops, and hours of labor.

San Telmo non-union shops pay cigar girls $6.65 per thousand for making Pastora 10-cent cigars.

Their 5-cent brands, Pastora Court Royal and other brands, pay cigar girls from $3 to $5 per thousand.

Hours of labor—Shops open from 6:30 a. m. until 5:30 p. m.

Some cigar girls take five and ten minutes for their so-called dinner. Some go home and run right back again on the Pastora job.

Detroit non-union cigar factories who refuse to pay a living wage should go out of business.

Cigarmakers' Union, No. 22, union shop conditions, eight hours a day—Prices paid by Detroit union label cigar factories for same work on 10-cent cigars, $16 per thousand. Prices paid by Detroit union label cigar factories for same work on 5-cent cigars, low $9 to $13 per thousand.

Union No. 22 will not allow its members to make free cigars. We have no fine system in union shops.

Union 22's bill of prices provide for rates on different shapes.

All union cigar manufacturers are presented with union bill of prices for each shop.

Men and women receive the same pay for the same work in all union label shops.

Smoke Union-Made Cigars.

Brothers, demand union blue label cigars. They are a strong aid to unionism and will help to organize all Detroit non-union cigar factories.

Every 5 and 10 cents spent for Detroit non-union cigars helps to support those non-union cigar factories. Be a real union man and friend. Smoke union blue label cigars. It would mean a splendid labor organization of cigarmakers in Detroit and you would be helping a class of good American trade unionists, deserving of your support, and induce the cigar dealers whom you may patronize to carry Detroit union blue label cigars.

Denies Chairman Gompers Favors Compulsory Health Insurance for Workers Recruited by Government.

Matthew Woll, assistant to Samuel Gompers as chairman of the Committee on Labor, Advisory Commission, Council of National Defense, has issued the following statement:

During the month of July last Mr. Samuel Gompers, chairman of the Committee on Labor, Advisory Commission, Council of National Defense, recommended to Secretary William B. Wilson of the Department of Labor that medical examination of applicants for employment should be made one of the functions of the government labor recruiting agencies.

Inadvertently, or by design, the interpretation was immediately sent out from an unknown source expressing it as the belief that this action opened the way for the early adoption of social health insurance.

It is to be regretted that overzealous advocates of compulsory health insurance should thus endeavor to misinterpret the recommendation of the chairman of the Committee on Labor and create in the public mind the erroneous impression that Mr. Gompers favored compulsory health insurance and had undertaken to open the way for this sort of legislation.

Purpose of the Examination.

The purpose for which physical examination was urged was clearly and unmistakably set forth in the resolution adopted at a conference attended by representatives of labor, employers, industrial physicians and public health workers, and presided over by Mr. Gompers, and held in New York City, July 15, wherein the following purpose was clearly expressed:

"It is the sense of this conference that the physical examination of workers is primarily a measure of health conservation and also essential to maximum production—a war necessity.

"That the purpose of a medical examination is not to eliminate the worker from industrial service, but to adapt him to the work he is physically fitted for."

As a matter of fact and of pertinent information, the question of inaugurating a health insurance scheme was very recently considered by the Navy Department and an effort made to introduce it at the Hog Island Navy Yard plant. Protests were immediately presented by the workers involved, who resented this conditional employment scheme.

Attitude of A. F. L. Council.

The executive council of the American Federation of Labor was also appealed to by these workers, resulting in the following declaration by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, adopted at its meeting held July 23 to 28 at Atlantic City, N. J.:

"Resolved, That the executive council of the American Federation of Labor is opposed to any plan of compulsory insurance. So long as wage earners are capable of performing their work in a satisfactory and efficient manner, this should be sufficient qualification for them to secure and retain employment in shipyards or elsewhere without further restrictions."

The St. Paul convention of the American Federation of Labor, held during the month of June this year, also considered this subject and expressly declined to indorse compulsory health insurance, and directed instead the appointment of a special committee to investigate this entire subject and report its findings and conclusions to the next convention.

It is clearly evident from the foregoing definitely expressed attitudes that the committee on labor, of which Mr. Gompers is chairman, and the American Federation of Labor, of which he is its president, have at no time declared themselves in favor of compulsory health insurance, either as applied by the state or by private concerns, and that no action or recommendation made by Mr. Gompers had for its intent or purpose, or can be correctly interpreted and logically construed as opening the way for the adoption of compulsory health insurance, either state or private, notwithstanding reports to the contrary and regardless of from whatever source they may emanate.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16, 1918.

To the National, International and Directly Affiliated Local Unions.

Dear Sirs and Brothers—Under date of March 23, 1918, an appeal was sent out from the headquarters of the American Federation of Labor to all affiliated organizations for contribution of $1 from each local union to the fund to be created for the dissemination of information in regard to co-operative societies and the establishment of co-operative stores. This was done in pursuance of the action of the Buffalo Convention, which was quoted in the circular and which is herewith repeated for reference:

1. That a qualified trade unionist co-operator be appointed by the President of the American Federation of Labor to serve one year as lecturer and adviser on the practical work of Rochdale co-operation.

2. That this appointee shall have office room in the American Federation of Labor building in Washington, which shall be the center of information by correspondence and otherwise on the subject.

3. That he shall visit localities in which co-operative societies are in process of formation or have already been formed and give practical information to the officers and members of such societies, making out routes of travel for this purpose so as to conserve his time and perform the work at a minimum of expense.

4. That it shall be understood that central labor unions and local trade unions as such shall not form co-operative societies, but shall appoint committees from their membership to act in co-operation with other citizens who are in sympathy with the trade union movement in assisting the upbuilding of a general co-operative movement.

5. That every local trade union under the jurisdiction of the American Federation of Labor be requested to contribute the sum of $1 in order to establish successfully the Federation bureau for promoting and advancing the cause of true co-operation in the United States and Canada.

The amount received to date for the fund is $1,246.50, which you will realize is entirely inadequate to take up the work on the basis comprehended by the action of the Buffalo Convention.

The Executive Council at the meeting held in July, 1918, directed that another appeal should be issued to the organizations, urging those that had not contributed to this fund to do so.

Because of the levying of the special assessment to assist the American Federation of Labor in meeting the extra expenses created on account of special conferences and work in connection with the war, and the demands upon the treasuries of our affiliated organizations to meet that obligation, the matter of issuing this appeal has been held in abeyance.

It is now urged, however, that the National and International Unions advise their local unions upon this appeal and that the directly affiliated locals take the matter up at their next regular meeting and give it the support and consideration which is due a movement of so important a nature to the organized workers.

Contributions should be sent to Frank Morrison, Secretary of the American Federation of Labor, and official receipt will be issued therefor.

Fraternally yours,

FRANK MORRISON,
Secretary, American Federation of Labor.

New York, Feb. 25, 1919.

Would you kindly publish the following in the next issue of the Journal? The Joint Advisory Board of New York and Vicinity thank the following unions for their donations in assisting the packers in their late struggle for a uniform bill of prices: 39, $25; 141, $10; 3, $2; 192, $100; 110, $2; 172, $2; 25, $10; 316, $10; 335, $2; 144, $25; 44, $10; 202, $1; 227, $25; 171, $2; 97, $50; 332, $10; 73, $2; 491, $1; 178, $2; 192, $30; 282, $10; 7, $5; 76, $1; 192, $60; 192, $115.75; 192, $69, 192, $144; 60, $2. Total, $787.75.

Fraternally yours,

DAVID LEVY, Sec'y.

By Robert Hunter.

Today union men often spend $40 a month to destroy unionism where they give $1 a month to build up unionism.

The union men of this country, as a body, spend no less than $1,500,000,000 a year to purchase the necessities of life.

Every dollar of that immense sum that is spent for non-union goods is spent to break down the unions.

When a strike is on union men all over the country send their contributions to support the strike.

They do all in their power to support their brother unionists when they seem to be in trouble, but the little strike which you aid here and there by contributions is nothing compared with the evil your millions of dollars do in supporting non-union products.

When a unionist spends $40 a month buying scab products he is trying with a great big hand to pull down the unionism which his poor little dollar of dues to his union is trying to build up.

When a union man gives a dollar a month to support his union, he is very proud of himself as a good unionist. He thinks himself a philanthropist. Perhaps he thinks that miserable dollar a month will build up a powerful trade union movement. But it never can while he continues to put many dollars a month into 10-cent stores and the purchasing of the products of prison and scab labor which is cutting the very ground from under his union.

Reasons for Getting Ready for Loan.

(From Liberty Loan Press Bureau—Exclusive release to Cigarmaker's Journal.)

There are two reasons why you should begin to arrange now to make a large subscription to the Victory Liberty Loan drive in April.

Uncle Sam needs your money, but you, in far greater degree, need Uncle Sam's bonds.

The government has been paying the big bills of the war since the Fourth Loan. As everyone knows, the big demands on the pocketbook come when one has to pay the final bills for the winding up of any undertaking. The Fourth Loan paid off indebtedness incurred before last fall and carried the government through to December. Since the fourth campaign the biggest outlay of the whole war has been encountered, the military bills paid in November, December and January being heavier than in any other months. This was due to settling up with munitions producers and maintaining the army at its largest. Since February 1 the outlays have been decreasing and were it not for $1,000,000,000 and more still due it would be safe to say that the future expenses would decrease very rapidly. But the government has gone into debt $4,000,000,000 on these final bills and must borrow from the people in April at least five billions in order to see daylight.

As the cigarmakers of America gave their sons to fight for the country, and loaned their dollars to back them up, so they will have once more to turn over their savings in order to finish their part of the job so well carried through by the men under arms.

As regards the investment value of the bonds or notes there can be no question. The United States is the wealthiest of all nations and has a far smaller debt. The bonds will be paid off, dollar for dollar, upon the moment of their maturity, and in the meantime they will return a better rate of interest to the patriotic investor than he can usually obtain.

You owe it to yourselves to lay by a considerable reserve in safe investments against a day of adversity. This saving will be made easier by the fact that living prices are going down. On every hand we find evidences of a break from the war levels and by the time the new bonds are offered the consumers will have begun to notice, through the retail dealers, a change in cost levels.

The man who fails to make a large subscription to the bonds or notes of the Victory Loan will fall in two ways: in his duty to his country to help finish the job, and in his duty to himself and his family to invest as large a part as possible of his savings in an absolutely safe security against the day of trouble which is sure, sooner or later, to come to all.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Feb. 25, 1919.

The reason we ask the endorsement of our amendment is that we have so many Italian and Hebrew cigarmakers in New York and vicinity who are not members of the International Union because they claim they do not understand our International Union. Time and time again our organizer has invited them to attend our meetings and appealed to them to join the organization, but with poor results. Now something must be done to organize New York cigarmakers, because we need them. We are appealing to you members to endorse this amendment, which will help to organize New York.

THEO. BILLINGHEIMER, Sec'y.

George Washington Thriftograms.

The 137th anniversary of George Washington's birthday is being celebrated today. Washington, the successful builder of a nation, gave voice to rules for personal and national success which are as applicable in this 1919 year of necessary thrift as in his day. Here are some of his words on the use of money and resources that might have been written for the present situation in America:

I am no more disposed to squander than to stint.

Economy makes happy homes and sound nations. Instill it deep.

It is not the lowest priced goods that are always the cheapest.

I cannot enjoin too strongly upon you a due observance of economy and frugality.

Keep an account book and enter therein every farthing of your receipts and expenditures.

Promote frugality and industry by example, encourage manufacture, and avoid dissipation.

Reason, too late perhaps, may convince you of the folly of misspending time.

There is no proverb in the whole catalogue of them more true than a penny saved is a penny got.

Nothing but harmony, honesty, industry and frugality are necessary to make us a great and happy nation.

These statements by George Washington as to wise personal economy might be paraphrased today in the injunction of the National Thrift Campaign—spend wisely, save intelligently, avoid waste—and invest safely; buy War Savings Stamps and Thrift Stamps.

Some Job!

President Wilson has some job. He is President of the United States, commander-in-chief of the American army and navy, manager of the American railways, superintendent of American farms, director of European revolutions, wet nurse to a dozen infant republics, member of the Peace Conference, official note writer for the Allies, besides he is expected to right all wrongs, make crooked things straight, remove all obstructions from the path of civilization, bridge the chasms of race hatred, feed the starving of Europe, organize a league of nations, abolish war, beat swords into plowshares, spears into pruning forks, domesticate the Bolsheviks, establish a Jewish republic in Palestine, formulate an international code of morals, force England to grant Ireland her independence, prevent the Allies from fighting among themselves, umpire labor quarrels, enforce prohibition and select his successor for 1920.

Some job!—Exchange.

BUY U. S. WAR SAVINGS STAMPS.

Let's finish the victory at home, as they finished the job over there. The government is spending about $2,000,000,000 a month—paying the bills that had to be incurred to make the victory possible. The boys still are in Europe. Every man of them has a right to the best food, clothing, care and recreation. The plainest rule of gratitude and fairness dictates that we must give the best we have to men who offered their lives so gloriously for us and the nation.

The union label aspires to attain that might of influence when to vend unlabeled goods will brand the vendor as a dealer in contraband; a sweater; a business buccaneer; a Minotaur, fattening on the blood of women and children; a mercantile Ishmaelite whom society will cast out as a thing too unclean for touch by honest hands.

Government is not reason; it is not eloquence—it is force! Like fire, it is a dangerous servant and a fearful master; never for a moment should it be left to irresponsible action.—George Washington.

Report of International Financier.

Ybor City, Fla., March 8, 1919.
Since last report have examined the accounts of the following unions, viz:

Union 170, W. Palm Beach, Fla.

The accounts here are in very fair condition. Benefit cards and vouchers for expense all on file. Cash and stamp accounts correct. Several members here, fairly active. This means the trade will be watched after and working conditions naturally better. Statement as follows:

Union 229, Miami, Fla.

The books and accounts here are now in very fair condition. The secretary seems to receive very little help from the members. I can believe this from how most of them stand in the ledger. Why not get right, be regular members of the union? Join the "I Will Help Club." Statement as follows:

The books and accounts "here" are now in the best condition I ever found them in. Secretary Pinder is also City Clerk, but manages to attend to the duties of secretary better than ever. Cash and stamp accounts correct. More money on hand than the secretary wanted and I am told he will attend to depositing it in bank in the future rather than wait for treasurer to call for it. Benefit cards and vouchers for expense nicely filed. Statement as follows:

Our old secretary, R. Torres, was compelled to resign because of his health. The continuous friction here seems to be enough to get most anyone. Members that stop paying dues suspend themselves immediately. Everybody knows that when we owe 8 dues on a Saturday and do not pay any that we owe over 8 weeks and are on the 90-day limit. Read the last of Section 176, then get busy and refund your deficiency. Do not wait—commence at once. Statement as follows:

The accounts of this union are in very bad condition. Ledgers not posted. Day book lost for the year 1917. No vouchers on file. Sick cards should be sent each week; also a visiting committee. Members not notified of assessments and Journals never sent to the jurisdiction members.

The constitution should and must be enforced. Sections 73 and 74 are particularly the points on which this trouble started. Read them carefully and live up to them and you will have no further trouble.

Use Your Power of Purchase.

Do not assist in keeping down the standard of wages and conditions desired by the members of your organization by patronizing non-union establishments. The only way you can avoid doing this is by purchasing no goods unless they bear the union label. Any thing not bearing the label should be considered as the product of non-union labor.

Does the organization to which you belong have a union label, shop card or button? If so, you want others to demand it and patronize it. You should reciprocate and purchase no goods that do not bear the union label.

Money expended for goods bearing the union label is assisting to give employment to union men. Money expended for non-union made goods gives employment to scabs and assists in keeping down the standard of living of the American working man.

The union label is the "In Hoc Signo Vinces" of the crusade to rescue the child from the workshop, factory and mill; the woman from the sweatshop and tenement house, and the millions of labor from the clutches of greed, degradation and poverty.

Making Up Our Educational Deficit.

By Elizabeth Harrison.

"Educated manhood and womanhood is the Nation's greatest asset, both in peace and in war," has been asserted by the Committee on Education of the American Federation of Labor.

Now that our college and high school attendance is diminished the deficit in education should be made up at the other end of the line—in the kindergarten. The children of the Nation should begin earlier to form proper habits as well as be associated co-operatively in a community of their equals; in other words, intelligent democracy should begin not at the sixth or seventh year of a child's life, when the most impressionable period of his existence has already been passed and his affections and interests have already been rightly or wrongly directed, but that this training should begin when, at the age of 3 or 4 years, he begins to manifest his desire for companions of his own age.

In too many homes the companionship of adults only warps and dwarfs the child's initiative, and in too many other homes the haphazard direction of a child's interests and activities at this formative age is left entirely to chance, when in reality it should be most carefully considered and sympathetically and wisely guarded.

National Efficiency Rests Upon Thorough Education.

By Elizabeth Harrison.

The Federation of Labor has put itself on record as declaring that it considers that national efficiency rests upon thorough education. This is the conviction of the men who did much to make American arms successful in the great world conflict.

They can do, and I hope will do, much more in seeing to it that their little children shall have the same advantage all over the country that are now granted to the favored localities where kindergartens have become a part of the public school system.

There is every indication that Liberty Loan bonds, issued during the war, will greatly rise in value with the establishment of peace. In 1888 a $100 United States bond, bearing 4 per cent interest, sold in the open market for $130. In 1901 it brought more than $139. The most conservative will agree that Liberty bonds are sure to go above par in value, now that the Allies have brought the war to a victorious end.

The shrewd and unscrupulous, the birds of prey in finance, realize the worth of Liberty bonds and are using every effort to secure them from those who are uninformed in financial matters. Their favorite method is to offer stock in wildcat companies—stock that is absolutely valueless—in exchange for Liberty bonds. Some of these get-rich-quick schemers offer to lend their prospective victims money wherewith to buy the gold-brick stock, taking Liberty bonds as security. This, of course, is only a thinly disguised attempt to obtain Liberty bonds for worthless stock.

The United States owns some 5,000,000 acres of oil lands and 53,000,000 acres of coal lands, the title to which belongs to the Federal Government. Since all owners of Liberty bonds are part owners of this Government, it would be palpably foolish of them to exchange their Liberty bonds for oil or coal stocks of doubtful value.

Before disposing of his bonds the holder thereof would do well to consult a banker. Such consultation will not prosper the fake stock concerns, but it certainly will prosper the bond holder.

The union label, shop card or button stands for the glory, the advancement and the solidarity of the sacred cause of organized labor.

The Union Label.

Members of labor organizations in the United States and Canada earn four million dollars per day on an average. Think what would be the result if this money were all expended for products bearing the union label.

Strikes would be eliminated.

All just demands of the workers would be complied with and no labor organization would be without recognition.

See that your money all goes for union-labeled goods.

Why should not union workmen live in houses built by union labor and with the union label over the door?

Do you realize that every time you buy non-union made goods you become an employer of "scab" labor and therefore a labor oppressor. Buy only union labeled goods.

Organized labor should patronize organized labor. The only way to do this is to buy no goods unless they bear the union label.

If all members of labor organizations would spend their earnings only for goods bearing the union label they would in very short time be able to obtain the conditions they desire without being forced to strike to secure justice.

The Chicago Federation of Labor has decided that every delegate must be able to show at least eight labels on his wearing apparel. This ought not to be a hard matter for a real trade unionist.

State of Trade March 1, 1919.

SPECIAL.

Section 134 distinctly and plainly states "No sick or out of work benefit shall be paid to members adjudged insane." All amounts so paid are illegal. No dues shall be collected from an insane member.

Always refer to your Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 30c to the 20c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Members who while at work refuse or fail to pay per cent on loans suspend themselves without any action of the secretary.

In several instances where cards have been stolen from members secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book and in proper condition.

UNION BUSINESS

In accordance with Sections 58, 59 and 60 of the Constitution, the following unions are hereby notified and requested to remit the following amount of defraying the ex-

367 O	Vincennes 50
368 P	Red Wing 50
370 J	Quakertown ... 150
373 M	Marquette 100
375 A

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privileges in dues unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such reports the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per Section 149, give full record of membership as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity of complying with the request carefully study Section 144c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal wills" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

Section 144c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there be no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there be no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death were dependent for support in whole or in part.

The International Union cannot authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children, and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefit rests entirely with such members.

In order to avoid confusion when a Class A member changes from 15-cent dues to 30-cent dues secretaries under the law are to give such members one-half time on length of membership, and write the following in ink in the due book: "Change from Class A to 30-cent due paying class. Time on full benefits commences (computed on basis of one-half time)." Should such member desire to travel he should be given a new due book and traveling card, both of which should give the date of initiation computed on the above mentioned basis, and the words "Changed From Class A" written on both due book and traveling card. Whenever a Class A 15-cent member changes to a 30-cent membership secretaries should always so state on their monthly reports, and record the transactions on their books.

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

In compliance with Section 184 of the Constitution, the International Executive Board levied a running weekly assessment, to replenish the General Fund, of 20c on each 30-cent, 20-cent and 15-cent member, and 10c on Class A members. The assessment commences on Feb. 3, 1919, and continues until the General Fund reaches the constitutional requirement.

Note.—The 25c assessment continues up to Feb. 3, 1919.

Section 73 provides that "all dues and assessments of members receiving benefits shall be deducted from such benefits." This means any benefit and all dues and assessments. If a member has $5.00 sick benefit coming and owes 8 dues and assessments he would receive just 60 cents in cash and credit for 8 dues and assessments.

Secretaries holding cards of members owing private loans to Union 118, Peoria, please collect percentage and remit.

Members owing private loans to Union 394, Sycamore, will please pay up as our local fund is exhausted. Secretaries please take notice.

If Wm. Kohimler (103020) doesn't pay the private loan due Union 117, Pine Bluff, before the next issue of the Journal he will be suspended.

BUREAU OF INFORMATION

David Schott would like to hear from Ralph Schilling and Harry Hescher. Care Union 221, South Bend, Ind.

M. A. Timmins, 1703 Jackson street, Sioux City, Ia., would like to hear of J. J. Breen and L. E. Griffith.

F. Ranes, 5 Onida street, Brantford, Ont., would like to hear from his brother, Arthur Rains. Important.

Gustaas Brodelet is requested to correspond with Ed Roman, 11 Appleton street, Boston, Mass.

Private Morris Nott, 342d F. A., Battery D, A. E. F., would like to hear from Sig. Rottenstein, Joe Dalett and Antone Cabot.

The union label appeals not to force, but to reason; establishes confidence in place of fear; makes no one ashamed; but, on the contrary, invites and encourages the people to take pride in well-doing.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

(Do not endorse two or more amendments together. Send in a separate endorsement for each amendment that you wish to endorse.)

Union 132, Brooklyn, proposes the following amendment to the Constitution of the C. M. I.

Union 97, Boston, submits the following amendment to the Constitution:

That the President of the C. M. I. U. of A. shall call a convention of the International Union at the earliest possible date after submitting this amendment to a referendum vote, and after same has been approved by a majority vote of the members, the Executive Board shall select the city in which said convention shall be held. The President is authorized to stipulate date for notification and the appointment of committee on constitution.

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

(An amendment takes effect the first of the month following the publication of notice of its adoption in the Official Journal.)

Amendments adopted since the June 15, 1917, edition of the constitution:

By 208, Kalamazoo, Mich.: To amend Section 154 by adding after the word "bunches," on line 23, "nor which pays less than $10.00 per thousand for hand work, less than four molds of 10 bunches each with press on table, or two 20-bunch molds in shaper press, to be considered hand work."

In effect Nov. 1, 1917.

Take Notice.—The amendment of 238, Sacramento, Calif., takes the place of the 132, Brooklyn, amendment, and supersedes all other amendments reference war retiring cards and benefits. The amendment, published elsewhere in this Journal, says: "This amendment shall govern all other sections which deal with benefits of such members who may be doing military duty or are beyond the boundary lines as defined in our constitution."

By 238, Sacramento, Calif.: War Retiring Card Amendment:

(a) That the President of the International Cigarmakers' Union cause to be printed a War Retiring Card, to read as follows:

(b) This is to certify that Mr., Card No., Initiated by, When, has entered the service of (U. S. or Allies' Army or Navy), and is entitled to all benefits as may be contained in the War Retiring Card Amendment.

Pres. C. M. I. U.
Signed—

....., Local Pres.
....., Fin. Sec.

(c) Any member who may by draft or voluntary enlistment enter the service of the United States Army or Navy or the service of the Army or Navy of any allied country, during this period of war, shall be entitled to a War Retiring Card, provided such member is in good standing at the time of his or her application for a War Retiring Card.

(d) Any member who is a holder of a War Retiring Card shall be exempt from all dues, fines and assessments, and upon his or her re-entrance in the actual making or packing of cigars shall be entitled to his or her original card from which he or she was transferred, with all benefits as entitled to from date of initiation, except for such time as he or she was holding a War Retiring Card.

(e) Any member holding a War Retiring Card shall be entitled to his or her original card free of charge.

(f) All transfers shall be made at regular or executive board meetings.

(g) Applications for transfer to the War Retiring Card may be made in writing.

(h) All cards from which members transfer to the War Retiring Card shall be sent to the International President to be kept on file.

(i) It shall be the duty of the International President to have sufficient War Retiring Cards printed, which shall be distributed to all local unions.

(j) No benefits shall be paid to any member while holding a War Retiring Card.

(k) This amendment shall govern all other sections which deal with benefits of such members who may be doing military duty or are beyond the boundary lines as is defined by our constitution.

In effect March 1, 1918.

By Union 90, New York:

Strike out in Sec. 92 all from second line after wages till September, on line 10, and insert "from December 15 until January 15."

Section to read:

No strike shall be approved or sustained by the International Union for an increase in wages between the 15th day of December until the 15th day of January of any year.

But this shall in nowise preclude the approval of strikes against the reduction of wages or the truck system, or against the introduction of tenement house work.

In effect January 1, 1919.

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and, in addition, send in such cards, but place in your letter the information necessary, as the letter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 148 to 149, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted resolutions of respect and condolence relative to death or deaths as follows and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days:

Union 165, Philadelphia, Pa.—August Wagner (30359), J. S. Pfeifer (75905) and El. Loschenkohl (58315), lifelong staunch unionists who were ever for the progress of labor.

LOST CARDS

Henry Meinhardt (112005)—Init. July 8, 1916. at No. 79; lost Feb. 23, 1919.

Wm. R. Williams (644)—Init. April 15, 1915, at No. 501; lost March 8, 1919.

UNION NOTES

Something from Union 97: Why, of course, we cannot afford to be stagnant.—In Boston, as in many other cities, they removed the smokers from the elevated and surface cars, and we will present a petition containing 60,000 signatures to have them restored. Go and do likewise.—In all our large cities you will fail to find cigars bearing the blue label of the C. M. I. U. Some hotel keepers sell the cigar privilege. Union 97 believes these things can be remedied and the president is determined it shall be and has succeeded in having the Hotel Association recommend to hotels the placing of domestic cigars in their cases.—We gave nearly $2,500 to the mill workers of Lawrence now on strike for an eight-hour day without loss of pay.—Yes, we are going to fight prohibition.—As soon as confidence is restored we shall have a business boom.—No reduction in wages; no lowering the standard of living.—Boys, if ever we needed a convention we need it now. Second our amendment and give our membership a chance to vote on it.—Don't forget to support the Buffalo amendment. Our label is too large.—If you desire to retain what you have don't forget the other fellow's label or his union card. The mere paying of dues does not make a union man.—Every state ought to have a Free State University wher tuition and text books would be free.

D. Sugden, secretary of Union 224, Salt Lake City, Utah, is very anxious to get in touch with J. Blits (186) and M. C. Hoffman (7397).

C. Hocrook would like to know the whereabouts of H. L. Dunn (28508). Secretary holding his card will confer a favor by notifying him, care of Union 192, Manchester, N. H.

Secretary John Reichert of Union 25, Milwaukee, Wis., would like to hear from the union holding the card of Ph. Kempf (46381).

Michael Park, sergeant-at-arms of Union 97, Boston, would like to hear from Joseph Adolph (38188). Address 11 Appleton street.

Secretary holding card of Anthony Zimmerman (26514) please notify Union 12, Onelda.

Secretary John Reichert of Union 25, Milwaukee, Wis., would like to hear from J. L. Tracey, who worked at Lancaster, N. Y., last fall.

Secretaries are requested to instruct members to keep away from London, Ont., as trade is very bad, the strike is still on at the Tuckett Cigar Company, and there are fifty members out of work.

If Fred Thomas (97341) will send his address to Union 179, Bangor, he will receive something due him.

Union 455, Galena, Ill., would like to hear from Thomas Lyons (101848) of Anaconda, Mont.

Union 183, Mendota, Ill., would like to hear from J. J. Johnson (15959).

Any union having the card of Fred J. Gardner please notify Union 74, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. He was granted a transfer 20-cent membership. Last heard of at New Haven, Conn.

Don't Forget It.

Keep on shouting for "old Glory"
Just as hard as you are able;
In the meantime be consistent—
Don't forget the Union label.

There is a satisfaction in asking for an article bearing the union label that is not felt when you accept a non-union article on the clerk's advice that it is just as good. You know the statement is not true, but how many of us fall for bunk that the dealer uses so that he may not miss a sale?

The great war just brought to a conclusion has brought a new concept and a long deferred desire for achievement into the minds and hearts of the masses here and elsewhere.

Freedom and

The struggle to make the world safe for democracy did not end with the war. The war and its conclusion made it possible to continue that struggle with greater confidence and more determination, and with bright prospects for success.

As great a responsibility rests upon right thinking men and women to continue the struggle now as during the war. To maintain freedom and democracy in its truest concept is the heritage and the highest duty that can devolve upon a free people. The war has quickened the impulse and the aspiration of all the peoples of all countries. This has given the opportunity to exploit many schemes, most of which are undesirable and impossible of achievement, which has caused unlimited confusion and a wrong viewpoint, and some misconception as to what constitutes true democracy.

What is democracy? In essence it means liberty—freedom of action, economically, socially, politically and in religious matters, of all individuals and groups so long as the exercise of this liberty does not interfere with the rights and liberties of others, and is obedient to fundamental laws necessary for the maintenance and guidance of society and associated action under municipalities, states and the Federal Government. This admits of no caste or class movement, nor interference with the inherent right and freedom of political action, that is the right of the individual to vote in the political state as he pleases.

Our forefathers, disputing the divine right of kings and potentates and class rule, religious intolerance, and the denial of the right of suffrage and of the right to cast their ballot as their own conscience dictated, turned their faces westward and traced their steps toward the land of the setting sun. Here in the wilderness of America, braving death and hardships in a thousand ways, they established the home of freedom with democracy as its ever shining and guiding star. With this priceless heritage ever in mind, progress toward the establishment of the twin companion to democracy, justice, has been more rapid than in any other place in the world.

While the fulfillment of the hopes and ambitions of labor and of the great mass of our people is a long way from full achievement, there is no question that we are on the right road and should not be crowded into the by-ways by the false jewels of glittering fancies, which, the logic of sound reasoning has taught those able to think, logically lead to everlasting destruction.

America, unhampered by tradition, has a destiny to fulfill. The whole future scheme of life and advanced civilization must be worked out here in our glorious republic. Resolute men and women with the courage of their convictions must stand solidly for that which leads to a fulfillment of our expectations—a government that will mean freedom and justice for all, regardless of class or calling. In the beginning of the struggle of our heroic forebears it was necessary to adopt a constitution which guaranteed among other things the right of suffrage and the right to vote as one's own conscience dictates without restraint from any organization, military, civic, fraternal, or economic. If we are to carry forward and achieve the high result and our destiny, that right must be kept inviolable; the moment we depart from this policy and permit associations outside of the voluntary political associations to dictate, we turn our back upon the whole plan of democracy, justice, and the true essence of freedom.

We should hold a convention; it is absolutely necessary. There are many and

A Conven- important matters in which tion. the welfare, advancement and best interests of our members are concerned that cannot be properly discussed and acted upon under our referendum system. We committed a serious mistake in failing to hold a convention for 16 years, and it has now been nearly 7 years since the Baltimore convention; are we going to commit the same folly by losing another 16 years?

The chief argument against the convention is the cost. The cheapest and best thing the International Union can do is to hold a convention and the sooner that is held the better it will be for the future of the International Union. Events happen with startling rapidity in these progressive times, and the surest and best way that we can and should keep abreast of the times and conditions affecting us as an organization is to hold conventions at least once every five years. We have now gone nearly two years over the extreme limit.

It should be remembered that we are a labor organization, and as such there are some things that prudence and self preservation provide that we should not fully and openly discuss in our official journal. This idea and principle is not wholly unlike a general in the war. If General Foch had printed in a bulletin and issued it in advance of every strategic movement he intended to make, he would have been court-martialed and shot for treason. On the economic field of battle, while we have no secrets, it is not always advisable to publish too broadly all of our strategic movements, hence the necessity of representative meeting in convention, where these trade matters can be discussed openly.

There is a vast difference between a political organization and a purely economic trade union. This difference cannot be disregarded without grave danger to both institutions. A political organization under the constitution and laws of the United States is a purely voluntary organization and embraces within its folds people of all trend of thought, workers of brawn and brain, and in all walks of life. These people may be able to agree upon purely political matters but will disagree on purely economic matters, hence the necessity of the maintenance of purely economic organizations or trade unions, which are fundamental to the purpose of caring for our economic condition such as wages, hours of labor, and working conditions. The people in a given trade, while bitterly disagreeing in political matters, can agree on the question of wages, hours of labor and working conditions.

Both institutions—trade unions and political parties—are necessary to maintain and advance justice, democracy, freedom, life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. Experience has taught, however, that each institution can function better and progress more rapidly and with greater accomplishments if each is confined to its own legitimate, natural sphere.

The very birthright of freedom is at stake. We cannot turn back; we would not if we could. We assume our full responsibility and call upon all others to do likewise. We realize that without democracy and self-government there would be no freedom and no future for labor. In the face of these high purposes and in the firm resolve to achieve them, we have in mind that the standards of life and of liberty heretofore obtained through trade union activity shall not be destroyed, and that now and ever after the standard of life for labor shall conform more nearly to the higher conception of justice, and moreover that the men and women of labor shall have the fullest opportunity to work and live in decency, and to maintain their economic independence.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

There are over 90,000 women employed by the newspapers in the United States.

* * *

The first wage conference held under the new minimum wage law for women in private employ in the District of Columbia reported a minimum wage of $15.50 per week.

* * *

Eighty thousand women clerks, stenographers, accountants and other office workers have joined trades union organizations during the past year, according to the Washington office of the National Women's Trade Union league. Many of these women are employed in railroad offices, others in the various branches of the federal civil service.

* * *

Requests for female workers to the United States employment service have decreased 48 per cent since the signing of the armistice. During the same period registrations by women for employment have decreased only 12 per cent.

* * *

During the first 11 months of 1918, 2,205 men were killed by coal-mine accidents, as compared with 2,395 for the same months in 1917.

* * *

The war labor board decided unanimously for the adoption of a 48-hour week for nearly 110,000 workers in 486 silk mills in the New York district.

Iowa's house of representatives passed the senate measure, declaring that human labor is not a commodity or an article of commerce, and permitting organization of unions for the purpose of bettering conditions of workers.

* * *

The state of Ohio has issued an interesting industrial report, which shows that $1,000,000,000, in round numbers was paid by Ohio employers in wages and salaries to workers in all industries during 1917. The report was compiled by the chief statistician of the state industrial commission. The number of workers was 1,285,167, exceeding by 100,000 the total reported employed in 1916. In the mines and quarries the number of workers rose from 51,200 to 63,000 and their earnings increased from $28,000,000 to $51,000,000.

Eighty per cent of the billion-dollar payroll reached persons engaged in the manufacturing industries. There were 800,000 wage-earners, 60,000 bookkeepers, stenographers and office clerks and 5,600 non-traveling salespeople in all branches of manufacture.

"School Life," official organ of the United States Bureau of Education, appeals to the nation and to the various states to act jointly in a campaign to remove illiteracy. It is estimated that there are 8,500,000 persons in the United States over 10 years of age who cannot read a newspaper, billboard, sign, booklet or letter in the English language. "This problem is national," says "School Life." "The south leads in illiterates. The north leads in non-English speaking. Seventeen and one-half per cent of the people of the east south central states are illiterate, but 15.8 per cent of the people in Passaic, N. J., cannot read, speak or write English. Sixteen per cent of the people of the south Atlantic states are illiterates and so are 13.2 per cent of the people of Lawrence and Fall River, Mass.

It has often been said in similar language—but here it is again for all it is worth:

The way to make friends is to be friendly; the way to promote fraternity is to be brotherly; the way to secure harmony is to yield pleasantly to the will of the majority; the way to be happy is to make others happy; the way to conquer an enemy is to return good for evil; the way to secure the respect of your union is to show deference for the opinion of those who differ with you, and instead of kicking at everything that is done, put your shoulder to the wheel and help roll it along; the way to make yourself a useful member of the union is to take part in the deliberations of the union—not at the street corner, but in the meeting halls; the way to work for the good of the union is to induce other members to read the Journal, and other literature issued by the union and thus keep abreast of the times; the way to make your life bright is to carry sunshine with you.

And finally, the way to be a true member is to do unto others as you would have them do unto you.

It now appears that the Anti-tobacco movement is about to be launched.

The regulation of the habits and customs of the masses has become the favorite "Indoor Sport" of many ambitious legislators and Reform is always a hobby-horse which professional, paid, reformers ride to the end of the rainbow. Many sincere, although sadly misguided, mortals who have a burning desire to "Elevate"? mankind fall in behind the bell-mare and willingly furnish the fodder that actuates the entire procession.

The Independent Retail Tobacconists of New York at a recent meeting gave the proposition serious consideration and voted to have printed and distributed pamphlets giving their side of the question to the public and adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, That we, as tobacco men, desire to continue the agitation to protect the trade against reformers that would stop the sale and use of tobacco. It is necessary that the public understand that we are doing all we can to show that the tobacco industry is a legitimate occupation and is not conducted by thugs, gamblers or men who are not good members of society. This Association assumes the responsibility of its members' reputation; that we are merchants of stores and employ honest means in conducting our stores, and the same are open to the public to examine at any time they desire as to their methods of doing business.

"Resolved, That we invite the public to investigate fully our business, as we have nothing to deceive and want co-operation between ourselves and the public."

While it may appear that this anti-tobacco campaign is of little consequence at the present time, and that it will not hurt our trade in any way, it is well to remember that former prohibition movements were allowed to grow and become strong through our inactivity and lack of co-operation.

Every cigar manufacturer, cigar-maker and cigar dealer should immediately form a relative national organization and proceed to further a campaign of publicity that will rout the "Antis" in the early stages of the game.

As cigar-makers, our organization for defense is well in hand and it now becomes our duty to prove to the manufacturer and to the dealer that if they expect to survive they should co-operate with us.

Manufacturers who operate shops wherein children, or underpaid help is worked long hours at a wage not sufficient to maintain a decent standard of living cannot hope to successfully meet the criticism that will be leveled their way, nor can a dealer perpetuate a business based on the sale of goods produced under unfair conditions.

Let us organize and show the world that the cigar and tobacco business is one that pays a living wage to adult labor and that its conditions are not a menace to health or society. Is it not better that we co-operate and meet the common enemy with a united front than to engage them with our own ranks in a state of continuous warfare?

Through the Liberty Loan campaigns and the various drives in War Relief work the people have learned to use the label. They look for the button showing that the other fellow, too, is "fair" and is doing his part toward "Making the world a decent place to live in." The Union Label in civil life or in war's turmoil stands for just that. Keep them used to Labels and all that they stand for by an intensive campaign for label goods, for after all the Union Label on an article is proof sufficient that every one concerned in its production and sale have received a fair and democratic distribution of its cost and selling price.

Review and General Trade Statistics.

Despite the fact that generous nature is rapidly erasing the scars of war from the face of Europe's broken fields and is fast making what was yesteryear a shell torn "No man's land" into a verdant, pasture Big Business is still nursing her imaginary wounds and doing little to improve conditions. Conditions made bad not by the ravages of war so much as by the ever unsatisfied greed for profit from the war.

In reviewing the situation we find there has been a continuous decline in the rate of steel buying, except for the spurt that occurred late in March from the release of orders held back in anticipation of the price reductions made at the instance of the industrial board at Washington. There has at the same time been gradual exhaustion of old orders, the result being that while the mills operated at 87 per cent of capacity in January they operated at only 77 per cent in March and in the past month they operated at about 60 per cent.

This condition must soon improve as there are no considerable stocks on hand for the development that is bound to follow the last few years of stagnation and for rehabilitation. The aggregate production of steel rails in 1918, according to the American Iron & Steel Institute, was 2,533,675 gross tons, the smallest output since 1915, when the production was 2,204,203 tons.

The 1918 output compares with 2,944,161 tons the previous year and 2,854,518 tons in 1916.

Coal production, dependent to a great extent on other industry, is at a standstill and there is no immediate danger of "Heatless Mondays." (Especially in view of the approaching summer-time). Production of both anthracite and bituminous coal stands at a total of about 50 per cent of full-time output, and most of this shortage is caused by lack of orders, according to reports furnished by the Geological Survey and announced by the United States Fuel Administration. This condition has existed approximately since Christmas time, and in fact production has been at a low ebb ever since the signing of the armistice, on November 11. The demand for coal has been gradually falling off all during the mild winter, with a corresponding decline in production records.

The Boston News bureau claims a 1,000,000,000 pound surplus of copper and other metal products of the mine seem as a drug on an inactive market.

Yet in the face of this depression we, as a nation, are not downcast, nor is there reason for the general gloom that is continuously emanating from certain quarters. This gloom is intensified and given publicity with the hope of further bewildering the workers and the interests hope to be able under its cover to reduce wages, "Wages" being the cause of the depression if we are to believe all they tell us.

We will do well to remember that whatever crises have arisen in the past, we have successfully met them. We've made good so far and there is no cause to worry for while the United States has only 6 per cent of the world's population and 7 per cent of the world's land, yet we produce as follows:

Twenty per cent of the world's supply of gold.

Twenty-five per cent of the world's supply of wheat.

Forty per cent of the world's supply of iron and steel.

Forty per cent of the world's supply of lead.

Forty per cent of the world's supply of silver.

Fifty-two per cent of the world's supply of coal.

Sixty per cent of the world's supply of aluminum.

Sixty per cent of the world's supply of copper.

Sixty per cent of the world's supply of cotton.

Sixty-two per cent of the world's supply of oil.

Seventy-five per cent of the world's supply of corn.

Eighty-five per cent of the world's supply of automobiles.

We also refine 80 per cent of the world's copper and operate 40 per cent of the world's railroads.

A nation with the above record and having the best system of Government so far evolved, composed of an educated, industrious and level-headed people, need have no fear of famine or of anarchy the thing which famine breeds.

Reports from the Federal-State Employment Service show that while employment is still far from the war-time high mark it is improving fast and figuring on the same proportional increase for the next few weeks will be at the pre-war basis. In some lines there is an actual shortage of labor at the present time, especially farm labor, where even at this date, which is before the annual cry for harvest hands, the farmers are asking the agencies in the cities to send many thousands of men to them at a 72% increase over pre-war wages.

Agriculture Department figures indicate that farm wages this year will exceed $1,000,000,000.

According to statistics gathered by the Department of Labor, there are now being held up for various reasons 3,226 public projects, approximating more than a billion and a quarter dollars. There are also 2,999 private projects upon which work is being delayed. These approximate five hundred million dollars of construction work. Together, there is nearly two billion dollars worth of public and private construction work being held up in the country, apportioned among all the states, from Vermont's four public projects, valued at $1,032,500, to the 220 public projects in Illinois, worth $130,877,476.

Exports continued to show great strength in February, the total reaching $588,000,000 in value, according to a statement issued by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce.

This is a falling off from the record January total of $623,000,000, but as there were only 28 days in February, the daily average would appear to be even higher than in January. The total for the month represents an increase of approximately 43 per cent over the $411,000,000 for February of last year. Exports for the eight months ended with February were valued at $4,386,000,000 as compared with $3,862,000,000 for the corresponding period of the previous year.

February imports are announced as $235,000,000, a gain over the $213,000,000 for January, and over the $208,000,000 for February, 1918.

Exports from the United States during March were valued at $605,000,000, as compared with $588,000,000 in February and $523,000,000 in March, 1918. Imports during March were $268,000,000, as against $242,000,000 a year ago.

The latest report of the Bureau of Insular Affairs gives some interesting statistics on the wonderful development of Philippine cigar industry and trade. A partial review of the report follows:

In value, exports of cigars and tobacco from the Philippines to the United States jumped from $1,383,055 in 1916 to $2,478,052 in 1917 and then soared to $4,488,208 in 1918.

The commerce of the Philippine Islands is practically seven times as much as in the period immediately preceding their annexation to the United States twenty years ago, and their trade with the United States is 35 times as much as in the year preceding annexation.

Manila hemp, cocoanut oil, copra, sugar, tobacco and cigars are the principal articles forming the rapidly growing export trade, which has grown from $15,000,000 in 1899 to $136,000,000 in 1918.

EXPORTS.

	Twelve months ending December
	1917		1918
Cigars—	Quantity.	Value.	Quantity.	Value.

We assert, without fear of successful contradiction, that no organization can long endure or enjoy security and reasonable content and develop a proper psychology of the masses, if in any way it attempts to restrict by compulsions, the right to vote as one's conscience dictates.

* * *

No sane person will attempt to deny the right of the people to form and maintain political parties, regardless of what their fundamental purpose may be. There is, however, well grounded opposition to combining our purely economic movement with purely political movements.

* * *

The trade union movement has a destiny just as great and as important as the destiny of our political government. However, in this respect the trade unions are neither narrow nor limited; as a matter of fact, their sphere of usefulness and activity is nine times greater and more important and far reaching than are the activities and purposes of the political state. After all the material well-being and good condition, insofar as wages, hours, and working conditions of the masses is concerned, is of paramount importance. A political state, though it be the freest on earth, cannot properly care for the working conditions of the masses; that duty and obligation must be left now and for all time to the workers themselves, to our economic or trade organization. If this policy is adhered to it will lead straight to industrial democracy, justice, and freedom.

TRADE NOTES.

Complete Government reports for the month of February are shown in the following classified table. Included in the appended table is the report of tax-paid products from Porto Rico for February, and the tax-paid products from the Philippines for January, 1919:

Cigars, Class A, No.	74,763,560
Cigars, Class B, No.	247,296,858
Cigars, Class C, No.	150,973,532
Cigars, Class D, No.	1,459,590
Cigars, Class E, No.	1,836,407

Total	476,329,947
Small Cigars, No.	60,138,630
Large Cigarettes, No.	1,990,425
Small Cigarettes, No.	3,126,274,662

Total Cigarettes	3,128,265,087
Snuff, pounds	2,585,226
Tobacco, pounds	27,472,269

Tax-paid products from Porto Rico for February, 1919:

Cigars, Class A, No.	2,000
Cigars, Class B, No.	597,478
Cigars, Class C, No.	994,325
Cigars, Class D, No.	75

Total	1,593,875
Small Cigarettes, No.	2,364

Tax-paid products from the Philippine Islands for January, 1919:

Cigars, Class A, No.	1,680,700
Cigars, Class B, No.	19,335,470
Cigars, Class C, No.	760,285

Total	21,776,455
Small Cigarettes, No.	518,029

Total output of cigars and cheroots during February amounted to 476,329,947, against 555,137,877 for the same time last year, a decrease of 78,807,930 for the month of February, 1919.

There were 60,138,630 small cigars produced during February, compared with 66,306,271 in the same month of last year, which represents a decrease of 6,167,641 as compared with the corresponding month of 1918.

Cigars were produced to the amount of 995,036,429 in the two months of the calendar year, against 1,326,860,318 in the same period last year, representing a decrease of 331,823,889.

Similar comparisons made with the production of small cigars, shows a decrease of 3,548,503.

Cigarettes, both large and small, seem ever increasing in demand, the production being for the two months' calendar year, 6,209,704,990, against 5,167,220,199, or an increase of 1,042,484,791 for the current year period.

The most important tobacco product of Switzerland is cigars which in normal times are exported to South America (especially Argentine and Uruguay), Italy, France and Belgium; as well as supplying the bulk of those used for home consumption. The favorite shape is the long, thin stogie style, many of which are made with straws through them, a style popular with the various Latin peoples.

The following statement shows in detail the output of the First Ohio (Cincinnati) district in the various lines of tobacco products for March, 1919, the corresponding month in 1918 and February, 1919:

The Month of March.

	March, 1919.	Feb., 1919.	March, 1918.
Cigars, $4 per M.	4,324,685	980,435	587,468
Cigars, $6 per M.	7,302,408	9,819,600	8,399,775
Cigars, $9 per M.	2,157,544	2,264,453	1,242,495
Cigars, $12 per M.	3,000	1,500	14,500
Cigars, $15 per M.	46,500	15,250

Total Cigars ... 13,894,137 13,115,987 10,259,486

In the three months of the calendar year 1919 there was made in Cincinnati factories a total of 40,188,956 cigars, against 33,416,741 in 1918, an increase of 6,772,215 for the current year.

Among the many "Freak Bills" that are a part of every session of our State Legislatures we find one in Indiana that is no doubt inspired by the Anti-tobacco wave that is taking shape in different sections of the country. This particular bill would prohibit the election or appointment to public office of any person who uses tobacco.

Cameroon, a West African Colony acquired by the French from Germany during the war, produces tobacco said to be superior to Sumatra in-so-far as it has none of the metallic taste so often distinguishable in even the best grades of Sumatra. It is of the same general appearance and texture, fine burning qualities and an excellent worker.

The Germans just prior to the war were preparing for the establishment of a great industry and the French knowing the value of their acquisition are planning even on a broader scale, hoping to build up an enormous world trade in wrapper tobacco with the United States as the most important of their proposed markets.

The soil and climate of this district are ideal and with the advantage of cheap native labor it is prophesied that West African wrappers will revolutionize the cigar industry as did the advent of Sumatra some years ago.

Preston Herbert, Chief of the Tobacco Section, Quartermaster's Department, reports that from January 1, 1918, to March 1, 1919, 200,000,000 cigars were requisitioned for the Army in France. There was purchased in January, 1919, 16,500,000 cigars; in February, 17,000,000 cigars for the A. E. F., which would leave 166,500,000 cigars bought by the War Department for the American forces in France in 1918.

The March purchases of cigars for the Army, it is stated, were 10,000,000. The April purchases will be 9,000,000 cigars, the May purchases about 8,500,000 and the June purchases 8,000,000, according to estimates made by the War Department. The heaviest month so far as cigar purchases are concerned was June, 1918, when 30,000,000 cigars were bought for the Army.

We are naturally interested in knowing just where the bulk of these goods are made and we find the following among the late contracts passed by the Director of Purchases and Stores, War Department.

General Cigar Company, New York City, 20,000 boxes cigars; Krause & Co., Baltimore, Md., 6,000 tins of cigarettes; B. Feller & Co., New York, 10,000 boxes of cigars;

W. K. Gresh & Sons, Norristown, Pa., 10,000 boxes of cigars; H. Fendrich, Evansville, Indiana, 20,000 boxes of cigars; American Tobacco Company, New York, 40,000 packages cigarettes.

The price situation still continues the most prominent of the many worries that go to make up the life of the average small manufacturer.

The following article is taken from The Western Tobacco Journal, and is no doubt as comprehensive as any statement could be at the present time.

"Current reports have it that cigar leaf, filler grades in Ohio and practically everywhere else will decline shortly in price, as little or none of it has as yet been moved or contracted for. The large manufacturer is well supplied with raw material and a number of the smaller manufacturers have discontinued business. These conditions we would say, would leave the future more or less a matter of guess as to the outcome of prices.

"While the 1918 crop is not an inferior crop, neither is it a fancy crop, and for that reason the tobacco should not bring excessive prices. The fact remains, however, that the manufacturers are looking for high-grade tobacco, on account of the advance in prices on cigars and competition for good cigars will be very prominent. In answer to many questions regarding the immediate prices on cigar leaf, we have endeavored to the best of our ability to get something that would be somewhere near an intelligent answer, but it seems the whole situation is in such a shape that to get reliable information on the subject that would warrant any kind of advice, is impossible just at present. We do gather, however, as stated above, that a decline in price is most likely to occur."

The Schulte chain of stores are increasing rapidly in all cities of size. They announce that Chicago will see 100 more within the next few months. The United are also rapidly acquiring new leases everywhere.

It necessitates the undivided effort of every union in the country in one strong steady push for Label Agitation to overcome this, and the sooner we awake to this necessity the sooner we may hope to see these stores carrying a full line of Union-made goods. It can be done; we have the goods; we have all that is necessary to accomplish our ends if we will only resolve to "Go-Get-It."

The following classified table shows the output of the First Ohio District (Cincinnati), for April, 1919, with comparisons:

	April, 1919.	March, 1919.	April, 1918.
Cigars, $4 per M....	6,289,750	4,384,685	577,050

Total Cigars14,632,955 13,894,137 10,341,905

The total production of cigars for the month of April was 14,632,955 compared with 10,341,015 in the same period last year, representing an increase for the month of April of the current year of 4,291,940. Similar comparisons made with the previous month of March, 1919, shows 14,632,955, against 13,894,137, or an increase of 738,818 for April, 1919.

The four months of the calendar year showed increased production compared with the corresponding period last year to the extent of 54,821,912, against 43,756,756, or an increase of 11,065,155.

Cigarette manufacturers amounted to 10,590, or an increase of 8,590 for the current year period.

The Tobacco Merchants Association is in receipt of the following telegram from the Commissioner of Internal Revenue under date of April 29:

"Tobacco Merchants' Association, 5 Beekman Street, New York.

"Manufacturers permitted to use old cigar classification labels pending issue of Treasury Decision extending effective date of new regulation.

"(Signed) ROPER, Commissioner."

Judging from the foregoing telegram it seems that a Treasury Decision is to be issued extending the time when the new regulation is to come into effect, and until then the old classification labels as well as boxes having the old classification legend printed thereon may be continued to be used.

Exports of tobacco during the month of February showed increases over January in all branches except plug and smoking.

Total shipments of leaf tobacco in February, 1919, totaled 66,090,716 pounds, which is an increase of 47,931,812 pounds over the same period last year and an increase of 20,127,069 pounds over January this year.

Great Britain ranked first, France second, and Spain third in the amounts of American leaf imported during the month.

Exports of cigars for the month totaled 3,212,000, a gain of 954,000 over the same period last year and an increase of 1,096,000 over January, 1919,

Imports of leaf tobacco amounted to 7,333,592 pounds in February, a decrease of 1,859,301 pounds as compared with February, 1918, but showing an increase of 2,724,243 pounds over January, 1918.

Havana's export trade with her three largest buyers for the month of March, 1919, shows a decrease of 4,394,754, as compared with the same month last year.

Great Britain was the largest buyer, which amounted to 4,095,825 against 2,286,035, representing an increase for March of the current year to the amount of 1,809,790.

United States was the next largest buyer during the month of March, 1919, which amounted to 2,434,425 against 5,171,944, representing a decrease for March, 1919, to the amount of 2,737,519.

The third largest purchaser was France, which amounted to 1,130,000 against 4,597,025, representing a decrease for March of the current year to the amount of 3,467,025.

There were twenty-five countries to which cigars were shipped during the month of March, 1919, against eighteen in the same period last year.

Cigar shipments from Manila to the United States during the month of February, 1919, totaled 23,879,321. By stamp classification they are as follows: Class A, 3,045,200; Class B, 19,965,365; Class C, 868,956. The Philippine Collector of Internal Revenue, W. Trinidad, also reports that 270,000 Class B cigars offered for export to the United States were rejected during the same period.

According to "Tobacco," "Cigar factories in Spokane, Wash., make but one per cent of the smokes consumed in that city."

If this is a fact both the manufacturers and cigar-makers of Spokane should ask themselves "Why?" They should then determine the answer to their own question and immediately attend to the inauguration of plans to remedy the condition.

Cities the size of Spokane are especially ready for the seed of Home Industry, and it is our experience that this seed when properly planted and cared for produces results that are known as "Bumper Crops."

The production of only one per cent of its smokes means that Spokane sends $99.00 out of every $100.00 spent for cigars out of the city. Money spent at home helps every person there sooner or later. If sent away it is gone forever.

There are many such cities in these United States that are only awaiting a little organized effort on the part of local manufacturers and cigar-makers to make them good cigar towns.

How did the other fellow get his trade? If he can come many hundreds of miles into a strange town and do business can't we do at least the greater part of it at home where we are well acquainted?

Think it over! Not only in Spokane but everywhere there is a local factory.

The following table gives in detail the amount of tobacco, both wrappers and fillers, remaining in bonded warehouses of this country on February 28, 1918 and 1919:

	1919. Pounds.	1918. Pounds.
Leaf, suitable for wrappers.	5,214,294	4,790,120
All others	51,498,907	50,484,320
Total	56,713,201	55,224,440

The total stock of leaf tobacco for cigar wrappers and fillers held in bonded warehouses of the United States at the close February 28, 1919, was 56,713,201 pounds, against 55,224,440 pounds in the corresponding period last year, which represents an increase of 1,488,761 pounds for February, 1919. Similar comparisons made with the previous month of January, 1919, shows an increase of 2,918,472 pounds.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, Department of Labor, received replies from 53 cigar manufacturers showing that in February of last year there were 19,122 persons employed, decreasing in February of this year to 17,164, or a decrease of 10.2 per cent. The pay rolls in these factories, on the other hand, increased from $245,867 in February, 1918, to $269,102 in February of this year, showing an increase of 9.5 per cent.

Replies were received by the Bureau from 52 cigar manufacturers comparing the employment in January and February of this year. The reports showed that in January there were 17,180 persons employed in the 52 plants, decreasing slightly in February to 17,138, or a decrease of .2 per cent. The pay rolls also decreased from $277,085 in January to $268,467 in February, or a decrease of 3.1 per cent.

On analyzing the above report we find that in comparing February, 1919, with February, 1918, the number employed showed a decrease while wages showed an increase. This is due to the fact that during 1918 many employes received an increase in wages on account of the increased demand for cigars and the shortage of labor. The labor shortage was largely due to the fact that many cigar-makers, especially the unorganized, were able to secure work in other lines at far better wages than their non-union employers were willing to pay.

The comparative report for February, 1919, and January, 1919, shows a decrease in both the number employed and in wages. This only goes to prove that when work in other lines is slack and there is a surplus of cigar-makers the unorganized are at the mercy of their employers and are compelled to accept what is offered them.

While wages in union shops during 1918 increased materially there have been no reductions since the close of the war to offset any gains that may have been made, nor can there be any so long as the cost of living remains at its present high level.

There is but one remedy for the condition shown in the report for February of this year, (decreased wages) and that is compassed by the one word, ORGANIZATION.

America is not simply a name; America is not merely a country; America is not purely a continent. America is an ideal. It is the apotheosis of all that is good and true and just in a nation. It was a great privilege for the members of the Labor Mission of the American Federation of Labor to serve that ideal and to help brighten the hope for a life that is good and true and just for all the men and women and children of the lands "over there," as well as in our own country.

Now, all pay tribute to the fact that the importance, power and influence of Labor to the nation's safety was never more clearly revealed and demonstrated than during this great war. No one more fully appreciated the force of Labor, no others applied themselves more assiduously to the task of breaking the morale of the workmen of our nation and of the nations associated with us, than did the military advisers, strategists and propagandists of Germany and Austria. That these efforts failed is due in an immeasurable degree to the spirit of loyalty and of profound devotion to the ideals of justice, liberty and democracy manifested throughout this world's conflict by the men and women of Labor of America, individually and collectively, through the A. F. of L.

Organized labor's influence was not confined to America alone. The spirit of America reached into the hearts and minds of the workers of all nations associated with our great Republic.

In February, 1918, there was held in London an inter-allied conference of the representatives of labor and of socialists. After several days, a declaration was agreed to by that body, calling upon the governments of those in attendance to bring about peace with Germany and Austria by negotiations with endless chains of concessions and compromises. The hope for a world democracy was indeed dimmed and clouded for the time being.

In September, 1918, seven months after the February meeting, another conference was held representative of the same groups that attended the former gathering, but having in addition a delegation representing the A. F. of L. The September conference declared for unswerving support of the government of the United States and of our allied countries until victory should have been won on the battlefield and the enemies of humanity, civilization and democracy driven from the soil of invaded countries.

With the signing of the armistice and the ending of hostilities, the work of the organized labor movement like the work of the warring nations, was changed into acts of devising terms of settlement and providing agencies for peace and progress between the nations and the peoples of the world. In pursuance of instructions of former conventions of the A. F. of L., the American wage-earners were represented at the councils of the peace plenipotentiaries of the world by five of the executive officers of the A. F. of L., viz: President Samuel Gompers and Vice-Presidents James Duncan, John R. Alpine, Frank Duffy and William Green.

It was the great privilege of these representatives of America's workingmen and women to meet with the American Commissioners of Peace. There was given to Labor an opportunity to make its contribution to the world in the remaking and to present the hopes and aspirations of the toilers of our land and of other lands. To one, as President of the A. F. of L., was granted the additional opportunity of directly representing the American wage-earner in the councils of the Peace Congress and in being selected as presiding officer of the International Commission for Labor Legislation.

The problems of peace, like the problems of war, are great and complex. The A. F. of L. Mission applied itself assiduously to the task allotted to it. The struggle was great and trying and all that could be done within human endurance and capacity, mentally and physically, was done to reach an understanding helpful and hopeful and beneficial to all working peoples of the world.

But the problems have been solved. The rights and advantages of the workers and the integrity and sovereignty of our nation have been safe-guarded by the declaration, made a protocol of the covenant of peace, which provides:

In no case shall any of the High Contracting Powers be asked or required through the adoption by the conference of any recommendation or draft convention to diminish the protection afforded by its existing legislation to the workers concerned.

Then, too, a great international organization to promote the interests of the wage-earners the world over has been provided. There was submitted by the International Commission for Labor Legislation to the Peace Conference and approved by it, a declaration of principles and international standards and requirements not one of which can react to the disadvantage of the workers of any country, but which, on the contrary, will make for a better life for all workers.

These principles, standards and requirements are as follows:

1. In right and in fact the labor of a human being should not be treated as merchandise or an article of commerce.

2. Employers and workers should be allowed the right of association for all lawful purposes.

3. No child should be permitted to be employed in industry or commerce before the age of fourteen years, in order that every child may be ensured reasonable opportunities for mental and physical education.

Between the years of fourteen and eighteen, young persons of either sex may only be employed on work which is not harmful to their physical development and on condition that the continuation of their technical or general education is ensured.

4. Every worker has a right to a wage adequate to maintain a reasonable standard of life having regard to the civilization of his time and country.

5. Equal pay should be given to women and to men for work of equal value in quantity and quality.

6. A weekly rest, including Sunday, or its equivalent for all workers.

7. Limitation of the hours of work in industry on the basis of eight hours a day or forty-eight hours a week, subject to an exception for countries in which climatic conditions, the imperfect development of industrial development or industrial organization or other special circumstances render the industrial efficiency of the workers substantially different.

The International Labor Conference will recommend a basis approximately equivalent to the above for adoption in such countries.

8. In all matters concerning their status as workers and social insurance foreign workmen lawfully admitted to any country and their families should be ensured the same treatment as the nationals of that country.

9. All states should institute a system of inspection in which women should take part, in order to ensure the enforcement of the laws and regulations for the protection of the workers.

The American Labor Mission, late on the evening of Thursday, April 10, returned to the sacred soil of our great Republic. American organized labor performed its full duty during the trying days of war. American organized wage-earners left nothing undone that the triumphant victory on the battlefield should not be lost around the peace table and that the wage-earners of the world should not be made to pay for the folly of kings, czars or kaisers, but that out of this great war there should come greater freedom, a better understanding and a brighter day for all our people.

And now, with this task successfully accomplished, let us devote ourselves as energetically to the trying problems of peace, reconstruction and progress as we applied ourselves to the conduct of war and acts of international peace. There is still much to be done.

On April 11, the day, when the Peace Commission at Paris unanimously adopted the proposals of the International Commission on Labor Legislation, President Woodrow Wilson at the Commission made an address during which, according to the cable dispatches as published in the newspapers of the United States, he paid "a warm tribute to the part played by Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor."

On the succeeding day, the following was received:

The Counselor for the Department of State.
Washington, April 12, 1919.

My Dear Mr. Gompers:

Confirming my telephone conversation of this morning with your secretary, I beg to inform you that the two following messages have been received for you through the American Mission to the Conference to Negotiate Peace at Paris:

"Heartiest congratulations upon report of the Commission on Labor which received unanimous applause. The service which you rendered as President of the Commission is appreciated by us all.—Lansing."

"Congratulations. Draft convention passed unanimously.—Shotwell."

Sincerely yours,

CONVENTION CALL.

Union Label Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor.

April 25, 1919.

To all Affiliated Unions, Greeting:
You are hereby notified that in pursuance to the Constitution of the Union Label Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor the twelfth convention of this department will be held in Atlantic City, N. J., beginning at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, June 5, 1919, and will continue in session from day to day until the business of the convention has been completed.

JOHN J. MANNING, Secretary-treasurer,

CORRESPONDENCE

Exlande, Wis.

To my friends who have made inquiries as to my prospects since I left the trade, let me say, a letter addressed to me at Exlande, Wis., will be promptly answered. G. B. Westbrook.

162 E. 105th St., New York City, May 7, 1919.

Through my desire to interest the craft and trade in general, in industrial sanitation and hygiene, and also, believing that if the suggestions offered by me will be followed, I am sure that it will greatly reduce the mortality in our trade and also lessen the financial burden in our organization as far as sick and death benefits are concerned.

The men in our trade have been used to working in the factories with closed windows, thereby inhaling and exhaling foul air, which penetrates the lungs. This is unhealthy and contributes to a great deal of sickness. I find, also, upon my investigations, that when I call the attention of the men to these conditions, they seem to disregard the same, and insist upon having the windows closed. Common sense teaches us that no person can be healthy working under such conditions and sickness and premature death is bound to follow sooner or later. In scanning the faces of many of the employees, I find that in appearance they look sallow, and are not healthy, because of working under those conditions. The factory laws in many of the states provide for air conditioning in the factories and proper sanitary conditions, such as clean toilets and open windows. From my long experience at the bench I find that many of the workers object to open windows, and when the same are opened they protest and ask that the windows be closed. This can be remedied by having the employer place small muslin screens of about 7 inches wide, so as to fit in the window. These screens are sufficiently porous to allow the fresh air to enter the shop without creating a draft. They can be placed in and taken out whenever necessary. In fact, if you place your face on the side of one of them the incoming air is hardly perceptible. I trust that you will give this letter widest publicity, because I know if the workers in our craft follow these suggestions, it will mean better sanitary conditions, less financial burden to our organization, and better health to the workers.

DANIEL S. JACOBS,
Member Local Union No. 13,
Cigarmakers New York City,
Industrial Sanitary Inspector,
Board of Health, N. Y. C.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., May 8, 1919.

We are submitting in this month's Journal an amendment which we ask you to give careful consideration and second it so that the general membership may vote on it. Under the present condition we could have half our members out on strike and the general membership would not know what progress was being made, and we cannot act intelligently on the strike applications that are to be voted on from time to time as we do not know what progress the locals that are out are making.

WARREN TAYLOR, Secretary.

To Organized Labor, Greeting:

You are hereby officially notified that the Brunswick Phonograph strike has been settled, the firm granting every demand of the union:

Recognition of the union.

The union scale of wages.

The shorter work day.

The re-employment, without discrimination, of every member who went on strike.

None but union men to be hired in the future.

The immediate discharge of every strike breaker.

Improved working conditions of the factories. We fully appreciate the fact that the successful termination of this strike was due entirely to the united co-operation of organized labor. The Metal Polishers' International Union deeply appreciates this and extends its sincere thanks. Kindly notify all dealers, the press and the general public that this strike has ended.

With kindest wishes for the general success of the labor movement, we remain,

W. W. BRITTON, President.
CHAS. R. ATHERTON,
General Secretary.

St. John, N. B., April 21, 1919.

I would like to make a few remarks in regard to the Maritime Province, Canada. This is the dumping ground for all kinds of non-union goods and I think if the international union and the cigarmakers' locals of upper Canada would pay just a little attention to this province it would be of great benefit to them in driving out nonunion goods which they are fighting in upper Canada. Mr. Sullivan, our organizer, has paid us a visit and has done wonderful work in label boosting and assisting other trades to organize for the short time he has been in this part of the country. Local 349 is very small and is doing all they can. Hoping to see the return of Mr. Sullivan soon.

C. H. STEVENS.

Denver, Col., April 16, 1919.

Enclosed you will find statement from the Denver Union Label League regarding record of W. D. Henderson, former member of this union and at that time secretary-treasurer of the league.

The league will appreciate anything done for it, and any amount collected on the stated amount of Henderson's shortage.

Denver, April 15, 1919.

To Whom it May Concern:

This is to certify that W. D. Henderson owes Union Label League of Denver, Colo., the sum of $254.98. This is the amount of his embezzlement while secretary-treasurer of the league, as reported by the business committee at the meeting of March 4, 1910.

(Signed) EARL R. HOAGE, President.
J. M. OSBORN, Secretary.

OFFICIAL

should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such reports the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per Section 149, give full record of membership as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity of complying with the request carefully study Section 144c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal wills" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

Section 144c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there be no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there be no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death was dependent for support in whole or in part.

The International Union cannot authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children, and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefit rests entirely with such members.

In order to avoid confusion when a Class A member changes from 15-cent dues to 30-cent dues secretaries under the law are to give such members one-half time on length of membership, and write the following in ink in the due book: "Change from Class A to 30-cent due paying class. Time on full benefits commences (computed on basis of one-half time)." Should such member desire to travel he should be given a new due book and traveling card, both of which should give the date of initiation, computed on the above mentioned basis, and the words "Changed From Class A" written on both due book and traveling card. Whenever a Class A 15-cent member changes to a 30-cent membership secretaries should always so state on their monthly reports, and record the transactions on their books.

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

In compliance with Section 184 of the Constitution, the International Executive Board levied a running weekly assessment, to replenish the General Fund, of 20c on each 30-cent, 20-cent and 15-cent member, and 10c on Class A members. The assessment commences on Feb. 3, 1919, and continues until the General Fund reaches the constitutional requirement.

Note—The 25c assessment continued up to Feb. 3, 1919.

Section 73 provides that "all dues and assessments of members receiving benefits shall be deducted from such benefits." This means any benefit and all dues and assessments. If a member has $5.00 sick benefit coming and owes 8 dues and assessments he would receive just 60 cents in cash and credit for 8 dues and assessments.

SPECIAL.

Section 134 distinctly and plainly states "No sick or out of work benefit shall be paid to members adjudged insane." All amounts so paid are illegal. No dues shall be collected from an insane member.

Always refer to your Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 30c to the 20c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Members who while at work refuse or fail to pay per cent on loans suspend themselves without any action of the secretary.

In several instances where cards have been stolen from members secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book and in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privileges in dues unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who

DECISIONS OF THE PRESIDENT

A. Harfield appealed against 366, Memphis, claiming the union permitted one of its members to hold two jobs, which the union denies. The appeal was not sustained.

Robert Weir appealed against 97, Boston, for fining him for slandering, and calling the officers scabs. The appeal was not sustained.

E. A. Lewedag appealed against 32, Louisville, Ky., for refusing his claim for sick benefit. The appeal was not sustained.

D. N. Hall appealed against 240, Norfolk, Va., for refusing his claim for out of work benefit. The appeal was not sustained.

W. E. Shipley appealed against 97, Boston, for placing him on the ninety-day list. The appeal was not sustained.

R. Sulkes appealed against 97, Boston, for suspending him for nonpayment of dues. The appeal was not sustained.

F. Grassman appealed against 54, Evansville, Ind., for refusing to permit him (Grassman), the proprietor, to use a sort of a half so-called bunch breaking machine. The decision is that the label cannot be allowed on cigars made in whole or part by machinery, nor can this device be used in a union shop that does not permit the bunch breaking and roll up system.

Messrs. Obel and Allen appealed against 17, Cleveland, for fining each $25.00, for making and selling cigars to a strike shop. The appeal was not sustained.

C. H. Steffins appealed against 52, Elmira, N. Y., for refusing his claim for sick benefit. The appeal was not sustained.

INTERNATIONAL FINES

The International Executive Board approved the application of 240, Norfolk, Va., to fine S. A. Lipscomb $100.00 for working in the Savage non-union shop. Vote: Affirmative—5; one member approved $50.00 and one member approved $25.00.

Approved the application of 300, Michigan City, Ind., to fine anyone going to work in the Winner Cigar factory after being duly notified, $100.00. Vote: Affirmative—5; three members approved $25.00.

Approved the application of 14, Chicago Ill., to fine Max Trebovsky (99957) $50.00 for employing non-union and Class A cigar makers while operating a label factory. Vote: Affirmative—7.

Approved the application of 17, Cleveland, Ohio, to fine J. W. West (84083) $50.00 for working in the C. S. Abrams strike shop. Vote: Affirmative—7.

Approved the application of 17, Cleveland, Ohio, to fine Chester Obel (68777) and Samuel Allen (65606) each $25.00 for manufacturing cigars for the C. S. Abrams strike shop. Vote: Affirmative—7.

Approved the application of 17, Cleveland, Ohio, to fine T. Andre (84596) $25.00 for misuse of the label; also to fine Samuel Allen (65606) $25.00 for helping Mr. Andre paste these labels on the non-union cigars. Vote: Affirmative—7.

Approved the application of 300, Michigan City, Ind., to fine F. G. Argenta (22805) $50.00 for assisting the non-union Winner factory in getting help. Vote: Affirmative—5; negative—1; one member approved $25.00.

Approved the application of 224, Salt Lake, Utah, to fine H. O. Bell $50.00 for working in the closed shop of J. F. Whitaker. Vote: Affirmative—6; one member approved $25.00.

Approved the application of 205, Battle Creek, Mich., to fine Florence Norway $25.00 for working in the F. C. Emery non-union shop. Vote: Affirmative—6; negative—1.

Approved the application of 46, Grand Rapids, Mich., to fine J. Stegelminius (266), J. Berkhardt (112146), Mrs. Anna Sterkins and Martin Sterkins $25.00 each for running non-union shops. Vote: Affirmative—6.

Fines of $10.00 or Less.
 Union 97, Boston, Mass., fined Herrick Johnson (69336) $9.99 for conduct unbecoming a union man.

Union 361, East St. Louis, Ill., fined Albert Wendlandt (2633) $5.00 for repeatedly permitting himself to be suspended.

Union 172, Davenport, Ia., fined Miss Mary E. Loughlin (30346) $10.00 and annulled her retiring card, for quitting a job in a union shop and taking a job in a non-union shop.

UNION NOTES

Any secretary holding card of John Linblad (46695) or H. Hart (30185), notify the secretary of 160, Milford, Mass.

Any secretary holding the card of H. Hart (30185) or knowing his whereabouts will confer a favor by writing Union 90, New York.

R. M. Simmons is respectfully requested to notice the decision of the International President in the April Journal and communicate with Union 23, Springfield, at once.

97. President is visiting all the car barns addressing the street car men on their pay day on the Union Label. Buy Thrift Stamps; get the habit. Pres. Collins addressed a large division of street car men at their last regular meeting. He was received enthusiastically. A letter was received from the Mill Workers of Lawrence, now on strike for an 8-hour day without loss of pay, which gives 97 the credit of being the first organization to come to their assistance. All the Textile Workers ought to be in the A. F. of L. 97 donated fifty dollars to our boys in Chicago, and twenty-five to Fort Wayne, who are fighting for better conditions. Why don't the locals second our amendment for a convention, so that the membership may have a chance to vote on it. Trade Union College is a success. Our Label Committee will go into newspaper advertising. Label Section of the Boston Central Labor Union does good work. The loss of Koveney will be felt but the country is to be congratulated; Pres. Perkins made a good appointment. Study co-operation. Every industrious thrifty person should have a wage that will enable his family to live to the end of their days in at least frugal comfort. "Unemployment is due to under consumption—under consumption to low wages." Build now. Night work should be abolished in all industries. It is killing. Wages should be fixed on the work and not on sex lines. The labor of a human being is not a commodity and cannot be governed. Our Label Committee distributed 60,000 baseball schedules and will distribute 50,000 Tide Cards. Boom the label, boom all labels. Teachers have organized and will affiliate with the A. F. of L. When will the cheap districts organize? When all demand Union Labels.

HENRY ABRAHAMS.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

(Do not endorse two or more amendments together. Send in a separate endorsement for each amendment that you wish to endorse.)

The amendment of Union 132, Brooklyn, N. Y., as published in the March issue providing that the Official Journal be published in Italian and Hebrew.

Received the endorsement of 292 Brooklyn, 90 New York, 168 Oshkosh, 402 Quakertown, 179 Bangor, 188 Seattle, 473 Stettler, and 149 Brooklyn.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, it can not be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of Union 97, Boston, Mass., as published in the March issue, as follows:

That the President of the C. M. I. U. of A. shall call a convention of the International Union at the earliest possible date after submitting this amendment to a referendum vote, and after same has been approved by a majority vote of the members, the Executive Board shall select the city in which said convention shall be held. The President is authorized to stipulate date for notification and the appointment of committee on constitution.

Received the endorsement of 49, Springfield; 402, Quakertown; 383, Chicago; 164, Fort Collins; 14, Chicago; 90, New York; 192, Manchester; 88, Dubuque; 292, Brooklyn; 295, Scranton; 473, Alberta; 501, Wheeling; 331, Crookston; 179, Bangor; 78, Alton.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, it can not be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of 192 Manchester, as published in the April issue, as follows:

Amend Section 92, line 13, by adding: "And when an application for strike or lockout has been approved, the International President shall publish each month in the official Journal where cigarmakers or packers are on strike or lockout, number of men involved, and where strike or lockout has been settled."

Received the endorsement of 69, Three Rivers; 5, Rochester; 218 Binghamton; 179, Bangor; 274, Pekin; 16, Binghamton; 473, Stettler; 215, Loganport; 49, Springfield.

The amendment of 97, Boston, as published in the April issue, as follows:

Whereas, in 1916, the National Hughes Alliance issued a declaration, in advocating the election of Charles E. Hughes to the Presidency, which was signed by two Republican ex-Presidents of these United States, Theodore Roosevelt and William Howard Taft, and twenty-five leading bankers and captains of industry, in which they stated: "Our business is business. We are producers, manufacturers and traders, without sufficient home demands to absorb the full yield of fields and the output of factories. Year by year it becomes more apparent that the markets of the world must be kept open to American industries. We cannot extend our trade further than we are able to defend it. The rivalries that begin in commerce end on battlefields." Five months after the national election, war was declared under the Democratic administration of President Wilson, thereby proving the stand taken by the leaders of the Republican party, that the present competitive state breeds wars and all its horrors. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of Cigar-makers' International Union of America, No. 97, in meeting assembled, do hereby demand a referendum vote to be taken by the membership of the C. M. I. U. of A., and in case of adoption, that our delegates to all of the annual conventions of the American Federation of Labor, are hereby instructed to introduce and advocate and work for the organization of a political Labor Party, based upon the following fundamental principles:

First: To make the Trade Union State the State of the Nation as a whole.

Second: That all the land and workshops and public utilities be conscripted for the control by the A. F. of L. in the interest of all the people.

Third: That the hours of work be six per day, or in proportion so that all male and females, 18 years of age and over, shall have the right to work, who so desire.

Fourth: That each respective National Union shall designate what shall constitute an average day's work, when working day work. Piece workers to so decide for their own best interests what shall constitute a day's work, or their bill of prices.

Fifth: That the remuneration shall be $1 per hour.

We see that working 6 hours a day for 300 days in the year, each worker would get $1,800. Now, if the owners of the land and workshops are taking annually 50 per cent of the wealth created by Labor in profits, rent and interest from each worker would amount to $1,800 per annum, added to the original will give each worker in the course of a year's production, a purchasing price equal to $3,600 a year, which would give the full social value of wealth produced to each worker.

We have seen the governing power of this country enact legislation by conscripting millions of young working men for the fields of battle, and their pay was $1 per day, to further war and ruin.

By your own acts you blaze the way, and have shown the working class that it is good to conscript the land and workshops in the interest of all the people. To the end, that "The rivalries that begin in commerce shall 'end' no more on the battlefields," for the working class must and will establish Economic Justice to all.

We see that it will unite all the various factions of Labor under the head of the A. F. of L., making it Supreme in its compactness in serving all of the people.

We see it will take the commodity status out of the working class when it takes over the control of wealth production, that instead of asking others for the right to work, that this is a natural right belonging to every free born man and woman under the jurisdiction of our own Trade Union State.

The amendment of 297, Canton, as published in the April issue, as follows:

Universal bill of prices to be 30 per cent of gross wholesale price of any cigar. Use of label prohibited on cigars sold for less than $30 per thousand.

Received the endorsement of 168, Oshkosh; 69, Three Rivers; 383, Chicago.

The amendment of 192, Manchester, as published in the April issue, as follows:

Amend Section 212, by striking out the word three on line two and insert the word two, section to read:

Section 212. All persons learning cigar making or packing must serve at least two years, proof of the same must be attested by officers of local unions, under whose jurisdiction said apprentices shall have served the whole or part of his or her time, the recording secretary of each local union shall keep a complete list of all apprentices serving in his jurisdiction. All persons learning cigar making or packing must serve two years, but no longer without the consent of the local union. All apprentices shall be honorary members of the union, until their time of apprenticeship has ended, when they must become paying members.

Received the endorsement of 218, Binghamton; 426, Virginia; 329, Fond du Lac.

Union 331 proposes the following amendment: That the International Office of the C. M. I. U. of A., be located at Boston, Mass., instead of Chicago.

Union 429, Niagara Falls, N. Y., C. M. I. U. of A., submits the following amendment for adoption:

Our different locals throughout the country and Canada are revising their bill of prices from time to time and our members are not kept informed as to the settlement of the strikes through our Official Journal, and our only information is from the traveling members.

Therefore, Be It Resolved, That the International President is hereby instructed to publish a complete review of locals that are out on strike and keep our members informed as to the progress that is being made, etc., in our Official Journal.

Union No. 427, Perth Amboy, N. J., offers the following amendment to the "Class" A clause. Condition No. 3:

After three (3) months' membership to read: After three (3) months' membership shall pay one half of all International Assessments levied, except label assessments.

Union No. 383, Chicago, offers the following amendment:

The International President, or whoever is in charge of the publication of the Official Journal, should give at least once a year, a complete report, on the increase or decrease of the total membership of the C. M. I. U. of A., and in the April issue give the exact number of deceased members during the year, the exact number of those suspended, and the exact number of those initiated.

Union No. 16, Binghamton, N. Y., offers the following amendment to Section No. 104, of the International Constitution: Insert after $20.00, on line fourteen, "It shall be the duty of the secretary granting such loan to add 6 per cent on each dollar loaned, which will act as interest for moneys so loaned; this shall apply to all outstanding loans, except those confined in sanitariums."

Section to read:

Section 104. Any member in good standing for one year in the International Union, not able to obtain employment, wishing to leave the jurisdiction under which he is, to seek employment elsewhere, shall be entitled to a loan sufficient for transportation to the nearest union in whatever direction he desires to travel by the cheapest route, provided he has not worked one week or more under the jurisdiction where he applies for loan. If the fare to such nearest union is less than $1.00, then $1.00 may be granted; if between $1.00 and $2.00, then $2.00 may be granted; and in like manner, if between two, three, four, five, six, seven and eight dollars, the highest sum may be granted, and the same shall be entered in figures and letters in his loan card, but in no case shall a single loan exceed $3.00, nor the aggregate exceed $20.00. It shall be the duty of the secretary granting such loan, to add five per cent on each dollar loaned, which will act as interest for moneys so loaned. This shall apply to all outstanding loans, except those confined in sanitariums. Sick members who deposit their cards shall be entitled to such loan if they desire to leave in search of employment. Members 100 miles from seat of union are exempt from the one-week employment provision, provided they travel to the seat of the union where they have been working. No member shall receive a second loan from the same union until all loans on his card, up to and including such first loan, shall have been repaid.

A suspended member owing loans must on reinstatement pay all old loans before being entitled to a new loan card.

Initiation, except for such time as he or she was holding a War Retiring Card.

(e) Any member holding a War Retiring Card shall be entitled to his or her original card free of charge.

(f) All transfers shall be made at regular or executive board meetings.

(g) Applications for transfer to the War Retiring Card may be made in writing.

(h) All cards from which members transfer to the War Retiring Card shall be sent to the International President to be kept on file.

(i) It shall be the duty of the International President to have sufficient War Retiring Cards printed, which shall be distributed to all local unions.

(j) No benefits shall be paid to any member while holding a War Retiring Card.

(k) This amendment shall govern all other sections which deal with benefits of such members who may be doing military duty or are beyond the boundary lines as is defined by our constitution.

In effect March 1, 1918.

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

(An amendment takes effect the first of the month following the publication of notice of its adoption in the Official Journal.)

Amendments adopted since the June 15, 1917, edition of the constitution:

By 208, Kalamazoo, Mich.: To amend Section 154 by adding after the word "bunches," on line 23, "nor which pays less than $10.00 per thousand for hand work, less than four molds of 10 bunches each with press on table, or two 20-bunch molds in shaper press, to be considered hand work."

In effect Nov. 1, 1917.

Take Notice.—The amendment of 238, Sacramento, Calif., takes the place of the 132, Brooklyn, amendment, and supersedes all other amendments reference war retiring cards and benefits. The amendment, published elsewhere in this Journal, says: "This amendment shall govern all other sections which deal with benefits of such members who may be doing military duty or are beyond the boundary lines as defined in our constitution."

By 238, Sacramento, Calif.: War Retiring Card Amendment:

(a) That the President of the International Cigar Makers' Union cause to be printed a War Retiring Card, to read as follows:

(b) This is to certify that Mr., Card No., Initiated by, When, has entered the service of (U. S. or Allies' Army or Navy), and is entitled to all benefits as may be contained in the War Retiring Card Amendment.

Pres. C. M. I. U.
Signed—

..... Local Pres.
..... Fin. Sec.

(c) Any member who may by draft or voluntary enlistment enter the service of the United States Army or Navy or the service of the Army or Navy of any allied country, during this period of war, shall be entitled to a War Retiring Card, provided such member is in good standing at the time of his or her application for a War Retiring Card.

(d) Any member who is a holder of a War Retiring Card shall be exempt from all dues, fines and assessments, and upon his or her reentrance in the actual making or packing of cigars shall be entitled to his or her original card from which he or she was transferred, with all benefits as entitled to from date of

By Union 90, New York:

Strike out in Sec. 92 all from second line after wages till September, on line 10, and insert "from December 15 until January 15."

Section to read:

No strike shall be approved or sustained by the International Union for an increase in wages between the 15th day of December until the 15th day of January of any year.

But this shall in nowise preclude the approval of strikes against the reduction of wages or the truck system, or against the introduction of tenement house work.

In effect January 1, 1919.

By Union 2, Buffalo:

Amend Section 150 of the constitution: Add after the words "Blue Color," on line 6—"And no more than four inches in length and no more than one inch in width." Section to read:

"The President of the International Union shall have prepared, printed and registered a trade-mark label, to be known as the Union Label, perforated sheets of not less than ten, suitable to be pasted on the outside of the box, so that the label will be conspicuously displayed. The labels shall be of light blue color and no more than four inches in length and no more than one inch in width. All labels issued shall be printed in series and numbered consecutively. The proportion of labels used by the Canadian unions to be printed in Canada by order and under the supervision of the International President."

In effect as soon after May 1, 1919, as the change can be made and announced through the Journal and by circular.

PRIVATE LOANS

Members owing private loans to 94, Pawtucket, R. I., are requested to pay up.

All members owing private loans to 210, Rome, N. Y., are hereby warned to pay up at once, or their names will be in the next issue of the Journal. Don't forget. This means all who owe. You were glad to get the loans;

Harry Webber (111914), A. Young (8549), E. Yowell (85238), Geo. Zeiser (68871), Sam Zopie (81926).

Union 114, Jacksonville, Ill.: "We have on file in this office a list of members to whom we have granted private loans. The list contains about 170 names. Owing to a mixup in the accounts of ex-Secretary Heffernan, we ask every member who has repaid private loan to this union or to this union on account of loan by other union to state how and when the loan was repaid. We shall publish the list of those who owe us private loans in the next issue of the Official Journal."—Secretary Union 114.

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and, in addition, send in such cards, but place in your letter the information necessary, as the letter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 148 to 149, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted resolutions of respect and condolence relative to death or deaths as follows and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days:

Union 5, Rochester, N. Y.—A. N. Copp, who died March 18.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The amendment of Union 97, Boston, having received the required number of endorsements will be submitted to popular vote, and we Boston Amendment. shall be called upon to vote upon one of the most destructive questions that has ever confronted the International Union. We use the word "destructive" advisedly; because if perchance it were adopted it would place the International Union outside the pale of rational, lawful, sane organizations, and would at once strip it of all legal means of protection for its funds, property, or its label.

The amendment should have been entitled—"An Act to Establish the Bolshevik or Soviet Form of Government." Why beat around the bush? Do the proponents of this amendment think that discerning members of the International Union can be fooled by this clumsily camouflaged amendment? This is a mighty serious question and demands that right-thinking, level-headed, discerning men and women should speak in no uncertain terms. One of the secretaries in sending in the vote of the local union, endorsing the amendment, said: "The amendment was looked upon as a joke and they endorsed it in a joking way." This is no joking matter!

The statements in the amendment are predicated upon false promises, hence the declarations are misleading, at variance with economic facts, and consequently not true. In the first "Whereas" they speak of what Hughes, Roosevelt, Taft, and twenty-five leading bankers and captains of industry stated reference a market for our produce in foreign fields, and then jump to the conclusion that "Rivalries so begun in commerce end on the battlefield." That may have been true in the early struggles in Europe, but it is absolutely false insofar as our own country is concerned. Rivalry in commerce may have had something to do with the last great world's war, but everybody knows, who cares to know the truth, that the world's war was started by an egotistical monarch who sought to dominate the greater part of the civilized world and indirectly to control the balance, not for the purpose of satisfying commercial greed, but rather to satisfy an insane desire and ambition to dominate the political affairs of the whole world, and to establish and securely enthrone autocracy as against democracy.

The establishment of the Bolshevik or Soviet form of government, as this amendment proposes, will not stop wars, especially wars for political domination. It did not stop war in Russia. If a League of Nations is established and agreed to by the civilized nations (and it undoubtedly will be) that will prevent wars of conquest for commercial or territorial achievements.

The amendment seeks to instruct the delegates of the International Union to the Convention of the American Federation of Labor to introduce and advocate and work for the organization of a political labor party, with the following fundamentals—First—to make the trade union state the state of the nation as a whole. All we have to do is to stand up on the floor of the American Federation of Labor Convention and say: "Resolved, That the trade union state (whatever that is) is the state of the nation as a whole." And, presto! The change is made! The Federation, composed of about three million members has said so and that settles it. Second—to conscript all land and work shops and public utilities for the control of the American Federation of Labor. This is conscription without compensation. In plain English, the American Federation of Labor is to go out and just take the land and the workshops and public utilities, and say "They are ours." Some job! Of course, the other one-hundred two million people, including the chap who honestly owns a little land, a house and lot, or a workshop, are going to tamely submit!

In the third proposition they state the hours of labor to be six per day for those who desire to work; and in the fourth proposition it is proposed that each National Union shall designate what shall constitute an average day's work, piece workers to decide for their own best interests what shall constitute a day's work. In the fifth proposition they say the pay shall be $1.00 per hour. In these three propositions we have first the declaration of six hours per day; second, that each National Union (altho in the first instance we are referred to as a trade union state) shall define what shall constitute a day's work. Suppose one National Union fixes four hours or five hours, another six hours, another one three hours! Just how they are going to arrange piece workers so that they shall get $1.00 an hour, and how many hours they are going to work, is left to the imagination.

They follow this up, though, by saying: "If working six hours a day for three hundred days in the year each worker would get $1,800.00." And then immediately follow that up by saying: "If we take the fifty per cent of the wealth created by labor, which is taken in profits, rent and interest, the wages would be $3,600 a year." Which would give, according to these wonderful economic conclusions the full social value of wealth produced, to each worker. They have conveniently neglected to say what they mean by "social value." The so-called high-brow socialists are the ones who invented the term "social value," that is one who by superior intelligence and capacity, under their proposed brand of socialism would receive full value for the social wealth he creates, while in this new variety it is proposed that the pay for all, including the President of the United States, be arbitrarily fixed at $1.00 per hour. As a matter of fact, recent government statistics show that the total value of the manufactured product of this country amounted to $3,200 per capita per year for those engaged in the industries. Out of this $3,200 must come the wages, raw material, interest, rent, overhead charges, cost of selling, transportation, and everything else connected with the manufactured product. Despite this fact, we are told that under the proposed plan each worker, who shall be permitted to regulate his own number of hours of labor, will get $3,600, which is $400 more than the actual amount of the product. Of course, they very wisely are silent as to whether we are to pick the extra $400 off the bushes or comb it out of the air.

Among other remarkable statements, the proponents of this amendment say: "We see that it will unite all of the various factions of labor under the head of the American Federation of Labor, making it supreme in its compactness in serving all of the people." They say: "We see." They evidently possess a power of vision that the most of us other mortals lack. As a matter of fact we don't see anything of the kind. We can not even see where all of the various factions of labor are now united in the American Federation of Labor even on one single economic issue. Out of the forty million wage earners in this country not over five million are now organized.

In the next paragraph they say: "We see it will take the commodity status out of the working class." There is already embodied in the federal laws, in the Clayton Act, the declaration that labor is not a commodity or article of commerce.

They then proceed to fix the wages of the President of the United States at $1.00 per hour, and as they have already in their minds fixed the hours of labor at six per day, the President of the United States would be getting $36 a week, provided the union to which he belonged fixed the hours of labor at six per day. The same wages, or $1.00 an hour, applies to the Governors of States, the Congressmen, and all minor officials. In plain English they seek to make an economic state wherein no one shall receive more than $1.00 per hour, during this transitory period in which we change this form of government into "Our own Trade Union State." The man who is capable of making great inventions and thereby adding tremendously to the social wealth of the country is to receive as a reward for his efforts the same compensation as the worker who performs the most humble and easy task imaginable. This would at once destroy all incentive to further invention and improvement. Human progress would stop, and civilization and improvement instead of going forward would immediately go backward.

The first duty of the union is to organize the workers, in the trade union movement. After all, the economic issue is the greatest question now before the people of this or any other country. Now is the golden opportunity to bring into practice organization and collective bargaining, and by and through that means, a greater progress and future happier and better economic conditions and social life are in store for the workers. The present opportunity may not come again in a hundred years. If this opportunity is thrown away in chasing rainbows and attempting the impossible, the condition of the workers will go back for two hundred years. This is not an idle statement. Following the black plague in England came what is known as the Golden Age for the workers. The workers made the fatal mistake at that time of reaching up and after the impossible, and the result was that in a surprisingly short time a natural reaction set in, and with it the adoption of the most stringent laws and regulations imaginable. Instead of being content to go along the natural lines of evolution and reaching out only for that which is just and fair, they destroyed not only the Golden Age but the golden opportunity for gradual improvement, and brought about an effect that threw them back for at least three hundred years.

I am sure that the judgment and common sense and the justice in the minds and hearts of the great mass of the members of the International Union will not destroy the golden opportunity now at hand by chasing after this impracticable, hopeless fantasy, and dream of disordered minds. The Soviet form of government is absolutely and positively an economic impossibility, and no time or opportunity should be wasted by the International Union in trying to put it into force. Personally, we protest with all the vigor and earnestness we possess, against this opportunity being used to put over and fasten upon the International Union, through the guise of this amendment, a communistic, socialistic, soviet form of government. We are a trade union organized for economic purposes. If there are any members who want to form a new political party or who favor the soviet form of government, there is already in existence a political party where they can gratify their desires in that direction. They have no constitutional right and no moral right to attempt to force these dogmas upon other members of the International Union or to destroy the economic, fundamental principles of the International Union, or to make it a tail to any political kite.

The letter of R. S. Sexton, published in this issue of the Journal, has a direct interest when considering the Boston Amendment.

In this issue you will find a proposed amendment to hold a convention. It should at least get the required Convention. number of endorsements in order that the question may go to popular vote.

The whole world is going through the process of remaking. What the harvest will be, insofar as the immediate and future condition of the workers is concerned, depends partly upon the workers themselves. The Cigar Makers' International Union can not afford to let the present opportunity go by without giving some expression to its combined thoughts, its hopes, and its aspirations. We should, and we must, if we fulfill our obligations and perform our plain duty, first realize our responsibility, and secondly embrace the opportunity to be heard through a convention. The end of the war has brought a new thought and a new concept into the minds and hearts of the workers here and elsewhere. Many are going to be disappointed in any event with the harvest. Many more will be disappointed unless labor asserts itself in no uncertain terms, and unless labor uses all means, including the convention, for the purpose of giving expression to precisely what it thinks it ought to get in the new deal, new life.

The good things of life do not grow on bushes, nor are they combed out of the air. Everything of value and of interest, which makes for the betterment of mankind is the result of hard work and the thoughtful, earnest consideration and action of thoughtful men and women. We have an opportunity right now to improve economic conditions. If this opportunity is neglected those responsible for the neglect will achieve absolutely nothing in the way of improved economic and living conditions. On the other hand an attempt to do too much or to accomplish the impossible will also result in disastrous failure. The war has not changed conditions; it has simply given us the opportunity to create new and improved conditions. This opportunity should not be neglected. Let us at least create the opportunity to give expression, through our chosen representatives in convention assembled.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Philadelphia has over 100,000 textile workers.

The French senate passed the eight-hour labor bill, which now becomes a law.

Wages in Denmark increased about 28 per cent between April, 1914, and April, 1917, and about 53 per cent up to April, 1918.

The total alien immigration in 1914 was 1,218,490; 1915, 326,700; 1916, 298,826; 1917, 295,403; 1918, 110,618.

The great majority of women who replaced men during the war are unorganized.

Practically 50 per cent of the total number of vessels launched in 1918 were built in the United States.

The average wage of the ordinary farm laborer in England has been advanced during the war from $3.50 a week to $6.75 a week.

Two-thirds of the women who replaced men in various positions in New York state receive less than $15 a week.

In comparing changes in trade union wage rates and in retail prices of food from 1907 to 1918, the United States Bureau of Labor statistics shows that an hour's wages in 1918 purchased but 79 per cent as much food as in 1913, and a week's wages but 77 per cent as much.

As compared with 1907 an hour's wages in 1918 bought but 72 per cent as much food and a week's wages but 69 per cent as much food.

Enforcement of the child labor tax provisions of the revenue act will be continued "vigorously" by the bureau of internal revenue regardless of the decision of a North Carolina court holding the child labor section of the act unconstitutional.

In making this announcement Daniel C. Roper, commissioner of internal revenue, pointed out that the section's constitutionality "is a question to be decided by the supreme court of the United States." In addition to 15 inspectors employed by the revenue bureau to ascertain the ages of children employed in businesses coming within the scope of the law, the bureau's entire force of agents and deputy collectors, it was said, will be enlisted in carrying out the provisions of the section, which became effective April 26.

Public debt of the United States government is reported by the treasury as $24,824,345,000.

Most of this represents Liberty bonds of the first, second, third and fourth issues. The Victory Liberty loan is not included. No deduction is made for the $3,852,000,000 loaned to foreign governments. Consequently the net debt would be approximately $16,000,000,000.

The treasury plans to issue bonds later this year and next that will aggregate $5,000,000, so that the gross public debt of the United States is expected by treasury officials to be in the neighborhood of $30,000,000,000 when the period of war financing ends.

"A Boston union wants to reorganize the government of the United States in such a manner as to place it under the jurisdiction of the American Federation of Labor. A delegate to the Mooney Congress said: "Every freak and nutty proposition seems to come from Seattle." This delegate had not yet heard from Boston. Seattle as a freak breeder must now step down to second position, though there will doubtless be keen rivalry between the two cities for the coveted first place."—Labor Clarion.

What have you done for your Union? You are a good union man, or at least you call yourself so. You pay your dues, abide by the governing rules, go to regular meetings once in a while and generally do as you please, but what have you done for your union? Do you seek to advance its aims? Do you read and talk over news of activities in the labor world, particularly news that applies to your field? Do you stand up for your union at any and all times? Do you fully understand the enormous problems confronting labor armies today? Do you realize that the real leaders in the labor world are seeking, striving, working, to make the world a better place to live in for all workers? Do you know that to bring this about they must have the rank and file of the great army of workers solidly behind them? Do you allow political mountebanks to lead you around by the nose when bitter experience has proven to you that you are used only for push-buttons? A. D. 1919 is going down in history as the year when organized labor was discovered. Do you wish to be listed as one of the crew of the good ship, Discovery, or have you signed up with the lurking submarine, Destroyer? If the former, get out and work for your union, for all unions. Talk it and think it, and above all, vote it! Stick together lest piratical Capital hang you singly. Columbus pawned a queen's jewels to discover America. Greedy American Kings of Wealth would hock the Statue of Liberty to hold it. Be something besides a card holder and a button wearer. Do something for your union—all unions!—Brewery Workers' Journal.

TRADE NOTES.

The Consolidated Cigar Company, recently organized under the laws of Delaware and capitalized for $14,000,000, becomes at once a giant in the cigar manufacturing game.

This corporation now becomes the owner of the cigar manufacturing interests of T. J. Dunn and Co. and E. M. Schwarz and Co. of New York and the Lillies Cigar Co. of Detroit. Carried with and into the corporation are the subsidiaries of the New York firms of which Jose Lovera, Sam'l I. Davis and the El Sidelco companies are the largest.

Some twenty-seven factories employing at present upwards of 12,000 people and capable of producing approximately 400,000,000 cigars a year will come under the new management.

The following table gives in detail the amount of tobacco, both wrappers and fillers, remaining in bonded warehouses of this country on March 31, 1918 and 1919:

	1919. Pounds.	1918. Pounds.
Leaf, suitable for Wrappers 4,704,527	4,704,527	4,044,166
All others 51,550,441	51,550,441	50,009,447
Total	56,254,968	54,054,113

The total stock of leaf tobacco for cigar wrappers and fillers held in bonded warehouses of the United States on March 31, 1919, was 56,254,968 pounds, against 54,054,113 pounds in the corresponding period last year, which represents an increase of 2,200,855 pounds, and when similar comparisons are made with the previous month of February, 1919, shows 56,254,968 pounds, against 56,712,201 pounds, a decrease for March, 1919, to the amount of 457,233 pounds.

In the last report from W. Trinidad, Collector of Internal Revenue at Manila Station, he states that the total exports of cigars to the United States from Manila during the month of March was 21,311,103. By stamp classification the exports were as follows: Class A, 12,641,972; Class B, 8,355,497; Class C, 312,634.

Present indications are that the total acreage this year in the Connecticut Valley will not be less than the average for the past three years. It is expected, however, that shade grown will be decreased approximately thirty per cent due largely to the increased cost of cloth.

This conclusion is reached on the result of a close canvass of the Windsor district, where in 1918 1,370 acres were grown under cloth and where but 1,070 acres will be shaded this year, and on the same general reports from other districts.

Unfavorable weather conditions are seeding and transplanting time have ruled in practically all cigar tobacco growing districts, making the season so far a late one.

The tobacco quantity of leaf tobacco on hand in the warehouses of manufacturers and dealers in this country on April 1, 1919, was 1,627,233,876 pounds, against 1,466,168,711 pounds in the corresponding period last year, which is an increase for the current year period to the amount of 162,065,165 pounds, and when similar comparisons are made with the month of January, 1919, shows 1,627,233,876 pounds, against 1,234,884,396 pounds, representing an increase for April 1, 1919, to the amount of 392,349,480 pounds.

The total amount of cigar types on hand April 1, 1919, was 303,565,869 pounds, against 319,992,598 on April 1, 1918, and 254,309,061 pounds January 1, 1919, representing a decrease of 16,426,729 pounds, an increase of 49,256,819 pounds, respectively.

The following comparative table gives the amount on hand April 1, 1919, by types:

Cigar Types.	April 1, 1919. Pounds.	April 1, 1918. Pounds.
Broad Leaf	24,165,049	26,476,846
Havana Seed	31,370,281	34,116,711

The American Sumatra Company, the foremost producer in the world of shade grown tobacco for cigar wrappers, have issued new convertible bonds to the amount of $6,000,000.

Its properties consist of extensive plantations in Florida, Georgia and Connecticut totaling over 36,000 acres. In addition to its own plantations the company maintains a large organization for the buying and selling of tobacco.

The popularity of shade grown wrappers has increased the company's business over 1,500 per cent in the last ten years.

Some interesting facts on the price of tobacco, one of the usual topics of "Shop talk," are shown in the following statistics compiled by the Bureau of Crop Estimates, Department of Agriculture.

While the report does not cover 1918, the year of the highest prices, our memories will serve us in this respect and we can complete the table to date. It is understood that these average prices are paid to the grower so we are also by a careful study of them able to determine just what the middleman exacts from the plantation to the shop.

From the port of New York, during March, tobacco exports comprised unstemmed leaf tobacco, 20,095,610 pounds valued at $7,329,170; cigars, 2,417,000 valued at $75,992; cigarettes, 525,599,000 valued at $1,305,508; plug tobacco, 566,710 pounds valued at $276,284; smoking tobacco, 644,442 pounds valued at $552,272, and other tobacco valued at $87,007, making the total value of tobacco products exported from New York that month, $10,026,253.

The following resolution was adopted by the National Leaf Tobacco Association in their 21st annual convention held at Lancaster, Pa., May 10 and 11.

To Oppose "Anti-Tobacco Propaganda."
"WHEREAS, It is evident that agitators are constantly at work against tobacco and
"WHEREAS, Silence lends consent to such agitations, therefore be it

"RESOLVED, That a committee of five be appointed by the President; said committee to have full powers to take any action at any time as in their judgment may be advisable to counteract the effort of any anti-tobacco propaganda."

In their first "Whereas" they state a fact pregnant with truth at the present time and in their second "Whereas" they put the present policy of the average cigar manufacturer and cigar maker in its actual light.

We are silent and inactive and to remain so means that we shall later on have to become feverishly active at a time when the game is all the harder to beat. To fight a full grown movement of this kind and magnitude means the expenditure of many thousands of dollars and effort beyond measure, while if properly handled in its infancy by the proper spirit of co-operative attack it could easily be made abortive.

These great increases in exportation of tobacco have been made in the face of greatly increased prices. The average export price of leaf tobacco has advanced from 8.7c per pound in 1900 to 11.9c in 1913; 14.7c in 1917 and 33c per pound in the middle of 1918. The value of tobacco exported from the United States since 1900 is approximately $1,000,000,000.—"Tobacco."

The following official statement is made regarding a new tobacco company with foreign retail expansion plans: "The United Retail Stores Corporation was organized at Wilmington, Del., Monday under laws of that state with an authorized capital stock consisting of 100,000 shares 8 per cent cumulative preferred and 1,160,000 shares common stock without par value. All shares have equal voting power."

It is understood George J. Whelan, founder of the United Cigar Stores Co., has caused this corporation to be organized to take advantage of present conditions to extend system of retail chain stores around the world for merchandise of all kinds. It is also understood substantial amount of stock has already been underwritten. Announcements of purpose and plans of the company will be made in the near future.

The American cigarette has captured the Oriental. He is demanding them not merely by millions but literally by billions. The number of cigarettes exported to the Orient in the fiscal year which ends with next month will exceed 8,000,000,000 against less than 2,000,000,000 in 1915, and the value for the current fiscal year will be approximately $16,000,000 against $3,000,000 in 1915.

This increase in the exports of American cigarettes to British territory both at home and abroad may be the explanation of the recent tremendous increase in exports of American leaf tobacco to the United Kingdom. At least it is a fact that the exportation of leaf tobacco from the United States to Great Britain jumped from $25,825,723 value in the calendar year 1916 to $70,141,735 in the calendar year 1918 and seems likely to amount to over $100,000,000 in the fiscal year 1919, bringing the total exports of tobacco in all forms in the fiscal year which ends with next month up to approximately $200,000,000 as against $35,605,000 in 1909, $55,169,000 in 1913, and $152,965,000 in the calendar year 1918.

Review and General Trade Statistics.

While trade in some lines is slackening, as it always does just before the beginning of harvest when buying waits upon the outcome of crops, other lines are showing an increase far greater than expected.

Confidence in the future is growing as is evinced by the sale of fall and winter goods.

Two factors dominate the future. The first is crop conditions, with prospects of the very best, especially wheat, and the second is the European situation.

There appears to be a steady drift toward the belief in a League of Nations under some covenant which will, when enacted, remove the remaining clouds of uncertainty.

The steel trade remains inactive with little new business in sight. Contracts for supplying 200,000 tons of steel rails have been let by the Director General of Railroads. The contracts were divided among six manufacturers, the prices quoted by all being uniform. Shipyards are ordering heavily but no great improvement is noted in structural steel as the greater number of buildings now under construction are small and the amount necessary is negligible.

The raw cotton market for some time has been attempting to influence prices by withholding the staple from the market and by a wide spread propaganda to pledge growers to reduce acreage this year by at least one third. It is estimated that there is enough cotton in sight now, without taking into account that held on farms, to last six months at the present rate of domestic consumption.

The dominant feature of the wool market is the surplus of raw material, the government alone holding 500,000,000 pounds. The proper distribution of this enormous amount of wool together with the distribution of manufactured woolen goods also held by the Government should have a tendency to reduce the cost of woolen articles to the consumer but it appears that instead of any reduction in any line all prices are continually rising.

Food stocks in the United States May 1, including holdings in elevators, warehouses, grain mills, and wholesale dealers, as reported by the department of agriculture, show large holdings of wheat, mixed and buckwheat flour, and rice. Cold storage houses are filled to their capacity with meat and dairy products and the ordinary seasonable vegetables are almost prohibitive in price. According to the old argument of "Supply and Demand" we should now be enjoying moderate prices for the "Supply" is surely far above the average at present.

The European trade situation depends on the establishing of adequate credits which must necessarily await the peace treaty. France is rehabilitating her own mills and mines, England will depend largely on her colonies, while the other European countries will only become buyers in the American market when credits again become stabilized.

The entire absence of financial difficulties, even ordinary business failures being far less than is usual under normal conditions, is one of the crucial features of the present situation. The "Money Stringency" which has invariably characterized similar conditions in this country has so far failed to materialize and we are spared the added horrors of bank failures and the misery they entail on the workers through the loss of savings.

The following resolution was introduced in the convention of the Label Department of the American Federation of Labor and in the regular convention of the American Federation of Labor:

Whereas, The cigar manufacturers of Detroit, employing about 8,000, fully 90 per cent of whom are unorganized and many of whom are women, foreign born or of foreign extraction,

Whereas, These manufacturers taking advantage of the unorganized condition of these workers and their lack of knowledge of America and our institutions, have so reduced wages and working conditions that a condition exists which is a disgrace to America and her institutions,

Whereas, In justification of the foregoing statement 16 persons and members familiar with the cigar industry of Detroit, all being duly sworn, have made affidavits, in substance as follows:

Harry Carpenter and Henry Verbonggen: That the Hemeter Cigar Co. of Detroit fined them 25c each for each thousand cigars if not sufficient cigars were rolled out of the tobacco, and compelled each worker to turn in 2 free cigars on each 1,000. Fines amounted to as much as $1.25 a week.

Tessie McKay: That she worked for the Mazzer Cigar Co. and received for a 5½ Marble Head shape cigars, as a roller, $5.50 per 1,000, the bunch maker, $3.00, total $8.50. The union cigarmaker received $20.00 per thousand for Marble Heads.

Anna Polittonska: That she worked at the San Telmo Cigar Co., where about 1,000 girls were employed, making the Pastora 5½-inch, 10-11-cent cigar; prices paid 25c a hundred, but was compelled to make 1 free out of each 100; a system of fines prevailed. The union price on same class of cigars is $1.00 per hundred. This firm takes from the workers, based on the prices union factories pay, at least $1,500,000.00 in wages besides the free cigars.

Dorothy Paradowska: That she rolled 800 cigars a day and made 8 free cigars; that she was fined 10 and 20c per 1,000 for making less out of tobacco than demanded. Other girls fined as much as 40c per M. One girl was fined $1.60 in one day. Prices paid for rolling $4.25 per thousand. Union price $10.00 per thousand. Work is from 6:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. with five minutes for lunch in the factory. Girls who lunch at home are on the run going and coming from lunch.

Marie Lubas, Francis Lubas, and their mother, Mrs. Lubas: That they were employed at San Telmo Cigar Co., Detroit. Rollers at this branch receive $4.40 and bunch breakers $2.25. Hours from 6:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. Girls take from 5 to 10 minutes for lunch; those going out and those going home rush right back. Making one free cigar for each 100 compulsory. On October 1, 1918, an increase of 60c for rolling and 25c for bunch making went into effect, but the system of fining prevails and the increase in wages did not cover the additional fines.

May Hammond and Stella Ward: That the Wayne Cigar Co. (renamed General Cigar Co.) paid $8.50 for 1,000 made by team, which was equally divided. Girls had to strip own wrappers. Union price for same class of work $21.00 per thousand. System of fines prevails. Hours from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. (Marie Lubas also testified to substantially same statement.) No free makes or fines permitted in union shops.

Stella Kierzawska: That the Lillies Cigar Co. pays different prices for rolling and bunch making to different girls. Some receive $2.50 and others up to $4.00 for rolling the same cigars. The system of rolling one free to every 100 and being fined generously prevails. Hours from 7 a. m. to 5 and 6 p. m. Fines are definite, being $1.00 a week for failure to keep within the limit on stock.

Thos. Keating: That he received $2.50 per 1,000 making bunches at the Lillies Cigar Co. Union price is $5.00. Substantiates statement as to free bunches and fines.

Rose Yellock: Testifies to the same general prices and conditions prevailing at the Lillie Cigar Co. while working there.

David S. Jones and John Dridamne: That Chas. J. Spletz, part owner and manager of the Wayne Cigar Co., asserted in their presence that he would not consent to run a union factory as long as he could get cattle to make them at their own price, and that he'd be a God damn fool to run a union shop, and that David S. Jones was a God damn fool to bother himself about cattle employed by Wayne Cigar Co.

Whereas, The action of these non-union manufacturers, especially the Havana American Cigar Company, a part of the cigar and tobacco trust, has defied the federal government and the state government by refusing to recognize the official conciliators and mediators of the federal and state government, and, moreover, have denied the right of collective bargaining, the right to organize, and have refused to recognize in any way the local or International Union, or state or city federation of labor;

Whereas, The actions of these autocratic, get-rich-quick concerns, with no thought of anything but the dollar mark which they place above human rights and human welfare, is calculated to, and has created, a spirit of unrest and a state of mind bordering upon hatred, and a feeling of doubt, in which the employees are asking—"Is there any economic justice in America?"—"Are these arrogant institutions so strong and powerful that they can refuse with impunity to meet and treat with government conciliators and mediators, and deny the right of organization and collective bargaining, a right which has been recognized and conceded by the President of the United States, the Congress, and the State, the War Labor Board, and all just and right-thinking men and women?"—and

Whereas, These non-union concerns, especially the American Tobacco Company, which employs thousands of men and women in factories in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Louisiana, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Florida, Porto Rico, and other states, make it doubly difficult to organize the workmen or for the workers to increase wages or shorten the hours of labor, or otherwise improve working conditions, because these employers have the power by closing a local factory or factories where an attempt is made to achieve these things, and then increasing their force on the same brands in other factories not affected, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the American Federation of Labor in convention assembled at Atlantic City, N. J., respectfully request the Honorable William B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor, to cause an investigation of the wages, hours of labor, and working conditions, prevailing in factories owned and operated by the American Tobacco Company and its subsidiary branches, and the cigar industry generally in Detroit, Michigan; and, be it further

Resolved, That the executive officers of the American Federation of Labor are hereby instructed to render the Cigar Makers' International Union all assistance possible through its paid and voluntary organizers, in an effort to organize the unfortunate workers now held in bondage by the American Tobacco Company and its subsidiaries, and other large non-union employers in the cigar industry.

In a statement which will be mailed to holders of registered Liberty Bonds, together with their interest checks, Carter Glass, Secretary of the Treasury, pays high tribute to the 20,000,000 Americans who so patriotically assisted in winning the war by purchasing War Savings Stamps and Liberty Bonds. Mr. Glass urges that the interest on the Liberty Bonds be converted into War Savings Stamps, which pay 4 per cent interest, compounded quarterly. Secretary Glass' statement follows:

"The United States appreciates your unselfish patriotism in lending the money which helped win the war. Upwards of 20,000,000 Americans shared this honor and are receiving during 1919 more than $700,000,000 interest.

"Both good citizenship and your own profit will be served by the reinvestment of your share of this great sum in War Savings Stamps. The government will be saved this immediate outlay in cash. You will profit by the quick reinvestment of your earnings which is the high road to prosperity and comfort."

CARTER GLASS,
Secretary of the Treasury.

LABOR AND THE PEACE CONFERENCE.

Report of the Commission on International Labor Legislation—Draft Convention—Resolutions Adopted by the Commission.

The Journal herewith publishes the complete report of the Commission on International Labor Legislation, together with the draft convention submitted by the Commission to the Peace Conference. There is also included in this publication the Commission's draft of the nine points recommended for insertion in the peace treaty, together with the resolutions and the agenda adopted for the first meeting of the international labor congress to be held in Washington in October, 1919.

The documents here published constitute the entire work of the Commission and will be of permanent historical value as evidence of one of the greatest pieces of constructive work to which the American labor movement ever contributed.

President Gompers was unanimously elected president of the Commission. The Commission was created by the Peace Conference. The Commission sat in Paris for nearly three months, holding sessions on an average of four days a week.—EDITOR.

1. TERMS OF REFERENCE AND CONSTITUTION OF COMMISSION.

The Commission on International Labor Legislation was appointed by the Peace Conference on the 31st of January, 1919. The terms of reference were as follows:

"That a Commission, composed of two representatives apiece from the five Great Powers, and five representatives to be elected by the other Powers represented at the Peace Conference, be appointed to inquire into the conditions of employment from the international aspect, and to consider the international means necessary to secure common action on matters affecting conditions of employment, and to recommend the form of a permanent agency to continue such inquiry and consideration in co-operation with and under the direction of the League of Nations."

At a meeting of the other States on the 27th of January, 1919, it was agreed that Belgium should nominate two representatives on the Commission, and Cuba, Poland and the Czecho-Slovak Republic one each.

The Commission was composed as follows: United States of America—Mr. Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor; Hon. E. N. Hurley, President of the American Shipping Board. (Substitutes: Hon. H. M. Robinson, Dr. J. T. Shotwell, Professor at Columbia University.)

The British Empire—The Rt. Hon. G. N. Barnes, M. P., Member of the War Cabinet. (Substitute: Mr. H. B. Butler, C. B., Assistant Secretary, Ministry of Labor.) Sir Malcolm Delevingne, K. C. B., Assistant Under-Secretary of State, Home Office.

France—Mr. Collard, Minister of Labor. (Substitute: Mr. Arthur Fontaine, Counsellor of State, Director of Labor.) Mr. Loucheur, Minister of Industrial Reconstruction. (Substitute: Mr. Leon Jouhaux, General Secretary of the Confédération Générale du Travail.)

Italy—Baron Mayor des Planches, Hon. Ambassador, Commissioner-General for Emigration. Mr. Cabrini, Deputy, Vice-President of the Supreme Labor Council. (Substitute: Mr. Coletti.)

Japan—Mr. Otchial, Envoy Extraordinary, Minister Plenipotentiary of His Majesty The Emperor of Japan at The Hague. Mr. Oka, formerly Director of Commercial and Industrial Affairs at the Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce.

Belgium—Mr. Vandervelde, Minister of Justice and of State. (Substitute: Mr. La Fontaine, Senator.) Mr. Mahaim, Professor at Liege University, Secretary to the Belgian Section of the Association for the Legal Protection of Workmen.

Cuba—Mr. De Bustamante, Professor at Havana University. (Substitutes: Mr. Raphael Martinez Ortiz, Minister Plenipotentiary; Mr. De Blanck, Minister Plenipotentiary.)

Poland—Count Zoltowski, Member of the Polish National Committee, afterwards replaced by Mr. Stanislas Patek, Counsellor of the Court of Cassation. (Substitute: Mr. Francois Sokal, Director-General of Labor.)

Czecho-Slovak Republic—Mr. Benes, Minister for Foreign Affairs, afterwards replaced by Mr. Rudolph Broz.

The following were appointed officers of the Commission:

President, Mr. Samuel Gompers (U. S. A.).

Vice-Presidents, The Rt. Hon. G. N. Barnes, M. P. (British Empire), Mr. Collard (France). General Secretary, Mr. Arthur Fontaine (France).

Assistant General Secretary, Mr. H. B. Butler (British Empire).

Secretaries, Baron Capelle (substitute, Count de Grunne), Belgium; Mr. di Palma Castiglione, Italy; Mr. Oyster, U. S. A.; Mr. Yoshisaka, Japan.

2. REPORT OF THE COMMISSION.

The Commission has held thirty-five meetings, and has drawn up its conclusions in two parts. The first is a draft convention containing provisions for the establishment of a permanent organization for international labor legislation. This convention, which was based on a draft presented by the British delegation, has been the subject of the most careful examination and discussion. The first part of this report may conveniently take the form of a commentary thereon. The second part of the Commission's conclusions in the form of clauses containing declarations of principle in regard to a number of matters which are of vital importance to the labor world. At the opening sittings, the various delegations agreed on the need for such declarations, which the Commission suggests should be included in the Treaty of Peace, in order that it may mark not only the close of the period which culminated in the world-war, but also the beginning of a better social order and the birth of a new civilization.

PART I.—PERMANENT ORGANIZATION. Preamble.

The main idea underlying the scheme embodied in the Convention is that the constitution of the League of Nations will not provide a real solution of the troubles which have beset the world in the past, and will not even be able to eliminate the seeds of international strife, unless it provides a remedy for the industrial evils and injustices which mar the present state of society. In proposing, therefore, to establish a permanent organization in order to adjust labor conditions by international action, the Commission felt that it was taking an indispensable step towards the achievement of the objects of the League of Nations and has given expression to this idea in the Preamble, which defines the objects and scope of the proposed organization.

Chapter I.

Chapter I provides the machinery of the permanent organization proposed. In the first place, it is stipulated (Article 1) that participation in this organization shall be a condition of membership of the League of Nations, since every State Member of the League is morally bound to accept the principles set forth in the Preamble, if it has really at heart the promotion of the cause of justice and humanity.

The organization itself is divided into two parts: (1) The International Labor Conference; (2) The International Labor Office controlled by a Governing Body. (Article 2.)

1. International Labor Conference.

This Conference will meet at least annually and will consist of delegates nominated by each of the High Contracting Parties, two of whom will be directly appointed by the Governments, and the other two will be chosen in agreement with the industrial organizations representative of their employers and workpeople respectively. (Article 3.)

Each delegate will vote individually (Article 4). It was strongly felt by the Commission that if the Conference was really to be representative of all those concerned with industry and to command their confidence, the employers and workpeople must be allowed to express their views with complete frankness and freedom, and that a departure from the traditional procedure of voting by national units was therefore necessary. It was accordingly thought that the employers' and workpeople's delegates should be entitled to speak and vote independently of their Governments.

Moreover, it was likely, especially in the future, that the Government delegates would vote more often with the workers than against them. If this were so, it was obviously to the advantage of the latter that the Governments should have two votes instead of one, as it would render it easier for them to obtain a two-thirds majority, which under the Franco-American proposal would be practically impossible, if the employers voted in a body against them.

The Commission finally decided by a narrow majority to maintain the proposal that each Government should have two delegates.

The Italian delegation, which united with the French delegation in urging the importance of securing representation for agricultural interests, were to some extent reconciled to the above decision by the consideration that, as the Governments would have two delegates, it would be easier to secure such representation. It should also be observed that, as different technical advisers may be appointed for each subject of discussion, agricultural advisers may be selected, when necessary.

2. International Labor Office (Articles 6 to 13).

This office will be established at the seat of the League of Nations, as part of its administrative organization. It will be controlled by a governing body of 24 members, the composition of which is provided for in the Protocol to Article 7. Like the Conference, the governing body will consist of representatives of the Governments, employers and workpeople. It will include 12 representatives of the Governments, 8 of whom will be nominated by the States of chief industrial importance, and the remaining 12 will consist of six members nominated by the employers' delegates to the Conference and six nominated by the workers' delegates. The objects and functions of the office are sufficiently explained in the articles referred to.

CHAPTER II.

1. Procedure (Articles 14 to 21).

This portion of the Convention contains one article of vital importance, namely, Article 19, which treats of the obligations of the States concerned in regard to the adoption and ratification of draft conventions agreed upon by the International Conference.

The original draft proposed that any draft convention adopted by the Conference by a two-thirds majority must be ratified by every State participating, unless within one year the national legislature should have expressed its disapproval of the draft convention. This implied an obligation on every State to submit any draft convention approved by the Conference to its national legislature within one year, whether its own government representatives had voted in favor of its adoption or not. This provision was inspired by the belief that, although the time had not yet come when anything in the nature of an international legislature, whose decisions should be binding on the different States was possible, yet it was essential for the progress of international labor legislation to require the Governments to give their national legislatures the opportunity of expressing their opinion on the measures favored by a two-thirds majority of the Labor Conference.

The French and Italian delegations, on the other hand, desired that States should be under an obligation to ratify conventions so adopted, whether their legislative authorities approved them or not, subject to a right of appeal to the Executive Council of the League of Nations. The Council might invite the Conference to reconsider its decision, and in the event of its being reaffirmed there would be no further right of appeal.

Other delegations, though not unsympathetic to the hope expressed in the first resolution printed at the end of the draft convention, that in the course of time the Labor Conference might, through the growth of the spirit of internationality, acquire the powers of a truly legislative international assembly, felt that the time for such a development was not yet ripe. If an attempt were made at this stage to deprive States of a large measure of their sovereignty in regard to labor legislation, the result would be that a considerable number of States would either refuse to accept the present convention altogether, or, if they accepted it, would subsequently denounce it, and might even prefer to resign their membership of the League of Nations rather than jeopardize their national economic position by being obliged to carry out the decisions of the International Labor Conference. The majority of the Commission therefore decided in favor of making ratification of a convention subject to the approval of the national legislatures or other competent authorities.

The American delegation, however, found themselves unable to accept the obligations implied in the British draft on account of the limitations imposed on the central executive and legislative powers by the constitution of certain federal States, and notably of the United States themselves. They pointed out that the Federal Government could not accept the obligation to ratify conventions dealing with matters within the competence of the forty-eight States of the Union, with which the power of labor legislation for the most part rested. Further, the Federal Government could not guarantee that the constituent States, even if they passed the necessary legislation to give effect to a convention, would put it into effective operation, nor could it provide against the possibility of such legislation being declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Judicial authorities. The Government could not therefore engage to do something which was not within their power to perform, and the non-performance of which would render them liable to complaint.

The Commission felt that they were here faced by a serious dilemma, which threatened to make the establishment of any real system of international labor legislation impossible. On the one hand, its range and effectiveness would be almost fatally limited if a country of such industrial importance as the United States did not participate. On the other hand, if the scheme were so weakened as to impose no obligation on States to give effect to, or even to bring before their legislative authorities, the decisions of the Labor Conference, it was clear that its work would tend to be confined to the mere passage of resolutions instead of resulting in the promotion of social reforms with the sanction of law behind them.

The Commission spent a considerable amount of time in attempting to devise a way out of this dilemma, and is glad to be able to record that it ultimately succeeded in doing so. Article 19 as now drafted represents a solution found by a Sub-Commission consisting of representatives of the American, British and Belgian delegations specially appointed to consider the question. It provides that the decisions of the Labor Conference may take the form either of recommendations or of draft conventions. Either must be deposited with the Secretary-General of the League of Nations and each State undertakes to bring it within one year before its competent authorities for the enactment of legislation or other action. If no legislation or other action to make a recommendation effective follows, or if a draft convention fails to obtain the consent of the competent authorities concerned, no further obligation will rest on the State in question. In the case of a Federal State, however, whose power to enter into conventions on labor matters is subject to limitations, its Government may treat a draft convention to which such limitations apply as a recommendation only.

The Commission felt that there might in any event be instances in which the form of a recommendation affirming a principle would be more suitable than that of a draft convention, which must necessarily provide for the detailed application of principles in a form which would be generally applicable by every State concerned. Subjects will probably come before the Conference which, owing to their complexity and the wide differences in the circumstances of different countries, will be incapable of being reduced to any universal and uniform mode of application. In such cases a convention might prove impossible, but a recommendation of principles in more or less detail which left the individual States freedom to apply them in the manner best suited to their conditions would undoubtedly have considerable value.

The exception in the case of Federal States is of greater importance. It places the United States and States which are in a similar position under a less degree of obligation than other States in regard to draft conventions. But it will be observed that the exception extends only to those Federal States which are subject to limitations in respect of their treaty-making powers on labor matters, and further that it only extends in so far as those limitations apply in any particular case. It will not apply in the case of a convention to which the limitations do not apply, or after any such limitations as may at present exist have been removed. Though reluctant to contemplate an arrangement under which all States would not be under identical obligations, the Commission felt that it was impossible not to recognize the constitutional difficulties which undoubtedly existed in the case of certain Federal States, and therefore proposed the above solution as the best possible in the circumstances.

Attention should be drawn to the protocol to Article 19. The fear was expressed that the article might be interpreted as implying that a State would be required to diminish the protection already afforded to the workers by its legislation as a result of the adoption of a recommendation or draft convention by the Conference; and in consequence, the protocol was added in order to make it quite clear that such an interpretation was inadmissible.

It should be added that the Japanese delegation abstained from voting on Article 19, as they had not yet received instructions from their government in the matter. The Italian delegation also abstained on the ground of the inadequacy of the powers given to the Conference.

2. Enforcement (Articles 22 to 34).

These articles provide machinery whereby a State which fails to carry out its obligations arising under Article 19, or which fails to enforce a convention which it has ratified, may be made subject to economic measures. This machinery is briefly as follows:

An industrial association of employers and workpeople may make representations to the International Labor Office which the governing body may at its discretion communicate to the State complained of for its observations. (Article 23.) If no satisfactory reply is received, the Governing Body may publish the correspondence (Article 24), which in most cases will probably create sufficient pressure by public opinion to cause the complaint to be remedied.

The Governing Body also has the power, either on its own motion or on receipt of a complaint from a Government or from a delegate to the Conference to apply to the Secretary-General of the League of Nations to nominate a commission of enquiry. For the purpose of such enquiries, each High Contracting Party undertakes to nominate one employer, one workman and one person of independent standing, and each commission shall consist of one person drawn from each of these three categories (Articles 25 and 26). The Commission will report on the facts, recommend the steps which should be taken to meet the complaint, and indicate the economic measures, if any, which it considers would be appropriate in the event of the condition complained of not being remedied (Article 28).

Appeal may be made to the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations, which shall have power to review the findings of the Commission (Articles 29 to 32). If the defaulting State fails to carry out the recommendations of the Commission or the Permanent Court, as the case may be, within the specified time, it will then be open to the other States to take the economic measures indicated against it (Article 33).

It will be seen that the above procedure has been carefully devised in order to avoid the imposition of penalties, except in the last resort, when a State has flagrantly and persistently refused to carry out its obligations under a convention. It can hardly be doubted that it will seldom, if ever be necessary to bring these powers into operation, but the Commission consider that the fact of their existence is nevertheless a matter of almost vital importance to the success of the scheme.

The representatives of the working classes in some countries have pressed their delegates to urge more drastic provisions in regard to penalties. The Commission, while taking the view that it will in the long run be preferable as well as more effective to rely on the pressure of international public opinion rather than on economic measures, nevertheless considers it necessary to retain the possibility of the latter in the background. If all forms of sanction were removed, the effectiveness of the scheme, and, what is almost equally important, the belief in its effectiveness, would be in a great measure destroyed.

CHAPTER III.

General.

This chapter does not call for much comment, but attention should perhaps be drawn to the provisions of Article 35, which provide that the British Dominions and India, and any colonies or possessions of any State which may hereafter be recognized as fully self-governing by the Executive Council of the League of Nations, shall have the same rights and obligations under the convention as if they were separate High Contracting Parties. It seemed evident to the Commission that colonies which were fully self-governing, not only as regards labor legislation but generally, must be regarded as separate entities for the purposes of the Labor Conference, but it was decided that a State and its self-governing colonies should not have more than one seat in the Governing Body. In the case of colonies which are not fully self-governing, the mother country undertakes the obligation to apply labor conventions to them, unless local conditions render it impossible to apply them either wholly or in part.

CHAPTER IV.

Transitory Provisions.

This chapter provides, inter alia, for the holding of the first Conference in October, 1919.

The Commission felt it was essential that the Conference should meet at the earliest possible moment, but that, if it was to do its work effectively, some time must be allowed for the collection of information and for the different countries to prepare their views on the various subjects for discussion. The Conference could, therefore, hardly meet earlier than October. In the schedule to Article 39, it is proposed that the arrangements for this Conference should be made by an international committee consisting of representatives of the States named, with power to invite other States to send representatives, if necessary. It is suggested that the United States Government might be willing to convene the Conference at Washington, and the Commission much hopes that they will be willing to undertake this task. It is also suggested that the Peace Conference should approve the agenda set out in the same schedule.

The Italian delegation proposed that all Nations should be admitted to the Conference immediately after the signature of the Peace Treaty, but the Commission confined itself to passing the second resolution attached to the draft convention.

In conclusion, it should be remarked that after a long discussion on the question of adopting certain measures in the interest of seamen, the Commission thought that "the very special questions concerning the minimum conditions to be accorded to seamen might be dealt with at a special meeting of the International Labor Conference devoted exclusively to the affairs of seamen," at which the delegates and technical advisers could accordingly be chosen from the shipping community. (See resolution attached to the Convention.)

PART II.—Labor Clauses.

The Commission were unanimous in thinking that their work would not be complete if it were simply confined to setting up a permanent machinery for International Labor Legislation. It was not within their competence or within their terms of reference to deal with specific questions relating to industrial conditions and to work them out with the detail necessary for the framing of proposals which could be accepted in a binding form. So impressed were they, however, with the urgent need for recognizing explicitly certain fundamental principles as necessary to social progress, that they decided to submit a series of declarations for insertion in the Peace Treaty. They did not feel called upon, however, to draw up a charter containing all the reforms which may be hoped for in a more or less distant future, but confined themselves to principles the realization of which may be contemplated in the near future.

It will be seen that the High Contracting Parties are not asked to give immediate effect to them, but only to endorse them generally. It will be the duty of the International Labor Conference to examine them thoroughly and to put them in the form of recommendations or draft conventions elaborated with the detail necessary for their practical application.

Proposals were placed before the Commission by the Italian, French, American, Belgian and British delegations as to the declarations which should be made. The Commission decided that no declaration should be submitted to the Peace Conference, unless it were adopted by a two-thirds majority, and it now has the honor of submitting nine declarations, all of which obtained such a majority and some of which were adopted unanimously.

It should be added, in conclusion, that a maajority, but not a two-thirds majority, was obtained for a proposal couched in very general terms which suggested the application to agriculture of the general principles of labor legislation, and which arose out of an Italian proposal in regard to the limitation of the hours of work in agriculture. The delegates who voted against this proposal were, as they explained, by no means hostile to its general idea, but they thought that a proposal in such wide terms was not suitable for inclusion among the declarations to be put forward.

3. DRAFT CONVENTION.

A Draft Convention Creating a Permanent Organization for the Promotion of the International Regulation of Labor Conditions.

Preamble.

Whereas, The League of Nations has for its object the establishment of universal peace, and such a peace can be established only if it is based upon social justice;

And whereas conditions of labor exist involving such injustice, hardship and privation to large numbers of people as to produce unrest so great that the peace and harmony of the world are imperilled; and an improvement of those conditions is urgently required: as, for example, by the regulation of the hours of work, including the establishment of a maximum working day and week, the regulation of the labor supply, the prevention of unemployment, the provision of an adequate living wage, the protection of the worker against sickness, disease and injury arising out of his unemployment, the protection of children, young persons and women, provision for old age and injury, protection of the interests of workers when employed in countries other than their own, recognition of the principle of freedom of association, the organization of technical and vocational education and other measures;

Whereas also the failure of any nation to adopt humane conditions of labor is an obstacle in the way of other nations which desire to improve the conditions in their own countries;

The High Contracting Parties, moved by sentiments of justice and humanity, as well as by the desire to secure the permanent peace of the world, agree to the following convention:

CHAPTER I.—Organization.

Article 1.

The High Contracting Parties, being the States members of the League of Nations, hereby decide to establish a permanent organization for the promotion of the objects set forth in the Preamble, and for this purpose hereby accept the provisions contained in the following Articles.

Article 2.

The permanent organization shall consist of (i) a General Conference of Representatives of the High Contracting Parties and (ii) an International Labor Office controlled by the Governing Body described in Article 7.

Article 3.

The meetings of the General Conference of Representatives of the High Contracting Parties shall be held from time to time as occasion may require, and at least once in every year. It shall be composed of four representatives of each of the High Contracting Parties, of whom two shall be Government delegates and the two others shall be delegates representing respectively the employers and the workpeople of each of the High Contracting Parties.

Each delegate may be accompanied by advisers, who shall not exceed two in number for each item on the agenda of the meeting. When questions specially affecting women are to be considered by the Conference, one at least of the advisers should be a woman.

The High Contracting Parties undertake to nominate non-Government delegates and advisers chosen in agreement with the industrial organizations, if such organizations exist, which are most representative of employers or workpeople, as the case may be, in their respective countries.

Each delegate may be accompanied at each sitting of the Conference by not more than two advisers. The advisers shall not speak except on a request made by the delegate whom they accompany and by the special authorization of the President of the Conference, and may not vote.

A delegate may in writing addressed to the President appoint one of his advisers to act as his deputy, and the adviser, while so acting, shall be allowed to speak and vote.

The names of the delegates and their advisers will be communicated to the International Labor Office by the Government of each of the High Contracting Parties.

The credentials of delegates and their advisers shall be subject to scrutiny by the Conference, which may, by two-thirds of the votes cast by the delegates present, refuse to admit any delegate or adviser whom it deems not to have been nominated in accordance with the undertaking contained in this Article.

Article 4.

Every delegate shall be entitled to vote individually on all matters which are taken into consideration by the Conference.

If one of the High Contracting Parties fails to nominate one of the non-Government delegates whom it is entitled to nominate, the other non-Government delegate shall be allowed to sit and speak at the Conference, but not to vote.

If in accordance with Article 3 the Conference refuses admission to a delegate of one of the High Contracting Parties, the provisions of the present Article shall apply as if that delegate had not been nominated.

Article 5.

The meetings of the Conference shall be held at the seat of the League of Nations, or at such other place as may be decided by the Conference at a previous meeting by two-thirds of the votes cast by the delegates present.

Article 6.

The International Labor Office shall be established at the seat of the League of Nations as part of the organization of the League.

Article 7.

The International Labor Office shall be under the control of a Governing Body consisting of 24 members, appointed in accordance with the provisions of the Protocol hereto.

The Governing Body shall, from time to time, elect one of its members to act as its Chairman, shall regulate its own procedure and shall fix its own times of meeting. A special meeting shall be held if a written request to that effect is made by at least 10 members.

Article 8.

There shall be a Director of the International Labor Office, appointed by the Governing Body, who shall, subject to the instructions of the Governing Body, be responsible for the efficient conduct of the International Labor Office and for such other duties as may be assigned to him.

The Director or his deputy shall attend all meetings of the Governing Body.

Article 9.

The staff of the International Labor Office shall be appointed by the Director, who shall, so far as is possible with due regard to the efficiency of the work of the office, select persons of different nationalities. A certain number of these persons should be women.

Article 10.

The functions of the International Labor Office shall include the collection and distribution of information on all subjects relating to the international adjustment of conditions of industrial life and labor, and particularly the examination of subjects which it is proposed to bring before the Conference with a view to the conclusion of international conventions, and the conduct of such special investigations as may be ordered by the Conference.

It will prepare the agenda for the meetings of the Conference.

It will carry out the duties required of it by the provisions of this Convention in connection with international disputes.

It will edit and publish a periodical paper in the French and English languages, and in such other languages as the Governing Body may think desirable, dealing with problems of industry and employment of international interest.

Generally, in addition to the functions set out in this article, it shall have such other functions, powers and duties as may be assigned to it by the Conference.

Article 11.

The Government departments of any of the High Contracting Parties which deal with questions of industry and employment may communicate directly with the Director through the representative of their State on the Governing Body of the International Labor Office, or failing any such representative, through such other qualified official as the Government may nominate for the purpose.

Article 12.

The International Labor Office shall be entitled to the assistance of the Secretary General of the League of Nations in any matter in which it can be given.

Article 13.

Each of the High Contracting Parties will pay the traveling and subsistence expenses of its delegates and their advisers and of its representatives attending the meetings of the Conference or Governing Body, as the case may be.

All the other expenses of the International Labor Office and of the meetings of the Conference or Governing Body shall be paid to the Director by the Secretary General of the League of Nations out of the general funds of the League.

The Director shall be responsible to the Secretary General of the League for the proper expenditure of all moneys paid to him in pursuance of this Article.

CHAPTER II.—PROCEDURE.

Article 14.

The agenda for all meetings of the Conference will be settled by the Governing Body, who shall consider any suggestion as to the agenda that may be made by the Government of any of the High Contracting Parties or by any representative organization recognized for the purpose of Article 3.

Article 15.

The Director shall act as the Secretary of the Conference, and shall circulate the agenda to reach the High Contracting Parties, and through them the non-Government Delegates when appointed, four months before the meeting of the Conference.

Article 16.

Any of the Governments of the High Contracting Parties may formally object to the inclusion of any item or items in the agenda. The grounds for such objection shall be set forth in a reasoned statement addressed to the Director, who shall circulate it to all the High Contracting Parties. Items to which such objection has been made shall not, however, be excluded from the agenda, if at the Conference a majority of two-thirds of the votes cast by the Delegates present is in favor of considering them.

If the Conference decides (otherwise than under the preceding paragraph) by two-thirds of the votes cast by the delegates present that any subject shall be considered by the Conference, that subject shall be included in the agenda for the following meeting.

Article 17.

The Conference shall regulate its own procedure, shall elect its own President, and may appoint Committees to consider and report on any matter.

Except as otherwise expressly provided in this Convention, all matters shall be decided by a simple majority of the votes cast by the delegates present.

A vote shall be void unless the total number of votes cast is equal to half the number of the delegates attending the Conference.

Article 18.

The Conference may add to any Committees which it appoints technical experts, who shall be assessors without power to vote.

Article 19.

When the Conference has decided on the adoption of proposals with regard to an item in the agenda, it will rest with the Conference to determine whether these proposals should take the form: (a) of a recommendation to be submitted to the High Contracting Parties for consideration with a view to its being given effect by national legislation or otherwise, or (b) of a draft international convention for ratification by the High Contracting Parties.

In either case a majority of two-thirds of the votes cast by the delegates present shall be necessary on the final vote for the adoption of the recommendation or draft convention, as the case may be, by the Conference.

A copy of the recommendation or draft convention shall be authenticated by the signature of the President of the Conference and of the Director and shall be deposited with the Secretary-General of the League of Nations. The Secretary-General will communicate a certified copy of the recommendation or draft convention to each of the High Contracting Parties.

Each of the High Contracting Parties undertakes that it will, within the period of one year at most from the end of the meeting of the Conference (or if it is impossible owing to exceptional circumstances to do so within the period of one year, then at the earliest possible date and in no case later than 18 months from the end of the meeting of the Conference), bring the recommendation or draft convention before the authority or authorities within whose competence the matter lies for the enactment of legislation or other action.

In the case of a recommendation, the High Contracting Parties will inform the Secretary General of the action taken.

In the case of a draft convention, the High Contracting Party will, if it obtains the consent of the authority or authorities within whose competence the matter lies, communicate the formal ratification of the convention to the Secretary-General and will take such action as may be necessary to make effective the provisions of such convention.

If on a recommendation no legislative or other action to make such recommendation effective is taken, or if the draft convention fails to obtain the consent of the authority or authorities within whose competence the matter lies, no further obligation shall rest upon the High Contracting Party.

In the case of a federal State, the power of which to enter into conventions on labor matters is subject to limitations, it shall be in the discretion of the Government of such State to treat a draft convention to which such limitations apply as a recommendation only, and the provisions of this article with respect to recommendations shall apply in such case.

(In regard to the interpretation of this Article reference should be made to the Protocol.)

Article 20.

Any convention so ratified shall be registered by the Secretary-General of the League of Nations, but shall only be binding upon the States which ratify it, subject to any conditions which may be contained in the convention itself.

Article 21.

If any convention laid before the Conference for final consideration fails to secure the support of two-thirds of the votes cast by the delegates present, it shall nevertheless be within the right of any of the High Contracting Parties to agree to such convention among themselves.

Any convention so agreed to shall be communicated by the Governments of the States concerned to the Secretary-General of the League of Nations, who shall register it.

Article 22.

Each of the High Contracting Parties agrees to make an annual report to the International Labor Office on the measures which it has taken to give effect to the provisions of conventions to which it is a party. These reports shall be made in such form and shall contain such particulars as the Governing Body may request. The Director shall lay a summary of these reports before the next meeting of the Conference.

Article 23.

In the event of any representation being made to the International Labor Office by an industrial association of employers or of workpeople that any of the High Contracting Parties has failed to secure in any respect the effective observance within its jurisdiction of any convention to which it is a party, the Governing Body may communicate this representation to the State against which it is made and may invite that State to make such statement on the subject as it may think fit.

Article 24.

If no statement is received within a reasonable time from the State against which the representation is made, or if the statement when received is not deemed to be satisfactory by the Governing Body, the latter shall have the right to publish the representation and the statement, if any, made in reply to it.

Article 25.

Any of the High Contracting Parties shall have the right to file a complaint with the International Labor Office if it is not satisfied that any other of the High Contracting Parties is securing the effective observance of any convention which both have ratified, in accordance with the foregoing articles.

The Governing Body may, if it thinks fit, before referring such a complaint to a Commission of Enquiry, as hereinafter provided for, communicate with the State against which the complaint is made in the manner described in Article 23.

If the Governing Body do not think it necessary to communicate the complaint to the State against which it is made, or if, when they have made such communication, no statement in reply has been received within a reasonable time which the Governing Body considers to be satisfactory, the Governing Body may apply for the appointment of a Commission of Enquiry to consider the complaint and to report thereon.

The Governing Body may adopt the same procedure either of its own motion or on receipt of a complaint from a delegate to the Conference.

When any matter arising out of Articles 24 or 25 is being considered by the Governing Body, the State against which the representation or complaint is made shall, if not already represented thereon, be entitled to send a representative to take part in the proceedings of the Governing Body while the matter is under consideration. Adequate notice of the date on which the matter will be considered shall be given to the State against which the representation or complaint is made.

Article 26.

The Commission of Enquiry shall be constituted in accordance with the following provisions:

Each of the High Contracting Parties agrees to nominate within six months of the date on which this Convention comes into force, three persons of industrial experience, of whom one shall be a representative of employers, one a representative of workpeople, and one a person of independent standing, who shall together form a panel from which the members of the Commission of Enquiry shall be drawn.

The qualifications of the persons so nominated shall be subject to scrutiny by the Governing Body, which may by two-thirds of the votes cast by the members present refuse to accept the nomination of any person whose qualifications do not in its opinion comply with the requirements of the present article.

Upon the application of the Governing Body, the Secretary General of the League of Nations shall nominate three persons one from each section of this panel, to constitute the Commission of Enquiry, and shall designate one of them as the President of the Commission. None of these three persons shall be a person nominated to the panel by any state directly concerned in the complaint.

Article 27.

The High Contracting Parties agree that, in the event of the reference of a complaint to a Commission of Enquiry under Article 25, they will each, whether directly concerned in the complaint or not, place at the disposal of the Commission all the information in their possession which bears upon the subject-matter of the complaint.

Article 28.

When the Commission of Enquiry has fully considered the complaint, it shall prepare a report embodying its findings on all questions of fact relevant to determining the issue between the parties and containing such recommendations as it may think proper as to the steps which should be taken to meet the complaint and the time within which they should be taken.

It shall also indicate in this report the measures, if any, of an economic character against a defaulting State which it considers to be appropriate, and which it considers other States would be justified in adopting.

Article 29.

The Secretary-General of the League of Nations shall communicate the report of the Commission of Enquiry to each of the States concerned in the complaint, and shall cause it to be published.

Each of the States shall within one month inform the Secretary-General of the League of Nations whether or not it accepts recommendations contained in the report of the Commission; and if not, whether it proposes to refer the complaint to the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations.

Article 30.

In the event of any of the High Contracting Parties failing to take within the specified period the action required by Article 19, any other of the High Contracting Parties shall be entitled to refer the matter to the Permanent Court of International Justice.

Article 31.

The decision of the Permanent Court of International Justice to which a complaint has been referred shall be final.

Article 32.

The Permanent Court of International Justice may affirm, vary or reverse any of the findings or recommendations of the Commission of Enquiry, if any, and shall in its decision indicate the measures, if any, of an economic character against a defaulting State which it considers to be appropriate, and which other States would be justified in adopting.

Article 33.

In the event of any State failing to carry out within the time specified the recommendations, if any, contained in the report of the Commission of Enquiry, or in the decision of the Permanent Court of International Justice, as the case may be, any other State may take against that State the measures of an economic character indicated in the report of the Commission or in the decision of the Court as appropriate to the case.

Article 34.

The defaulting State may at any time inform the Governing Body that it has taken the steps necessary to comply with the recommendations of the Commission of Enquiry or in the decision of the Permanent Court of International Justice, as the case may be, and may request it to apply to the Secretary-General of the League to constitute a Commission of Enquiry to verify its contention. In this case the provisions of Articles 26, 27, 28, 29, 31 and 32 shall apply, and if the report of the Commission of Enquiry or decision of the Permanent Court of International Justice is in favor of the defaulting State, the other States shall forthwith discontinue the measures of an economic character that they have taken against the defaulting State.

CHAPTER III.—GENERAL.

Article 35.

The British Dominions and India shall have the same rights and obligations under this Convention as if they were separate High Contracting Parties.

The same shall apply to any colony or possession of any of the High Contracting Parties which on the application of such High Contracting Party is recognized as fully self-governing by the Executive Council of the League of Nations.

The High Contracting Parties engage to apply conventions which they have ratified in accordance with the provisions of the present Convention to their colonies, protectorates and possessions, which are not fully self-governing:

1. Except where owing to the local conditions the convention is inapplicable, or
2. Subject to such modifications as may be necessary to adapt the convention to local conditions.

And each of the High Contracting Parties shall notify to the International Labor Office the action taken in respect of each of its colonies, protectorates and possessions which are not fully self-governing.

Article 36.

Any State not a party to this Convention, which may hereafter become a member of the League of Nations, shall be deemed ipso facto to have adhered to this Convention.

Article 37.

Amendments to this Convention which are adopted by the Conference by a majority of two-thirds of the votes cast by the delegates present shall take effect when ratified by the States whose representatives compose the Executive Council of the League of Nations and by three-fourths of the States whose representatives compose the body of delegates of the League.

Article 38.

Any question or dispute relating to the interpretation of this Convention or of any subsequent Convention concluded by the High Contracting Parties in pursuance of the provisions of this Convention shall be referred for decision to the Permanent Court of International Justice.

CHAPTER IV.—TRANSITORY PROVISIONS.

Article 39.

The first meeting of the Conference shall take place in October, 1919. The place and agenda for this meeting shall be as specified in the schedule annexed hereto.

Arrangements for the convening and the organization of the first meeting of the Conference will be made by the Government designated for the purpose in the said schedule. That Government shall be assisted in the preparation of the documents for submission to the Conference by an International Committee constituted as provided in the said schedule.

The expenses of the first meeting and of all subsequent meetings held before the League of Nations has been able to establish a general fund, other than the expenses of delegates and their advisers, will be borne by the High Contracting Parties in accordance with the apportionment of the expenses of the International Bureau of the Universal Postal Union.

Article 40.

Until the League of Nations has been constituted all communications which under the provisions of the foregoing articles should be addressed to the Secretary-General of the League will be preserved by the Director of the International Labor Office, who will transmit them to the Secretary-General of the League when appointed.

Article 41.

Pending the creation of a Permanent Court of International Justice, disputes which in accordance with this Convention would be submitted to it for decision will be referred to a tribunal of three persons appointed by the Executive Council of the League of Nations.

Protocol to Article 7.

The Governing Body of the International Labor Office shall be constituted as follows:

Protocol to Article 19.

In no case shall any of the High Contracting Parties be asked or required, as a result of the adoption of any recommendation or draft convention by the Conference, to diminish the protection afforded by its existing legislation to the workers concerned.

In framing any recommendation or draft convention of general application the Conference shall have due regard to those countries in which climatic conditions, the imperfect development of industrial organization or other special circumstances make the industrial conditions substantially different and shall suggest the modification, if any, which it considers may be required to meet the case of such countries.

The Conference authorizes the Drafting Committee to make such amendments as may be necessary to have the Convention conform to the covenant of the League of Nations in the character of its membership and in the method of adherence.

SCHEDULE REFERRED TO IN ARTICLE 39. First Meeting of Annual Labor Conference, 1919.

The place of meeting will be Washington.

The Government of the United States of America is requested to convene the Conference.

The International Organizing Committee will consist of seven members, appointed by the United States of America, France, Great Britain, Italy, Japan, Belgium and Switzerland. The Committee may, if it thinks necessary, invite other States to appoint representatives.

Agenda:

1. Application of principle of 8 hours day or of 48 hours week.
2. Question of preventing or providing against unemployment.
3. Women's employment—
 - (a) Before and after child-birth, including the question of maternity benefit.
 - (b) During the night.
 - (c) In unhealthy processes.
4. Employment of children—
 - (a) Minimum age of employment.
 - (b) During the night.
 - (c) In unhealthy processes.
5. Extension and application of the International Conventions adopted at Berne in 1906 on the prohibition of night work for women employed in industry and the prohibition of the use of white phosphorus in the manufacture of matches.

4. RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED BY THE COMMISSION.

1.—Resolution proposed by the Belgian, French and Italian Delegations.

The Commission expresses the hope that as soon as it may be possible an agreement will be arrived at between the High Contracting Parties with a view to endowing the International Labor Conference under the auspices of the League of Nations with power to take, under conditions to be determined, resolutions possessing the force of international law.

II.—Resolution proposed by the Belgian, French and Italian Delegations.

The Commission being of opinion that an international code of Labor legislation which will be really effective can not be secured without the co-operation of all industrial countries, expresses the wish that pending the signature of the Treaty of Peace, which will permit all such countries to be approached, the Peace Conference will communicate the present draft Convention to the neutral powers for their information before finally adopting it.

III.—Resolution proposed by the French Delegation.

The Commission considers that the very special questions concerning the minimum conditions to be accorded to seamen might be dealt with at a special meeting of the International Labor Conference devoted exclusively to the affairs of seamen.

CLAUSES PROPOSED FOR INSERTION IN THE TREATY OF PEACE.

The High Contracting Parties declare their acceptance of the following principles and engage to take all necessary steps to secure their realization in accordance with the recommendations to be made by the International Labor Conference as to their practical application:

1. In right and in fact the labor of a human being should not be treated as merchandise or an article of commerce.

2. Employers and workers should be allowed the right of association for all lawful purposes.

3. No child should be permitted to be employed in industry or commerce before the age of fourteen years, in order that every child may be ensured reasonable opportunities for mental and physical education.

Between the years of fourteen and eighteen, young persons of either sex may only be employed on work which is not harmful to their physical development and on condition that the continuation of their technical or general education is ensured.

4. Every worker has a right to a wage adequate to maintain a reasonable standard of life having regard to the civilization of his time and country.

5. Equal pay should be given to women and to men for work of equal value in quantity and quality.

6. A weekly rest, including Sunday, or its equivalent for all workers.

7. Limitation of the hours of work in industry on the basis of eight hours a day or forty-eight hours a week, subject to an exception for countries in which climatic conditions, the imperfect development of industrial development or industrial organization or other special circumstances render the industrial efficiency of the workers substantially different.

The International Labor Conference will recommend a basis approximately equivalent to the above for adoption in such countries.

8. In all matters concerning their status as workers and social insurance foreign workmen lawfully admitted to any country and their families should be ensured the same treatment as the nationals of that country.

9. All states should institute a system of inspection in which women should take part, in order to ensure the enforcement of the laws and regulations for the protection of the workers.

When a union man buys goods without the union label he is doing just what he condemns employers for doing—employing non-union labor. When the members of unions fully appreciate this fact the labor movement will advance much more rapidly, working conditions will improve and life be made worth living. These are worthy objects and easily achieved. Demand the union label.

CORRESPONDENCE

Chicago, June 1, 1919.

History is replete with political parties and political theories, but of all the political parties that have been, or even dreamed of having been, the "Labor Party" proposed by 97, Boston, easily takes the palm as the most asinine of the lot.

I trust that every one has carefully read their platform for if not you are missing something that will no doubt stand for many years as the most freakish legislation ever seriously proposed in the A. F. of L.

Just what they mean by the "Trade Union State" is not clear. The trade union state in Boston may mean one thing and in New Orleans another.

Every man with sufficient intelligence to avoid standing under a waterspout, like an inept gosling till he drowns, knows that there is no such thing as a concrete "Trade Union State" now, nor ever will be while the greater percentage of the workers are not members of, nor have anything in common with, organized labor.

The prosperity of America, economically, socially and politically, rests finally upon the farmer. Mines, workshops, ships and railroads, stores and markets, in fact all activities that make the city a fact are based on the farm.

Just how does 97 propose to compensate the farmer and what provisions, if any, are made that he may agree to and become a part of the "Trade Union State"? How far will their propaganda get without some provision in which the farmer may have a part?

The Democratic movement stands now, as it has stood in the past, for liberty, for the liberty of private conscience, freedom of thought, freedom of religious and political views, and above all, freedom of speech. Socialists of all varieties, Bolsheviks and Soviets, protest savagely against any check upon their own rights to the above democratic principles, but here we have a new brand which seeks to place in absolute governmental control a small minority of the nation's populace.

Just where does Democracy come in? No, Boston, your ideal is not liberty or Democracy, but a crude and crippling conception of life and any serious effort to enforce such a form of government as you propose would turn society into a barracks, the nation into a slaughter house of civil war and set back the clock of human progress thousands of years.

In view of these facts, tell me, Boston, just how the A. F. of L. will be able to "conscript" all the land and the workshops and public utilities, as you have so breezily decided to do?

In your third spasm you state plainly that "the hours of work be six per day," but in your fourth you proceed to kick the backbone out of what you had just decided to do by declaring "that each respective National Union shall designate what shall constitute an average day's work." You also allow the piece workers to take a punch at the now inanimate form of your six-hour day by declaring that they shall decide for "their own best interests what shall constitute a day's work."

It appears to me that your "Trade Union State" is in a "State of Demoralization" before we have finished reading your platform.

As for your "Bill of Prices"—you have hitched your mule to the subsequent end of your boasted car of progress, and with ears and tail erect the animal is bearing you toward the abyss instead of some celestial abode. You are trying to lift yourselves over a nine-rail fence by your own boot-straps.

Somewhat more than a century ago the American people were being despoiled by a political tyranny. They plead for justice, and their supplications were mocked; they remonstrated and were answered with the musket. They grew restless beneath the brutal wrongs, and here and there the voice of an Adams, a Henry or a Paine was heard in fiery protest. Their protests, backed up by the unselfish blood of our own patriots at your own Bunker Hill, made for America the most favorable government so far known in the world. Our Federal and State laws now give us the right to vote as we please, an inalienable right born with the Constitution, and there are few, indeed, so imbued with the Soviet idea that they will knowingly give way to any form of government that has for its basic principles "Class Control," be it the working class or the capitalist class.

I have before me "Labor's Fourteen Points," the platform of the Labor Party of Illinois, and believe it to be quite evolutionary enough to satisfy the political reformers of this day. If not, we have the 57 different varieties of Socialism, where we can vote for "the full product of our toil," so why foist an entirely new brand on the already overcrowded political field and in its birth put our delegates to the A. F. of L. Convention in the position of advocating a nonsensical proposition that means less than nothing?

Trades Unions in America are today in a position to command respect and are bound to participate in all future governmental regulations. Our province should be the nursing and enlarging of this advantage to the end that we may fully ORGANIZE the workers industrially. This is about as big a bite as we care to take at the present time with any hope of chewing it. So why choke?

R. E. VAN HORN.

Washington, D. C., June 2, 1919.

On numerous occasions since I have been stationed in Washington, serving on the Legislative Committee for the American Federation of Labor, requests have been made from various sources asking for statistics and data on the average values, costs of manufacturing and wages in the cigar industry. I have obtained a summary report from Secretary H. L. Kerwin, of the Department of Labor, on that subject and no doubt many of our members would be interested in reading the figures furnished through that department, and for the general information of all I trust that you will find space in the Official Journal to publish same. Average Values, Cost of Manufacture and Wages in the Cigar Industry, 1914.

The following information is based on data covering 13,515 establishments and 162,892 employees for the year 1914.

The number of employees for the entire year was taken and the full amount of wages paid during the same period was pro-rated.

"Value of Manufactured Products" means the selling price or price at the factory.

Average value of manufactured products
per factory	$23,299
Average cost of manufacture:
Wages	27.0%
Office clerks	3.5%
Principal materials	51.0%
Taxes	17.1%
Rent of factory	1.1%
Fuel and rent of power.....	.3%

100%.... 18,847

Balance$ 4,452

Under "Cost of Manufacture" information could not be secured for many of the items usually charged against production expense and the resultant totals are far from being the actual ones. The balance of $4,452, therefore, represents not only profits but expenses for items listed below:

Rent of offices of buildings other than factory, insurance, repairs, royalties, bad accounts, shipping expense, interest, depreciation, use of patents, advertising and sales, etc.

R. S. SEXTON,

Legislative Representative, A. F. of L.

If nationwide prohibition goes into effect Jan. 1, 1920, it sure will be a sad blow to the trade. I have been in France near nine months with the A. E. F. and have not seen a Journal since I have been on this side of the pond. I don't know what the organization is doing in regard to thwarting this high-handed outrage that was slipped by the majority of the American people without giving them the chance to say whether they wanted it or not. But I trust, as this bill is a slap at organized labor and the welfare of the trade is at stake, that you are co-operating in the fight to make this amendment null and void, this double-cross of the dry forces by sneaking in a moral issue as a war measure is about the meanest thing they have pulled off yet. They blocked necessary legislation and forced anti-representatives to vote for this amendment against their will. So it was passed and is to become a law in the near future without giving us over here a voice at all. We were left out in the cold. We were not considered in the matter at all. We are citizens of the United States and have the right to say what should be done and what shouldn't, and I am sure I speak the sentiments of the majority of the boys that left home and country and position to battle for Democracy, that we think an injustice has been done, and we are somewhat sore that we didn't have something to say in regard to the nation-wide prohibition amendment.

Fraternally yours,

PVT. GEORGE LEO. FORREST,

War Retiring Card No. 119491, Local Union 369, Sherman, Tex.

McSherrystown, Pa., May 7, 1919.

Mr. G. W. Perkins,
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir: Kindly let me know if a member holding a war retiring card is required to deposit said card upon his return to civil life and begin the payment of dues? Or, is he permitted to retain the card and pay no dues until he again engages in the making or packing of cigars?

Fraternally yours,

F. X. COLGAN, Sec.-Treas.

May 16, 1919.

Mr. F. X. Colgan,

Sec'y Union 316, McSherrystown, Pa.

Dear Sir: In the case of a member holding a war retiring card, the minute he returns he must deposit his card and commence paying dues, or take out a twenty-cent card, or a non-beneficial card. Members holding war retiring cards cannot hold them more than four weeks after they have been discharged and return to civil life.

Yours fraternally,

G. W. PERKINS, Int. Pres.

Union 191 of Morris, Ill., is submitting to the members an amendment to the constitution for the purpose of having our International President call a convention as soon as possible. If the initiative and referendum is the rock we stand on then we will be disappointed if our amendment gets less than 300 seconds. Now then, Brother Secretaries, do not fail to read our amendment at the July meeting. Aren't you tired of keeping track of handing out assessment stamps? I'll say we are. If you belong to a lodge don't you feel as if there is something wrong if your lodge does not have a convention at least every two years? Did you read the May Journal? If not, here are the words over again of our best friend, the man who has devoted the best years of his life for our benefit, our honored International President, George W. Perkins. He says "A convention is absolutely necessary." You know he is right. The cost of a convention is about equal to five 20-cent assessment stamps. Don't you think you will be benefited that much? It is up to the locals then to second our amendment. No matter how small, your vote counts 1, the same as Boston or Tampa. You ought to be proud to have a chance to back up your International President.

UNION 191.

Trenton, N. J., June 4, 1919.

Fellow Workers, Men and Women: From practical experience here in organizing the women and girls of our industry, I believe a sufficient number of unions should second the amendment offered by Union 427 of Perth Amboy, N. J., which provides that Class A members will be exempt from paying any assessments until after they are three months a member.

This amendment should be adopted at this time, for many girls are beginning to see the necessity of organization, but cannot understand why they have to pay 25 cents per week so soon after joining. If this provision will be made exempting them for three months after they join time will be had to instruct them in the workings of the organization and what assessments are for, then it may be much easier to hold them.

All of the old members know that in the early formation of our union we paid 15 cents dues and for a time we had no assessments. After we see the necessity of keeping up our union we were more ready to pay assessments without complaint. This may be the time to organize the women and girls of the cigar trade and if this small concession will do it we should try it, for they will not be entitled to any benefits until after they are three months a member and then only to strike benefit.

I trust the required number of unions will second this amendment and that then the required majority of members will vote to adopt it so we can show the women and girls that we are trying to organize them into the union of their craft for their benefit and not entirely for our own benefit, as most of the employers try to make them believe.

Fraternally yours,

WM. M. McCABE,
Organizer.

I note in our Journal a proposition from our comrades in Boston to actually form a new political party. We now have so many political parties that Heinze's 57 pickle varieties will soon be outdone. Now the Socialists already have two parties which we have fondly assumed represented the working class, and now comes the strange, beguiled comrade of 97 and wants to start another party, and on top of that our real comrades in Chicago, the other day, expelled somewhere about 25,000 of the Soviet-inclined, Russianized comrades, which means another party.

Now, there is, of course, no legal objection to organizing a new party every day by anybody who wants to lead the children of men into the wilderness of confusion, but there is serious objection to compelling political dues paying members to give moral aid and financial backing to every unbalanced demagogue who wants to organize a new party at the expense of other people. Remember this, friends, that giving official sanction to a new party means giving official sanction to levying assessments against yourselves for any old party that a majority at any meeting may "see" fit to impose. We therefore should "see" with prudence and foresight that the amendment is buried in the junk heap of rotten politics.

L. C. MERRICK.

Chicago, Ill., June 5, 1919.

We see that the some one in Boston is dreaming again. "We see" ourselves forming a new party. "We see" the Republican, Democratic, Socialist, and other parties outclassed by a brand new party that will be a party of "milk and honey" on paper and a grand, glorious, intellectual spree in practice, where you pay your money and get what's left, which would be about as much as the remains of a joint of juicy beef after a hungry pack of dogs had got their chance.

A new party! What's the matter in Boston? Can not one of the old parties be made to fit? What's become of the Union Socialists? Have they, too, "sold out"? And if they have been tried and found wanting what assurance can the Boston city give that the new party will be anything more than a dream? A new party is simply a new dream. It would help to dissipate our energies, waste our money, divide our forces, endanger our economic welfare, and set back the forces of progress a very long time. If a combination of wealthy manufacturers could bring about a condition that would cause organized labor to kneel to the false hope of a new party instead of persuading men to become class conscious union men, they could easily and profitably pay several thousand of them big money to bring about such a state of confusion. They hope you will dream on, dream on, the more you live on dreams the less you will cost the manufacturers, and the harder your struggles to live.

In view of the fact that the organized labor movement comprises less than ten per cent of the working class isn't it expecting the impossible to demand conditions that no one but a crank could conceive, and no honest man would expect to achieve? A new party to unite all classes—to unite all parties! Oh, illusionary brain of man, what follies you can conceive! Religious fanatics tried in every conceivable, honorable, and dishonorable way to compel all men and women to worship according to their conception of reaching heaven. Result—There are today so many religions, sects and cults, and methods of worship, that no living man can name them all. The Boston proposition would assist in duplicating politically what fanatics have accomplished religiously.

The member, John O'Farrell, card No. 106,912, who was fined $100 by Union 278, London, Ont., for going to work in the struck shop of Tuckett Co., published in the April Journal, is not Arthur O'Farrell, card No. 86,002, better known all over the country by members as the "Jap."

Financier's Report.

Chicago, April 15, 1919.

In accordance with instructions received from Int. President G. W. Perkins, I proceeded to Benton Harbor, Mich., to examine the accounts of local union No. 457 and beg leave to report as follows:

The ledger was in fair condition while the day book contained no record of expenses since March, 1918. No vouchers on file to show who received money paid for various expenses. Lack of interest in union affairs and failures of finance committee to do their duty are the cause of the present state of affairs. Statement as follows:

Int. balance at last examination, Oct. 1, 1917	$205.62
Expended over per cent in year 1917	42.92
Expended over per cent in year 1918	5.89

20c. Int. assessments	1,748

The books are in fair condition and all accounts are correct, vouchers on hand for expenditures.

On account of the sickness and death of former Secretary E. R. Stein, things are somewhat upset but the new secretary is much interested in the work and no doubt will make good.

JAS. T. MANEE,

Acting Financier.

The union label is the best expression of devotedness to good union principles. We should all cultivate the Union Label Habit. At every local union meeting this subject should receive earnest attention. Bring the news home to your family, to your brother and sister. There is no excuse why union men should not spend their union-earned money for union-made goods. It costs the same.

GOMPERS' WAR SPEECHES—HERE AND ABROAD.

Remarkable Addresses by the President of the American Federation of Labor.

A book of the speeches made by Samuel Gompers during the world war, under the title, "American Labor and the War," is now out.

A review of this volume, published in one of the New York papers, has this to say:

"It would be necessary to go far afield to find clearer, more robust and more convincing expressions of American feeling toward the war than are on the pages of this volume. And the supreme merit of it all is that Mr. Gompers unfailingly speaks in a language understood by all the people.

"Thus, speaking in Italy, he referred to those 'who think they are talking, but who, like monkeys, are merely jabbering for peace when they ought to be fighting for victory,' and then added this eternal truth: 'The man who won't fight to defend the liberty of his country is unworthy of the great privilege of enjoying freedom in his country.' The value of such utterances is great at any time. At a crucial moment, as a counterweight against the insidious poison of pacifism and bolshevism, it is inestimable."

This is a book which should be found in the offices of every labor organization. Indeed, every student, every reader and every wage-earner should have a copy of Mr. Gompers' book. You cannot afford to be without it. Call at your book store and look it over and you will not leave without it.

The union label facilitates organization by increasing the demands for the products of organized workers.

The battles of the union label are won without bloodshed. It is more powerful than strikes and picketings; and is a potent warning to tyrannical employers. It is as puissant in the hands of woman or child as the menacing declaration of a labor convention. It is the boycott without publication. No injunction can reach it, no militia or Pinkertons dare touch it, no pen will revile it, no pulpit assail it.

Let us each and all resolve to give greater support to patronizing of union-made goods and such places as display shop and store cards. If we but realize the necessity of doing our full duty in this direction there is no question but that splendid results will accrue to this branch of our movement.

The union label permits all union men and sympathizers to be helpful in the work of moral and social improvement of our people without becoming offensive even to those of their friends whose lack of knowledge inclines them to opposing the ideals of trade unionism.

The Tobacco Question.

While a bill to amend the cigarette law was before the Senate, Senator Gardner is reported to have said that smoking a cigarette in public ought to be made a felony.

The cigarette is at once the most popular and the most detested of the various forms in which tobacco is used. Not even the expectorating consumer of chewing tobacco comes in for as much obliquy as falls to the lot of the cigarette smoker, and yet there are more cigarette fiends than any other sort of tobacco fiends, if one may judge by general appearances.

It seems likely that the cigarette will be the chosen point of attack for that element in the body politic which opposes all tobacco using. The amount of discussion which has been stirred up over tobacco lately is surprising. East, West, North and South the anti-tobacco people are making themselves heard. They plan to do for the tobacco industry what was done with liquor, and, while they are receiving scant sympathy, they are attracting a great deal of attention.

It will be interesting to learn what the nature of the attack upon tobacco is to be. What will be substituted for the liquor prohibitionists' arguments drawn from poverty, crime, idleness, divorce and general demoralization? There do not appear to be any, and if economic waste is to be the heaviest charge brought, then what are we going to do with chewing gum, feathers in hats, soda pop, diamonds and—just to be fair all around—comic sections?—Exchange.

State of Trade June 1, 1919.

EXECUTIVE BOARD:

G. W. Perkins, President,
Monon Building, Chicago.

SAMUEL GOMPERS, 318 W 51st St., New York City, First Vice-President.

L. P. HOFFMAN, 729 N. Diamond St., Jacksonville, Ill., Second Vice-President.

A. GARIEPY, 239 Ave. Hotel De Ville, Montreal, Canada, Third Vice-President.

JOHN REICHERT, Brisbane Hall, Milwaukee,
Wis., Fourth Vice-President.

E. G. HALL, 4124 Bryant Ave., S., Minneapolis, Minn., Fifth Vice-President.

E. J. STACK, 412 Stock Exchange Bldg., Portland, Ore., Sixth Vice-President.

CHAS. H. STEVENS, 334 Roehrer Ave., Buffalo, N. Y., Seventh Vice-President.

GIBSON WEBER, 1620 N. 17th St., Station C, Philadelphit, Pa., Treasurer.

SPECIAL.

Section 134 distinctly and plainly states "No sick or out of work benefit shall be paid to members adjudged insane." All amounts so paid are illegal.
No dues shall be collected from an insane member.

Always refer to your Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 30c to the 20c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Members who while at work refuse or fail to pay per cent on loans suspend themselves without any action of the secretary.

In several instances where cards have been stolen from members secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book and in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privileges in dues unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes travelling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such reports the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per Section 149, give full record of membership as far as your own records show.
If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity of complying with the request carefully study Section 144c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal will" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

Section 144c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there be no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there be no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death was dependent for support in whole or in part.

The International Union cannot authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children, and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefit rests entirely with such members.

In order to avoid confusion when a Class A member changes from 15-cent dues to 30-cent dues secretaries under the law are to give such members one-half time on length of membership, and write the following in ink in the due book: "Change from Class A to 30-cent due paying class. Time on full benefits commences (computed on basis of one-half time)." Should such member desire to travel he should be given a new due book and traveling card, both of which should give the date of initiation, computed on the above mentioned basis, and the words "Changed from Class A" written on both due book and traveling card.
Whenever a Class A 15-cent member changes to a 30-cent membership secretaries should always so state on their monthly reports, and record the transactions on their books.

UNION BUSINESS

In accordance with Sections 58, 59 and 60 of the Constitution, the following unions are hereby notified a to remit the following

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

In compliance with Section 184 of the Constitution, the International Executive Board levied a running weekly assessment, to replenish the General Fund, of 20c on each 30-cent, 20-cent and 15-cent member, and 10c on Class A members. The assessment commences on Feb. 3, 1919, and continues until the General Fund reaches the constitutional requirement.

Note—The 25c assessment continued up to Feb. 3, 1919.

Section 78 provides that "all dues and assessments of members receiving benefits shall be deducted from such benefits." This means any benefits and all dues and assessments. If a member has $5.00 sick benefit coming and owes 8 dues and assessments he would receive just 60 cents in cash and credit for 8 dues and assessments.

Union 97, Boston, Mass., fined Louis Petronio $9.99 for conduct unbecoming a union man.

Union 25, Milwaukee, Wis., fined Edward Dufenhorst 51848 $10.00, and suspended him, for running a non-union shop.

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and, in addition, send in such cards, but place in your letter the information necessary, as the letter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 148 to 149, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted resolutions of respect and condolence relative to death or deaths as follows and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days:

Union 129, Denver, Colo.—Harry McGallay 68752, who died May 9 at Gillette, Wyoming, age 56. H. H. Stickfort 41603, who died May 27, age 66.

Union 5, Rochester, N. Y.—Frank Gress, who died May 5, 1919.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

(Do not endorse two or more amendments together. Send in a separate endorsement for each endorsement that you wish to endorse.)

The amendment of 192, Manchester, to Section 92, as published in the April issue, received the endorsement of Unions 69, Three Rivers; 5, Rochester; 218, Binghamton; 179, Bangor; 274, Pekin; 16, Binghamton; 473, Stettler; 215, Logansport; 49, Springfield; 232, Sellersville; 12, Oneida; 44, St. Louis; 396, Northampton; 130, Saginaw.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, it can not be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of 97, Boston, as published in the April issue, as follows:

Whereas, in 1916, the National Hughes Alliance issued a declaration, in advocating the election of Charles E. Hughes to the Presidency, which was signed by two Republican ex-Presidents of these United States, Theodore Roosevelt and William Howard Taft, and twenty-five leading bankers and captains of industry, in which they stated: "Our business is business. We are producers, manufacturers and traders, without sufficient home demands to absorb the full yield of fields and the output of factories. Year by year it becomes more apparent that the markets of the world must be kept open to American industries. We cannot extend our trade further than we are able to defend it. The rivalries that begin in commerce end on battlefields." Five months after the national election, war was declared under the Democratic administration of President Wilson, thereby proving the stand taken by the leaders of the Republican party, that the present competitive state breeds wars and all its horrors. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of Cigar-makers' International Union of America, No. 97, in meeting assembled, do hereby demand a referendum vote to be taken by the membership of the C. M. I. U. of A., and in case of adoption, that our delegates to all of the annual conventions of the American Federation of Labor, are hereby instructed to introduce and advocate and work for the organization of a political Labor Party, based upon the following fundamental principles:

First: To make the Trade Union State the State of the Nation as a whole.

Second: That all the land and workshops and public utilities be conscripted for the control by the A. F. of L. in the interest of all the people:

Third: That the hours of work be six per day, or in proportion so that all male and females, 18 years of age and over, shall have the right to work, who so desire.

Fourth: That each respective National Union shall designate what shall constitute an average day's work, when working day work. Piece workers to so decide for their own best interests what shall constitute a day's work, or their bill of prices.

Fifth: That the remuneration shall be $1 per hour.

We see that working 6 hours a day for 300 days in the year, each worker would get $1,800. Now, if the owners of the land and workshops are taking annually 50 per cent of the wealth created by Labor in profits, rent and interest from each worker would amount to $1,800 per annum, added to the original will give each worker in the course of a year's production, a purchasing price equal to $3,600 a year, which would give the full social value of wealth produced to each worker.

We have seen the governing power of this country enact legislation by conscripting millions of young working men for the fields, of battle, and their pay was $1 per day, to further war and ruin.

By your own acts you blaze the way, and have shown the working class that it is good to conscript the land and workshops in the interest of all the people. To the end, that "The rivalries that begin in commerce shall 'end' no more on the battlefields," for the working class must and will establish Economic Justice to all.

We see that it will unite all the various factions of Labor under the head of the A. F. of L., making it Supreme in its compactness in serving all of the people.

We see it will take the commodity status out of the working class when it takes over the control of wealth production, that instead of asking others for the right to work, that this is a natural right belonging to every free born man and woman under the jurisdiction of our own Trade Union State.

We also see that where each worker receives $1 per hour, that the President of this country, the Governors of states and Congressmen and all minor officials receive the same, as we don't propose to be exploited by a crew of office holders in the transition, from the present competitive to the co-operative industrial state of the American Federation of Labor.

We see that Nature, working through the forces of Humanity, organizing economic and political movements and parties, which carry within themselves today the force of their highest ideal and which in Labor's efforts must establish Peace, Health, Happiness, Joy and Common Justice of all, for all, in Universal Service.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, it cannot be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of 192, Manchester, to Section 212, received the endorsement of 218, Binghamton; 426, Virginia; 329, Fond du Lac; 129, Denver; 130, Saginaw; 247, Blue Island; 81, Peekskill.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, it cannot be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of 331, Crookston, as published in the May issue, as follows: That the International Office of the C. M. I. U. of A. be located at Boston, Mass., instead of Chicago. Received no endorsements.

The amendment of 429, Niagara Falls, as published in the May issue, as follows:

Our different locals throughout the country and Canada are revising their bill of prices from time to time and our members are not kept informed as to the settlement of the strikes through our Official Journal, and our only information is from the traveling members, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the International President is hereby instructed to publish a complete review of locals that are out on strike and keep our members informed as to the progress that is being made, etc., in our Official Journal.

Received the endorsement of Unions 218, Binghamton; 168, Oshkosh; 15, Chicago; 142, Lockport; 129, Denver; 156, Suffield; 383, Chicago; 274, Pekin; 308, Muncie; 12, Oneida; 72, Burlington.

The amendment of 427, Perth Amboy, as published in the May issue, as follows:

After three (3) months' membership to read: After three (3) months' membership shall pay one-half of all International Assessments levied, except label assessments.

Received the endorsement of Unions 218, Binghamton; 90, New York; 274, Pekin.

The amendment of 383, Chicago, as published in the May issue, as follows:

The International President, or whoever is in charge of the publication of the Official Journal, should give at least once a year, a complete report, on the increase or decrease of the total membership of the C. M. I. U. of A., and in the April issue give the exact number of deceased members during the year, the exact number of those suspended, and the exact number of those initiated.

Received the endorsement of Unions 156, Suffield; 274, Pekin; 12, Oneida; 429, Niagara Falls; 168, Oshkosh; 218, Binghamton; 15, Chicago; 129, Denver.

The amendment of 16, Binghamton, as published in the May issue, as follows:

Union No. 16, Binghamton, N. Y., offers the following amendment to Section No. 104, of the International Constitution: Insert after $20.00, on line fourteen, "It shall be the duty of the secretary granting such loan to add 5 per cent on each dollar loaned, which will act as interest for moneys so loaned; this shall apply to all outstanding loans, except those confined in sanitariums."

Section to read:

Section 104. Any member in good standing for one year in the International Union, not able to obtain employment, wishing to leave the jurisdiction under which he is, to seek employment elsewhere, shall be entitled to a loan sufficient for transportation to the nearest union in whatever direction he desires to travel by the cheapest route, provided he has not worked one week or more under the jurisdiction where he applies for loan. If the fare to such nearest union is less than $1.00, then $1.00 may be granted; if between $1.00 and $2.00, then $2.00 may be granted; and in like manner, if between two, three, four, five, six, seven and eight dollars, the highest sum may be granted, and the same shall be entered in figures and letters in his loan card, but in no case shall a single loan exceed $8.00, nor the aggregate exceed $20.00. It shall be the duty of the secretary granting such loan, to add five per cent on each dollar loaned, which will act as interest for moneys so loaned. This shall apply to all outstanding loans, except those confined in sanitariums. Sick members who deposit their cards shall be entitled to such loan if they desire to leave in search of employment. Members 100 miles from seat of union are exempt from the one-week employment provision, provided they travel to the seat of the union where they have been working. No member shall receive a second loan from the same union until all loans on his card, up to and including such first loan, shall have been repaid.

A suspended member owing loans must on reinstatement pay all old loans before being entitled to a new loan card.

Received the endorsements of Unions 168, Oshkosh; 218, Binghamton; 84, Saugerties.

Union 39 of New Haven, Conn., proposes the following amendment to the International Constitution:

Amend Section 50 by striking out the figures "$10.00" and insert in lieu thereof the figures "$50.00." The remainder of the section to read as heretofore. This amendment to go into effect upon its adoption.

Union 97, Boston, offers the following amendment to the Constitution:

Amendment to Sec. 199: Add after the word "week," seventh line, the following: "It shall be optional with local unions to work less than forty-eight hours per week. This to include all members."

Union 278, London, Ont., in regular meeting, May 20, 1917, voted to propose the following amendment to the International Constitution:

"The International President shall appoint a deputation consisting of not less than two or more than four members to represent every ten locals, who shall convene at the earliest possible date and draft or amend a new constitution to be voted on by a referendum vote changing our weekly system of paying dues to a monthly system, and in a general way eliminate and do away with our present unnecessary expenses. He shall notify through the official journal his appointments and what local each delegate represents, and such locals may submit any changes they may desire to such delegate and he shall bring them before the convention to be submitted to a referendum. The International President shall act as convener."

Amendment of Union 191, Morris, Ill.:

That the President of the C. M. I. U. of A. shall call a convention of the International Union at the earliest possible date, as provided for in Secs. 2 and 3 of the Constitution.

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

(An amendment takes effect the first of the month following the publication of notice of its adoption in the Official Journal.)

Amendments adopted since the June 15, 1917, edition of the constitution:

By 308, Kalamazoo, Mich.: To amend Section 154 by adding after the word "bunches," on line 23, "nor which pays less than $10.00 per thousand for hand work, less than four molds of 10 bunches each with press on table, or two 20-bunch molds in shaper press, to be considered hand work."

In effect Nov. 1, 1917.

Take Notice.—The amendment of 238, Sacramento, Calif., takes the place of the 132, Brooklyn, amendment, and supersedes all other amendments reference war retiring cars and benefits. The amendment, published elsewhere in this Journal, says: "This amendment shall govern all other sections which deal with benefits of such members who may be doing military duty or are beyond the boundary lines as defined in our constitution."

By 238, Sacramento, Calif.: War Retiring Card Amendment:

(a) That the President of the International Cigar Makers' Union cause to be printed a War Retiring Card, to read as follows:

(b) This is to certify that Mr. Card No. Initiated by, When has entered the service of (U. S. or Allies Army or Navy), and is entitled to all benefits as may be contained in the War Retiring Card Amendment.

Pres. C. M. I. U. Signed—

....., Local Pres.

....., Fin. Sec.

(c) Any member who may by draft or voluntary enlistment enter the service of the United States Army or Navy or the service of the Army or Navy of any allied country, during this period of war, shall be entitled to a War Retiring Card, provided such member is in good standing at the time of his or her application for a War Retiring Card.

(d) Any member who is a holder of a War Retiring Card shall be exempt from all dues, fines and assessments, and upon his or her re-entrance in the actual making or packing of cigars shall be entitled to his or her original card from which he or she was transferred, with all benefits as entitled to from date of initiation, except for such time as he or she was holding a War Retiring Card.

By Union 90, New York:

Strike out in Sec. 92 all from second line after wages till September, on line 10, and insert "from December 15 until January 15."

Section to read:

No strike shall be approved or sustained by the International Union for an increase in wages between the 15th day of December until the 15th day of January of any year.

But this shall in nowise preclude the approval of strikes against the reduction of wages or the truck system, or against the introduction of tenement house work.

In effect January 1, 1919.

By Union 2, Buffalo:

Amend Section 150 of the constitution: Add after the words "Blue Color," on line 6—"And no more than four inches in length and no more than one inch in width." Section to read:

"The President of the International Union shall have prepared, printed and registered a trade-mark label, to be known as the Union Label, perforated sheets of not less than ten, suitable to be pasted on the outside of the box, so that the label will be conspicuously displayed. The labels shall be of light blue color and no more than four inches in length and no more than one inch in width. All labels issued shall be printed in series and numbered consecutively. The proportion of labels used by the Canadian unions to be printed in Canada by order and under the supervision of the International President."

In effect as soon after May 1, 1919, as the change can be made and announced through the Journal and by circular.

HUMAN JUSTICE SYMBOLIZED IN THE UNION LABEL.

The union label is the symbol of human justice and human freedom, replete with honorable traditions, beautified by self-sacrifice, and brightened by intelligence and heroism. It is full of ideas, as well as information, for those who oppose criminal trusts that stand in the way of the inalienable rights of the union workmen to the pursuit of happiness and progress. The economic and social importance of the eight-hour movement is emphasized by the union label. It is a live factor in the industrial development of the United States. The label affords an opportunity for an education that will in time become world-wide.

One special duty we owe ourselves is, to see that the union label is on everything we buy with our wages, earned under a union wage scale.

Within the past several months the air has been full of demands for general and other collective strikes. Almost every demand made or reform proposed carries with it an appeal to the wage-earners to give up their employment. Never have the workers been asked nor have they been given the opportunity to pass judgment on the issues proposed and in which they are urged to sacrifice their savings and their means of livelihood. Apparently it is considered sufficient for them to know that the appeal is clothed in terms of class consciousness and that it is for them to respond and not to ask why or wherefore.

An examination of the situation makes it quite clear that these attempted disturbances are being engineered by the same element which endeavored to create unrest during the darkest periods of the war. The work of these war-time pacifists and peace-time revolutionists, if successful, would only result in endangering the efficiency of collective bargaining.

In a number of instances where definite agreements have been entered into by local trade unions and their employers, these disturbers have attempted of their own sweet will to cause a breach of these contracts. Here and there they have succeeded. In quite a number of other cases these disturbers have tried to use the labor movement and the strike weapon of the wage-earners, not as a means of improving the working conditions of the workers directly involved, but as an instrument to punish a peaceful community or to advance a particular branch of puerile idealism. Actions of this kind are clearly calculated to put the whole community on the side of the employers rather than that of the workers. Should this be allowed to become general in nature, such a policy could only result in breaking up the trade union movement and substituting in its place chaos, ruin and anarchy.

The demands of these destructive radicals in and outside of industry, if unchecked, will tend to bring the whole trade union movement into disrepute and contempt among those sections of the community which hitherto have been very sympathetic toward the efforts of the labor movement to bring about fair conditions to the workers in all industries. It is indeed the dawn of a better and brighter day to see the sensible and reasonable sections of the workers in their own trade union groups repudiating these union wreckers in and outside of their ranks and rallying around their properly accredited leaders, insisting that the guarantees of employment to every member be respected, that their union laws and policies be fully observed, that trade union funds be adequately safeguarded, and that contractual obligations are not cast aside as mere scraps of paper.

The American trade union movement has never been as high in public favor and influence as it is today. The American wage-earners can't afford to heed and respond to the advice, appeals and demands of these destructive doctrinaires without and these union wreckers within. Wage-earners should not be asked to risk all that has been gained by years of struggle and sacrifice. We venture to assert that the common-sense and level-headed trade unionists will rise everywhere in protest and will not follow the lead of these notoriety seekers, these self-acclaimed leaders of a suffering community, these advocates of ultra-revolutionary methods of procedure, whose insidious propaganda and resort to destructive measures will prove the undoing of this new class of labor exploiters.—The American Photo-Engraver.

The attributes of the union label shine with the cardinal tenets of fair play, shorter hours and reliable goods. From its inception it became a trade promoter. It gave work to its craftsmen, but its vital principle was education.

The union label insures stability in business because the principles it stands for are sound, enduring and fundamental.

At no time in the history of the International Union has there been a greater possibility for organizing our industry or victory than the present. Nor has there been a time when the possibility for defeat was greater than now. There is just one road to success and that is over the beaten highway of unionism, good judgment, and a spirit of fairness. This road is fortified with a solid foundation, well constructed highway, and dependable bridges. The road to defeat is over the highway of revolution, prejudice, passion, and hasty and ill-advised action, with its roadbed of quicksand and its rotten bridges. What will the harvest be? Which road shall we head into? We hope it will be the right one, and we shall continue to urge that it shall be the constructive Trade Union pathway.

No one will deny or attempt to deny that cigarmakers especially in the unorganized districts deserve better wages, better working conditions, and better all round treatment. Everybody knows that they have been compelled to work for starvation wages, long hours, and under adverse working conditions, and that they have been abused by arrogant employers, despotic superintendents and petty bosses, to an extent that no self-respecting man or woman can longer endure. No one blames these people for resenting this treatment. It is a pity, however, that they did not join with their fellow workers in the International Union and thus fortify their condition with a just, fair, and reasonable battle for the right, and against injustice and wrong. Cigarmakers are entitled to a living wage.

Ours is a competitive trade, and the slogan should be to first organize the unorganized and support them to the last ditch in the effort to equalize wages.

On June 28 and 29 a mass meeting of cigarmakers of practically all of the shops in the City of New York resolved to immediately go on strike for a fifty per cent increase and a uniform scale of prices for all the shops in New York City. A general strike was ordered to take place on Tuesday, July 1. Twenty thousand cigarmakers responded to this call and are, or were at the time this was written, on general strike. The spirit of revolt among the non-unionists was so pronounced and the enthusiasm so great that union men and union shops were swept off their feet and all joined in the demand for an increase, a uniform scale, and strict union shops in the City of New York.

The International Union stands squarely back of legitimate effort to organize the workers in our industry and will do all within its power to assist them in such effort, and hopes they will succeed.

Prior to the New York uprising we had two organizers and two sub-organizers working in the big non union trust shops of New Jersey, where a campaign for organization and better wages was being waged persistently. The revolt against low wages and miserable working conditions in the cigar trade has made itself manifest in Pennsylvania. Several shops in Bethlehem and Allentown, employing from three to four thousand people, are out on strike, or were at the time this was written. There will be no question as to success if the movement can be kept within reasonable bounds and guided by men of experience who thoroughly believe in the trade union movement. However, the attempt to employ revolutionary tactics will destroy the golden opportunity to organize our trade for the present. Some of these misguided, self-constituted leaders are already preaching the doctrines that are destructive to the best interests of the unfortunates so long held in bondage and under the iron heel of autocratic, non-union manufacturers and the big trust. We have faith in humanity, we believe that justice and rational, sane actions will finally be the guide, and that we shall win.

No one can strive too hard nor work too faithfully for organization purposes. The latch string of the door to the International Union hangs on the outside; the door is wide open and all are invited to come in and enjoy its protective influences and its ripened experience. We cordially invite cigarmakers to come in for purely trade union purposes. This means all cigarmakers, but we suggest that more constructive work can be done if they leave their destructive, Bolshevik tendencies outside the door when they come in. The American trade union movement and the International Union exist for trade union purposes. There are plenty of radical movements, political and otherwise, where anyone can exercise his political notions concerning soviet and other forms of government. The supreme, paramount, dominating issue right now is organization. The man or woman who stands in the pathway of that movement, who attempts to retard its progress is a blatant traitor to himself, to his organization, to our industry, and to the best interests of society at large. Let all true men and women rally to the cause of organization, justice, the establishment of fair bills or prices, and in the effort to organize the unorganized, and bring up their scale of wages to a point where they will not be a standing menace to organized labor. There will be no reasonable objection on the part of union manufacturers to reasonable bills of prices that will enable cigarmakers to live in decency and comfort, provided we organize the unorganized and raise their wages to a point where union manufacturers can successfully compete with them.

There can be no righteousness of the right sort in the minds and hearts of those who have been systematic-Righteousness. ally and for any great length of time denied justice economically and politically. In men and women who honestly think that through a system of injustice they have been, and are, robbed of inalienable rights and justice, there unconsciously develops anything except real righteousness. Centuries of oppression of the Russian people economically, socially, and politically, has developed a state of mind that borders upon hatred, and has developed first an understanding that they have been robbed both politically and economically, and a feeling that they are entitled to get these things regardless of any particular organic or even moral law. The unrest in Canada now manifest started even before the war and was caused by the autocratic action of the Dominion government and many large employers of labor. There is absolutely no escaping the harvest caused by autocratic repression, either politically or economically. The people of Canada are not of the so-called uneducated, ignorant class. Canada has a public school system, and the masses then are vastly different in that respect from those in Russia where there was no real public school system, but in the main the result of oppression especially in the economic field is the same sentiment and the same feeling in the minds and hearts of both peoples.

The brutal, iron hand of oppression, with its more polite but subtle mailed fist of oppression and repression, breeds revolution and force. It has been written and said that "Like begets like." The autocratic denial of the just rights on the part of the autocratic, domineering employers begets bitterness and resentment on the part of the employed. Some evidence of this truism is manifest in the unrest now world-wide in its scope, and proves that the old saying runs true to life and through all things tangible.

Our own suffering, gallant, determined members of Porto Rico have won one of the most stubborn contests Porto Rico fought under the most adverse conditions that has ever occurred in our trade. The Strike. American Cigar and Tobacco Company, part of the trust, practically dominates the industry in the island of Porto Rico. It should also be remembered that there are not so many industries there to which our members could turn. Up to the time the International Union organized a goodly portion of the cigarmakers in that island their wages had been gradually reduced and working conditions had become more intolerable.

About January 1, 1919, the cigar makers were determined to strike for better wages, strict union shops, and better working conditions, and they were determined to win. While the trust was just as determined that they be swept into submission. The International Union endorsed the strike and the fight was on. The strike lasted about six months. A few of the cigar makers were not organized and were not entitled to benefits. Our own members were entitled to the regular strike benefit for the first sixteen weeks only. Despite all of this they determined to stand true until victory was won.

The heroic spirit displayed by our members should not be misunderstood or underestimated by the trust. No band of workers ever suffered more or longer for principle than the cigar workers of Porto Rico have during this strike and lockout. What the cigar makers of Porto Rico have done others who are employed by the trust in The States can and will repeat, if necessary, at the opportune time. Counting the strippers and sorters and those directly and indirectly connected with the cigar industry on the Island, from twelve to fourteen thousand people were involved in the strike.

The Winnipeg strike, like all other general sympathetic strikes heretofore attempted, failed in its purposes. Winnipeg Strike. Once more it has been demonstrated that the orderly, systematic methods employed by the American Federation of Labor and the unions affiliated thereto are the ones that bring substantial results. No one can blame, and I am sure we do not blame, the workers of Winnipeg for rising up against the despotic attitude of the employing classes or some of them of that city. The only regrettable thing is that there was associated with this movement the One Big Union idea and more or less of the soviet, revolutionary form of government. These two elements were a handicap that would destroy almost any strike regardless of its nature and the justice otherwise of its cause.

A stern duty confronts the officers and members of the International Union. It is either orderly development or a panic with the inevitable rout. Order vs. Panic. It is either construction along orderly lines or over the precipice of destruction by following destructive leadership. Let all real union men and women do their duty. Let us all have the courage of our convictions and stand manfully by the orderly, constructive methods.

Men and women are the victims of environment and conditions. We don't blame people who have been forced to work for low wages, long hours, and under miserable living conditions, for holding resentment and bitterness in their hearts and minds. They have been browbeaten, cheated, and robbed by unscrupulous manufacturers; they have been lied to by unscrupulous, hairbrained, radical, self-constituted would-be leaders, who have unhesitatingly denounced the legitimate trade union movement and the officers and members thereof.

At this time and in this crisis, we ask the unorganized and others, however, to look the facts squarely in the face; to inquire what the International Union is; to ascertain from reliable sources who its leaders and its officers are; and then to consider for themselves what is best to do. We ask that you consider first of all what the International Union has accomplished for its members. It has raised wages; it has shortened the hours of labor; it has decreased tuberculosis; it has increased the length of life of its members; it has brought some sunlight and joy into the otherwise cheerless life of the followers of our trade. It has absolutely no skeletons in the closet. It has no scandal and no actions to explain to anybody. It has done and will continue to do the things that are helpful and beneficial to the men and women engaged in our industry. Its work is laid out and it will advance on the well-beaten path. It cordially invites all right-thinking men and women to join with us in making the industry what it should be. It invites all cigar makers, regardless of their feelings and their hopes, to join, feeling sure that if once within our ranks they will become active and faithful members and will do their share in the great uplift work that lies just ahead of us.

The amendment of 429, Niagara Falls, reads as follows:

"That the International President is hereby instructed to publish a complete review of locals that are out on strike and keep our members informed as to the progress that is being made, etc., in our Official Journal."

Having received the required number of endorsements, it will be submitted to popular vote. Every strike application that goes to local unions contains a statement in reference to the number of people on strike, strikes won, lost, etc., hence all the information the union seeks is contained in these circulars. It might be inadvisable to publish in our Journal the strike information called for in this amendment. There is no particular reason and no sense in telling employers how many or how few people we have on strike. This is information for the members and the members only. Any member can get this information by inquiring of the secretary or occasionally going to a local meeting of the union.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Philippines should be given their immediate independence.

According to the Public Health Service tuberculosis claims a life every three minutes in the United States. No better argument for organization can be offered than a comparison of our own death rate now from this dread disease and the death rate during the first few years of our existence.

* * *

In 1914 there were only six dyestuff factories in the United States, with a production of 3,000 tons yearly, while now there are 50 factories, with a yearly output of 35,000 tons.

* * *

Before the year 1859 practically every shoe was made by hand. Today a very small percentage of those working at the trade could make a shoe in its entirety.

Lynn, Mass., with over 100 factories, is the leading shoe city in the world and 47 per cent of the world's shoes are made in Massachusetts.

* * *

Eight million or 22 per cent, of all persons engaged in gainful occupations in the United States are women, according to the women's division of the federal employment service.

Of this, 8,000,000 more than 1,000,000 were women and girls employed for non-monetary returns on home farms. Roughly calculated, 19 per cent of all paid employes in 1910 were women and girls who need employment information at some period in their lives.

Shallow thinkers who blame "high" wages for present living costs get little consolation from a report on "Economics of the Construction Industry," issued by the division of public works and construction development of the United States department of labor.

It is stated that "the rise in prices during the war was not merely the result of a great demand for goods and of a scarcity of certain goods, but was largely brought about by means of inflation of the currency by the governments at war and by the neutrals, either by the direct issue of paper money or by the issue of bonds.

"Although war orders are now largely a thing of the past, the extension of credit still exists as a continuing cause of high prices. There is little to indicate an early contraction of credits."

The report states that wages are not likely to be lowered, and that if the production capacity of industry should be greatly increased, lower prices would not necessarily follow.

Delegates to the International Labor Press of America, which held its annual meeting just prior to the A. F. of L. convention are not fooled by any of the "Company Unions" now in vogue in various concerns in this country.

The labor editors declare that this system is intended to check the growth of trade unions and to weaken the economic power of the workers, that shop and plant committeemen elections are conducted unfairly; that the committees are "loaded with bosses," and that instead of encouraging free expression by the workers, the company "union" perpetuates autocratic control of industry.

The resolution charges intimidation of committeemen, systematic penalization of workers for joining trade unions, denial of the right of workers to retain experts, in the form of labor officials, to bargain with the experts employed by the employers, and that "the professions of democracy made by these employers are meant to camouflage their intention to perpetuate the industrial status."

There is but one safe, sane and sure anchor for those who work during these uncertain days of unrest and that is the legitimate Trades Union. Labor should take advantage of the present opportunity. The principle of collective bargaining is now recognized not only in this country but becomes a part of the world's policy. Affiliate with the union of your craft and you have at once helped yourself into a position where the future becomes just what organized labor wishes to make it.

A new charter every other day under the American Federation of Teachers is the rate at which the organization wave among public school teachers of the United States has been spreading the past month, according to reports. The American Federation of Teachers is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, and to date has chartered a total of 70 unions from coast to coast. This, it is stated, represents a 100 per cent organization in many localities.

The aims of this vigorous young national trade union organization of educators are democratization of the schools and fair working conditions for teachers. Various school boards, it is pointed out, have lately exhibited their autocratic, illiberal attitude on public questions to the extent of actual persecution of teachers and the attempted suppression of free discussion in the schools. Accompanying this form of oppression, as a public scandal of years' standing, is the salary scale of teachers, which for the entire United States averages $600 per year and there are thousands of teachers receiving $300 and $400 per year.

It is claimed that during the war, recently closed, fifty-six million men were called to arms. This includes in addition to the belligerent nations neutral nations that were compelled to maintain standing armies to maintain their neutrality. It is also claimed that there were twenty-six million casualties, and that eleven million were killed (this does not include fifteen or twenty million who perished from the influenza epidemic, which was one of the direct effects of the war), and that it cost two hundred twenty-one billion dollars.

Shall the unthinkable, inscrutable horrors of another world's war occur? Or shall we adopt some sane, rational means whereby these disputes may be settled in the calm light of reason rather than by a war with its frightful human slaughter?

The League of Nations, which no one claims is perfection, seems to be the nearest approach to something that will accomplish the desired end. The human sacrifice, which consisted of the young and vigorous manhood of all countries involved, can never be recalled. The two hundred twenty-one billion dollars spent for destructive purposes is lost forever. If these human lives sacrificed and the money spent had been engaged and spent in constructive enterprise the world would have gone forward with leaps and bounds. The debt incurred can not be liquidated in the next century if even then. Shall it be said that sane men and women will refuse to do the things that will stop a repetition of this frightful horror?

THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR CONVENTION.

The convention just closed was the most important ever held by the American Federation of Labor. The many conflicting and perplexing questions confronting labor were met and disposed of after debate, mature reflections and due consideration.

The delegation representing the international union has not completed its report, which will be ready and printed in the August issue. Among the big things treated was the One Big Union. Several resolutions were introduced upon this question, all of which were defeated, and the resolution finally practically unanimously adopted declaring in principle and in general against the One Big Union idea.

A resolution declaring in favor of the principle of permitting the unions to hire and fire the foreman was defeated.

The so-called Mooney Fourth of July general strike found no favor at the hands of the Federation convention.

The Committee on Resolutions reported a substitute for the Mooney resolution, as follows:

Your Committee brought in two separate reports, one dealing with the question of a new trial for Thomas J. Mooney, and the other with the question of a general strike. I will read first the part of the Committee's report dealing with the question of a new trial, as follows:

Previous conventions have taken a deep interest in the incidents connected with the trial and sentence of Thomas J. Mooney. Insistent demands have been made by these conventions that the accused be given a new trial. Despite our efforts the accused has been denied another opportunity of facing his accusers, or of presenting in open court the large volume of evidence and testimony secured since his trial, which has been the basis of a widespread belief that perjury and subornation of perjury was the basis upon which his conviction was secured.

As a result of the activities and representations made by the officers of the American Federation of Labor, acting under the instructions of previous conventions, the President of the United States gave a public expression of his belief that the accused should be given another trial. The St. Paul convention of 1918, realizing that the accused was in immediate jeopardy of his life, again instructed the President of the A. F. of L. to immediately appeal to the Governor of California and again present the urgency of the case to the President of the United States. These instructions were carried out, but instead of a new trial, the death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. This action, while saving the life of the accused, is intolerable under the circumstances. If the accused had been found guilty of the heinous crime charged as the result of unquestioned evidence which had been introduced against him, the commutation of his sentence was an outrage upon the community. If the evidence was of such a character as to cast a grave question of doubt over the acts of the prosecution itself, then the commutation was an outrage against the accused.

Your Committee is firmly and unanimously of the opinion that a new trial of the accused has become an imperative necessity, in order that the evidence presented by the prosecutor's office may be reviewed by another court and jury; and, furthermore, that there may also be presented in court the testimony and evidence, which have been circulated in this and other countries, which has aroused a widespread impression that motives and methods of a most sinister character, and evidence of a perjured nature were responsible for T. J. Mooney's conviction.

Your Committee, therefore, recommends that the Executive Council be and is hereby instructed to give their early attention to the devising of such practical ways and means as will aid in securing a new trial to Thomas J. Mooney, and also the presentation before the court of the testimony and evidence presented since the trial, the character of which has created the belief that a most grave miscarriage of justice and perjured testimony were responsible for the conviction and sentence.

The motion to adopt the report and recommendation of the Committee was carried.

The following is the second report of the Committee on the Mooney case:

In connection with the case of Thomas J. Mooney, Resolution No. 188, has been introduced calling upon the convention to take steps, through the officials of affiliated organizations, for the taking of a referendum vote of the membership they represent, upon the question of a general strike on Labor Day, should a new trial be refused him before that date. In connection with this proposition, your Committee is forced to give consideration to the effort which has been made by the International Workers' Defense League to take a referendum vote of the membership of the American Trade Union Movement upon the question of a general strike on July 4th of this year.

With reference to the provisions of the resolution, it is essential first of all to indicate that the national and international unions comprising the American Federation of Labor were guaranteed full autonomy when they affiliated with this organization. That is to say, they were assured of their unquestioned authority to make such laws for their self-government as their desires, wisdom and experience indicated. Upon the specific question of strikes, and the rules and regulations governing the taking of referendum votes upon any question, each affiliated organization is governed by the laws which its membership have enacted for their self-government.

Neither the American Federation of Labor nor any of its affiliated organizations have the right to interfere with the operation and application of the laws of any of the national or international unions. Such interference would usurp their right of self-government and would immediately destroy the voluntary character of membership in the American Federation of Labor.

The membership of affiliated organizations have been informed of the action of the convention called by the International Workers' Defense League, which was held in Chicago on Jan. 14 to 18, which proposed a general strike on July 4, 1919, if Thomas J. Mooney was not given a new trial before that date. This membership, through the laws which they have created for their self-government in their respective organizations, have had at their disposal the methods by which they could express themselves upon the question.

This convention has no power nor authority, neither can it assume the authority to direct the taking of a referendum vote of the membership of affiliated organizations upon any question, it may recommend but it cannot instruct.

Upon the subject of the attempt which has been made to take a referendum vote upon the question of a general strike on July 4, 1919, your Committee gathers from the official published statements of those responsible for the attempt, that they were impelled to assume authority to issue a call for a referendum vote of the trade union membership of the United States and Canada, because they had taken exception to the attitude of the accredited trade union executive officers of affiliated organizations.

The executive officers of affiliated organizations are not answerable to the American Federation of Labor for whatever attitude they may have assumed upon the subject under consideration; they are not answerable to any of the affiliated organizations; they are not answerable to any other bodies or organizations unaffiliated with the American Federation of Labor; they are answerable to the membership of their respective organizations only.

The incident of an outside body irresponsible to the trade union movement assuming to usurp the functions of the executive officials of affiliated organizations is one which cannot be ignored in connection with the subject under consideration. In this instance, the general strike was advocated not to save a human life but for the stated purpose of securing a new trial for Thomas J. Mooney before July 4, 1919.

General strikes for other purposes have been advocated during the year by individuals and bodies outside of the trade union movement, equally irresponsible to the American Federation of Labor. If bodies unauthorized by the American Federation of Labor are to assume the functions of polling the membership of the American trade union movement upon any question of their choosing, the machinery through which the trade union movement functions would be seriously injured, if not destroyed. If outsiders can force a vote of the membership and assume authority superior to that created by the organization themselves for their administration, practical methods must cease to function. Irresponsible groups of men or individuals who were not even trade unionists would have it within their power to destroy the effectiveness of trade union discipline, tear down the structure which trade unionists have built up and create a condition of chaos. The orderly, systematic methods which the workers of America have adopted to protect their welfare and advance their interests as wage earners would be set aside, our organizations would become a rich field for exploitation by all those who believed it to be to their personal advantage. Those who are opposed to trade unionism and who attack its policies and methods would take full advantage of this opportunity of utilizing this method as propaganda for their own programs, policies and sentiments. Unquestionably, adventurers would promptly seek the opportunity offered. The machinery of the trade union movement must remain in the full and unquestioned control of the membership which comprise it. Our movement cannot afford to tolerate the attempt of any outside individual or group to use its machinery for the purpose of securing or endeavoring to secure the sentiments or opinion of its membership upon any question.

Your Committee, therefore, recommends that this convention express its emphatic disapproval of the efforts which have been made by a body irresponsible to the American Federation of Labor to poll the vote of the membership of affiliated organizations.

Your Committee is of the opinion that an attempted general strike would seriously injure the effort to secure a new trial for Thomas J. Mooney and accomplish much harm to his interests.

The Committee would be remiss in its duties if it failed to call attention to the fact that representatives of the International Workers' Defense League who are its agents soliciting funds for T. J. Mooney's defense are doing him an incalculable injury and also creating internal disturbances within the trade union movement through their continuous attacks, unjust criticisms and misrepresentations of the American Federation of Labor, its officials and the officials of affiliated organizations.

A motion was made and seconded to adopt the recommendation of the Committee and carried.

On the question of Consecutive Military Service, the Executive Council reported as follows, which report was practically unanimously adopted:

Compulsory Military Service.

In the report of the Special Committee on Reconstruction, which is part of this report and to which we have given our entire approval, there appears a discussion and recommendation upon the subject of militarism and its baneful influence and effect upon freedom, civilization and humanity. As an Executive Council, we not only give our hearty endorsement to the declaration set forth in the report referred to, but because of certain elements of activity which may properly be styled principles we feel impelled to add that in our judgment the time has passed when in our Republic, or for that matter in any other progressive nation of the world, the spirit of militarism shall prevail—the spirit of militarism under any guise.

The war against the militaristic, autocratic machine of Germany would have been waged and won in vain if militarism were to be foisted upon the nations of the world. The Treaty of Peace ending the war has destroyed the ability of German militarism to menace the peace of the world, and with the demolition of that Juggernaut the opportunity for the peoples and nations of the world to live their lives and work out their destinies unafraid is offered. There is, therefore, no longer necessity for large standing armies or for universal or compulsory military service.

With the danger of militarism destroyed and the League of Nations established there can be no good reason for large standing armies, great navies, or stupendous munition plants, whether governmental or privately owned.

We therefore urge upon this convention and our fellow-workers and fellow-citizens, upon the government of our Republic and upon the peoples and the nations of the world, that with the coming of security in international peace we should come to a basis of the reduction of the armed forces of the world to a minimum consistent with safety and progress.

The views we express upon this subject are not to be construed as opposition to proper physical training; on the contrary, we hold that the workers and the masses of the people should have the fullest and broadest opportunity for the highest physical and mental training. But we do insist that in view of the history of militaristic propaganda and in view of the present situation and the outlook for the future, that physical training should not be confused with compulsory military service—a service thinly veiled to disguise militarism in its incipency.

The convention adopted the following substitute resolution on the question of the Russian intervention:

Resolved, That this convention express its well-considered conviction that the United States Government should withdraw all its troops from Russian soil at the earliest possible moment; and, be it further

Resolved, That this convention refuse its endorsement of the soviet government of Russia, or any other form of government in that country, until the peoples of Russia, through a constituent or other form of national assembly, representing all of the people, through popular elections, shall have re-established a truly democratic form of government.

The League of Nations, with its labor department, was endorsed by a vote of 29,909 for to 420 votes against. The committee having charge of this matter reported as follows:

We agree with the Executive Council that the treaty embodying the covenant of the League of Nations is not a perfect document and that perfection is not claimed for it. Your Committee agrees "that it marks the nearest approach to perfection that has ever been reached in the international affairs of mankind." It is calculated to and does "provide the best machinery of procedure yet devised for the prevention of war." It provides that international disputes between nations shall be settled in the calm light of reason and justice, rather than by the arbitrament of war, with its consequent slaughter of priceless human lives and destruction of untold wealth.

No human being in possession of his moral senses can deny the adoption of a measure that will tend to prevent the indescribable horrors of another world war. Civilization must turn to a point where international disputes will be settled in the calm light of reason, rather than by the repetition of the horrors we have just witnessed. While the covenant of the League of Nations with its labor provisions is not perfect, is not all that we desire, it is in the right direction, for the reason stated and a multiplicity of others and should be adopted in principle, and so we recommend.

TRADE NOTES.

The anti-tobacco campaign received a jolt when on June 18, 1919, Judge McCarpenter of Pittsburgh handed down a decision in the Common Pleas Court refusing to grant a charter to the "No Tobacco Corporation."

The following table gives in detail the amount of tobacco, both wrappers and fillers, remaining in bonded warehouses of this country on April 30, 1918 and 1919:

	1919.	1918.
	Pounds.	Pounds.
Leaf, suitable for wrappers	3,632,235	3,645,429
All others	53,976,820	53,876,479

Total 57,608,055 57,520,918

The total stock of leaf tobacco for cigar wrappers and fillers held in the bonded warehouses of the United States on April 30, 1919, was 57,608,055 pounds against 57,520,918 pounds in the corresponding period of last year, which represents an increase for April of this year to the amount of 87,137 pounds. The amount of leaf tobacco held in warehouses for cigar wrappers during the month of April is valued at $40,065,535, as against $29,619,721 in April, 1918, showing a gain in value to the amount of $10,445,814.

That the United Retail Stores Corporation will be the largest sales corporation the world has ever seen is evinced by the following announcement issued from the offices of the new company.

"George J. Whelan and James B. Duke have organized the United Retail Stores Corporation to take advantage of present conditions to extend manufacturing business and to organize a system of retail stores throughout the world for merchandising of all kinds.

"The United Retail Stores Corporation will begin operations at once by inviting the United Cigar Stores Company to become associated with it. Other important chain stores in America and Europe as well as South America, selling tobacco, confectionery, groceries, clothing and general commodities will in time be identified with the new concern.

"The charter of the company under the laws of Delaware authorize the corporation to engage not only in retailing of all kinds of commodities but in the production of raw material and manufacturing as well as in the financing of such operations.

"The chain of stores by the corporation proposes to extend virtually all over the world, and will sell all kinds of products, including tobacco and confectionery, groceries and food stuff, dry goods and general merchandise of all descriptions.

"The first company to be taken into the system will be the United Cigar Stores. Several other chain stores of national character will be added.

"The chain will not only include cheap groceries, but high grade stores, so that every class of customers can be catered to."

During the war the tobacco markets of the world became by degrees more and more inaccessible to the Austrian Tobacco Regie, and even from neutral countries raw tobacco could only be obtained with the greatest difficulty and at enormous prices. Consequently, in order to make a small quantity of tobacco go as far as possible, they were obliged to look 'round for substitutes with which to adulterate it. They experimented with every imaginable thing in the vegetable kingdom: cucumbers, vegetable marrow, asparagus, chicory, watercress, hazel leaves, etc. but after endless experiments and much hunting about, they came to the conclusion that beech-leaves were the right thing, and now 10 per cent of this substitute is used in the manufacture of the cheapest kinds of pipe tobacco and is included in the tariff.

The leaf exports from the United States in April, 1919, consisted of 61,760,969 pounds against 17,973,785 pounds in April, 1918, and 40,494,785 pounds in the previous month of March, which represents increases of 43,787,184 pounds and 21,285,882 pounds respectively.

The demand for our cigars was not as great as in the same period last year, as there were exported to the amount of 2,885,000 against 8,060,000 in the same period last year, and 2,422,000 in the previous month of March, 1919, showing a decrease of 2,175,000 and an increase of 443,000. Cigars that were exported during the month were valued to the amount of $71,379 against $188,536 in the month of April, 1918, and 75,303 in the month of March, 1919, showing a decrease in value of $117,157, and $3,934.

The largest purchaser of our leaf tobacco was the United Kingdom, whose purchase amounted to 83,263,261 pounds during the month, against 8,889,162 pounds in the same period last year, and 20,408,146 pounds in March, 1919, showing increases of 24,375,099 pounds and 12,855,116 pounds, respectively.

France was the next largest purchaser of our raw leaf tobacco, during the month of April, 1919, which amounted to 7,479,050 pounds, against 2,313,670 pounds in the month of April, 1918, and 4,204,375 pounds in the previous month of March, 1919, showing increased purchases to the amount of 5,165,380 pounds and 3,274,625 pounds, respectively.

The Netherlands ranks third in purchases of leaf tobacco during the month, which was 5,336,747 pounds, for which in the same period last year no record is given, and an increase from the month of March, 1919, of 5,148,429 pounds.

Exports of leaf tobacco from the United States to British territory are expected to reach a value of $100,000,000 for the current fiscal year. Exports of tobacco to the United Kingdom increased from a value of $25,825,723 in the calendar year 1918 to $70,141,785 in 1919. These increases have been made in the face of greatly increased prices. The average export price of leaf tobacco has advanced from $0.08.7 a pound in 1900 to $0.11.9 in 1913; $0.14.7 in 1917 and $0.33 a pound in the middle of 1918.

The exports of Cuban cigars for April show a decline of 2,333,491 when compared with April, 1918. Great Britain was the largest individual buyer during April, her purchases amounting to 3,564,591, against 2,277,050 in the same period last year, an increase for April, 1919, of 1,287,541. United States ranked second to Great Britain in purchases during the month, which was 1,948,125, against 3,732,712 in the same period last year, a decline of 1,790,587.

As an indication of the general trend of the trade in tobacco products we refer to the following dividends declared:

The American Cigar Company has declared a quarterly dividend on preferred stock of 1½ per cent, payable July 1.

The P. Lorillard Tobacco Company has declared a quarterly dividend on preferred stock of 1½ per cent payable July 1, and a quarterly dividend on common stock of 3 per cent payable July 1.

The American Tobacco Company has declared a quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent on preferred stock, payable July 1.

The American Snuff Company has declared a quarterly dividend on preferred stock of 1½ per cent, payable July 1, and a quarterly dividend on common stock of 3 per cent, payable July 1.

Weyman-Bruton Company has declared a quarterly dividend on preferred stock of 1½ per cent, payable July 1 and a quarterly dividend on common stock of 2½ per cent, payable July 1.

According to reports received from the American Trade Commission at Stockholm, Sweden, there is an absolute lack of raw materials for tobacco industry of Germany, causing 6,000 cigar factories to close. The number of employees in the entire industry has been reduced from 220,000 in 1916 to 80,900 in 1919. At present the Netherlands can not be depended upon as formally for tobacco substitutes, which however can be used only to a limited extent in cigars.

The "Vossische Zeitung" reported that prices of tobacco have reached unparalleled heights. Growers received $0.259 per pound for round or pointed leaves and $0.237 for the lowest leaves.

Tobacco which before the war would have been almost unsalable, brought .10 per pound. The retail prices of manufactured tobacco as given in a few advertisements quoted from various German papers reflect the high prices. Cigarettes ranged from $5.71 to $47.50 per 1,000. Cigars sold from $0.1375 to $0.15 each.

The Connecticut Leaf Tobacco Association has compiled statistics showing the development of the shade grown tobacco industry since it was first started in 1900. One-third of an acre was planted under shade in 1900, producing two bales of wrappers. The following year 41 acres were planted, producing 240 bales of wrappers. The acreage then jumped to 720 acres, producing 4,320 bales. By 1910 there were 1,000 acres under shade and in that year 6,000 bales of wrappers were produced. In 1918 about 6,223 acres under shade produced 36,900 bales of wrappers.

The National Association of Manufacturers recently sent letters of inquiry to many men prominent in the tobacco trade. As reported by the Magazine of Wall Street, the replies show that not a single prediction of poor business for 1919 was obtained from the whole of the cigar industry; 20 per cent of the total received said that trade conditions were poor at present but improvement expected shortly. Another 20 per cent said that trade was fair, while 40 per cent predicted fair business for 1919; 40 per cent admitted that trade was good now, and 40 per cent predicted good business for 1919; the remaining 20 per cent under each heading stated that present trade was excellent and that 1919 would bring excellent business. In short, it is the opinion of the majority of the trade that fair to good business is being experienced now, and that the 1919 year should be an exceptionally profitable one.

As to whether consumers were buying normally, the trade was equally divided. This is partly due to the fact that in some quarters production is being maintained on the previous scale, whereas, in other directions, a curtailment was put into effect about the first of the year.

CONSTRUCTIVE ACTION FEDERATION'S MOTTO.

Director of Labor of Illinois Favors Constructive Work on the Part of Labor and Urges "Mediation Before Disagreement."

Atlantic City, N. J., June 13.—Barney Cohen, Illinois Director of Labor in an interview with officers and members of the International Labor Press, took a firm stand for constructive rather than penal action and for "mediation before the disagreement."

Mr. Cohen said: "Illinois has had over twenty-three months of constructive administration under the Civil Administrative Code, resulting in satisfaction to those charged with the enforcement of the laws, and those living and working under them. Aside from the actual saving made possible by reconciling interfering and overlapping functions, unified administration has been made possible in Illinois. The same constructive policy runs straight through the nine administrative departments. Beside unity, a successful attempt has been made to enforce the laws of the state constructively, instead of aiming to enforce a penalty.

"I can best illustrate this by calling to mind that the Federation of Labor has, ever since its organization, made an attempt to do away with the penalizing conditions in industry. Lack of light, pure air, comfort facilities, guards and protective devices have, in the past, penalized the worker most heavily—where he himself was not to blame. Lack of proper ventilation alone has penalized perhaps millions of workers to an extent that has not only prevented their doing a full day's work, but has put even the penalty of death upon uncounted thousands. Constructive laws constructively enforced have increased the rewards and lowered the penalty for those who work.

"Today, all great administrative movements divide on whether the administrative action shall be constructive or penal. A great body like the Federation of Labor can take a great step in advance by taking a firm stand on constructive administration—that form of administration which makes an attempt to do the wronged one a good, by creating conditions such that he is protected against wrong, rather than to penalize the violator, after the evil has occurred. I would rather enforce a law which, through its operation, might save one workman's life than to penalize a thousand people for conditions that made such loss of life possible.

"As an instance of constructive enforcement, up to this time in Illinois we have no law which can compel our licensed employment agencies to furnish us with certain information which is of great value in determining the labor situation in the state. We asked for a law of this character—perhaps over-draught. When opposition developed, we found it possible to secure from employment agencies the required statistics under agreement, pending the time that an approved bill could be drafted and enacted into law.

"It is fitting that the American Federation of Labor go on record for constructive rather than penal action, inasmuch, as in its ranks are found skilled workmen of all important trades, businesses and professions—men and women who spend their lives building in an economic sense, and as a result are fitted to work in sympathy with any constructive movement.

"Constructive action is particularly timely during this, the reconstruction period, as billions of property has been destroyed by war; interference with occupations has added their billions to the list; and the loss which has occurred from the shift of labor must be added in, all making a total so great that it is difficult to grasp. If ever constructive work is needed,

It is following destruction such as great wars bring about.

"The ranks of labor have no place for the man who does not want to work; and I believe that there is no place for those who do not wish to work constructively, in order to bring about reconstruction, with the greatest profit and least effort."

Speaking of the relations that should exist between employer and employed, Mr. Cohen said:

"If we stop and think disinterestedly of the relations between employer and employed, even the most radical on both sides will be willing to admit that the wage earner gets his wage from the employer, and the employer gets his profit largely from the employee. Both sides are interested in practically the same thing—the monetary profit to themselves. In this sense the worker is as much a financier—judged from his interest in reward—as the employer is. Here, then, is a common ground where both employer and worker meet, and I am pleased to say that in Illinois under the plan originated by Governor Lowden, of having representatives of the employer meet with the representatives of labor, that it was found that both sides had other problems in common, as well as the common interest in profit to themselves.

"Many of our state departments are vested with powers of mediation and conciliation in which the mediators make an attempt to adjust disputes. Often it is found that much time is lost in getting down to work—(such having been the experience of our mediators and conciliators)—because of the time lost in securing a common ground of understanding. The employer has certain prejudices which remain all the more firm when engaged in a battle for his interest. Labor has certain interests which it defends most strongly. Yet it is invariably found that after certain concessions have been made that an agreement more or less agreeable can be reached. If, however, the preliminary work of the mediators has been done previous to the disagreement, the matters under disagreement can be discussed at once, without the loss of time which comes from getting to a preliminary understanding. The time for labor and the employer to get acquainted is before trouble brings them together. Those who are brought together in a business proposition will be able to understand each other's motives and methods much better when trouble finally shows its head.

"If a victory for labor can be won merely through association, the employer has been brought to see that labor's demands are just and right, there will not only be a saving through continuous work, but I believe that labor will get more in the end.

"There is a responsibility on labor to educate the employer, and I believe this has been neglected to considerable extent in the past. If the worker is good enough to build for the employer, he is good enough to educate him. If the worker is skilled enough to manufacture goods for the employer, he is skilled enough to present his side of the case to him. If the worker associates as he does day after day with the employer's business, he has the time over a long period to educate the employer. An attempt at education as all teachers know, spread over a long period of time, invariably gets greater results than when it is necessary to give an employer a new viewpoint, almost over night. In this work of educating the employer, the worker will also learn. Whenever workers and employers confer both add to their information. Educated in radically different schools, having vastly different environment, and meeting the facts of life from a different angle, each will learn from the other—if they will but meet in conference from time to time before a big dispute has come to a head.

"Prevention in economic life will work out just as surely as it does in medical practice. Arbitrate before the difference develops, to learn from each other, to get acquainted with each other's problems, and that wrongs may be righted without loss, without hardship and without economic war."

WILLIAM A. McCABE,

Organizer C. M. I. U.

Delivered lost parcel today, Nov. 14,
Nov. 11, 1918.

Mr. G. W. Perkins,

Pres. C. M. I. U. of A.

Dear Sir:—I have received through your representative, Mr. Wm. A. McCabe, the cigars, cigarettes and tobacco donated by the Allentown Central Trades and Labor Council.

Thanking you and the labor movement of Allentown, Pa., for the generous gift to the boys in this camp and wishing you and the labor movement of Allentown, Pa., every success.

I am yours most respectfully,

J. F. NEWPORT,

Capt. San. Corps, Adjutant.

Camp Crane, Allentown, Pa., Nov. 11, 1918.

In December, 1917, a circular was issued by the Tobacco Workers' Union and the Cigar Makers' International Union, soliciting funds with which to buy cigars and tobacco for the boys in Service. The collection of the fund was held largely in the hands of the Tobacco Workers. With the exception of the money contributed by the Central Trade and Labor Assembly of Allentown, Pa., practically all funds collected were sent to the Tobacco Workers. Five of our local unions sent small amounts of this office, which amounts were returned to them. The amount sent here by the Central Trade and Labor Assembly of Allentown, Pa., $561.88, was sent to Organizer Wm. A. McCabe, with instructions that since this money was raised by trade-unionists in Allentown and vicinity, to buy union-made cigars and tobacco and distribute it among the cantonments. Owing to governmental restrictions none could be sent to our boys who had gone to France. Mr. McCabe purchased 5,000 cigars put up in service packs of 10 each, 6 gross of cigarettes, and 5 gross of tobacco, all union label goods, and with the assistance of the Secretary of the Allentown Trades and Labor Council, turned the whole amount over to the distributing officers of Camp Crane, in Allentown. The officers and privates, recipients of the gift, returned their sincere thanks to the Cigar Makers' International Union and the Allentown Trades and Labor Assembly.

Toledo, Ohio, July 9th, 1919.

To all Local Unions, Central Bodies and State Federations of Labor:
Greetings:

The struggle of Labor since the armistice was signed to maintain and secure better conditions of Labor is best illustrated by the fight being made by the Willlys-Overland Co. of Toledo, makers of the Willlys-Overland and Overland Automobiles, against organized Labor. On May 6th, 1919, this Company locked-out sixteen thousand (16,000) of its employees because they refused to take a backward step, that is to give up their eight-hour day with Saturday afternoon off, the right of collective bargaining and their freedom as American citizens. A federal injunction has been granted restricting their picketing, two of their members have been killed and nineteen injured by ex-soldiers in uniform who were hired by the Mayor of Toledo to protect the Company. About one-half of these workers were organized and the remainder are now all organized and are being supported in a measure by the Labor Movement of Toledo assessing themselves fifty cents per week. There are over one thousand women involved in this lock-out alone. In an attempt to put our Labor paper, which is owned and controlled by the Central Labor Union, out of business, they are now suing the C. L. U. for one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) for libel. The A. F. of L. convention at Atlantic City sent two representatives to Toledo to investigate the facts and report to the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, John A. Voll, President of the Glass Bottle Blowers Association, and Chas. L. Baine, Secretary-Treasurer of the Boot and Shoe Workers Union, made the investigation and reported back that there was a determined attack being made to wreck organized Labor in Toledo and that the attitude of the Overland Company was never equaled by the Kaiser in his palmiest days. Organizer Emmet T. Flood of the A. F. of L. has been assigned to Toledo by President Gompers to fight this battle to the finish and we now ask you to assist us to carry on this battle for industrial justice by contributing as liberally as possible to this cause. We need funds and we need them bad and we trust that your organization will not place this communication on file but will take action at once, appoint a committee to secure funds if necessary, advertise this Unfair Concern through your Labor Papers and every other medium available and help us lick kaiserism in Toledo as we did in Europe. Help us take care of those thousands not entitled to benefits by contributing as liberally as possible from your treasury. Send all donations to the Toledo Central Labor Union, 814 Cherry St., Toledo, Ohio, and make all checks payable to John J. Quinlivan.

Fraternally yours,

Toledo Central Labor Union,

OLIVER MYERS, President,

JOHN QUINLIVAN, Secretary.

Approved by Emmet T. Flood, A. F. of L. representative.

P. S. The locked-out workers are not receiving any cash benefits. They have agreed if we can furnish them the necessities of life to remain on strike until victory is won.

TOLEDO C. L. U.

GUNNISON, COLORADO, JUNE 1, 1919.

In my opinion, a revision of that part of the constitution relating to the amount of weekly dues paid by members is an absolute necessity. A study of the last annual financial report should convince the majority of members that our present income from weekly dues from all classes of membership is wholly inadequate to defray the legal expenditures of the organization. Section 183 of the constitution provides that the General Fund of the International Union shall at all times amount to ten dollars per member. Section 184 empowers the Executive Board to levy assessments, when necessary, to replenish the General Fund. I note by reference to the annual financial report that regardless of $710,073.09 international assessments collected in four years, our General Fund on Jan. 1, 1919, was still short, according to the requirements of section 183 of the constitution. It seems that the day of no assessments, or of occasional assessments has passed and the only remedy is the raising of the weekly dues, or the reduction of amounts paid for benefits. The latter course I would not advocate, for it means retrogression and perhaps decay of our organization. Let us look at it in another light. Which is the most practical, economic and labor saving method? A weekly dues of 40 or 45c per week, which means one stamp, one mailing from the international office to local unions, one entry by local secretaries when distributing them to members, and one look at your due book to ascertain your standing. On the other hand you have two sets of stamps to print, mail, distribute by local secretaries, doubling the cost in money and labor. In addition, we must pay the same amounts as individuals to maintain the organization, whether it is called dues or assessments; so why hesitate to adopt the most practical, and to my mind inevitable increase of weekly dues. Permit me to suggest that this matter be discussed in the meetings of locals. Perhaps some union will again introduce an amendment to raise the weekly dues of all classes of membership. In closing, I wish to convey my greetings to those old friends of twenty or thirty years ago who may remember me.

A union card in the pocket of a scab-made garment would make an awful roar if it could only speak.

TAMPA, FLA., EXAMINATION OF J. A. B. ACCOUNTS.

In reading the Journal and from reports made to me a long way from Tampa, I knew that the J. A. B. of Tampa, had made donations. (The Journal of Jan. 1919, page 8, shows donation to San Francisco, $150.00 from union No. 500, Tampa, and while examining the accounts of No. 500 Tampa, this expense did not appear. They did not have a local fund from which to make it.) None of the unions in Tampa levy assessments for this purpose, at least up to this time. Jan. 1919, as a result did not have money with which to make such donation, and the fact that I observed many irregularities made me think it necessary to investigate the board of committee that handled such donations. The expense account of the Tampa locals showed the J. A. B. was the place to locate this expense because of the unusual per capita demanded by the J. A. B. It was there that I found expense voucher covering several illegal expenditures. Section 175 explains what expenditures may be made from the percentage allowed local unions. This not only applies to local unions but also to any board or committee doing union business. Here I found that at times when they wanted to spend money dishonestly, they would enter expense for some committee to cover this amount. When reading this report do not think that I must have discovered every such item, for I do not think so myself. This manner of making good fellows of themselves, with practically stolen money, is in my opinion a very poor exhibition of unionism. They were told "not politely," but firmly, how unmanly such action made them appear, and that such action in the future would be punished by fine and expulsion from the union in accordance with the constitution. That unions permitting such expense in the future would be suspended. Object to irregular methods either in handling union money or doing union business. If no other method will prevent, "appeal" to the international office.

That this report and my examination may cause anger, hard feelings, matters little. It is a matter of protecting the "good name" of the union and its funds and incidentally our membership generally. It will take some courage to fight an element in Tampa, not numerous "but active," who are without a sense of moral shame. The manner in which this element assassinate (or attempt to at least) a man's character, is almost unbelievable. You would not believe men anywhere would permit the time of meetings being taken up with such controversies. If they forgive, forget, or not, makes no difference to me. They should turn over a new leaf and deal fairly with the union. All I ask of you is, act toward the union as you wish the union to act toward you. Do this and you never will hear one word of censor from me. But continue some of your present methods, and if I can separate you from our union, I will do it. The cigar trade in Tampa knew what was going on, and dishonest, disagreeable methods discouraged new membership.

The following are items that the local unions of Tampa must refund.

Dec. 12, 1916, final receipt from Attorney Geo. P. Raney	$259.00
Other expense connected with the trial	69.50
This was a trial in which the union was not interested.
July, 1916, donation to New York....	30.00
April, 1917, local strike expense from per capita	143.33
Jan., 1919, donation to San Francisco....	150.00
Donation to Chicago	100.00

-------------	----------

All these amounts were paid from per capita tax to the J. A. B. from percentage allowed local unions as per section 175. Over $1,000.00 stricken from the accounts of Tampa unions during 1914 and 1915 at the Int'l Office not included in this statement.

Beside all this the J. A. B. accounts here for May and June, 1918, show donations from various unions $592.10, paid out to strikers $347.80, balance not expended $244.30, which was turned over to the Labor Temple Committee. The unions that had made these donations "for men on strike" were never informed of this use being made of the money. They simply had the money and kept it.

The local unions of Tampa are held for the following amounts:

Union No. 336, Tampa, 586 members, April 1, 1919	$150.42
Union No. 462, W. Tampa, 948 members, April 1, 1919	243.34
Union No. 464, Tampa, 287 members, April 1, 1919	73.67
Union No. 500, Tampa, 1,108 members, April 1, 1919	284.40

-------------	----------

which covers the illegal expense held against their J. A. B.

These amounts must be refunded immediately. No room for argument, pay it—try and forget it. Never do any of these things again.

Yours fraternally,

W. A. CAMPBELL,
Int'l Financier.

Always refer to your Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 30c to the 20c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

In compliance with Section 134 of the Constitution, the International Executive Board levied a running weekly assessment to replenish the General Fund, of 20c on each 30-cent, 20-cent and 15-cent member, and 10c on Class A members. The assessment commences on Feb. 3, 1913, and continues until the General Fund reaches the constitutional requirement.

Note—The 25c assessment continued up to Feb. 3, 1913.

Section 73 provides that "all dues and assessments of members receiving benefits shall be deducted from such benefits." This means any benefits and all dues and assessments. If a member has $5.00 sick benefit coming and owes 8 dues and assessments he would receive just 60 cents in cash and credit for 8 dues and assessments.

Members who while at work refuse or fail to pay per cent on loans suspend themselves without any action of the secretary.

In several instances where cards have been stolen from members secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book and in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privileges in dues unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such reports the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per Section 149, give full record of membership as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity of complying with the request carefully study Section 144c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal wills" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

Section 144c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there be no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there be no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death was dependent for support in whole or in part.

The International Union cannot authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children, and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefits rests entirely with such members.

In order to avoid confusion when a Class A member changes from 15-cent dues to 30-cent dues secretaries under the law are to give such members one-half time in length of membership, and write the following in ink in the due book: "Change from Class A to 30-cent due paying class. Time on full benefits commences (computed on basis of one-half time.)" Should such member desire to travel he should be given a new due book and traveling card, both of which should give the date of initiation, computed on the above mentioned basis, and the words "Changed from Class A" written on both due book and traveling card. Whenever a Class A 15-cent member changes to a 30-cent membership secretaries should always so state on their monthly reports, and record the transactions on their books.

DECISIONS OF THE PRESIDENT

Union 481 Bayamon, P. R., appealed against International Financier W. A. Campbell for declaring benefits paid the following members illegal: Carmelo Castro (35054), Sarafin Sostric (35450), Sebastian Rodriguez (16617), Antonio Millian (3238), Ramon Burgos (36181), Ventura Rios (40912). The appeal was sustained.

Union 481 Bayamon, P. R., appealed against International Financier W. A. Campbell for declaring death benefit paid Jose Nazario (3182) and Felipe Perez (18135) illegal. There is no evidence to show that at the time of death the member was entitled to the sixteen week limit, and had constitutionally reported himself for such extension of time. The appeal was not sustained.

Union 481 Bayamon, P. R., appealed against International Financier W. A. Campbell, for declaring the benefit of Zenon Cruz La Rosa (116088) illegal. It is evident that at the time the benefit was paid the member was in good standing. The union, however, having unlawfully accepted his dues while beyond the limit, is held for the illegal action.

INTERNATIONAL FINES

The International Executive Board approved the application of 102, Kansas City, to fine Carrie D. Ross, 100612, $100, for conduct unbecoming a union member. Vote—Affirmative, 6; negative, 0.

Approved the application of 97, Boston, Mass., to fine Mathew Carver, 7041, $50, and suspend him for working in a non-union shop. Vote—Affirmative, 6; negative, 0.

Approved the application of 294, Duluth, to fine Mike Killarek, 105055, $25 for taking a job and working in the unfair shop of Wm. Cleaux when jobs were open in union shops. Vote—Affirmative, 5; negative, 0.

Approved the application of 1, Baltimore, Md., to fine Mrs. P. M. Smith, 89012, $50 for failing to deposit her card and working in a closed shop. Vote—Affirmative, 6; one member approved $25.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

Union 248, Jacksonville, Fla., offers the following amendment to constitution:

Revise Section 67—"Any members allowing themselves to be suspended can be reinstated in payment of $10, this to apply to first suspension; for a second suspension the applicant for reinstatement shall pay a reinstatement fee of $15.00, and for a third application for reinstatement the applicant shall pay a fee of $25."

Union 248, Jacksonville, offers the following amendment to the constitution:

Section 175—Cut out "Unions numbering 30 members or less, 30 per cent; from 30 to 50 members, 25 per cent; fifty members and upwards, 20 per cent," and insert "Unions numbering 99 members or less, 30 per cent; 100 members and upwards, 20 per cent."

Local No. 202, Portland, Ore., submits the following amendment for the endorsement of our sister locals:

Section 184A—"The Executive Board is hereby authorized to levy a single special assessment of 50 cents on all 15 cent and 30 cent members for the purpose of carrying on an active campaign against the United Cigar Stores Company in such states as now have or in the future may have favorable laws which permit picketing and bannering of the unfair places of business. This fund shall be disbursed under the supervision and direction of the International President, and local unions participating in the use of this fund shall be governed by the same rules as now safeguards the general fund.

(Do not endorse two or more amendments together. Send in a separate endorsement for each endorsement that you wish to endorse.)

The amendment of 331, Crookston, Minn., providing that the International Office be located at Boston, as published in the May issue.

Received no endorsements, hence cannot be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of 429, Niagara Falls, as published in the May issue, as follows:

Our different locals throughout the country and Canada are revising their bill of prices from time to time and our members are not kept informed as to the settlement of the strikes through our Official Journal, and our only information is from the traveling members, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the International President is hereby instructed to publish a complete review of locals that are out on strike and keep our members informed as to the progress that is being made, etc., in our Official Journal.

Received the endorsement of Unions 218, Binghamton; 168, Oshkosh; 15, Chicago; 142, Lockport; 129, Denver; 156, Suffolk; 383, Chicago; 274, Pekin; 308, Muncie; 12, Oneida; 72, Burlington; 331, Crookston; 20, Decatur; 172, Davenport; 179, Bangor; 44, St. Louis; 69, Three Rivers; 24, Muskegon; 49, Springfield; 57, Campaign; 154, Lincoln.

Having received the required number of seconds it will be submitted to a vote of local unions.

Review and General Trade Statistics.

Midsummer heat has to a great extent dispelled the clouds of pessimism and in all avenues of trade we find a more liberal and cheerful view of the future.

The Iron Age says:

"June pig iron output shows definitely the turn in the industry. For the thirty days the total was 2,114,863 gross, or 70,495 tons a day, against 2,108,056 tons in May, or 68,002 tons a day. Seventeen furnaces blew in and twelve blew out last month, a gain of five, and estimated capacity active on July 1 was 71,700 tons a day for 200 furnaces, as compared with 68,600 tons a day for 195 furnaces on June 1.

"The gain in output last month was the first check to a steady decline in the daily average from the high point reached in September, 1918, at 113,942 tons. From 372 furnaces in blast September 1 last year the shrinkage was 177 in nine months to 195 on June 1. The gain of 2,500 tons a day in production last month over the average in May is likely to be carried further in July.

"Pittsburgh producers estimate that new orders sent to the mills for rolling in June and June specifications against contracts were 50 per cent heavier than in May, while in wire and tubular products they were nearly double.

The growth of our foreign trade is one of the big things that will serve to stabilize manufacturing. It appears now that the United States will be a factor in the rehabilitating of Europe, as press dispatches announce that an American firm will rebuild Nancy, France. The following table shows the amount of our exports of finished manufactures from 1900 to 1918 and for the first six months following the armistice:

6 months ending April, 1919

There is at the present time a revival of ship building that argues well for future trade of America carried on American bottoms.

During the months of April and May last 255 ships were launched in the shipyards of the United States. During the same months in 1918, 120 ships were launched, according to the bulletin of the United States shipping board. These ships have a gross combined tonnage of 880,000.

The United States was building on March 31 twice as much shipping as was Great Britain, according to the figures given by Lloyd's Register for the first three months of 1919.

The total amount of all shipping under construction on that date in allied and neutral countries was given as 7,796,263 tons. Great Britain's share of this was 2,254,845. The United States was then building 4,185,523 tons of shipping.

These figures credit the United States with 75 per cent of the total tonnage under construction in allied and neutral countries outside of Great Britain, and it is pointed out that the United States is now building 23 times as much as it was in June, 1914.

The fiscal year beginning July 1 next will witness, it is believed, the greatest annual expansion of trade between the United States and Latin America that has ever taken place in peace times, according to a statement by John Barrett, Director General of the Pan American Union. This fact was emphasized at the recent Second Pan-American Commercial Conference held in Washington, D. C. Ever since the beginning of the war there has been an extraordinary growth in Pan American commerce due largely to war conditions. It increased approximately from $750,000,000 in the fiscal year immediately preceding the war, 1913-14, to about $1,750,000,000 last year, 1917-18, a gain of $1,000,000,000, or 132 per cent in only four years! Of this total the growth in exports from the United States to the twenty other American republics amounted to 157 per cent, and the imports from those countries to 119 per cent.

We shall notify through the official journal his appointments and what local each delegate represents, and such locals may submit any changes they may desire to such delegate and he shall bring them before the convention to be submitted to a referendum. The International President shall act as convener."

Received the endorsement of 473, Stettler; 6, Syracuse.

The amendment of 191, Morris, as published in the June issue, as follows:

That the President of the C. M. I. U. of A. shall call a convention of the International Union at the earliest possible date, as provided for in Secs. 2 and 3 of the Constitution.

Received the endorsement of 18, Brattleboro; 179, Bangor; 14, Chicago; 473, Stettler; 295, Scranton; 88, Dubuque; 274, Pekin; 404, Austin; 248, Jacksonville; 96, Akron; 191, Morris; 102, Kansas City; 44, St. Louis.

UNION BUSINESS

The Secretary of Union 302, Tecumseh will not transact any business during working hours.

Will Thos. Flynn, 77106, please communicate with and send his address to F. W. Plouzek, J. A. B., Chicago, Ill., 40 North Wells street.

Financial Secretary of 26, Milwaukee, would like to hear from the union holding the cards of Adolph Brasuhn, 111976, and Ph. Kempf, 46381.

The Secretary of 343, Indiana Harbor, Ind., will grant loans only between the hours of eight and five and at the Booster Cigar Co., 3211 Block avenue.

The Secretary of 102, Kansas City, Mo., can not be seen during working hours.

Further donations received by Local No. 150 in answer to appeal in behalf of our sick brother, Harry Precht, card No. 9634, are from Union No. 53, New Orleans, $2.60; North Adams, Mass., Local No. 206, $1.00, and Bakersfield, Cal., Local No. 469, $1.00; total, $4.60. Total donations received, $119.85.

All eyes on New York.

Yes, we need a convention, this is the psychological moment.

Study co-operation.

While you are booming our label don't forget the other fellow's.

Eight-hour day is here.

We are now on a new price level. Neither wages or commodities will fall in price when manufacturers, retailers and men in all walks of life realize this business will boom—buy now.

"Knowledge is man's best friend.

Ignorance his greatest enemy."

Make our dues one dollar a week and no assessments.

Raise the reserve fund to ten dollars per capita—we will need it.

Equal pay for equal work, regardless of sex.

I fear the small manufacturer is a thing of the past.

The chain stores are here to stay, but the Trust will fall of its own weight—too many irons in the fire.

Glad the boys in New York City realize the value of association efforts.

Prohibition obtains in Boston.

Organization, a shorter work day, and a living wage.

We need a free State University.

HENRY ABRAHAMS.

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

(An amendment takes effect the first of the month following the publication of notice of its adoption in the Official Journal.)

Amendments adopted since the June 15, 1917, edition of the constitution:

By 208, Kalamazoo, Mich.: To amend Section 154 by adding after the word "bunches," on line 23, "nor which pays less than $10.00 per thousand for hand work, less than four molds of 10 bunches each with press on table, or two 20-bunch molds in shaper press, to be considered hand work."

In effect Nov. 1, 1917.

Take Notice.—The amendment of 238, Sacramento, Calif., takes the place of the 132 Brooklyn, amendment, and supersedes all other amendments reference war retiring cars and benefits. The amendment, published elsewhere in this Journal, says: "This amendment shall govern all other sections which deal with benefits of such members who may be doing military duty or are beyond the boundary lines as defined in our constitution."

By 238, Sacramento, Calif.: War Retiring Card Amendment:

(a) That the President of the International

Cigar Makers' Union cause to be printed a War Retiring Card, to read as follows:

(b) This is to certify that Mr.
Card No. Initiated by
When has entered the service of (U. S. or Allies' Army or Navy), and is entitled to all benefits as may be contained in the War Retiring Card Amendment.
Pres. C. M. I. U.
Signed—

..... Local Pres.
..... Fin. Sec.

(c) Any member who may by draft or voluntary enlistment enter the service of the United States Army or Navy or the service of the Army or Navy of any allied country, during this period of war, shall be entitled to a War Retiring Card, provided such member is in good standing at the time of his or her application for a War Retiring Card.

(d) Any member who is a holder of a War
Retiring Card shall be exempt from all dues,
fines and assessments, and upon his or her re-entrance in the actual making or packing of cigars shall be entitled to his or her original card from which he or she was transferred, with all benefits as entitled to from date of initiation, except for such time as he or she was holding a War Retiring Card.

constitution.

In effect March 1, 1918.

By Union 90, New York:

Strike out in Sec. 92 all from second line after wages till September, on line 10, and insert
"from December 15 until January 15."

Section to read:

No strike shall be approved or sustained by the International Union for an increase in wages between the 15th day of December until the 15th day of January of any year.

But this shall in nowise preclude the approval of strikes against the reduction of wages or the truck system, or against the introduction of tenement house work.

In effect January 1, 1919.

By Union No. 2, Buffalo:

Amend Section 150 of the constitution: Add after the words "Blue Color," on line 6—"And no more than four inches in length and no more than one inch in width." Section to read:

"The President of the International Union shall have prepared, printed and registered a trade-mark label, to be known as the Union Label, perforated sheets of not less than ten, suitable to be pasted on the outside of the box, so that the label will be conspicuously displayed. The labels shall be of light blue color and no more than four inches in length and no more than one inch in width. All labels issued shall be printed in series and numbered consecutively. The proportion of labels used by the Canadian unions to be printed in Canada by order and under the supervision of the International President."

In effect as soon after May 1, 1919, as the change can be made and announced through the Journal and by circular.

PRIVATE LOANS

Members owing private loans to 102 Kansas City, Mo., will be suspended August 1, 1919, if not paid. Some of these loans are running since 1910.

Union 484, Meriden, Conn., will take action against all members owing that union private loans.

John Trel, 35974, is out of work and unable to pay private loans until further notice. By 206 North Adams.

Chicago, Ill., July 12, 1919.

We, the undersigned auditors of the C. M.
I. U. accounts, do hereby certify that we have examined the financial statements, and accounts, books, vouchers, and bank accounts of the International President, G. W. Perkins, for the term of six months ending June 30, 1919, and have found them correct and in splendid condition, with the following results:

Vol. XLIII. AUGUST 15, 1919. No. 8.

Subscription price, $1.00 per year.
Single copies, 10 cents.Entered as second class matter, Nov. 22, 1894, at the Post Office at Chicago, Ill., under Act of March 3, 1879.

In a letter from Henry Hilfers, Secretary 138, Newark, New Jersey, and General Organizer of the American Machines. Federation of Labor, he says:

"Waitt & Bond, cigar manufacturers, of Boston, are having cigars made in two factories in Newark by the very latest machine, which makes the cigar complete."

Information from Boston indicates that cigars so made are on the market in that city. A representative of the International Union witnessed a demonstration of this machine while in operation in New York City.

His report shows that the machine makes the cigar complete, and that one machine operated by four girls can turn out from four to six thousand cigars per day.

We have not seen this machine, and at this time can not express any opinion one way or the other.

The Waitt & Bond, Cigar Manufacturers Corporation, is operating under a branch at Newark, New Jersey, known as the Park Tobacco Corporation. In an affidavit praying for an injunction restraining the officers and members of Union No. 138, Newark, from picketing the Park Tobacco Corporation, they say: "The complainant is a branch of the Waitt & Bond, Inc., a corporation of the State of Massachusetts, which has large plants in the city of Boston, Mass., and in New York City. The complainant is a subsidiary of the said Waitt & Bond, Inc."

A Mr. James M. Porter in an affidavit says:

"I am second vice-president of the Waitt & Bond, Inc., a corporation doing business in Boston and New York."

And further says:

"Our company has recently caused the complainant in this suit to be formed as a subsidiary corporation, located in the city of Newark, New Jersey, for the manufacture of cigars with the use of the patented machine."

The industrial situation today is serious. The International Union, like other unions, is passing through a crisis, that Sensible will tax its judgment, wisdom, Action. capacity, and stability. The war has created an abnormal and unnatural economic condition. It is full of perplexity and uncertainty. The high cost of living has added seriously to the unrest and the difficulty of readjustment. No one realizes more keenly than we that the workers should receive a larger wage, especially so in the unorganized, poorly paid districts, and that low wages and miserable working conditions are mainly responsible for the present unrest.

The end of the war came rather unexpectedly and found our government, industry, our union, and our people unprepared to meet these extraordinary conditions. We feel sure that with time and patience conditions will adjust themselves to a basis more satisfactory and more to the advantage of the workers than ever before. Before the war ended, we said editorially in the Official Journal that the days of cheap labor and long hours and miserable working conditions had passed forever, that much depended upon the good sense, judgment, and well thought out action of the members of organized labor. At the late Convention of the American Federation of Labor we prepared a resolution, which the other delegates endorsed and which we introduced, and which was adopted, which was published in the June issue of the Official Journal. This resolution set forth the conditions in the unorganized districts of our industry and asked that the Secretary of Labor cause an investigation, and pledged the American Federation of Labor to the effort to organize the workers in our industry. Plans were made and the effort started. We had every assurance that the American Federation of Labor would lend its assistance in this effort as they did in previous organization drives, and especially in the steel industry.

Some localities, however, became impatient, and imbued with tremendous enthusiasm started independent, unauthorized strikes. Experience of the past warrants the opinion that an adherence to our own, self-made laws will carry us triumphantly through this crisis, with magnificent, substantial gains. Just how long unorganized cigarmakers, many of whom are women, will remain on strike without support is uncertain. We sincerely hope that especially in the poorly paid districts they will stick until they get a fair bill, and that the unorganized, who in many instances went on strike, will stick until they get a substantial increase in wages.

We feel that the golden opportunity is here to organize our trade, and after all that is the first essential for ultimate success. The members in their individual voting capacity have made our laws and they should be adhered to. There is only one safe road to success and that is along the orderly, rational road of obedience to our own laws. While deeply sympathizing with all who work in their desire for better wages, we are fully convinced that the surest and best way is to devote the major portion of our energies in the effort to organize and raise the wages in the poorly paid, unorganized districts.

Some of the unauthorized and independent strikes have not been settled. One of the serious objections on the part of the employers is the so-called right to hire and fire. In the great drive to organize the steel workers no particular attention was paid to wages and hours until they got a fair per cent into the organization, and now they are taking a vote as to whether they shall strike for certain demands.

Since we have the referendum and the right of self-determination, the whole matter rests finally in your hands. Your executive officers possess no autocratic power or authority and can only place the facts before you. In a circular sent you under date of July 25 a statement of the number of people employed in the industry and the wages paid in certain districts was set forth. We again urge that you fully consider the condition and the circumstances surrounding our industry.

We have the opportunity now to make constructive substantial progress. The opportunity is also here to destroy much of that which we now have. It is easy to tear down but it is a much harder task to build up. It requires more courage to stand for constructive, substantial progress than it does to shout to the galleries and urge hasty acts. This is especially so in view of the high cost of living. We have faith in the International Union and feel sure that it can not be destroyed, and we just as unhesitatingly say that its progress and development can be retarded and your own best interests set back by hasty, ill-advised action, and by ignoring your own self-made laws, especially in the matter of strikes. Fairminded employers realize that they must pay better wages. This spirit can be cultivated to the everlasting good of the cigarmakers and our industry, or it can be destroyed, together with the chances for rapid, permanent progress at this particular time.

All kinds of wild talk and exaggerated, wild rumors, many of which are false, are being circulated. This is the time for all true, courageous members to stand shoulder to shoulder for right, our laws, justice, fair dealing, and a determination to carry forward the task of organizing our trade and getting better wages and working conditions.

The so-called new kind of organization, but in reality "old stuff," is in our midst again.

The New (?) Kind. We might as well be frank with ourselves, to look the question squarely in the face. The so-called radicals and self-constituted leaders in the new drive may be honest, and they may mean what they say; but they are wrong now, just as history proved that they were in past movements.

The first notable instance, and within the recollection of men now active in the present Labor movement in the direction of "one big union," was the effort made by the Knights of Labor.

The Knights of Labor were ushered in with a flourish of trumpets, with a high-sounding declaration of great things to be accomplished. They attempted to destroy the legitimate, constructive Trade Union movement. A determined effort was made to destroy or capture the Cigarmakers' International Union.

At the Baltimore Convention of the Knights of Labor in 1886, when a resolution was under discussion to take over the Cigarmakers' International Union, one of the bombastic, enthusiastic leaders, with watch in hand, dramatically said:

"Just one year from date there will be no Cigarmakers' International Union. It will be an organization of cigarmakers within and controlled by the Knights of Labor."

This enthusiastic prophecy and presumptuous action wound up in a blaze of failure for the Knights, and in everlasting glory and credit to the Cigarmakers' International Union.

It kept right on the even tenor of its way, organizing, improving wages and shortening the hours of labor of the cigar-makers, while the Knights of Labor went to an early grave.

Other Utopian movements have come and gone in the same way.

The Socialistic Trade and Labor Alliance, the economic wing of the Socialist Labor party, which was going to revolutionize the Labor movement, went the way of its predecessors along this line.

Debs, with his American Railway Union, had a short and stormy career. This movement was followed by numerous other attempts along similar lines of industrialism and the "O. B. U." idea.

Several attempts were made, which finally resulted in the formation of the "I. W. W.," which no sooner was started than a division of sentiment arose among the alleged leaders in this movement, which resulted in a split; and, for a time, two factions and two separate organizations were fighting among themselves, so that they forgot all about saving the workers and the industrial system. One faction went out of existence; the other—led by Hayward—continued, even down to the present time.

The present drive, precisely like its predecessors (with the exception that it is more radical, if possible), is led by the same element, and on the same principles accentuated. Some of the new methods—of these new institutions that are going to deliver us from all the ills and miseries of our present industrial system—are, to call men out on strike, organized or unorganized, and then make a demand for increased wages, shorter hours and better working conditions.

Their principal activities, however, are devoted to denouncing the old established successful trade unions; traducing, abusing and vilifying their executive officers. Their efforts are no more successful than on former occasions, although they are being helped wonderfully by Old Mr. High-Cost-of-Living. One healthy profiteer does more to upset the poise of the workers than all the radical agitators combined. The sooner the profiteers are properly harnessed and controlled, the sooner something like an industrial equilibrium will be re-established.

There can be no harmony and no peace in the industrial field until even-handed justice becomes the rule.

The day for low wages and long hours is past. No one realizes this more clearly than the legitimate, constructive trade unionists, who are bending every effort to bring about an equalization in wages and working conditions.

The constructive Trade Union movement will survive the attacks of its enemies from within and without, just as successfully as it has on former occasions.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The building trades department of the American Federation of Labor has at the present time over 1,000,000 members.

The average salary of 740,000 American teachers is said to be only $630 per year. The negro day laborer, the street sweeper, the janitor, get more. School teachers in England are receiving as low as $2.50 a week, and head teacher less than $5. More than a quarter of the men and 80 per cent of the women—more than 71,000 teachers—receive less than $12 a week. The salaries paid are less than the wages of railway porters. The facts were brought out in the annual convention of the National Union of Teachers.

It behooves labor in America to keep a close watch on the story that foreign laborers are leaving this country in such numbers as will cause a labor shortage, says the United Mine Workers' Journal, whose editor declares that even if 1,300,000 foreigners leave, as has been stated, "there will be still a sufficient labor supply."

"It is well to remember that even during the war, when the demand for labor was at its highest point, when industries, shops, mills and mines were striving to meet the extraordinary demands that were made on them, there was no time when they failed to meet the unusual requirements. And now the war is over. The extraordinary demand has disappeared. Shops, mills and factories and mines are not working to their capacity—not yet. There is in this country plenty of labor to supply all of the requirements of industry. All that is required to get this labor is for employers to pay the right wage.

"There is a concerted effort to make the public believe that a great labor shortage is in sight, but it would be well to hesitate before believing it.

"Labor is in favor of putting up the bars against immigration during the period of reconstruction and until business and industry in this country has again become stabilized. Then, and not till then, will any one be able to say truthfully and knowingly what labor conditions will be."

REVIEW OF GENERAL TRADE STATISTICS.

The primal difficulty of any intelligent forecast of the near future lies in the dormant influence of all the factors of uncertainty and artificiality. No one can even pretend to say what will happen in Europe, and what will be the effect upon us of such happenings. The day of regeneration and reconstruction is far from ended, in fact it seems to be but dawning.

The manufacturing situation presents the curious phase, with some notable exceptions, of an increasing demand but with less than full capacity employed, while there is still much unemployment. In hardly any branch of business is there now any difficulty about a good demand. Even in the copper market, where a short time ago heavy stocks on hand and the absence of demand pressed prices below 15 cents a pound, has advanced to 21 cents.

The Government's July forecast indicates large crops of corn and wheat, and it may be assumed that these crops will sell at good prices. The cotton crop, though not as large as usual owing to a decreased acreage, will be in sharp demand and the amount of cash realized from its sale will be impressive. Agriculture is the backbone of American business, so there is every reason to expect a good domestic trade during the fall.

It appears that the turning point has been reached in the steel industry. The mills as a whole are now operating close to a 70 per cent basis, and in some districts they are working at 85 per cent capacity. The phenomenal activity of the oil business is responsible for capacity orders in the steel pipe mills. Structural steel trade also reports increased business and mills in this line are above the 50 per cent production level. Rail production is practically marking time while waiting for the final disposition of the railroad equipment problem. To some extent the lack of domestic demand is being made up by heavy exports, particularly to Japan, France and Spain.

Exports of finished manufactures from the United States in the half year following the close of the war are three times as much in value as in the corresponding period preceding the war. A compilation by the National City Bank of New York shows that the value of finished manufactures exported in the six months following the signing of the armistice (November, December, January, February, March and April) aggregated $1,161,000,000, or an average of $193,000,000 per month, while the exportation of finished manufactures in the fiscal year immediately preceding the war averaged but $61,000,000 per month.

In the six months since the war for which figures are now available, finished manufactures have been going out of the country at the rate of $6,300,000 per day, while in the year before the war they went out at the rate of about $2,000,000 per day. In the other group of manufactures, classed as "manufactures for further use in manufacturing" there has also been an increase, but not as great as in the class "manufactures ready for consumption." Of the group "manufactures for further use in manufacturing," the exports since the war have averaged about $2,500,000 per day, while in the year preceding the war they averaged about $1,000,000 per day.

This growth in the exports of finished manufactures has occurred especially in the movement to South America, Asia, Oceania, and Africa, all of which are large consumers of manufactures. In fact, manufactures form over 80 per cent of our exports to South America and Asia, 90 per cent of those to Oceania, 63 per cent of those to Africa, and 66 per cent of those to North America.

Just how much of manufactures has been sent to the respective Grand Divisions since the close of the war or the actual per cent of gain to each Grand Division or country cannot now be stated, but it is a fact that the total exports to South America, of which manufactures form over 80 per cent, amounted to $200,000,000 in the half year following the close of the war, against $125,000,000 in the full year preceding the war, the total exports to South America since the close of the war having averaged $37,000,000 per month against less than $11,000,000 per month in the year preceding the war. To Asia, the exports in the half year following the war are $340,000,000, as against $118,000,000 in the full year preceding the war, being thus six times as much per month since the war as in the year which immediately preceded the war, and it must be remembered that manufactures form 80 per cent of the total exports to Asia. To Oceania, where manufactures form 90 per cent of the merchandise sent from the United States, our exports in the half year following the war were $111,000,000 or an average of $18,000,000 a month, as against an average of $7,000,000 per month in the year preceding the war. To Africa, the total exports of the half year following the war are $44,000,000, as against $28,000,000 in the full year preceding the war, while to North America, where manufactures form about two-thirds of our exports, the total for the half year ending the war is $608,000,000, as against $529,000,000 in the full year preceding the war.

TRADE NOTES.

Tobacco represents 8 per cent of Cuba's exports. During 1917 the value of the tobacco exported from there amounted to $30,000,000. Statistics for last year are not yet available.

The trade returns of Australia continue to show increases in value. The tobacco imported during the first seven months of the fiscal year 1918-19 amounted to $2,392,556 in value, as against $1,270,716 during the first seven months of the preceding fiscal year. A gain of $1,121,840.

Cigars exported from Porto Rico during the year 1918 were valued at $7,100,000. Porto Rico ships 90 per cent of its products to the United States and receives 92 per cent of its imports from this country. The total of Porto Rico's export and import trade in 1918 was $137,500,000, or $110 per capita.

Jared G. Smith, tobacco grower of the Kona district on the island of Hawaii, is authority for the statement that the Hawaiian tobacco industry has reached a stage where permanent success is assured. Hawaiian tobacco growers have found no difficulty in disposing of their crops at profitable prices. Smith says the Hawaiian tobacco classes with the Cuban and Porto Rican product, but that a wrapper has not yet been developed, the growers thus far confining themselves to the cultivation of filler tobacco.

The total stock of leaf tobacco for cigar wrappers and fillers held in bonded warehouses of the United States on May 31, 1919, was 53,699,016 pounds compared with 58,698,594 pounds in the corresponding period last year, showing a decrease of 4,999,578 pounds for May, 1919.

The amount of leaf tobacco held in warehouses for cigar wrappers during the month of May is valued at $39,663,002, against $30,144,931 in the corresponding period last year, showing an increase in value to the amount of $9,518,071.

The following table gives in detail the amount of tobacco, both wrappers and fillers, remaining in bonded warehouses of this country on May 31, 1918 and 1919:

	1919 Pounds	1918 Pounds
Leaf, suitable for wrappers	8,616,729	8,617,921
All others	50,082,287	55,080,673
Total	53,699,016	58,698,594

The first attempt of the anti-tobacco forces to secure total prohibition of tobacco products by legislative enactment was made recently in Georgia where Representative Stone introduced a bill, which was referred to the committee on temperance, prohibiting the manufacture, use, or sale, of tobacco products in the state.

At the present time the outlook for a record crop of cigar tobacco is excellent. In all localities the crop is far advanced and in excellent condition. Weather conditions, notwithstanding the late spring, have been ideal and growers are unanimous in their opinion that a banner crop is in sight.

The Dutch steamship Deucalion has arrived at Boston from Smyrna with a cargo consisting of 470 tons of Turkish tobacco. It took the vessel five years to make the voyage owing to the Turks interning her.

The Shanghai Gazette says that a company to be called the Asiatic Tobacco Company, Ltd., under joint Japanese and Chinese auspices, is being organized with a capital of nearly $5,000,000 to promote the cultivation, manufacture, and sale of various grades of Chinese leaf tobacco.

The following table, with comparisons, shows in detail the number of cigars manufactured in May, the tax-paid cigars from Porto Rico, and the tax-paid cigars from the Philippines for April:

	May, 1919	April, 1919	May, 1918
Cigars, A....	157,863,157	146,248,014	101,993,880

Cigars, Class B	3,186,288	6,526,563	11,612,015
Cigars, Class C	274,067	438,827	222,150

Total 17,437,263 25,755,038 15,298,032

It is well to note the increase in the amount of Class A cigars. This should prove that the day of the five-cent cigar is not passed, as many predicted it would, and union shops should properly safeguard this part of the industry if they expect to stay in the market for this increasing demand.

Class B does not show any great popularity, while Class C shows a substantial gain. Both D and E show declines. We can sum up the situation to show that the old five- and ten-cent prices remain the standard.

The first five months of the calendar year show decreases in all classes to the amount of $618,326,856.

The cigar manufacturing in the First Ohio (Cincinnati) Revenue District, according to the official Government statistics, shows a very satisfactory condition, under the handicapped conditions the tobacco trade has been undergoing for some time.

The total production of cigars during the month of June, 1919, amounted to 15,750,878, against 15,357,313 in the same period last year, and 14,964,000 in the previous month of May, 1919, showing increases of 503,065 and 493,065. Cigars in Class B were in a larger demand during the month as there were manufactured to the amount of 7,213,958, which is a decrease from the same period last year to the amount of 5,856,847.

As an indication of the general trend of the trade in tobacco products we refer to the following dividends declared:

The General Cigar Company has declared a quarterly dividend of $1.50 on common stock, payable August 1st.

The Consolidated Cigar Company has declared an initial dividend of $2 on preferred stock, payable September 1st.

The American Cigar Company has declared a quarterly dividend of 2 per cent on common stock, payable August 1st.

The American Sumatra Tobacco Company has declared a quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent on common stock, payable August 1st.

The American Sumatra Tobacco Company has declared a quarterly dividend of 3½ per cent on preferred stock, payable September 1st.

There was exported from Havana during the month of May, 1919, cigars to the amount of 1,361,275, against 10,401,307 in the same period last year, showing a loss for May of the current year of $9,040,122 cigars.

There was exported in the five months' calendar year period 45,205,230 cigars, against 50,534,071 in the same period last year, showing a loss of 5,328,841 for 1919.

The United States was the largest individual purchaser during the month, buying 1,272,300 cigars, a decrease of 3,214,687 compared with May, 1918.

Netherlands purchases increased in this period, 46,275, Spain decreased 1,153,840, Great Britain lost 2,999,606, and Mexico fell off 10,150.

But five countries received cigars during May, compared with twenty-five in May, 1918.

Material increase in the imports of leaf tobacco into the United States from all important countries during the month of March, 1919, is indicated by the latest available Government statistics. Wrapper leaf shipments by way of Canada were particularly heavy, the total increase in imports of wrapper leaf for the month amounting to 71,600 pounds, or 131 per cent over the corresponding month last year. Imports of all other leaf during March increased 3,681,259 pounds, or 99 per cent, Greece and Cuba being the principal sources of supply. For the nine months of the fiscal year ended March, 1919, wrapper leaf imports show an increase of 3,344,727 pounds, or 87 per cent; other leaf increased 3,383,941 pounds, or 5 per cent. The total imports increased 9,988,352 pounds, or 19 per cent.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, Department of Labor, has received replies to inquiries from 55 cigar manufacturers showing that in March, 1918, these establishments employed 19,943 persons, decreasing in March of this year to 17,391, or a decrease of 12.8 per cent. The pay rolls in these establishments, according to the replies in March of last year, totaled $269,070; increasing in March of this year to $283,419, or an increase of 5.3 per cent.

Replies were also received by the Bureau from 54 cigar manufacturers comparing the employment in February and March of this year. In February these 54 establishments employed 17,373 persons, increasing slightly in March to 17,428, or an increase of .3 per cent. The pay rolls in these establishments in February totaled $272,603, increasing in March to $284,550, or an increase of 4.4 per cent.

The Bureau has the following to say relative to wage changes from February 15 to March 15 in cigar factories:

"An increase of 10 per cent was reported by one concern, but no data were given as to the percentage of employees affected."

For more detailed information in reference to the production of cigars in the various districts, though incomplete, we refer to the appended table. Note—(•) indicates decrease.

39th Annual Convention at Atlantic City, N. J., June 9-23, Inclusive, 1919.

Fellow Craftsmen: The 39th Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor held in Atlantic City is now a matter of history in the annals of the American labor movement, and will hold its place as one of the most important conventions ever held. As the deliberations on fundamental questions affecting the economic and vital issues of the toiling masses were discussed with deliberation and comprehensive value of their great import to the workers by the delegates assembled, and all measures coming before that body received serious attention and due consideration which marks the earnestness and candor of the representatives of labor—along with the progress and achievements in bringing about remedial and efficacious legislation for the advancement of society, this last annual convention stands forth in magnitude of importance as another forward step, signaling one more milestone reached in labor's path of onward march toward a brighter and a better future. The business handled by the convention was voluminous. Resolutions ranging from daylight saving, to the independence of Ireland, and from the repeal of the wartime prohibition, to the endorsement of the League of Nations, in fact, every field of human thought and human activity in the cause of justice, in the cause of freedom, in the cause of democracy, in the cause of humanity, was treated by the convention. There are represented in and affiliated to the American Federation of Labor 111 national and international unions, representing in paid up membership 3,260,068 members, five (5) departments, forty-six (46) State Federations, 816 City Central bodies, 884 local trade and federal labor unions, 572 local department councils and 33,852 local unions. There were 547 delegates in attendance at the convention, representing 99 national and international unions, 31 state branches, 133 central bodies, 78 local trade and federal labor unions, and 4 fraternal delegates. There were 332 resolutions introduced. Of this number 151 were concurred in, 32 were referred to the Executive Council, 28 were non-concurred in, 21 were either withdrawn or acted on jointly or no action taken on them at all.

Resolutions Adopted.

No. 63.—To adjust the existing conditions in the telephone service asking for the co-operation by the A. F. of L. with the electrical workers to take this matter up with the proper governmental authorities with a view of securing a satisfactory adjustment.

No. 113.—Asking Congress to appropriate funds for the continuation of the United States Employment Service.

No. 142.—To call a conference during the convention of the A. F. of L. to the end that they make arrangements to lend their assistance to the organization of the iron and steel industries.

No. 54.—For the great need of organization work among the women wage workers in the Laundry industry.

No. 74.—That the executive officers of the American Federation of Labor render the Cigarmakers' International Union all assistance possible through its paid and voluntary organizers in an effort to organize the unfortunate workers held in bondage by the American Tobacco Company and its subsidiary non-union factories.

No. 53.—That the American Federation of Labor grant all moral assistance possible to the locked out employees of the Hamilton-Beach Manufacturing Company.

No. 80.—Dealing with organization of the newsboys and asking for help to establish a substantial organization so that proper assistance can be rendered to them.

No. 107.—That the American Federation of Labor make special effort to organize the workers in the Enameling Industries.

No. 109.—That the convention call upon all national and international unions to lend financial and moral support to stimulate the work of organization to offset the opposition of manufacturers in Worcester, Mass.

No. 117.—That the Executive Council in co-operation with the officers of the White Rats Actor's Union be instructed to have passed by Congress, an act placing the interstate employment of actors in the hands of the Federal Government.

No. 137.—To introduce collective bargaining and union working conditions in the cloak, suit and skirt industries of the City of Cleveland, Ohio.

No. 145.—Asking that free transfer card be issued to men working in the Steel industry who have to transfer from one union to another.

No. 162.—The convention endorses the organization of City Policemen and that the officers of the Federation be instructed to issue charter when application is properly made.

No. 201.—Condemning the Rockefeller plan of organization and demanding the right to bargain collectively through accredited trades union policies.

No. 212.—Asking for minimum salary for teachers in the District of Columbia of $1,000 for grade teachers and 1,200 for high school teachers.

No. 130.—As amended. Asking support to the International Ladies' Garment Workers for peaceful negotiation with their employers to establish collective bargaining.

No. 125.—That an inquiry be conducted for the purpose of regulating the cost of shoes and other commodities in the essential lines of industry.

No. 153.—Condemning the cowardly acts of the employers in the Textile Mills at Columbus, Ga., for firing into the crowd of defenseless employees on strike for increased wages and humane conditions.

No. 174.—Asking for the support of the Executive Council to co-operate with the civil service employees in securing an upward revision of salaries.

No. 154.—Asking assistance to abolish present unreasonable speed tests, time measuring devices and unreasonable standards of present inefficiency in the Postal service.

No. 79.—Asking that international unions use every persuasion to cause their local bodies to affiliate with the State Federation of Labor in their respective localities.

No. 123.—Calling attention to the necessity of more effective physical education and the removal of illiteracy and for the Americanization of immigrants.

No. 150.—To consider plans of a co-operative nature that may be proposed from time to time for the benefit of the wage earner and the community.

No. 14.—Asking for assistance to the Central Labor union in their efforts to secure universal suffrage for the residents of the District of Columbia.

No. 34.—Asking that members of local unions be represented on all Boards of Trustees for Libraries.

No. 94.—That the Federal Government be requested to inaugurate a program of scientific and technical research for the welfare of the nation.

A few of the important excerpts from the report of Executive Council:

Peace Terms.

The Treaty of Peace formulated in Paris acknowledges the complete justice of the five points set forth by the Buffalo Convention and reaffirmed at St. Paul (pages 53-54, 334-335 St. Paul Proceedings), which are based upon declarations of the President of the United States and contains two of the four propositions added at St. Paul. Thus is justified the high confidence felt by the American labor movement and expressed in these declarations that the result of the world war would be to place the conduct and morals of the governments of the world upon a higher plane and the establishment and maintenance of international relations which shall safeguard the peoples of the world in the enjoyment of a permanent peace.

We declare our endorsement of the triumph of freedom and justice and democracy as exemplified in the covenant of the League of Nations.

The introduction of the nine specific labor clauses in the Peace Treaty declares that "the well-being, physical and moral, of the industrial wage-earners is of supreme international importance."

No such declaration has ever been written into international law through any previous treaty of peace and it is due to the efforts of the American labor movement more than to any other single factor that it appears in this emphatic form in the present treaty.

Pan-American Federation of Labor.

The first international labor conference of the Pan-American countries was held in Laredo, Texas, on Nov. 13, 14, 15 and 16, 1918. The labor movement of the United States of America, of Mexico and the Central and South American States of Guatemala, Costa Rica, Salvador and Columbia were represented by a total of seventy-two delegates.

Labor Panel.

In April when the A. F. of L. delegation returned from the Peace Conference, they brought with them the gift from the English labor movement.

The work was done by one of the finest sculptors in England, L. F. Roslyn, R. B. S.

It is a magnificent artistic production, and was given the award of high merit by the Royal Academy of Arts of Great Britain.

Judicial Construction of Law.

Suggested Remedies.

If I am correct in what has so far been written the state judiciary and the judiciary of the United States should be placed upon one common basis, and my first proposition would be:
